PAYMENT OF M. P.'S.

Pall Mall Gazette Makes Some Observations Thereanent.

Parliament to a large extent makes its own work, so that the idle member who has a safe seat, if he is given a salary, is tempted to draw it and then stay away as much as he dare, and try to shorten the session as much as he can, says The Pall Mall Gazette. If he is paid by the day — as he is at the Cape, in Natal, in Canada, in Austria, and elsewhere—it is to his interest to protract the session; in fact, he loses money by getting through business efficiently. This was found in Norway—where there is a need of ready money—and sessions grew longer and longer.

To avoid this, then, the daily payment has been arranged only for a limited number of days at the Cape and in Canada; after that the representative talks at his own expense. The experiment has been tried in other countries of paying a salary and then fining the member for absences, and this undoubtedly saved whips a great deal of trouble.

In Norway the mistake has been made of allowing representatives in the Storthing allowances not only for traveling expenses but for "medical treatment," and other items, and at times members have interpreted these terms in the widest sense, and returned among their expenses Turkish baths, port wine, and, in fact, anything in the slightest degree connected with medicine. Parliament became a sort of system of outdoor relief for needy politicians, and even the length of railway journeys were in the returns "greatly exaggerated."

In Japan payment of members was a failure, probably owing to the acutely business instincts of that race. A politician in debt stood for a constituency, and his creditors never rested until he was returned and in receipt of a salary. Ministerial posts have been obtained in our colonies in the bad old days in a similar way.

"Franking" letters, which used to exist in England, suddenly swelled a member's correspondence to a suspicious extent, until his remotest relations, even to the third and fourth generation, came long distances for his signature; autograph hunting in this way became a nuisance. In New South Wales the system is in use (as well as free traveling for members by rail and tram), but not abused.

In the colonies generally, the payment of members has greatly purified public life rather than the reverse. The yearly salary, not the daily wage, has been generally accepted in Australasia. In Canada, Newfoundland, Western Australia, and South Australia both Houses are paid. Traveling expenses are almost universal; either a small medal is given the member, which hangs on his watch chain and passes him on all lines, or an allowance is made him calculated on the mileage from his native town. In Hungary (where he is also allowed house rent) the curious custom is in practice of allowing him to travel first-class on a second-class ticket.

It seems to be forgotten by the public that payment of members in England existed for 400 years, and only came to an end (in the sixteenth century) because, owing to the rise in prices, the salary was not worth taking, and partly because a seat in Parliament came to be sought after as a privilege. Nearly forty years ago the subject was revived, motions made several times since then, and twice it has even had a majority of the House.

The Descendant of Kings.

The little village of St. Columb Minor, near Newquay, Cornwall, celebrated the other day, amid great rejoicings, the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of its parish clerk, Mr. James Carne.

The old gentleman, who has been clerk of St. Columb since 1864, was publicly presented by the vicar with an oaken armchair of old English pattern, bearing an inscription on a silver plate. While the presentation speech was being made old Mr. Carne stood in the midst of his descendants, many of them of the fourth generation.

Several speeches were made, and Mr. Carne, who appeared to enjoy the proceedings immensely, received hundreds of congratulatory messages, including a cablegram from America.

For his age Mr. Carne is possessed of extraordinary vitality. He is still able to fulfill all his duties, and a week ago he attended the annual vestry meeting, and took an active part in the proceedings.

The centenarian is a descendant of the old Cornish kings. His lineage has been traced back to Clemens ap Bledri, of the Cornish royal blood, who flourished in the fifth century.

All the members of Mr. Carne's family have been renowned for longevity. His grandfather, who died in 1851 at the age of eighty, was parish clerk of St. Columb for half a century, and was succeeded by his son, who held the post for fifty-four years.

Some time ago a photograph of Mr. Carne was sent to King Edward.

HUMOR

HE WAS RATTLED.

A Lover's Effort at Seeking Sweetheart's Hand in Marriage.

He had been told that he might "ask papa," and he had planned to do it in these words:

"I daresay that you know, Mr. Rocks, that I have been paying your daughter Madge marked attention, and now I have come to ask her hand in marriage. I know that I am a poor man, but I am an honorable one, and I am not afraid to work. We are willing to fight the battle of life as bride and bridegroom, pilgrims of life together. I love your daughter devotedly, and I have come to ask your consent to make her my wife."

That sounded all right when he read it for the fiftieth time from the sheet of paper on which he had written it, but this was what he really said when he stood before Mr. Rocks, with his teeth chattering and beads of cold perspiration on his brow:

"I—I—dare say that—that is, Mr. Rocks, I—I—your daughter Madge has been paying me marked attention—er—no; I have been paying her marked attention, and I—I—we are willing to fight—or the battle of life—I mean that your daughter seeks my hand in marriage—er—no; I—I—seek her hand, and—and—I love you—er—no; your daughter, I mean, she—she—that is, I—I—have come to ask your consent to be my wife—that is, I love you devotedly—your daughter, I mean—she loves me devotedly—no; I mean that I love her—and she—she—I trust I make my meaning clear, sir."—Lippincott's Magazine.

"Don't mention it," her friend advised. "They were all so busy talking while you sang that probably nobody noticed it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Ottawa Growing Rapidly.

Ottawa, August 1.—Owing to the growth of the city and increase in building, the Council is finding it difficult to supply water to the outlying parts, and it is proposed to raise $50,000 especially for such extensions. This is apart from the $100,000 now being spent on new and heavy mains principally to ensure better fire pressure.

THE BRIDE'S PROCESSIONAL.

First in importance the bride comes—her dresses,
Ribbons and laces and feelings and fluffs,
Fit of her bodice and curl of her tresses,
Trousseau and trinkets and powder and puffs,
Frills in abundance, tucks in redundance,
Blushes in companies, squadrons, brigades,
Ever renewing (Cupid reviewing Stands like a general flanked by his aides),
Next come the presents in regiments splendid,
Duplicate ice pitchers, berry sets, spoons,
Silver for heaven knows what all intended,
Clocks, lamps, decanters in solid platoons,
Cart loads and van loads, dray loads and man loads,
Useful and useless, ugly and fair;
Piles of 'em, miles of 'em, myriad styles of 'em
Join the parade with a militant air.
Next come her relatives—uncles by dozens,
Sisters by marriage and numerous aunts,
Multiple nieces and fractional cousins,
Chiefs of the clan, you can see at a glance;
Friends of her mother's, chums of her brother's,
Bevies of bridesmaids (efficient as blushers);
Next comes the pastor, of knots the grand master,
Then in importance we notice the ushers.
Next in the order of rank the musician
Comes in this nuptial function of June
Wafting abroad from his lofty position
Lohengrin's quite indispensable tune.
Next in the function the butler's grave unction
Marshals the servants through palm covered bowers,
Welcoming blandly, ordering grandly
Men with refreshments and ices and flowers.

Last in importance there stands a young fellow
Close to the bride as she enters the room—
Let him look happy or dazzled or mellow;
No one will notice—he's only the groom!
—Wallace Irwin in Woman's Home Companion.

The Marriage Settlement.

Farmer Farge—I knows my boy ain't wuth your gal, but then my six pigs is wuth more'n your two calves, so that makes it even.

In England.

These American jokes seem to be good only in the States, don'cher know. I was dining with an American lawst summer, and after he had finished his fish he said to the waitah: "Bring me a glawss of watah. This fish wants to swim."

Good joke, bah Jove! When I got back to Lunnon I tried it at my first dinnah. We had no fish, so when we got to the veal chops I said. "Waitah, bring me a glawss of watah. This calf wants to drink." And, don'cher know, they laughed at me and not at the joke. —Lippincott's Magazine.

Confidence.

"So your husband has gone fishing?" said the neighbor.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Wise.

"I hope he will catch a nice lot and bring them home."

"I don't know whether he will catch any or not, but he will bring some home. He always takes his pocket-book when he goes fishing."—Washington Star.

Misjudged.

"Mr. Glibbsum," she said after he had talked for twenty minutes of her great beauty, "everybody says you are such a flatterer."

Mr. Glibbsum lifted his hands deprecatingly and was about to defend himself when she continued:

"But I believe you are a sincere, earnest man. Pardon me. Did I interrupt your remarks?"—Judge.

Parental Self Sacrifice.

"George," said Mrs. Ferguson, "I know it is early in the evening yet, but would you mind lying down on the lounge and taking a nap?"

"What for?" asked Mr. Ferguson.

"Because the baby is fretful, and your snoring always lulls him to sleep."—Chicago Tribune.

Not Yearning.

"Don't you wish you were a careless, happy boy, back on the farm?"

"No," answered the prosaic person. "I never dared be careless while I was on the farm, and I fail to see the happiness in stone bruises and prickly heat."—Detroit Free Press.

His Distressing Fate.

"Doesn't it give you a nervous feeling to be one of thirteen at table?"

"Well, it gave me worse than a nervous feeling once."

"What was that?"

"Hunger. There wasn't enough for us."—Tatler.

Chance For Him.

Gotrox (dolefully)—I hear you are going to marry Mr. Goodwin. Is there any truth in the report?

Miss DeSweet—I should say not—er—unless he should suddenly fall heir to a fortune and then ask me.—Chicago News.

Engagement Ring.

Jack—Yes, I had a terrible battle with Katharine's heart before she finally accepted me.

Joe—You don't say! How is she now?

Jack—Oh, she is still in the ring.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Husband Stabs His Wife.

New York, August 1.—During a quarrel at their home in Harlem today, Martin Schnable, 34 years of age, a mail waggon driver, probably fatally stabbed his wife with a carving knife. Schnable fled and has not been arrested. Mrs. Schnable had asked her husband for 25 cents to repay a loan from a neighbor and the quarrel resulted.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Wrong and Harmful Ways to Exercise Young Bodies.

"Among the many mediaeval fallacies concerning health and hygiene one of the most deeply rooted is the straight shoulder delusion," said a physical culturist of the enlightened school.

"The number of persons who come to me clinging tenaciously to the old fashioned method of 'standing straight' is altogether astonishing," she went on to explain. "The yardstick which the well meaning mother passes through the arms of her little daughter has been responsible for many thousands of bony necks with unnaturally projected heads. It will ruin many more unless parents are brought to realize that this ramrod method of carriage is as unsanitary as it is ungraceful.

"If a mother would but watch the effect of this position upon the little bare shoulders and neck of her darling she would never again wish her babies to assume it.

"The worst of the matter is that while it is ruining the carriage of her head and the contour of the neck and chest, it is in no way assisting the breathing business of the lungs. The ramrod method of standing neither expands the lungs nor causes effortless respiration. On the other hand, if correct breathing is mastered the shoulders, back and head assume their natural and most beautiful carriage. It is impossible for them not to do so. The poise thus obtained is that pictured by artists. It is as far removed from the ugly yardstick attitude as from a consumptive forward droop. In fact, it is the attitude suggested by Mother Nature herself for her healthy offspring.

"In order to stand straight throw the weight of the body first of all on the balls of the feet. The subject should practice this poise, swinging forward and using the heels merely as a balance.

"Now lift the chest. This is done not by laborious breaths, which exhaust and do not accomplish the object, but by a mechanical movement as easy and as natural as moving head or finger.

"With one's weight so poised and with the chest lifted it is impossible not to stand straight and to breathe healthfully."—New York Press.

A PRETTY LAMP SHADE.

Artistic Creation of Lace Flounce and Artificial Flowers.

Lamp shades of antique filet lace are the newest and most correct additions to a drawing room and boudoir. The fashion comes from Paris. The filet lamp shades are very handsome indeed and are particularly suitable for rooms in which the shades of the windows are made of the same lace.

The empire shape is the most fashionable for these lace shades, as it has been for those of paper and brocade. They are made over a colored foundation in many instances, but many are also shown made over white.

The shade shown in the illustration is an exquisite creation and will serve as a model for the home worker. This artistic shade is made of lace flounce and sprays of artificial flowers looped up with ribbon. Use a colored foundation to harmonize with the tone of the room.

Use Your Judgment.

When you read or hear that something is no longer in style do not immediately give in to the idea. Possibly both sides have not been presented to you. One lady read that curtains were no longer in style. She read a beautiful account of the literary and artistic home of Henry Van Dyke, how no curtains in his house gathered microbes to devastate the premises, how the sunshine poured in, illuminating the rooms and bringing health and color to the atmosphere. It sounded well. She immediately tore down all her hangings and produced one of the coldest, uninviting aspects it were possible for her to obtain. Nor could her decision be changed. She forgot that the individuality of the Van Dyke home was missing; that her house was not the same style; that its furnishings were different; that its location was absolutely dissimilar; that in every respect it was a house of a "different color."

Iron Ore Near Sturgeon Falls

Sturgeon Falls, Aug. 2.—Mr. W. A. Cockburn, of Sturgeon Falls, has made a discovery of rich iron ore in the swamp of Kirkpatrick, two miles from the Canadian Pacific Railway, south of Verner Station, and about twelve miles from Sturgeon Falls.

Mr. Cockburn says from present indications there appears to be a large body of ore, a vein about 25 feet wide being exposed. This is in the center of a good farming country.

The Clyde at Glasgow.

There are magnificent harbors in the old world which have been dug out of shallow sloughs and sluggish ditches. The Elbe at Hamburg is a narrow and insignificant stream compared with the great rivers of this western world. Yet for some score of miles down the Elbe from Hamburg to the sea this river's shores are lined with the seagoing craft of all the maritime nations of the world. Where Glasgow is situated, on the Clyde, that stream was once what is known in America as "a creek." Yet the Clyde has been dredged out until today the leviathans of peace and war, the great sea monsters of the transatlantic lines, the creations of the great captains of the shipbuilding industry, are built and launched there month after month, year after year. So narrow is the Clyde at Glasgow that these ships, some of them five and six hundred feet in length, cannot be launched head to the stream, as is the custom, but are launched broadside on for fear they should run their bows into the opposite bank.—Argonaut.

A Bride of Morocco.

Says an observer of conditions in modern Morocco: "The wife is bought in Morocco today, and the sum paid is agreed upon between her father and the would be husband. Sometimes a cow may be sufficient to procure a bride, at other times many cattle and several dollars are necessary for her purchase. The bride is, of course, dressed in suitable costume, but the most interesting part of her toilet to a stranger is the decoration of henna. The henna, pounded and mixed with lemon juice, is sometimes painted directly on to her face, arms, hands and legs. At other times a stencil pattern it put on her flesh and the perforated holes filled up with the henna. By the time this is completed she is tattooed with a dark design. Society women in more enlightened countries who wear lace blouses in a hot summer sun often find their arms and neck burned into a pattern which has much the same effect as the henna tattoo on the poor little Moorish maid."

How the Burro Eats Thistles.

The Rocky mountain burro, one of the most sagacious of animals, seeks the thistle as a favorite food, and the pungent spines with which it protects its leaves at every angle are doubtless a recognition on its part of this fondness of grasing animals for it. Few experiences of frontier life are more amusing than to watch the donkey's attack upon a large bull thistle. He walks about it, seeking for a favorable opening, projects his lip gingerly against its spines and jerks back as he feels its pricks. He surveys it pensively for a moment or two and then slowly raises his foot and strikes it, pausing to watch the affect of the blow. He then perhaps strikes it from the other side and watches again. The blows become rapid, and at length it is broken down and thoroughly trampled, after which it is consumed to the last vestige.—Country Life In America.

A Homiletical Repeater.

"It was in a small German congregation that I heard a preacher who when he had completed his introduction and first point said, 'I have come to the second head.' A man rose, rubbed his eyes, folded his arms across his breast and appeared ready for that head. When it was finished he had overcome the drowsiness and sat down. During the elucidation of the third head three other men stood up. At the close of his sermon the preacher found all his people asleep. As he stopped they all looked up and seemed greatly relieved. But the good man said, 'You have slept all through the sermon, and as this is a sermon you all ought to hear I will begin it anew.'"—Ecclesiastical Review.

The Face.

Nature has laid out all her art in beautifying the face. She has touched it with vermilion, planted in it a double row of ivory, made it the seat of smiles and blushes, lighted it up and enlivened it with the brightness of the eyes, lining it at each side with curious organs of sense, given it airs and graces that cannot be described and surrounded it with such a flowing shade of hair as sets all its beauties in the most agreeable light.—Addison.

Wanted to Be In Time.

A wealthy Parisian, tired of supporting his nephew, determined to get him married off and settled. He called upon a matrimonial agent and looked over his album of candidates for husbands. To his horror he found the picture of his own pretty young wife. He reproached her and demanded an explanation. "I do not deny it," she said, "but it was last year, when, as you know, dearest, you had been given up by all the doctors."

Negro Shot by a Mob.

Atlanta, Ga., August 1.—Floyd Carmichael, a negro about 23 years old, after being identified by Miss Annie Poole as the man who had assaulted her early yesterday, was shot to death in sight of his victim late in the day by a posse who had captured him.

The Price.

Whenever I have heard people railing at the vast fortunes of some of the California millionaires, says an English writer, I have always replied that no man became a millionaire in the early history of California who had not earned his fortune by the risks he had had the courage to face. I remembered an old Irishman named Bill Dunphy bringing home to my mind what these pioneers had encountered when he told me how he and a companion had fared in a journey across the continent. The companion injured his leg. Dunphy had to cut it off with an ax and then, going forward through the dark untraced woods to search for the trail and for food, had to leave his friend behind by the side of a stream and with a single tin of biscuits to keep him up till his friend's return. Then I saw what the pioneers of 1849 had faced, and I felt that they merited such rewards, however great, as fortune had afterward bestowed upon them.

Linen Makes Rice Paper.

The rice plant contributes nothing toward the manufacture of rice cigarette papers but the name. Rice paper as bought by the cigarette merchants of Egypt and Turkey is made from only perfectly new trimmings of linen and mostly comes from English and French mills in Constantinople, Fumen and France. The celebrated Chinese rice paper is made from thin slices of the pith from the canes of a tree about five feet high. A sharp knife pares the pith into cylinders of uniform thickness, which are than unrolled and pressed out into so called rice paper. By the way, Egyptian cigarettes contain no Egyptian tobacco, for since 1890 the cultivation of the tobacco plant has been prohibited. It is for workmanship and the curing of the leaf that the Cairenes are so justly celebrated, but the tobacco they import comes entirely from Turkey.

A Quaint Oath.

The judicial oath in the Isle of Man is so quaint as to deserve printing. It runs thus: "By this book and the holy contents thereof and by the wonderful works that God hath miraculously wrought in heaven above and in the earth beneath in six days and seven nights I do swear that I will, without respect of favor or friendship, love or gain, consanguinity or affinity, envy or malice, execute the laws of this isle justly between our sovereign lord the king and his subjects within this isle, betwixt party and party, as indifferently as the herring's backbone doth lie in the midst of the fish."

On the Slopes of Vesuvius.

Despite the danger to which they are exposed from 80,000 to 100,000 people live upon the slopes of Vesuvius, besides the 500,000 inhabitants crowded into Naples. The reason is that the fertility of the soil is perennial, the peril only occasional. The volcanic ejecta are rich in alumina, silica, magnesia, lime, potash and iron, which by their decomposition go to make splendid land. Some of the best vines in Italy grow on the skirts of Vesuvius. If the volcano were away not one-tenth of the many cultivators could subsist in the same area.

An International Difference.

In France.—The Girl's Father—And now, having settled the financial matters to our mutual satisfaction, I will speak to my daughter, and you may present yourself to her in the character of fiance.

The Suitor—Monsieur is graciousness itself.

In America.—The Girl—Papa, Harold and I are engaged and will be married.

The Girl's Father—Well, I suppose it's all right. Does he look like anybody I know?—Judge.

Adaptation.

To wade in marshes and sea margins is the destiny of certain birds, and they are so accurately made for this that they are imprisoned in those places. Each animal out of its habitat would starve. A soldier, a locksmith, a bank clerk and a dancer could not exchange functions. And thus we are victims of adaptation.—Emerson.

Keeping a Secret.

Banquo—I say, old man, can you keep a secret? Well, Smiggins told me in confidence that— Elmore—Hold on! Can you keep a secret? Banquo—I? Why, yes; certainly. Elmore—Then you'd better do so.

Pretty Thin.

Landlady—How did you find your bed? Lodger—Well, I don't think that the mattress will ever need to be operated on for the removal of superfluous hair.—New York Press.

Sorrow has not been given to us for sorrow's sake, but as a lesson which we are to learn somewhat, which once learned it ceases to be sorrow.—Chalmers.

Became a Scullion to Get View-Point

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Philip Van Zandt son of George Van Zandt, president of the Prairie State Bank, is putting in his vacation as a scullion in the kitchen of a club at Lake Geneva.

Young Mr. Van Zandt is a theological student in the University of Chicago, and his ambition is the ministry. He is filled with high ideals and is an earnest believer in the "uplift." He has taken the course of washing pots and pans, carrying coal and mopping up grease so that he can study the character of the people whom he proposes to reach when he begins his "uplift" crusade.

As a son of a bank president he did not believe he understood a scrubwoman, so he became a drudge to get the other's viewpoint. He has been there a month and some of his ideals have been smashed and others received severe jolts.

One of his most cherished ideals about the greater democracy and the equality of man was smashed the first Sunday he was there, and he has not been able to find all the pieces yet. His father, mother and younger brothers were guests of the club that day. When it came time for dinner, after he had turned the ice-cream freezer, thrown out the garbage, cleaned up the pots and pans, fired the fires and scrubbed the grease up from the floor where the cook had let it spill over, he cleaned himself up, put on his coat and went into the dining room to eat dinner with his family and the other guests.

There are about six clubs. And there are some at this club Philip had been there a week, everyone in town knew about him, and they knew too, that his father was a guest at the club, yet just because this young man had chosen to work out his ideals in the preparation for his service in the Christian ministry in his own way by accepting a menial position and doing the work of the scullery, those snobs objected to his presence in the dining room, and were so rude about it that he was obliged to withdraw.

A Sad Mother

Kingston, Aug. 3.—A pitiful sad case came to the attention of the police in connection with the old boys' return from Toronto. Among the happy crowd was a woman worn with age and hard work. Beside her return ticket she had but fifty cents. She came to see her boy, but her boy, though young, was a convict, serving three years. She spent the night in the police station, and the officers provided a couch for her and got her meals. Through the kindness of Warden Platt, she was allowed to see her son on Sunday, and the aged mother, her mission fulfilled, returned to Toronto next day. She told the story here that she wished for a living, and has to provide for a blind daughter.

SHUTTING OUT THE SEA.

The Massive Sea Wall That Stretches Around Galveston.

Stretching around the eastern limits and continuing entirely along the southern side of Galveston is its massive sea wall, standing as an impregnable defense and an insurmountable barrier against even the greatest storm ever known to have occurred in the gulf, says a writer in Marine Review. This wall symbolizes in its firm construction on a solid foundation not only the absolute future safety of the city, but also that unwavering confidence and unshaken belief of Galvestonians in this location as the supreme harbor of the star empire and the gateway for the vast and limitless resources of the great southwest. The city sea wall was begun Oct. 27, 1902, and the work was completed July 29, 1904, having been carried to a successful conclusion in three months less than the contracted time, which, considering the magnitude of the undertaking, is noteworthy. As an extension of the sea wall around the city of Galveston, the United States government appropriated $591,000 to build about one mile more of wall along the beach in front of Fort Crockett and the federal reserve adjoining the city on the west. The total length of the sea wall is about four and a half miles. It is sixteen feet wide at base, curving to five feet in width at the top, being seventeen feet above mean low tide and one foot higher than in the 1900 storm.

Sumatra.

Sumatra is a veritable dime museum of nature. In no other place is there such a collection of odd animals, birds and trees.

The Waterfall's Roar.

The roar of a waterfall is explained in the constant explosion of hundreds of thousands of bubbles. The impact of water against water is believed to be a comparatively subordinate cause.

Malaga Vines.

The method of cultivating the vine in Malaga is in every way simple. The only feature there which is not observed in other countries is that the "crowns" of the vine are kept very close to the ground. The object of this is to enable the surface growth to benefit from the close proximity to all moisture rising from or descending upon the soil.

The Sacerdotal Crown.

The sacerdotal crown was one of roses or other flowers, which, on certain festival occasions during the middle ages, was worn by the priests or monks when marching in procession through the streets.

Water.

So penetrating is water at high pressure that only special qualities of cast iron will withstand it. In the early days of the hydraulic jack it was no uncommon thing to see water issue like a fine needle through the metal, and the water needle would penetrate the unwary finger just as readily as a steel one.

Blindness.

In parts of Austria and Italy there is a superstition that the human saliva is a cure for blindness. The idea probably originated in the miraculous healing of a blind man recorded in one of the gospels.

Tabby.

Tabby, the name of a well known species of cat, was formerly atabi, which was a term used to designate a peculiar pattern in the silks manufactured in Persia. The markings in the fur of the cat resemble the pattern in the silk; hence the double application of the name.

Wrens in Wales.

In Wales it is believed that if any one kills a wren he will fall down and break a bone before the end of the year.

Zenobia.

Zenobia, the queen of Palmyra, spoke seven languages. After being captured by the Romans she learned Latin and Greek also, married a Roman senator and lived the rest of her life as a Roman matron.

The Eyeballs.

To preserve the round shape of the eyeballs occasionally rub them gently and always toward the nose. As one grows older the eyeballs have a tendency to become flat. Gentle rubbing or massage helps to preserve their shape.

Spanish Etiquette.

Ladies seldom rise in Spain to receive a male visitor, and they rarely accompany him to the door. For a Spaniard to give a lady, even his wife, his arm when out walking is looked upon as a decided violation of propriety.

TIREDNESS MEANS DANGER!

Indicates Faulty Blood and Worn-Out Nerves—Build Up, or Total Collapse will Surely Follow.

When you're tired all day, bothered by trifles, exhausted with nervousness, be sure there is something wrong.

You need bracing up, need more nourishment in the blood, need a powerful medicine to vitalize the nerves and distribute force and staying power to all over-worked organs.

The most marvelous success is Ferrozone, a nourishing tonic so scientific as to be the admiration of every physician. Ferrozone performs wonders for people in poor health; it acts directly on the blood, enriching it with strength and new life that is at once dispatched to all parts of the body. Ferrozone feeds the nerves and vital energies, supplies force, determination and joyous, buoyant spirits.

A case where there was lassitude and lack of strength is told by Mr. David Brown, of post-office box No. 32, Ilderton, Ont.: "About a year ago my health commenced to fail. My hands and feet seemed always cold. I felt worn-out and exhausted, weak as a little child. My face twitched. My limbs and arms commenced to lose their sense of feeling and finally my left side was perfectly numb. All my color left. My appetite ran down. Ferrozone was the first to give me any help. I improved with it very quickly. It toned up the blood and started circulation, so that the numbness gradually disappeared. My condition was perfectly cured by Ferrozone, and I have been well ever since. (Signed) David Brown."

SPECIAL NOTICE—To get satisfactory results be sure you get Ferrozone only. Fifty cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Who and Where Is Albert Ament?

Yesterday Chief Roszel received a communication from the real estate firm of Walker & Hanson, of Claresholm Alberta, asking about a young man who registered at the hotel there in May last as "Albert Ament, Peterborough."

The young man had considerable money and a few weeks ago all trace of him was lost.

It seems that on May 23rd, Ament purchased some property from the above firm, paying partly in cash and the remainder by bank draft. He left shortly after for Fernie, B.C., where the deeds were to be forwarded to him. The documents were sent a few days later, but not being called for, were returned to the real estate firm. The postmaster at Fernie, says that the young man Ament had been there, but has disappeared. It is feared that Amen. has met with foul mishap.

Lindsay Has a Big Log Jam

The Lindsay Post says: A big jam of logs in the river this morning blocked the passage completely, and the Kathleen was compelled to land their passengers at the lower wharf, about three-quarters of a mile from the centre of the town. The things they said about Supt. McClellan, of Peterborough, and his local overseer, Mr. McGill, for permitting such unnecessary delays, would not look well in print. It looks as if the mill men are going to win out in their scheme to claim the sewage channel within the town for use as a log pond. The logs must be landed at the mill, even if week women and children are thereby compelled to walk a long distance in the heat.

Large Orillia Excursion.

The Orillia Packet says: The Elks' excursion to Peterborough on Thursday, August 9th, is likely to be the largest of the season. The Orillia Citizens' band is strong, has been engaged for the excursion. Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. meets at Peterborough on the 9th, and General Lodge, Orillia expects to send a deputation of about 100. Special train leaves Orillia at 8.30 a.m., returning leaves Peterborough at night p.m.

Toronto Papers Late Yesterday.

The Toronto train due to arrive here at 11.35 a.m., yesterday morning was an hour late. The local officials ascertained that the train was delayed by a slight accident west of Toronto.

A Local Merchant Slept Through.

On Thursday a local merchant had some business to transact at Gardon Hill. He took the train at the G.T.R. station, after having called at several places where wet goods are sold on his way. On the train he met a traveller who represents a Montreal wholesale house. This traveller had a pocket companion with him. The two imbed. The train sped on its way. As Gordon Hill was reached the hero of this tale slumbered: "When he awoke it was in the G.T.R. resting serenely in the shadow of the Kent Hope viaduct. He was alone, quite alone. He thought it was up to him to get off the car. Alas! each door of the car was locked. The local gentleman had to disembark via one of the car windows.

The Best Guaranty of Merit Is Open Publicity.

Every bottle of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition. This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines in a class all by themselves. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are neither. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endorsed by the most eminent medical authorities.

The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood purifier, nor his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, overworked, broken-down, nervous women, contains any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves.

Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength, is a better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles residing in our indigenous, or native, medicinal plants than is alcohol; and, furthermore, that it possesses valuable medicinal properties of its own, being demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and a most efficient antiferment.

Neither of the above medicines contains alcohol, or any harmful, habit-forming drug, as will be seen from a glance at the formula printed on each bottle wrapper. They are safe to use and potent to cure.

Not only do physicians prescribe the above, non-secret medicines largely, but the most intelligent people employ them—people who would not think of using the ordinary patent, or secret medicines. Every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines has the strongest kind of an endorsement from leading medical writers of the several schools of practice. No other medicines put up for like purposes has any such professional endorsement.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." Easy to take as candy.

Is authorized to act as

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

Trains Collide Both Firemen Killed

Pere Marquette and Michigan Central Engines Come Together Head-On With Fatal Results---Engineers Hurt.

St. Thomas, Aug. 5—A frightful head-on collision took place at 8:18 yesterday morning when the north bound Pere Marquette passenger train, which was a little late, crashed into a Michigan Central passenger, also behind time, just at the semaphore north of the city on the Pere Marquette track which is leased and used by the M.C.R.

The firemen on both trains were instantly killed.

Arthur Goodhue of Port Stanley, lately of Waterford, the Pere Marquette fireman, was taken out dead, and Fireman George Hemphill of this city, M.C.R. fireman, was also killed.

The escape of the passengers was miraculous, as the tender of the Pere Marquette engine telescoped the coach, which was directly behind the engine on the M.C.R. train.

Engineer Jones of the M.C.R. and Engineer Robertson of the Pere Marquette jumped and are seriously injured. Jones will likely recover. The expressman, Matthews, is critically injured and will die. He is in the hospital.

The passengers were badly shaken up, but no one seriously injured. Both of the dead men were married and leave families.

Engineer Jones of the M.C.R. was removed to the hospital and will likely recover. Mr. Jones is a St. Thomas man of middle age, and lives at 17 Jonas street. Express Messenger Watkins is seriously injured, has several scalp wounds and his leg broken. He is not likely to recover. George Hemphill was the oldest fireman on the M.C.R. and died a brave man. He is also a St. Thomas man and leaves a grown up family and widow. Arthur Goodhue was a spare fireman and lately moved here from Waterford, and was about 30 years of age. He leaves a young family and widow.

The M.C.R. train crew obeyed orders, and when they saw the Pere Marquette train coming around the curve brought the train almost to a stop. The Pere Marquette crew, it is claimed, reversed orders at Port Stanley to meet M.C.R. at St. Thomas and afterwards received clearance orders, which must have been orders for another train, and this caused the terrible accident. It is also rumored that the Pere Marquette train received orders to meet the M.C.R. at Glanworth.

The only reason that the passengers on the Pere Marquette were not all killed was that six empty coaches were attached to the engine of which several were telescoped. Some of the passengers are suffering from bruises.

Coroner Dr. Guest called an inquest this afternoon at the city hall. The jury viewed the remains, and the inquest was adjourned until Tuesday afternoon.

Tahiti Would go to Great Britain

It is Reported That France is to Sell the Island.

San Francisco, Cal., August 6.—Mr. T. Atwater, a large land owner of Tahiti, who reached here yesterday, brings the news that France is about to abandon Tahiti and sell the island to Great Britain. Letters received here also convey the same information. Several months ago it was denied persistently by officials of the Islands that there was any purpose of transferring the Islands to the United States. For some time stores of ammunition and valuable machinery have been gradually withdrawn and the military and naval forces have been recalled. It is believed at Papeete that the islands will be exchanged with Great Britain for other possessions. Natives are indifferent, but some of the leaders are openly pro-British, having British blood in their veins and having been educated in England. Mr. Atwater, who has excellent means of gaining information, says:

"There's not the least doubt of the transfer of Tahiti to Great Britain. Every French soldier has been recalled, the fine government buildings will be abandoned and all stores will be removed."

Will Erect Big Cold Storage

Mammoth Structure for the Dominion Orchard Company.

Montreal, August 6.—The Dominion Orchard Company, which corporation proposes having the largest orchard on the continent, and perhaps in the world, are negotiating for the purchase of land contiguous to Montreal, on which they propose to erect a mammoth cold storage. It is expected that the work will be far enough advanced to enable the company to winter several thousand barrels of late keeping varieties of apples for sale and delivery in the spring. This plant will be utilized for the apples purchased by the company until their own trees come into bearing.

Mainspring of Life

No One Can be Strong With a Weak Stomach.

The stomach is the mainspring of life. When it is strong and acts perfectly, then the whole system is right, assimilation is perfect, and body and brain are thoroughly nourished.

One may perhaps get temporary relief from stomach troubles by using pepsin, or some other digestant, but this treatment has no curative effect. It does not reach the seat of the trouble and remove the cause.

How much better to use Mi-o-na, which restores lost functions of the whole digestive system, revives flagging nutrition, and aids in the assimilation of food.

Mi-o-na is a pleasant remedy to use, and benefit is seen from almost the first day's treatment. It restores the torpid glands and stimulates the natural digestive secretions. It checks fermentation, stops germ growth, soothes inflammation and cures all troubles, such as headaches, backaches, rheumatic pains, furred tongue, sleeplessness, nervousness, and general debility, which are caused by imperfect digestion.

Mi-o-na costs but 50 cents a box. If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N. Y.

Urgent Whip to Lords

Lord Lansdowne Impresses Unionists of Importance of Attendance at Fall Session.

London, Aug. 5.—The members of the house of commons and of the house of lords met yesterday to clear up the business of the summer session, after which parliament adjourned till Oct. 25.

The session of the upper house was very brief, their lordships simply meeting to pass the appropriation bill, and receive royal assent to bills passed before the adjournment.

Lord Lansdowne issued an urgent whip to the Unionist lords to regularly attend the autumn session, concluding:

"Any appearance of indifference at such a moment will have the most deplorable effect."

The members of the house of commons spent several hours in a general discussion of the South African, Egyptian and other questions, which Premier Campbell-Bannerman's motion to adjourn until the autumn gave the members an opportunity to bring up.

$5 Reward.

As the different banks have been notified of the loss, the cheques are worthless to any one but the original owner. Any person returning the same to The Times office, will receive the above reward.

Bryan Takes Stand With Roosevelt

Expresses Himself in Favor of Limitation of Individual Fortunes.

New York, August 6.—William J. Bryan has taken the stand with Roosevelt in favor of limitation of individual fortunes. He indicated this in a letter which was received Saturday by William Hoge, one of the movers in the Bryant reception. The letter, which was written on July 21 from the Lakes of Killarney, contained an eulogy of Mayor Tom L. Johnston, of Cleveland. Mr. Bryan says in part: "Johnson is a unique figure. He stopped money making in the very prime of life, and at a great pecuniary sacrifice gave himself unreservedly to public affairs. I am hoping that his splendid example will inspire many other wealthy men to put a limit to their accumulations and devote their lives to the welfare of their fellows."

Steps Taken to Purify our Water

Notices Posted Throughout Lake Resorts Forbidding Pollution.

On Friday last practical steps were taken to henceforth prevent a large proportion of the hitherto too frequent pollution of the feeders of our local drinking water supply.

As was noted in a former issue the Provincial Board of Health contemplated the despatch of an official to post placards, warning the public against practices which would affect the quality of our water supply, and to act in conjunction with our local water commissioners.

On Friday morning the steam Sovereign, having very considerately been placed at the commissioners disposal for the day, she was boarded at Lakefield, by Messrs. T. F. Matthews, chairman, and W. H. Moore and Wm. Mill, together with the secretary, Mr. S. R. Armstrong and Mr. W. Henderson, superintendent, accompanied by Mr. Wm. Eyres, chairman local Board of Health, Mr. Lindsay, mayor Bent and representatives of the press.

A very pleasant outing in which strict utility and straight business took a prominent place, was enjoyed by all aboard. The Toronto visitors were highly delighted with the beauties of the lakes and surprised to see the numbers of cottagers enjoying their summer there.

Notices, as given below were posted at Lakefield, Young's Point, Burleigh Falls, Verneuk, Mount Julian, Brealey, Juniper Island, McCracken's Landing, Nesbit's Clear Lake.

On Saturday Mr. Lindsay went to Chemong to post the waters adjacent to that place.

The notices posted, read as follows:

"The polluting of the waters of these lakes must stop. Naturally the waters are pure and must be kept so.

"The Provincial Board of Health of Ontario hereby gives notice to all householders, hotel proprietors, owners of boats and steamers of all kinds and the public generally, that the practice of depositing domestic sewage, house waste, human and animal excreta (liquid and solid), or pollution matter of any kind whatsoever, in the waters, or upon the shores of the lakes and their tributaries, must cease forthwith.

"It is unlawful under the Public Health Act of Ontario, to construct privy vaults or earth closets, or dispose of excreta, sewage, refuse, in any manner not approved of by the Board of Health.

"Further, the law requires that garbage shall be either burned or removed in properly covered receptacles twice a week.

"And persons contravening the provisions of the Act will be subject to a fine of $5 to $50 for each offence.

"By order,

"CHAS. A. HODGETTS, M.D.

Will Take the Stump in Maine

Secretary of War Taft Going to Fight Against the Laborites.

Washington, D. C., August 6.—The announcement is made here that Secretary of War Taft is going to Maine to take the stump in favor of the reelection of Representative Charles E. Littlefield. This is regarded as meaning that the administration has definitely decided to fight the American Federation of Labor in its efforts to punish the Republican members of Congress. If there is a point in the United States where the issue between the Republican representative and the American Federation of Labor has been acutely drawn, it is in the second congressional district of Maine, where Littlefield is making a desperate fight to be returned. The Federation has taken the field against Littlefield because for several years he obstructed the eight hour bill and other measures desired by labor organizations. It is inferred that Taft has the active sympathy of Roosevelt.

Quebec Non-Progressive

London, Aug 5—The Saturday Review, referring to the new Transvaal constitution and dual language, says:

"With the example of French Canada before us, could anything be more fatuous than to allow a provincial patois to compete in parliament and the law courts with English.

"The one corner of the Dominion of Canada which remains unprogressive and sullenly exclusive and poor is Quebec, and that is mainly due to bilingualism.

"There was hope that the new Transvaal parliament might have really influenced public opinion in South Africa and become a center of eloquence and talent, but how can a deliberative assembly be other than contemptible when orators on the side of the house do not understand what the orators on the other side are saying?"

WILL OPERATE EASTERN SECTION

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson Discusses Connection of New Road With East

WILLNOT PROVIDE HARBOR

Quebec Will Have to See to its Own Improvements to Get Western Trade.

Quebec, August 6.—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, accompanied Hon. S. N. Parent and the other members of the Railway Commission on an inspection of the Quebec Bridge, visiting the works on both sides of the river.

Discussing the situation of Quebec, Sir Charles declared it was not within the province of the company to develop the harbor. That should be done by the people of Quebec. The harbor was large and expansive, but nothing had been done to make it ready to receive its share of the ever-expanding trade of the West.

Discussing the Grand Trunk Pacific, he declared that there was no reason to believe the company desired merely an entrance into the wheat belt. There was no idea of diverting trade to the American Atlantic ports. It had always been the intention of the company to bring trade to Canadian ports whenever practicable.

The only thing that could retard the progress of the eastern section of the line east of Winnipeg would be the scarcity of labor, but the president of the company declared that they would be cutting their own throats as well as breaking an agreement if they did not carry out their engagement to operate the eastern section.

Of course, he added, the Grand Trunk will continue to use Portland as an ocean terminal, but Grand Trunk Pacific freight coming through from the Canadian West will have to go by Grand Trunk Pacific to Quebec in summer and St. John, N. B., and Halifax in winter.

Mr. H. Thompson Passes Away

Well Known Bobcaygeon Hotel Keeper is Dead.

It will come as a shock to his many friends all over this continent, to learn that Mr. Harvey Thompson, of Bobcaygeon, has passed away.

The late Mr. Thompson, who was about 58 years of age, was one of the best known hotel men in this district and at the time of his death, was proprietor of the Rockland House, Bobcaygeon. Mr. Thompson was known well and favorably among sportsmen, not only of Canada, but of the United States, many of whom annually stopped with Mr. Thompson during the season.

He had been ill for a few days only and on Friday night his condition became critical, and he passed away.

Several Peterborough gentlemen drove to Bobcaygeon to attend the funeral which was held yesterday.

Mr. Thompson leaves to mourn his loss a wife and two daughters, the eldest of whom is Mrs. W. Routley, Toronto, a daughter-in-law of Mr. C. B. Routley of this city, and the younger, Miss Cora, at home.

Mr. Thompson's genial welcome and courteous treatment will be missed by his many friends.

Urges Government to Act.

Ottawa, August 6.—The Citizen urges the Ontario Cabinet to lose no time in re-opening the right of way of mining concession. As August, September and October are the best months for prospecting if the purchasers do not make a discovery before the snow sets in they will practically lose a years work. If the do, they can mine through the winter. The Citizen adds that the Government is more likely to get good bids if the purchasers are given this advantage.

Americans Here on Saturday

Mr. Culverwell Takes Them to Healey Falls by Boat.

A number of prominent Buffalo, N. Y. manufacturers and business men arrived in the city Saturday morning on invitation of Mr. J. R. Culverwell, Port Hope, managing director of the Central Ontario Power Co., of Peterborough, owner of Burleigh Falls, and also managing director of the Northumberland, Durham Power Co., of Cobourg, owner and operator of Healy Falls.

As has already been noted in the Times, of a former issue, Mr. Culverwell has secured a lease of the Healy Falls power from the Ontario Government, and has met with much encouragement in his efforts to interest Canadians in his proposition.

On Saturday Mr. Culverwell took the visiting American capitalists about the city, and in the afternoon went down the river in a launch to Healy Falls and later will visit Port Hope and Cobourg.

Down at Gillies' depot the men have been fighting to save the buildings. It was reported there last night that two men had been burned in the woods. For weeks past bush-fires have been raging up the Montreal river.

WANTS A HAREM

Abe Boddington Advertises for More Wives, But is Unlucky.

Toronto, Aug. 5—Abe Boddington, who has an establishment on Chestnut street, Cabbagetown, according to a Chicago paper, is advertising for a second wife. It is said to have applied to the superintendent of the poor commission for a partner, and pressed a petition in favor of character signed by Rev. T. G. Rooney of Toronto.

Mrs. Boddington, when shown the report, said her husband had divorced once before for a wife, and took a young woman, whom he endeavored to enamour, but the girl learned that he was already a married man, and there the courtship ended.

Mrs. Boddington said her husband left her six months ago, but they had had no quarrel. She heard from him twice since—once from Port Arthur, Ont., when he spoke of returning.

Boddington, his wife says, was not a very liberal provider. There were three children, two of whom were adopted outside. The third is at home.

Retired Officer Tipton and Boddington had applied to his office for a divorce, subsequently, brought an advertisement, he met a jovial woman in Rosedale, and while entertaining marriage was confronted by an acquaintance, who asked him if he had deserted his wife. This broke up his plans for the time being, and nothing since was heard of him till the Chicago episode developed.

"KNOTTY" LEE DEAD

Reported to Have Been Killed at Worcester.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 5—George Lee, pitcher of the Lawrence baseball team, is dead here as a result of a red-hot liner striking him over the heart. The Lawrence team played Worcester Wednesday. Lee was pitching for the visitors. Joe Knott, of the local team, was at the bat in the last half of the fifth inning, when the accident happened. Lee pitched him a slow ball that Knott caught fairly on his bat, and smashed straight across the diamond. Lee threw up his hands as he saw the ball coming, but it was too fast for him. Before he had his hands in position, the ball struck him full on the great vein over the heart. Lee fell, writhing in convulsions, and as he fell the ball bounced back into his open hands and he held to it as he rolled on the ground. After Lee had been taken to the hospital the game went on, the umpire declaring Knott out, and credited the put out to Lee.

"Knotty" Lee, the Toronto boy who is reported to have been killed by a batted ball at Worcester, Mass., was a well-known figure in Toronto baseball circles before he left that city to play professional ball with minor league teams on the other side of the border, and had pitted for Toronto teams against the Peterborough team here on several occasions. He was given a trial by the Toronto professional club, but failed to make good. He played with Brantford last season.

A Plan to Free Prisoners Betrayed

Train Robbers Steal $40,000 of Government Money and Several Passengers are Wounded.

Warsaw, Russia, Poland, Aug 5—A telegram from Lodz says that a train robbery occurred between Lodz and Kalejpot, when $40,000 of Government money.

Eight persons were wounded in defence of the train among them being the Government agent of Brazil and a German named Grundmann.

A plan to liberate the political prisoners here was betrayed to the authorities today. Several civil servants and policemen who were implicated have been arrested.

JEWS URGE FIGHT.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Aug. 5—The Jewish Socialists in a proclamation today urge the Jews to be ready to fight, and, should the signal be given, they are requested to appear in the streets armed. The appeal has given rise to a serious panic, and fears are also expressed that a general railway strike may break out here. Stringent measures have been adopted for the preservation of order.

The Polish Socialists today issued a proclamation admitting their responsibility for the recent train robberies and acknowledging that they murdered twenty policemen during the course of the last week.

PREMATURE.

London, Aug. 5—A despatch to the Evening Standard from Moscow says that a number of workmen there today had prepared to received with bombs a detachment of troops sent against them, when one of the bombs was prematurely exploded by accident and exploded other bombs, blowing 30 workmen to pieces and wounding many others. The soldiers were uninjured.

OVER 60,000 STRIKE.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—The number of strikers in St. Petersburg this evening was officially estimated at 60,155.

Cecil B. Smith Will Not Resign

The Toronto Sunday World says:

The call for the resignation of the Temiskaming Railway Commissioners is no load that does embarrass from the schools-minded.

The election is closed and the people say this, if any error was done it was done in the public interest by the commissioners saw it.

Cecil B. Smith will not resign. He will not accept the Winnipeg offer tendered to him, but will remain at the head of the railway commission, and with the commission entrusted with the prosecution of the Beck power policy.

Those who think closely see in the Globe's alarm of "another Tory scandal" an effort to discredit Cecil B. Smith, "who is no common civil servant," and who is mainly responsible for the figures appearing in the Hydro-Electric Power Commission report. The Globe saw what it thought was a chance to put Mr. Smith and the Beck power policy out of business, by suggesting his resignation as a Temiskaming Railway commissioner.

And right here the Globe's revered ex-chief (Hon. Beck power penny Wise) misread sincerity if it has been supporting that offering, but lending its columns to so much yet like to be enemies of cheap power. Now as disclosed as in spite efforts of Power Engineer Smith And others this is doing the work of its masters, the contract combine.

Why this clamor for the resignation of he commissioner? The Globe did not call for the resignation of Robert Jaffray from the Niagara Falls Park Commission, though in the inquitous concession of the Electric Development Company he was in a worse deal than Cecil B. Smith was ever accused of being in, even by his most bitter foes.

In the case of Mr. Smith, to be harsh nothing more than an error in judgment was present. In the case of Mr. Jaffray, to be charitable, an approach was made to a grave breach of the trust the people reposed in him. Yet Mr. Jaffray is on the Niagara Falls Park Commission, is practically managing editor of the Globe and Mr. Pocksniff is his private secretary.

Really Bully

A nice little man
With a pretty fair stomach
Hit it hard with the Coffee
And got a little hummock
Right in the middle
Of his hard working liver
And the bottled up bile
Made the little man shiver.

One day he had the colic
And the wise little chap
Thought he better quit the frolic
For it dealt him such a rap
So the Coffee was let out
With a fair amount of grace
And a piping cup of Postum
Was served in
place.

This poetry has been pronounced a classic, there's only one thing better and that's

"There's a Reason"

Engine Turned on End Falls Over Trolley

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 5.—An old cog wheel, not more than four inches in diameter, lying unnoticed just inside a rail on the Lackawanna Railroad track, caused in the heart of the city this afternoon, one of the most peculiar railroad accidents ever witnessed here.

The engine was pulling a heavy freight into the yard when it was derailed at Onondaga street. The front end of the engine caught in the gutter, and although the train was not moving fast, the momentum forced the heavy "Mother Hubbard" engine into the air until it stood almost on end with the cab in their, toppled slowly to the left and it fell with a crash which could be heard for blocks, upon the end of a trolley car, which was standing at the crossing, waiting for the train to pass.

The rush of steam and the roar caused a panic, and a score or more of lives were endangered, but the only person seriously injured was the engineman, Charles Veeder of this city, who was severely scalded. He is in St. Joseph's hospital, where he may die. The motorman of the street car and the fireman escaped by jumping.

Lipton Challenges For American Cup

Nothing Announced Officially, But He Has Sounded Members of the N. Y. Yacht Club.

New York, Aug. 5—A special cable from London says:

Sir Thomas Lipton, whose anxiety to challenge again for the America's Cup is well known, has made the suggestion to a number of prominent yachtsmen on this side the Atlantic that, in case he sees his way to a formal challenge, he would like to secure a concession from the New York Yacht Club, allowing him to build two yachts, sail one against the other, and send the better boat against the defender. He firmly believes he is justified in seeking this concession. The defending side, as is well known, has the privilege of trying out its boats, but the challenger, under the deed of gift, must name the boat with the challenge. Yachtsmen here, who have discussed this matter informally, seem to agree with Sir Thomas that his desire to obtain such a concession is perfectly fair.

While no formal statement has been made by Sir Thomas Lipton that he has any legitimate hopes of success in this direction, the inference is that he has sounded certain of the New York Yacht Club officials, and is not without reasonable expectations that the question may be raised in the proper time with satisfaction to both sides.

Indian Braves Off to See King.

Montreal, Aug. 5—Big Billy Bill, hugh mucky muck, and Chief Okemow, of the Six Nations Indian Reserve, near Brantford, finds at last that his sphere of life is too small for him, and has made up his mind to enlarge his circle of acquaintances. And Bill flies high, too. He has decided to begin with no less a personage than our Sovereign Lord King Edward. After having shaken him by the hand, he says he will be quite willing and ready to die.

He does not say how pleased the King will be, but it is presumed that His Majesty will reciprocate in right regal manner. Bill is not boasting in by any means. He knows King Edward a long time ago, when he was Prince of Wales and visited Canada. Bill was a young buck then, and did not have such ambitious ideas as he has accumulated since he was made chief.

Bill sailed yesterday morning on the Virginian. He is accompanied by a party composed of nine braves, their squaws and several young hopefuls, whose education is just beginning, and although dressed in ordinary elegant Canadian costume, the party created considerable interest. Bill is about six feet two, more or less, with an almost perfect physique and a carriage calculated to inspire awe in any mortal, even a railway porter. The outfit will spend some time in the other side before returning to tell the rest of the Six Nations about it.

PRESIDENT MOWAT QUITS

Manager Shannon, a Conservative Gets Appointment as Paymaster and There's a Row

Kingston, Aug. 5—The announcement has been made public here that Major Shannon, city clerk, was appointed senior paymaster of Eastern Ontario command.

Following this came the rumor, which on enquiry proved correct, that J. M. Mowat, mayor, has resigned the presidency of the Liberal executive, and that all the members of the executive would follow suit as a protest against the appointment of Shannon.

The latter, is a Conservative, and the Liberal executive had nominated Dr. Sands for the position. Major Shannon is part owner of the News.

Notwithstanding the tempest in the executive, the appointment is very popular with the citizens, and particularly military men, included in these a number of Liberals.

It is said that the association will dissolve, leaving the patronage in the hands of the member, Hon. W. Harty.

"The limit has been reached," say the Liberals, "for in recent years a half dozen Conservatives have secured positions over Liberals."

These Medical Facts

You Can Study With Profit.

How few realize that twenty-five per cent. of all disease has its origin in some interference with the function of elimination.

The whole body exists by reason of the transfusion of fluids through its component parts.

Up to a certain point the body has power to object to destructive elements, but this power is limited.

When it happens that the body is loaded with wastes and poisons which it can't eliminate, fermentation, decay, and germ life run riot through the blood.

Serious illness is the result unless nature is assisted by a cleansing tonic like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are purely vegetable, contain no mercury, no bismuth, no injurious metallic ingredients of any kind.

Such a medicine is the greatest possible assurance to every man and woman of health, spirits and contentment.

Grand results are achieved, and famous cures made every day by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, as this letter proves.

From Newfoundland, Miss Lillian Anthony, of Upper Gullies, Conception Bay, writes: "In praise of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I must say that I have used them with grand success for three years. They never fail to cure me of indigestion or constipation. Formerly my face was full of pimples, but now my complexion is clear and ruddy. In more ways than I care to mention have Dr. Hamilton's Pills helped me; they would be good for every woman to use."

Insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 6 1906

THE UNITED STATES

After a long and somewhat stormy discussion on the subject, two territories have been admitted as a State into the Union and Congress has made provision for the admission of yet another, if the people of the only two remaining territories within the old-time boundaries of the Republic shall decide by their votes to unite their fortunes. The new State just admitted is composed of the territories of Oklahoma and Indian Territory and will be called the State of Oklahoma. It will contain an area of nearly 70,000 square miles and a population that in 1900 the census gave as 790,000, but which has increased considerably since then. In area Oklahoma will be a little larger than Missouri and will probably have more than half the people of California. Possibly it will be found to have more population than that.

The other State for which provision is made, subject to the vote of the people within the proposed boundaries, is to be formed by the union of the two territories of Arizona and New New Mexico, and to be known as the State of Arizona. In area the State of Arizona will be considerably larger than that of Oklahoma, but in population it will be inferior to the latter. The area will be about 253,000 square miles and its population in 1900 was 315,000. The only State larger than this new one of Arizona will be is Texas, but in population it will only exceed the least populous States of Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming. The topography and natural characteristics of the two territories are not favorable to the new State being very densely populated.

With the inclusion of these States of Oklahoma and Arizona all the territories within the old-time limits of the Republic will have become States of the Union. There will, of course, remain Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines and Porto Rico—the trans-marine possessions of the United States and governed by officials appointed by the President. All of these territories are separated geographically from the Republic; most of them contain populations that are not likely to assimilate with the bulk of the nation or become fit for any form of self-government, Alaska being, perhaps, the only exception. The additions to the number of States have been numerous since the admission of Colorado into the Union in 1876, and the political and social character of the country has undergone considerable changes in consequence. Before another celebration of Independence Day comes around, there is not much doubt that another and the last star will be added to the national flag, and then the drift of population and the tides of commerce and manufactures will be the chief factors in the shifting of influence or power, political and otherwise, from one part of the Republic to another. Canadians have some knowledge of what important changes these may make from the experience of the movement of population into Western Canada.

A CURE FOR NAGGING

Of course since Woman has become new she has, in a measure, stopped "nagging." At least, the men say she have. It is asserted that all women, both old and new, can stop if they want to. All they need to do is to become Christian Scientists. "There are no nagging wives and mothers among Christian Scientists," said one of the best known teachers and practitioners of that cult. "Our faith does away with nagging and the infinability that causes so many unhappy homes." The testimony of this witness is that she has seen "unhappy homes made happy, and tired, nervous, haggard-out women made contented and rested" by a childlike sense of the truth that peace and harmony are the law of our being."

We have no doubt that there is much in this. And we also have no doubt that Christian Science is good for nagging men too. As the Boston Herald correctly points out, some of the worst nagging men there are "nag" about the particulars of the cooking of the meals, about the conduct of the children, the extravagance of the household, particularly those which do not minister directly to their own gratification—and a dozen other things that offer an opportunity for venting their disagreeable temper.

Let us all pay enough attention to Christian Science to stop nagging. Then we shall be happier and more agreeable, in fact sweet, and our chances for the next will be improved.

Windpuffs.

A famous German cookbook contains a recipe called windbeutel, or, in English, "windbags." A more graceful name and one just as expressive would be "windpuffs." For these puffs use half a pound of butter, half a pound of fine flour, the same weight in water and eight newly laid eggs. Clarify the butter and let it come to the boiling point with the water, then gradually stir in the flour until the mass cleaves from the sides of the pot. Remove from the stove and allow the puffs to cool a little. Flavor slightly with nutmeg or grated lemon peel and begin to beat the eggs through and through it with a steady motion. Put the mixture on to a well buttered plate and divide it into cakes the size of walnuts, then set them immediately into a quick oven and let them bake to a golden brown. Upon taking them from the oven sprinkle them with sugar and serve immediately.

Substitute For Soap.

For those complexions that cannot endure soap almond meal will be found an excellent substitute. It should be used with warm water and is not only cleansing, but is also refining to the skin. Formula: Four ounces of orris root in fine powder, four ounces of wheat flour, one ounce of powdered white castile soap, one ounce of powdered borax, ten drops of oil of bitter almonds, two fluid drams of oil of bergamot, one fluid dram of tincture of musk. Mix well and pass through a sieve, rejecting all coarse particles.

Hollow Cheeks.

If the cheeks are hollow it is because the muscles have become weak. To strengthen them wet with cold water and rub gently and deeply round and round with a soft Turkish towel.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, coal, etc., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING MEN—NOT COMMERCIAL PROMOTERS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his cash money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

"There, cease, Maberly. I see all these things I admire them, and I acknowledge the kindness of my friends; but I am very tired; help me to undress."

"Yes, my lady; but just lift up your eyes and look upon that Indian shawl! If that splendid shawl is not enough to restore strength to the fainting, I am no judge of ladies nor shawls. That comes from your ladyship's cousin, Lord Seaforth, who brought it from Constantinople himself, no doubt."

"It is very rich and rare. There, Maberly, give me my dressing-gown."

"Yes, my lady; and, while you are resting and drinking your tea, just feast your ladyship's eyes upon that bride dress and veil; and see this wreath of orange blossoms, with the real perfume in them, such as the French only can make."

"Yes, yes, Maberly, it is all very beautiful, no doubt; but I have now other things to occupy my thoughts."

"Other things, my lady?"

"Yes, yes; I am momentarily expecting Colonel and Mr. Hastings. When they arrive, show Colonel Hastings into the drawing-room, and Mr Hastings into the library, and come and let me know. And now leave me. I wish to be alone."

"Yes, my lady," said the wondering abigail, as she left the room.

"Strange! oh, most strange! but yesterday Lady Etheridge of Swinburne, the mistress of all this vast estate, the betrothed of Albert Hastings, and today—to-day—only Laura Elmer, the daughter of the village laundress! Yet still the betrothed of Albert Hastings! That was the dearest title I ever had! I have that still! Oh, thanks be to Heaven, amid all the wreck and ruin of my fortune, I have that precious title still. Will he be faithful in my fallen fortune? Yes! yes! Oh, traitress that I should be to doubt him for a moment. Yes, he will be faithful! He never loved me for my rank or fortune! He loves me for myself! Upon the rock of my husband's love I may repose, for I know he will never change with changed fortune! He will throw his strong arm around me against the world! Had this calamity fallen upon him, and stripped him of rank and wealth, and name and fame, I should have love him even more deeply for his misfortunes. It should have been the happiness of my life to make him forget them. I judge his noble heart by mine! He will be faithful! Do your worst, fate! Strip me of my rank and wealth, and name and fame, and friends, and all external goods! You cannot touch my heart, where safe as a jewel in its casket, lies the treasure of my life, the love of Albert Hastings!" mused Laura, as she sat amid the transitory splendor of her dressing-room.

"My lady, Mr. Hastings waits your ladyship's pleasure in the library," said a footman, opening the door.

"Very well, Williams, precede and announce me," said his mistress, rising and leaving the dressing-room.

"Will he be faithful?" she mused, as she passed along the halls communicating with the library. "Will he be faithful? I shall know now!—nay, do now! My life—my soul on his fidelity! He will be faithful!"

And, with this inspiring word upon her glowing lips, and with this thought lighting up her eloquent face, she entered the library, and stood in the presence of him who held her fate in his hands—Albert Hastings.

CHAPTER V.

Mr. Hastings was pacing the floor, and turned to greet her, exclaiming:

"My worshiped Laura——" when something in the expression of that queenly brow, and those steady, luminous eyes, stopped him. Looking wistfully in her face, he said:

"Something has happened, Lady Etheridge. You commanded the presence of Colonel Hastings and myself, and we are here at your orders. Speak, dear Laura, and say, can we serve you?"

"You are right. Something has happened. Something of such grave import that I deem it necessary to communicate it to you before our marriage proceeds," she replied, gravely and sweetly, as she took a seat at the table, and motioned him to take another.

He turned very red, and sank into a chair, dreading to hear her next words, as visions of certain gambling and other debts of honor and of dishonor, cross before him.

Then resting her head upon her hand, and speaking slowly, she continued:

"Within the last twelve hours, Mr. Hastings, I have made a discovery which may—I cannot tell yet whether it will—separate us forever."

"Lady Etheridge," he exclaimed, a deeper flush mounting to his brow, "I trust that you have permitted no enemy to calumniate my character in your presence."

She looked up in surprise and perplexity. So foreign to her noble nature was the low vice of listening to the slanderer.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Hastings, I do not quite understand you," she said.

"Laura, I have enemies—bitter, malignant, unrelenting, and unscrupulous enemies—who would dash my present cup of happiness from my lips, and move heaven and earth to ruin me—who, to effect their purpose, would not hesitate to abuse your ear with calumnies against me."

"No enemy of yours has ever come beneath my roof; no slanderer would dare to breathe your name in my presence," she answered, with a certain noble and gentle dignity peculiar to herself.

"Then, my cherished Laura, what is it? You spoke of having made a discovery, or rather a supposed discovery, that might—but never should—separate us forever. Now, dear Laura, what is the nature of this supposed discovery?"

"It concerns myself, Mr. Hastings; and possibly you, as you are interested in me." She paused and sighed.

"A discovery that concerns you, dear Laura? I need not repeat that it can never, whatever its nature may be, separate us, as you seem to think possible; but explain, my dear Laura. I long to share your secret," he said, drawing nearer to her and taking her hand in his own.

"Ah! how can I ever inform you, Albert Hastings? Yet why do I hesitate? Whence comes this reluctance to speak of a misfortune for which I am in no degree responsible? Is it possible that, unconsciously, I cherish in my bosom a lurking pride of caste, that shrinks from acknowledging to-day the humiliating fact that must be made public to-morrow? Or do I doubt your constancy under the trying ordeal? I know not; but this weakness must be overcome," she said, speaking more to her own soul than to another.

He sat—now that his selfish fears were allayed—listening with attentive courtesy, while she continued:

"Mr. Hastings, whom do you take me to be? You believe me to be—as until last night I believed myself to be—Laura Etheridge, Baroness Etheridge, of Swinburne."

"Assuredly," replied Mr Hastings in surprise, privately asking himself, "What is this? Has she jilted me? Is she privately married to some earl or duke, who has raised her a step or two in the peerage, and covered her title with his own?" Her next words showed him his mistake.

"I am not so. No drop of the blood of Etheridge runs in my veins," she said, calmly.

"Laura! Lady Etheridge! In the name of all the saints in heaven, what do you mean?" he said, startled from all his imposed calmness by sheer astonishment, as though he thought she had suddenly gone mad.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased), of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

APPLICATION FOR PATENT should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

HON. RICHARD HARCOURT, President, Director of the Ontario Bank, and formerly Treasurer of the Province of Ontario.

JOHN FLEET, Esq., Vice-President, Head of the firm of Fleet, Lowndes & Co., Director of Ontario Bank.

JAMES R. TUDHOPE, Esq., M. P. P., Head of the firm of Tudhope Carriage Co., Limited, Orillia, Ontario.

DANIEL SIMPSON, Esq., M. E., Managing Director, Cobalt, Ontario.

JOSEPH COLUMBUS, Esq., Explorer, Haileybury, Ontario.

SOLICITORS: Clark McPherson, Campbell and Jarvis.

This Company owns the famous Columbus Mines, being a quarter section in Coleman Township, near "Giroux Lake," nearby the rich Lawson, Hargraves, Jacobs, Drumond, and other great mines, also joining near the famous Gillies timber limit, which is so rich in silver that the Ontario Government decided to develop it for the benefit of the public. It has four veins so far discovered, one of them has been known as the "Great Columbus Vein" for months, which is nearly seven feet wide almost all ore; containing Cobalt Smaltite, and Galena, running well in silver. It is predicted by the best and oldest mining Engineers that this mine will soon become a very great producer. There is now a large force of miners sinking the big main double working shaft, working night and day.

It is a foregone conclusion that the price of this stock will greatly advance as the sinking progresses, therefore, the undersigned personally offers for sale at par only a limited number of shares.

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Emma Daigle, of Moncton, N. B., Sends an Open Letter to All Sufferers.

Most women are tired when they wake up. Housework drags along with great difficulty. Nervousness is always present, headaches seldom depart, tears are ever ready to flow.

But there is a cure, a true specific for women's ills that restored a prominent lady in Moncton, Mrs. Daigle, who tells the following experience:

"About a year ago I had a serious sickness, sort of a general breakdown. My digestion failed entirely and I was able to eat but very little. I took violent stomach pains and suffered terribly from headaches. My doctor said it was 'nerve exhaustion' and I might never be well. My troubles increased, for as I grew weaker I became subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. Sleep finally forsook me and I almost lost heart. Different medicines didn't help. Doctors couldn't do me any good. I was desperate when I heard of Ferrozone. The first box convinced me it was just what I needed. It toned up my stomach, gave me a splendid appetite and then my recovery seemed easier. Ferrozone increased my weight several pounds, has restored my nerves, gave me a good color and strength such as I never had before. For the weak and sickly I can truthfully recommend Ferrozone." (Signed) Emma Daigle.

REMEMBER: No mere stimulant or alcoholic concoction can take the place of the nerve and blood nourishment contained in Ferrozone. This true tonic always does what is claimed for it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn. U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Horse Scared by Auto-Bus Upsets Buggy Throwing Occupants Out.

The first accident in any way connected with the new auto bus occurred on Saturday morning.

It seems that as Mrs. Mellburn, of Smith, while driving in with another lady, met the bus, which was then climbing Smith's Hill. The bus was only running at about three miles an hour, and Mrs. Mellburn's horse did not seem to pay any attention to it. However, as soon as the horse got to the bus it suddenly shied, upsetting the buggy and throwing the ladies into the ditch. Mrs. Mellburn had an arm broken, but the other lady was not injured.

Those in charge of the bus at once came to the ladies' assistance and did all they could to assist.

Victoria Park in Darkness

A Times Reader Complains That Local Park is Dangerous.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I hope you will give me a little space in your valued columns to call attention to a local danger spot. I cannot but refer, in most commendatory terms, to the way in which The Times last year was largely instrumental in calling public attention to the positive danger and immorality that then existed nightly on account of Victoria Park being in darkness every night.

Orders were given that the police should turn on the lights in that park every night. The Peterborough Light and Power Company, when asked, promptly had this park wired up. Duties, last summer the local police did their duty, and a former scene of incidents not adapted to publication was made safe and acceptable to the public by night. This summer, with an additional man on the police force, these guardians of public decency seem to be too tired to turn on the lights in Victoria Park. Now Sir, I do not want to pose as any better than my fellow citizens. However, last night I had occasion to pass through this park. At nine p.m., the whole park, although by the momentary lure of a button could be well lighted, was in entire darkness. I cannot, nor would your paper, refer to the state of things existing in that place of public resort last Saturday night. Suffice to say that many nights Victoria Park, under the conditions existing this summer, is a place unfit for any decent woman to pass through after dark alone. I believe that the chief or some civic official had instructions to have this place lighted.

It is now up to the council to find out, for the sakes of the women and girls of this city, whose duty it is to spend about five minutes a night touring Victoria Park, from darkness and danger, to a safe and enjoyable place for our citizens to enjoy a few hours fresh air. Let the park lights be turned on.

Yours truly,
R. J. T.

Good Music at St. John's.

Mrs. I. Douglas MacGregor sang "Fear not ye, O Israel," at the offertory at St. John's church evening service. Mrs. MacGregor, better known in musical circles as Miss Reid, of Rosedale, Toronto, has a fine soprano voice, and was heard to great advantage in the above solo. Batiste's Andante in G, "Fling wide the gates," Caro from Stainer's "Crucifixion," were given at the service as voluntaries by Mr. R. J. Davey an excellent style.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, "run-down," pain-racked women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchia, or other mucous passages, also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent nor secret medicines for they are neither—being of known composition.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended. Therefore, the afflicted do not have to rely alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain easily recognized diseases.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly compounded of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Dr. R. V. Pierce can be consulted FREE, by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as sacredly confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. Emigrant Ship Sinks Three Hundred Lost

One of the Most Disastrous Wrecks in Marine History---Passengers and Crew Fight With Knives for Possession of Life Belts.

Cartagena, Spain, Aug. 6.—A terrible marine disaster occurred last evening off Cape Palos. The Italian steamship Sirio, from Genoa for Barcelona, Cadiz, Montevideo, and Buenos Ayres, with about 800 persons on board, was wrecked off Hormigas Island.

Three hundred emigrants, most of them Italians and Spaniards, were drowned.

The captain of the steamer committed suicide.

The Bishop of Sao Pedro, Brazil, also was lost.

The remainder of the passengers and the officers and crew got away in the ship's boats or were rescued by means of boats sent to them from shore.

A number of fishermen who made attempts at rescue were drowned. Those rescued from the vessel are now at Cape Palos in pitiable condition, being without food or clothing.

STRIKES REEF.

The Sirio struck a rocky reef known as Bajos Hormigas, and sank soon after, it is first. Hormigas Island lies about 2 1-2 miles to the east ward of Cape Palos.

Before he committed suicide the captain declared the steamer had 645 passengers on board, and that her crew numbered 327 men. The Sirio had 670 passengers when leaving Genoa, but additional Spanish passengers were taken on board at Barcelona, where the vessel touched a few hours before the disaster.

The disaster occurred at five o'clock in the afternoon. The steamer was threading a difficult passage through the Hormigas group where the Bajos Hormigas reef is a continual menace to navigation. The sea had begun to settle rapidly immediately she had struck, and a terrible scene of confusion and panic existed on board. The fishermen along the coast sought to render every assistance in their power, and sent out boats which brought many survivors ashore. Most of the officers and crew of the Sirio are among the saved.

The survivors have gone into camp on the main square of the town at Cape Palos. Harrowing scenes are enacted as the stricken families anxiously seek beloved members among the rescued. A mother who lost her three children went insane. The doctor of the Sirio gave up his wife and child as lost, but they were fortunately brought in by one of the rescuing boats, and the scene as the family was united, was most affecting. One of the boats sent off by the fishermen brought in 34 passengers.

CAPTAIN TAKES BLAME.

The captain of the Sirio, before he killed himself, attributed the wreck to his own imprudence.

The Sirio left Genoa, Aug. 2. All the ship's books were lost. It is impossible at present to ascertain the full extent of the disaster. Nine-tenths of the passengers were Italians, and the remainder Spaniards. The survivors have been landed at Cape Palos. The inhabitants at once provided them with clothing and nourishment. Thirty were landed at Hormigas Island, about one mile from the scene of the tragedy.

From narratives of the terror-stricken survivors it would appear that it was the intention of the captain of the Sirio after leaving Barcelona to call at Cadiz before proceeding to Brazil.

The captain in order to shorten the route and gain time, purposed to pass as closely as possible to the dangerous rocky ledges, surrounding the Hormigas Islands. Without any warning, and while running at full speed, the Sirio crashed upon the rocks with terrible force. A few minutes later the stern of the vessel sank beneath the waves. The passengers were in a state of horror and panic. Crowds rushed forward, pushing each other and fighting for places in the bow of the boat. Many fell and were trampled to death. Dozens of men and women threw themselves into the sea. A young mother who was arrying her baby was advised to jump down the child and try to save herself alone. This she refused to do, declaring she preferred that they die together. Both were eventually picked up alive from the water.

In the midst of this panic the captain and officers of the Sirio endeavored coolly, but in vain, to restrain the people, restore a semblance of order and organize a system of life saving. This was not accomplished for the vessel suddenly either broke in half or glided off the rocks and foundered in deep water. The captain purposely sank with his ship. Archbishop of Sao Pedro went down with the vessel while blessing the drowning passengers.

The Austrian consul at Rio de Janeiro, was saved, but lost a large amount of money when the vessel went down.

Floating Island Now Abroad

Yesterday morning one of those strange floating bogs of vegetable growth that form at the head of Chemong blew down and stranded at Mr. Hopwood's Island, in front of the Park. These floating islands bring hundreds of water snakes, frogs, turtles, cat-fish and other aquatic creatures. The island that blew down yesterday was covered by a growth of willows and similar water-loving shrubs.

This is one of the largest islands that has floated down yet, as it contains fully an acres and a half of floating detriment to navigation. Another of these islands is now grounded in Deane's Bay. These islands whilst unsafe and almost impossible for a man to cross on foot, owing to the great growth of roots, strand in about five feet of water.

The Grand Lodge Now Assembling

The large gathering of Trip's Link brethren who meet this week here is now very much in evidence. Already the merchants, hotels and other business men of Peterborough are beginning to throw out the welcoming signs, in the shape of banners, flags, mottoes and other indication of the "glad hand," that will be extended to the visiting Oddfellows.

Yesterday morning, Mr. J. B. King, grand secretary of the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., arrived in the city, and registered at the Oriental Hotel. He is one of the busies men connected with the whole association. He is a very capable officer, and has everything ready for the big meeting. He said that this session would be the greatest and most successful ever held in Canada.

Everything is ready for the Grand Lodge when it opens. There should not be a moment's delay in any session.

Last night the Canton, Toronto, No. 7, Patriarch Militant, arrived at the C.P.R. station, and this morning will escort the Grand Officers of the Grand Encampment to their place of meeting in the court house at nine o'clock.

Yesterday afternoon the Grand Lodge election returns committee met in session to count the ballots. These ballots were all marked at the last meeting on May by the Past Grand Masters of the local lodges and sent under seal to the grand secretary. There are about 5,000 ballots in all and it will probably be Thursday morning before the committee will have its report ready for the Grand Lodge.

A special meeting of Mt. Hebron and Hiawatha Encampments was held yesterday evening in the I.O.O.F. hall. Several candidates were given the three degrees.

The delegates are arriving on every train and by tonight the majority of them will have arrived in Peterborough.

Mr. E. B. Morrey, of Ingersoll, Grand Conductor, was the first of the grand lodge officers to arrive.

Col. Dawson, of London, grand scribe of the encampments is in the city.

The Grand Encampment session opens this morning in the court house at nine o'clock, while the Rebekah Assembly will meet in the I.O.O.F. hall at nine o'clock this afternoon.

The I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge committees will all meet in the court house this morning.

Mr. Joe Powley, assistant grand secretary of Toronto, is in the city.

Danny Simons is Now a Star

Most of our readers are aware that a local boy, Danny Simons, son of Mr. F. Simons, the George street tailor, is now holding an enviable position on the American stage.

The Bangor Me., News of August 3rd, a paper of good repute and wide spread influence, speaks of Danny in flattering terms.

In referring to the Pemier Vaudeville Co., playing at Riverside Park, this journal goes on to say that, "That great favorite, Danny Simons, will now present his famous chaffing sketch entitled "Teddy's Charge Up San Juan Hill." As a laughing act few numbers seen in summer parks equal the offered by Danny Simons. He is surrounded by a splendid show including the aerial Maginleys, Dynes & Dynes, Jack Clahane and others."

This clearly shows that our own Danny is the star of the company as he should be.

Mr. H. Nesbitt Accepts the Offer

Our readers will remember that Mr. Harry Nesbitt in his anxious endeavor to get a fall fair held here, at a meeting of the fair authorities some days ago, said that, to make it look one good attraction, he would put up $25 that his flyer, Harry Direct could beat the record over the Peterborough track. A local sport reading our report of Mr. Nesbitt's offer, authorized us to say that he would bet Mr Nesbitt $25 his horse could not beat the local track record, the same time giving the records against time by Sphinx B. and in a race.

Last night a Times representative interviewed Mr. Nesbitt regarding this morning call-out his offer. Mr. Nesbitt whilst not throwing out any bluffs, authorized The Times to say that to to help the fair, he has not only $25 but $100 that says Harry Direct can beat the record on the local track Mr. Nesbitt is not anxious to push either himself or his horse, but he states that to get the local fair going, he will do anything in reason.

Hurt by Getting Off a Street Car

Yesterday at noon, a gentleman well known in the city attempted to do that unwise act of getting off a moving street car whilst still in motion. The scene of this infraction of the street car company's advice to patrons occurred at Edinburgh street. The result was that the traveller probably purchased arnica for his bruises during the afternoon.

The car was going rapidly at the time and the gentleman landed on his side with considerable force, injuring him painfully. He was taken to an adjacent house, where the injuries were attended to and he was then able to proceed to his home.

It is a wise precaution to lose, say eleven seconds on waiting till the car stops, and thus save possibly it days cussing the street car company for what was, in such a case, the fault of the injured individual.

He Is a Dangerous Character

New York, Aug 6.—An Italian who gave his name as Graceno Tanalara, 30 years old, and who acknowledged ownership to a satchel containing a quantity of cartridges and dynamite, which was found by the police of Hoboken on the street in that city last night, was held today for examination.

He had a ticket for passage on the steamer Cretic, which sailed today for Naples.

The bag was found hidden near the sidewalk last night. The police removed its contents and replaced the bag and soon Tanalara appeared and started away with the bag, but he was taken into custody.

He said that he bought the explosive in Hudson, N.Y., and was taking it to a professor of chemistry in Naples.

Souvenirs Go Forward.

Ald. Mason will forward today to each of the recent visiting British bowlers, a handsome photo of the lift lock in the act of carrying the visitors over its dizzy height. The photos are splendid specimens of the photographic art, and are the work of Mr. G. H. Landrum. They undoubtedly will prove appreciated souvenirs for the bowlers to carry back to the old land in memory of their visit to the Lift Lock City.

Methodist Missionary Describes Thrilling Adventure to Audience at Big Camp Meeting Near Chicago.

Chicago, August 6.—Miss Beulah Logan Tuthill, aged 30 a Methodist missionary, whose ancestors were missionaries before her, told the big Methodist camp meeting, on the Desplaines River, how she saw eleven persons killed and devoured by cannibals.

She was taken to the Caroline Islands when she was six years of age, and began her missionary work when she was seventeen. In 1890 her parents left the Carolines and went to Sydney, Australia. She remained on the islands for several months, and then she took passage on the steamer Ataguf for Sidney.

A terrific storm drove the vessel near the Island of New Ireland, 300 miles northeast of Australia, and Miss Tuthill was swept overboard. She was an expert swimmer, and was picked up by some Christians Malays.

They were subsequently wrecked on a sandbar, on which a schooner was going to pieces. This bar was two miles off the Cannibal Islands.

"As the tide began to rise to free us the horror began," she said. "One of our lookouts gave an exclamation of terror. He looked, and there on the shore we saw a horde of savages coming down the beach, fully two hundred of them in full war paint, armed with shields, spears and navy clubs.

"They stole down upon the schooner, and then attacked it with a rush. The sailors made no resistance. They had concealed themselves in the hope of escaping, but one by one, eleven men in all, they were found, dragged out and killed with a blow on the back of the head with a war club. Then they dragged the bodies ashore and prepared for the feast. They beat upon tom-toms and strange drums.

"The rest is too horrible—how they cooked their human food, how they danced about their victims how, at last, they tore the smoking human flesh to pieces with their nails and teeth in a mad orgy."

England In Grip of Labor Menace

Policy of Makeshift Ministry Forces Empire to Fall Back on Lords for Safety.

London, August 6.—The cloud of pessimism which has hung over Europe for fully three weeks has disappeared as mysteriously as it came. This has happened paradoxically in the face of the realization of the worst fears regarding the policy the Czar might adopt in Russia. Nor has the situation visibly improved in other respects.

The new British ministry still threatens disastrous parliamentary action against economic interests in two directions. It proposes to pass a trade union bill which will place the railroads and other large employers at the mercy of union labor. It contemplates also granting self-government to the two Boer colonies in South Africa on terms which are almost certain to result in placing political control in the hands of the Boers.

Kipling's stern rebuke in verse, followed by the gravest rebuke ever brought against a British government, contained in a speech by Balfour, may have the effect of bringing these light hearted statesmen to a halt before they complete the execution of their empire wrecking policy. These protests certainly aroused the public and still further weakened public confidence in this patchwork ministry.

ENGLAND LOOKS TO ITS LORDS.

Conservative Englishmen—the word is used in a nonpolitical sense—thank God today for the House of Lords. That bulwark alone preserves England today from the evils of class legislation and the perils which threaten the Empire itself at the hands of those who are responsible for the imperial destinies.

It is the realization that the upper house may be relied upon to defend the vital interests of the Empire against the worst of the threatened evils that has relieved the deep depression in financial and commercial circles. It is felt also that the more extreme and unjust the measures may be which the present government may force through the commons at the dictation of the labor members, the more certain will be the decisive rejection of the bills by the lords.

Outrage on Local Street Car Patron

Yesterday evening, as a street car was coming into the city from Jackson Park, and reached the McDonnell street crossing, a most unexpected and unusual incident occurred. When the car reached this point a lady, seated in the trailer, was struck by a heavy stone in the car. Conductor Bradburn, in charge of the train, at once made investigations to find where the missile came from. Although using much ingenuity, he was unable to locate the perpetrator of this outrage. Further developments will probably follow. By request, we omit the lady's name.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes-Charles Returns From the West.

Yesterday the popular president of the local Board of Trade and manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in this city, accompanied by Mrs. Hughes-Charles returned home after several weeks' absence at Sinka oun, where Mr. Charles had been relieving the manager of the Bank of Commerce branch at that town. Mr. Charles will resume his duties here today.

Mr. MacKenzie has been acting manager of the Peterborough branch during his absence. Mr. Charles is greatly impressed with the west and reports an abundant crop. "It is a great country," he remarked yesterday.

Dr. O'Brien is the delegate from St. Peter's T.A.S., and will be absent during the greater part of the week, as the convention lasts four days. It is expected that over 1,000 delegates will be in attendance, coming from all parts of North America.

Alphonso Yachting at Cowes.

Cowes, August 7.—King Alfonso, who with Queen Victoria, is visiting Princess Beatrice of Battenberg the Queen's mother, who is governor of the Isle of Wight, brought several small racing craft aboard the cruiser Princess de Asturias, which, accompanied the Giralda. These boats will compete in some of the minor events of the Cowes regatta. It is rumored that the King has a big racing yacht concealed somewhere, with which he intends a surprise, but those will informed do not believe this. Gossip alleges that Alfonso finds Cowes too conventional. He brought his own automobile with him, and in this yesterday he went scorching over practically every road of the island. After he returned to the royal yacht Giralda, his suite lost track of him. He was eventually found in the stoke hold.

A Perfectly Digested Breakfast Makes Nerve Force For the Day.

Everything goes wrong if the breakfast-time in your stomach like a muddle. What you eat does harm if you can't digest it—it turns to poison.

A bright lady teacher found this to be true, even of an ordinary light breakfast of eggs and toast. She says:

"Two years ago I contracted a very annoying form of indigestion. My stomach was in such a condition that a simple breakfast of fruit, toast and egg gave me great distress.

"I was slow to believe that trouble could come from such a simple diet but finally had to give it up, and found a great change upon a cup of hot Postum and Grape-Nuts with cream, for my morning meal. For more than a year I have held to this course and have not suffered except when injudiciously varying my diet.

"I have been a teacher for several years and find that my easily digested breakfast means a saving of nervous force for the entire day. My gain of ten pounds in weight also causes me to want to testify to the value of Grape-Nuts.

"Grape-Nuts holds first rank at our table."

C.G.E. Street Lamps As Good As Any

On the Market. So Said Mr. Larmonth at City Council Meeting Last Night---Method of Purchasing Horse for Fire Department Objected to.

The City Council met in regular session last night, when there were present Mayor Henry Row, Aldermen Johnston, Hicks, Duncan, Mason, Elliott, Graham, Wilson, McIntyre, McWilliams, and Adams.

The minutes of the last meeting were confirmed.

OPENING OF STREETS.

The notice of the city's intention to open and extend George street and Aylmer street, south, as published a month ago in this paper, according to statute, was read and no person responded to the mayor's invitation to record themselves against this project.

DEPUTATION RE SEWER.

A deputation was present to urge upon the council the desirability of constructing a sewer on Sherbrook street from Park street junction to the boundary.

Mr. Andrew Webb was the deputation's spokesman, and pointed out that consequent upon frequent changing of property owners, it had been difficult to secure sufficient signatures to a petition for this work. He pointed out in support of his claim that a sewer was a crying need, that one could take a bath in his cellar at almost any time during the year. In conclusion, he asked that this work be advertised, and that it be done by day labor.

This request will be attended to by the Board of Works.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Ozias LaPlante and 3 number of ratepayers complaining of the incessant blowing of whistles by railway engines while going through the city. The petitioners prayed that the city see that this nuisance cease, and instruct the railway companies to instruct their engineers to ring their bells in place of blowing whistles when running through the city limits.—Referred to the Manufacturers' Committee.

The Mayor of Halifax, N.S., wrote under date of July 19th, asking Mayor Best and City Council to attend the 44th annual convention of Canadian Municipalities, held in that city during Aug. 14th, 15th, and 16th. He noted that a special car will be attached to the C.P.R. train leaving Montreal on Sunday evening, arriving at St. John, N.B., at 11:30 a.m., when the mayor of that city will entertain the visitors. The I.C.R. will be taken that evening and Halifax reached on Tuesday morning. The return fare is one and one-third.—Received.

A petition for a pipe sewer on Reid street from King to Sherbrook street, was received, signed by some twenty ratepayers.—Board of Works.

A similar petition was received for a sewer on Hilliard street from Water street 100 feet.—Board of Works.

A communication was received from R. H. Bradburn, calling attention to unsatisfactory state of Water St. sewer.—Board of Works.

From John Crane, calling attention to unsatisfactory state of Simcoe street sewer in front of Ontario Bank.—Board of Works.

From M. W. Matchett, enclosing Central Milling Company's tax bill and calling attention to the fact that it was made out on the basis of an assessment of $21,140 instead of $12,000 as fixed by City Council, and confirmed by Legislature. Asking that necessary corrections be made to enable the company to get the two per cent. discount.—Court of Revision.

From Mrs. T. W. Sullivan, asking for $20 damages to her property on Murray street, owing to damages done by recent flooding of the creek.—Board of Works.

From W. G. Morrow, Secretary of Board of Education, requesting on behalf of Board of Education that the council extend the sewer so that the new south ward school can be connected up. He noted that they expect to have the school completed and open after the Xmas holidays.—Board of Works.

COMMITTEES REPORT.

The Board of Works, Finance, Whole Council, Fire, Water and Light committees reported, and their reports adopted.

MUST DO HIS DUTY.

Ald. Johnston moved, that the engineer will be instructed to see that Belmont and Homewood avenues are put in a passable condition. These thoroughfares are at present in a shameful state, which is partially the result of the shape in which these streets were left by the sewer contractors and the gas company, and partly the result of needed work on the part of the city.

His Worship asserted that it is up to the city engineer to see that contractors and companies leave the streets in as good condition as they found them when undertaking work thereon.

All McWilliams and Hicks acquiesced in this opinion.

Ald. McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott,—That the city engineer be instructed to see that contractors and companies leave the street's in passable condition after making excavations thereon.

Ald. Johnston could secure no lee-way to his motion as counsel considered Ald. McWilliam's motion more to the purpose in its general nature. Consequently Ald. McWilliam's motion carried in spite of strong protests by Ald. Johnston, who expressed his fear that Homewood and Belmont avenues might be overlooked.

TROUBLE OVER A HORSE.

Aldermen Duncan and Graham here enquired about the account for the purchase of the new horse recently purchased for the Fire Department. They were, they complained members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee but had never been consulted re the purchase of this horse.

Ald. Adams answered that he as chairman of the committee had been authorized to purchase the horse, which cost $200. Chief Rutherford engineered the deal.

Ald. Duncan replied that the check for the purchase of this horse had been made out to the chief's own name, and signed by the Mayor.

Ald. Adams—"There was nothing wrong in the transaction, and if the Fire, Water and Light Committee are satisfied the horse can be returned tomorrow morning and the money refunded."

Ald. Duncan said that he did not object to the purchase of the horse what he complained of was that he and Ald. Graham had not been called into consultation and allowed to see the animal when brought down to the city. That would have been the proper course, and the check should have been made out personally to Mr. Allan, from whom the horse was purchased.

Ald. Adams—"Why don't the members attend the Fire, Water and Light Committee meetings, when they would know what is being done."

Ald. Duncan—"I have attended all the meetings."

Ald. Adams—"Then why don't you ask for information."

Ald. Duncan—"I have been waiting for the report to be submitted, but have waited in vain."

Further discussion showed that the horse is a valuable one and worth far more than paid for it.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the question of the purchase of this horse the Fire Department, be referred back to the committee.—Carried.

NEW ELECTRIC LAMPS.

To his Worship, Mr. Larmonth replied that the new enclosed alternating arc street lamps now being installed by the Peterborough Light & Power Company, and manufactured by the Canadian General Electric Co. are as good as any on the market.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee reported in favor of the change of lamps for street lighting purposes, and the report provided that all lamps be placed in such positions on the streets and in such a manner as the committee, or some person appointed by them, may decide on. This would mean that where necessary the lamps would be hung over the centre of the street.

However, in discussing this matter in council the members were not quite satisfied that this system of street lighting would prove the most satisfactory one for the city to adopt, and the subject was referred back to the Fire, Water and Light Committee with authority to send a deputation to inspect other electric systems of street lighting before accepting the Canadian General's lamps.

BYLAWS.

A bylaw to authorize a conveyance to the city from the Armour estate of a right of way from Hunter street east to the lift lock, passed its several readings.

A bylaw to authorize the extension of George and Aylmer streets south, and to authorize the purchase of lands for the same, passed its several readings.

A bylaw to authorize the execution of sewers passed its several readings.

A bylaw to authorize the execution of an agreement with the G.T.R. Company, passed its several readings. This bylaw gives the company a right to lower their grade at Smith street, and will allow the city to construct a sewer along the westerly side of the company's track from Smith to Aylmer streets.

A bylaw to authorize the opening of parts of Dalhousie and Water Sts. passed its several readings.

FREE POSTAL DELIVERY.

Ald. McWilliam again raised the question of free postal delivery for this city. This town, he said, now, by reason of amalgamation with Ashburnham and assuming city clothing, has increased claim upon the government for free delivery. The postal authorities have recognized that owing to Peterborough's increase in population, it is absolutely impossible even with present improved conditions, to handle the mails satisfactorily, and he thought that a united effort made at an early date would meet with the desired result. With this end in view Ald. McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott,—That a petition be prepared for presentation to the Post Master General, urging upon him the need of a free postal delivery for Peterborough, and that this matter be left in the hands of the Manufacturers' Committee.—Carried.

Ald. Elliott thought Ald. McWilliams' move a timely one, particularly as he is told on the best authority that Peterborough is one of the biggest contributors to the Dominion treasury, both in the matter of customs and postal revenue.

UNDERGROUND WIRES.

Ald. Hicks moved, seconded by Ald. Mason,—That the city clerk write the superintendent of the Bell Telephone Company, through their local agent, and invite him to meet the council with a view to entering into some satisfactory arrangement for the putting of the company's wires underground.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

All Thin, Pale Women

Can Learn the Cause of Their Nervous, Used-up Condition.

With women, ill-health is usually traceable to nerve exhaustion. Feeling run-down and tired most of the time is nature's warning that more nerve-force is required.

You must build up, nourish the body, vitalize the nerves, get more flesh and blood.

It's the abundant nutriment and building material in Ferrozone that enables it to cure so many sick women. It increases the appetite, adds weight and strength, restores lost color and develops a surplus of energy and nerve force that defies sickness of any kind. There is living proof in Mrs Daniel Ferguson, Jr., of Prescott, Ont. Read her statement:

"A year ago my health failed. I grew thin and exceedingly pale. At times I was prostrated with nervous and sick headache. All day I was tired. At night it was difficult to obtain restful sleep. My appetite was variable and indigestion bothered me considerably. I became morose and suffered from heart palpitation. You could scarcely believe the benefit I derived in one week from Ferrozone. Color came back to my cheeks. My vitality and appetite increased, renewed nerve force and better spirits came also. Ferrozone did a world of good and made me well."

Remember this: No alcoholic stimulant can nourish and build up like Ferrozone. Fifty cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 7, 1906

THE NEW USURY LAW.

One of the most important of the new measures passed by Parliament at its recent session was "An Act respecting Money-lenders." This statute was instigated by the revelations not so long since in both Toronto and Montreal on the subject of usury. It was found that poor people in Toronto were paying as much as 120 per cent. for accommodation, while in Montreal the exactions were much higher. The position of affairs was such that when a person got into the toils extrication was all but impossible. What with the high interest, and the fines, borrowing was sorrowing in earnest.

Parliament has striven to meet the situation, and the Act relating to money-lenders is the result of its efforts. The prime feature of this law is the declaration that no money-lender shall stipulate for, or exact, on any negotiable instrument, contract, or agreement concerning a loan of money, the principal of which is under $500, a rate of interest or discount greater than 12 per cent. per annum. Should the 12 per cent. rate be imposed, and a suit be entered for recovery, the rate drops automatically to 6 per cent. from the date of the judgment. The 12 per cent. rate applies not merely to future contracts, but to past contracts that have matured and have not been settled. Thus the party who has borrowed at a higher rate that 12 per cent., but has not paid, although the money is due, will from the date of the passing of the Act, namely, July 13, pay no more than 12 per cent. for the money. Should there be a suit 6 per cent. is the rate after judgment has been delivered. These provisions knock out the 120 per cent. loans, and give the borrower a chance to get out of the books of the lender. But there is another feature of the law which is highly important, namely, that devised to make evasion difficult, if not impossible. It is declared that when there is a suit concerning a loan by a money-lender where the amount does not exceed $500, and it is alleged that the rate of interest charged is more than 12 per cent., including all charges except taxable conveyancing charges, the court may re-open the transaction, and take an account between the parties, and relieve the debtor of any obligation to pay the sum which is in excess of the legal rate of interest. Then the court may order the creditor to refund, and may, in addition, alter the contract so as to make it conform with the law.

The new regulations ought to put an end to usury. They follow very closely, although not in all particulars, the English system, which gives the courts extensive powers. There may be loopholes whereby a higher rate than that authorized may be exacted. But the borrower is not without a remedy. He may allow the claim against him to reach the courts, and then the lender, if he has overcharged, will be forced to refund the amount that has been taken, and will be in danger of a fine not exceeding $1,000, or of imprisonment for a term of not more than one year.

HELPLESS WITHOUT LEADERS.

Mutinies without cohesion, competent leaders and far-reaching plans are mere volcanic eruptions—destructive but transitory, terrifying but making little permanent change. So far, the explosions of wrath and discontent in Russia, including the outbreaks in the army and navy, seem to lack organized and definite planning. There is no sign of masterly and constructive leadership.

Therefore these manifestations of deep and wide unrest are not proof of the coming of radical changes in the nature and administration of the Russian Government. They are evidence that the condition of the Russian Empire must be materially altered and bettered, but they do not necessarily mean that the present revolutionary movement will come to anything definite or produce immediate results.

Leadership is as indispensable as ever in any important enterprise. Without the right men at the head of revolutionary forces the organized power of the existing government is always likely to prevail.

Fast Train to Montreal August 7th. Knight Templars.

The Toronto Knights Templars have completed arrangements with the Canadian Pacific Railway for a special fast train, Toronto to Montreal, Tuesday, Aug. 7th, for the accommodation of themselves and their friends. The train will consist of high back first-class wide vestibule coaches, parlor car and dining car. Toronto will be left at 11 a.m., arriving at Peterborough at 12.45 p.m., and Montreal at six p.m., in good time for dinner and attendance at meetings same night.

ANTI-FRENCH IN MOROCCO

London, Aug. 6.—A despatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Tangier, published this afternoon, says:

"Highly sensational reports are being received here, causing the utmost excitement. Daily, almost hourly, comes information from the interior of the rapid spread of a violent anti-French agitation. The rebels are concentrating their military contingents around Marakesh, the southern capital, and there is no doubt that a formidable coalition of semi-independent vassals has been formed. They are clamoring for a holy war, and urging the viceroy Prince Abdul Hifod, to proclaim himself sultan. The situation is more critical than it has been for thirty years."

CLING TO UPTURNED BOAT

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 6.—A Virginian Pilot special from Washington says that Captain George McKinney, in command of the schooner Annie Farrow, which arrived here yesterday, boarded on last Wednesday a schooner, bottom side up, in Pamlico Sound and rescued L. A. Ballance, Charles Foster and a boy named Benjamin Gennett.

They had clung to the boat's bottom since Monday afternoon, and were almost dead from exhaustion and starvation.

Miss S. A. Johnston and Miss Jennie Burrus of Middleton, who were in the cabin, when the boat capsized, were drowned.

The wrecked vessel was supposed to be the Lucher B. Mugg, from Hatteras, with a cargo of fish.

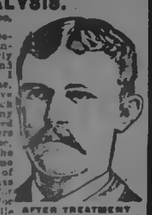
Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard-earned dollars. WE WILL CURE YOU OR NO PAY.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.



Peter F. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

"I mean just what I have said. I am no Etheridge. I am simply Laura Elmer, the daughter of the late gamekeeper," she continued, with something like the seeming cruelty, but real mercy, wherewith the surgeon firmly uses the probing knife.

"Laura! lady! madam! What is this—this accursed thing that you tell me? It cannot, it shall not be true," he cried, in great excitement.

"It is perfectly true. Albert Hastings, you have heard of such events as neglected infants, put out to nurse, being changed by the nurse, who, after some interval of time, foists upon the friends of her little charge her own offspring."

He did not, he could not reply. He could only gaze upon her, with eyeballs strained outward as though they would burst their sockets.

"Mr. Hastings, the infant heiress of Swinburne Castle was just such a wronged child. Losing her mother when she was but a few weeks old, she was intrusted to a confidential but disaffected female servant. Alas! that I should have to speak thus of my poor mother. She was left in charge of this high-trusted woman, while her widowed father went abroad to dissipate his grief. When, at the end of a few months her father returned, and claimed his infant, this misguided woman, from motives of revenge for a bitter wrong, imposed upon him her own child, myself."

"Good heaven of heavens! Am I mad or dreaming!" ejaculated Albert Hastings.

"That is the question I asked myself twelve hours ago; but I am now calm and reasonable."

"It cannot be true. It is impossible. Who has abused your noble mind with such a ridiculous fabrication?"

"No one. The woman, full of remorse and believing herself to be dying, sent for me last night and made a full confession, bringing many proofs of the truth of her story."

"It is impossible, I repeat! It is impossible, I insist! The woman is either crazy or designing. She has told you an impudent and absurd falsehood! No strange child could ever be foisted upon a father as his own. It is utterly and forever impossible! Nature herself cries out against such a deception," exclaimed Mr. Hastings, trembling for the rich inheritance of his promised bride.

"Ah! Albert Hastings! you must know that such a fraud is not impossible, but that it has been more than once committed. And in this instance deception was temptingly easy. The infants that were changed were of the same age—three weeks old—and infants of that tender age all look alike. The father went away for many months, and when he returned it was as easy to give him one child as the other, so that the other was kept out of his sight."

"Good heavens! Lady Etheridge, you seem absolutely to be a partisan and an advocate of this otherwise preposterous claimant."

"I am a partisan of the truth, an advocate of the right, wherever I find them. The validity of this woman's statement is palpable to me. Her earnest manner, believing herself to be near death, the vraisemblance of her story, and the fact that the young girl, whom I have seen, bears a strong resemblance to all the family portraits, while it is notorious that I resemble none of them."

"Lady Etheridge—for such you are, and so I shall call you—you cannot be so ignorant of the usages of law and society as to imagine that an obscure claimant, unsupported by stronger proof than that which has been advanced, and unaided by money or influence, can have any chance against the wealth, connection, and power of the present baroness."

"Mr. Hastings, I feel an inward conviction that that nurse's story is true, and that girl's claims are just, and I would die rather than use my position and power against her just rights."

"Lady Etheridge' my adored Laura' pause! consider! and if ever you honored with your priceless affections the humble man before you, leave this matter in my hands. In a few hours more I shall be your proud and happy husband—in a position to protect you! Leave it to me, then, to compromis with these people, and settle their preposterous claims," exclaimed Albert Hastings, earnestly.

While he spoke, she looked at him with a countenance in which surprise incredulity and doubt gradually gave place to an expression of deep pain.

"You consent to this, Lady Etheridge," he went on, quickly. "You will intrust this matter to me, to be arranged after I shall have become your husband."

"Nay; pardon me, Mr. Hastings. I must become your wife in my true colors. I must resign my rank and title, too long wrongfully, though most ignorantly, held. The hand I give you must be clean and honest, holding no possession to which it has no right," replied the lady, sadly, but firmly.

"Laura Etheridge," said Mr. Hastings, coldly, "your sympathies and affections appear to me to side with any rather than with me. You seem willing to resign, with a culpable levity, a title, rank and fortune, as precious to me as they should be to yourself."

"Nay; not so, Albert. I, too, have greatly valued the advantages of a position that I so long believed to be mine, and, if I resign them now, it is because I cannot keep them and keep honor as well. Oh, Albert Hastings! was this morning stripped of name and title, rank and wealth. I stand before you as poor as the poorest cottage girl in our valley, having but one treasure the priceless treasure of my life's unsullied honor! And tempt me not to barter it for Swinburne Castle and barony, with all their appurtenances," she pleaded, fervently, clasping her hands, and gazing appealingly into his face.

"Tut tut! my dearest Laura; you talk like a fanatic. Now, is there a man or woman living who would yield up a possession like the barony and castle of Swinburne without trying to crush or compromise with, or buy up the pretensions of their opponents?"

"Yes," she answered, bravely and sweetly. "There is such a woman; and I—bereft of everything but honor—am she; and there is, I hope, such a man, and you are the one."

"Not I, by my soul, Lady Etheridge! I beg your pardon, my adored Laura; but you shall not impoverish yourself, or discrown your noble brow of the coronet it so well becomes. Fortunately, your generous confidence invested me with the possession of your landed estate and personal property by deed of gift. I shall deem it right to hold and defend the same against every claimant. More fortunately still, I have your promise to become my wife. For your own good now, sweet one, I shall hold you to that promise. And when once you have vowed love, honor, and obedience to me, though I shall always remain your most devoted slave, yet in one particular I shall exact, for your own benefit, the performance of your vow of obedience. I shall require you to be perfectly passive in this matter, and leave the settling of these people to me. Sweet Laura! it is near the hour that we should be at the church, and I long to call you mine," said Mr. Hastings, rising. She also arose, saying:

"Albert Hastings, do not be deceived. I shall perform all my promises and vows, if under the circumstances, you continue to wish it; but in that you will not marry Lady Etheridge of Swinburne, but plain Laura Elmer, the game-keeper's daughter; while Rose, the reputed child of the village laundress, is the true Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne!"

"Rose! Rose Elmer! is she the party?" exclaimed Mr. Hastings, fall-

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Another Coal Combine Kick

Yesterday a local citizen living on Water street, complained of the extortionness of the employes working for the local coal barons. A few days ago this subscriber ordered (paid in advance, as demanded by the combine) some coal. As the driver, with the authority that clothes aforesaid, drove into his yard, his wagon simply ripped up the ground and totally killed vines this had been trained over specially erected wire work. These vines had been growing for years in two places in this yard, but the present lack of competition in the coal business, seems, our subscriber said, to render such employes careless of the rights of our citizens. This gentleman stood a Times' representative that he would not have taken $50 and had his fruit of six or eight years' work thus destroyed. He now has to remove the wire work and begin again. He says that for years coal wagons and others have been passing through this yard without doing any damage until this unfortunate load of coal.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two direct specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflamation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

$5 Reward.

Lost on Saturday night a red morocco cigar case, which contained among other things a cheque for $30, made by Reneal Deyell in favor of and endorsed by Ralph Watson, also some I.O.U's and several others cheques. As the different banks have been notified of the loss, the cheques are worthless to any one but the original owner. Any person returning the same to The Times office, will receive the above reward.

The C. P. R. Hotel Deal.

As noted in a former issue of The Times, it has been anticipated that Mrs Bowman, recently proprietress of the Oxford House, was to obtain the license for the Allen House, recently the C.P.R. Hotel, Simcoe street. The license commissioners, we understand were to have met last night to settle this matter. However, Mr. H LeBrun is now out of the city at Stony Lake and Messrs Morrison and Kundry decided to await a full meeting. The general opinion is that should Mrs. Bowman obtain the license, she would maintain the price according to the dictates of the present law.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Jubilee Point Rumor Denied.

Mr. J Gilman, proprietor of the Jubilee Point Hotel, was in the city, and when talking to a Times representative, took serious exception to a rumor current through the city. It seems that some party or parties have started a rumor that meals at this hotel have been raised to 50 cents each. This rumor prevented many excursionists within the past week or ten days from taking meals at that hotel. The prices at Jubilee are still the same as ever.

Canoeists Get a Ducking.

Two young men had an exciting and somewhat dangerous experience on Saturday a little below the locks. It seems the canoe they were in turned turtle and dumped both the occupants with their baggage into the wet Otonabee water. They managed to recover most of their possessions. This is a part of the regular Otonabee canoe route that is well worth prompt attention by canoeists, as the water is not only wet, but swift and a little further down stream deep.

Kirkfield Lock Nearly Ready.

The lift lock at Kirkfield is nearing completion and it is expected that it will be in operation in about two months. Good progress is being made on the work under the foremanship of Mr. Herbert Finley. Several from Peterborough are employed on the construction and are doing good work.

—Col. Miller and the leading local officers of the I.O.O.F., do no stop, before their looking glasses these days to see "is my hat on straight."

—Quite a number of Old Peterborough Boys took advantage of yesterday's Civic Holiday in Toronto and visited the old town. Some went to Stony Lake.

—Mr. J. B. King, grand secretary of the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., now in the city, was yesterday heard to say "This will be the best all round session of the Grand Lodge."

Mr. Thomas Medd, an employe of the Bell Telephone Company, who has been working with a gang at Milligan's Corners, twenty miles this side of Toronto, has arrived home. Mr. Medd has had the misfortune to have the third finger on his right hand badly crushed by a heavy pole rolling unexpectedly on his hand. He expects to go to work in the course of a few days.

The Wind Blew, the Horses Flew.

Yesterday morning as one of Mr. E. F. Mason's delivery horses was standing in front of the worthy alderman's northern George street store, a gust of wind caused the awning to flop. The horse suddenly started down George street when the driver caught it. Ex-Ald. Scott's horse also took fright and turned the corner at Hunter street, making for home, but was caught. Fortunately no damage was done and no one was hurt.

A Little Cooler for Today.

Yesterday old Sol was not quite as generous in his disposal of heat rays. On Sunday he dispensed a 90 in the shade article, whilst yesterday it was slightly cooler, the thermometer standing at 83 degrees, but still quite hot enough. The probabilities say that today will be a little cooler. The breeze of yesterday made things endurable.

READ AND YOU WILL LEARN

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice endorse and recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula on the bottle wrapper is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous or harmful agents and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful ingredient in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION

Is authorized to act as

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN EASTERN ONTARIO

VOL XXXIV, NO 188 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1906. — PRICE TWO CENTS

Peterboro is in Oddfellows Hands

Members of the Triple Linked Brethren, to the Number of Eight Hundred, are now the Welcomed Owners of the City.

Our visiting Oddfellows in their ed to know that your particular hundreds are receiving a right cor branch of the Order has had a dial welcome by Peterborough, and without exception express themselves as well pleased with our local reception.

Yesterday morning, Can on No. 7, Toronto, of the Patriarch Militant, escorted the Grand Encampment officers from headquarters to the court house, where the first session of the thirty-seventh annual meeting was held. The Canton was in charge of Department Commander W. S. Johnston, and the route ensemble of goodly men in gorgeous uniforms, presented an attractive scene. There were some twenty in line and following immediately were Grand Patriarch George C. Mortimore, Grand High Priest G. Powley, P.G. Patriarch J. Donough, P.G.P. Macdonald, D.D.G.P.S.S. Crocker and Grand Secretary J. B. King. Upon arrival at the court house the grand officers were joined by a large number of uniformed members who went direct to the court room, where the opening ceremonies took place.

Shortly after ten o'clock when G. P. Mortimer had brought the meeting to order, Mayor Beat and Ald. E. F. Mason, chairman of the reception committee, took places beside the Grand Patriarch.

THE MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

Mayor Beat in his usual suave and telling tones delivered the city's address as follows.

Grand Patriarch, Officers and Members of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, I.O.O.F.:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to bid you welcome to Peterborough. Oddfellowship is strong here, for there are very flourishing subordinate lodges and encampments, each with a good membership. From the members of the Order here, you will, of course, receive a hearty welcome, and since from them alone, for all the citizens unite in bidding you welcome, and in hoping that your meeting will be pleasant and successful.

We think that you have chosen "no mean city" for your thirty-seventh annual meeting, and we hope that you will take time while you are here, to become better acquainted with the city. We have some of the most important industries of their kind in the Dominion, and they are all prosperous, so much so that enlargements have been and are being made to them, while new industries of an important character are being established. I have no doubt that each of you feel that you come from the most important place in Ontario, for loyalty to the home city or town is characteristic of Canadians, and we do not wish to depreciate that loyalty, but we do expect that after you have seen more of Peterborough you will have some doubts of the supremacy of your home town. You will find our parks well worth a visit, and if you have not seen the lift lock, the only one on America, be sure to visit this great work before you leave.

The work in which you are engaged as Oddfellows needs no commendation, for the principles of your Order are well known and their value generally recognized. To visit the sick, to relieve the distressed and to care for widows and orphans is as great a work as any organization can undertake, and the success this has attended the efforts of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, in this great work, as shown by the growth of the Order and its hold it has taken on the minds of the people, and in its work and this growth we are pleased to know that your particular branch of the Order has had a share.

Make yourselves at home while you are in Peterborough, for we not only wish this session to be remembered as one of the most helpful, but also as one of the most pleasant in our history.

In reply the Grand Patriarch, on behalf of the Grand Encampment, extended his hearty thanks to the city for the kind reception and the great courtesy of extending to the Order the freedom of the city during their three days' stay here.

He then went on to say that the Order had made no mistake in picking upon Peterborough as a meeting place, and that it is possible this city may again be chosen. Mr. Mortimer then paid a well-worded compliment to Peterborough on its progress and growth. He noted that the goods manufactured here are on sale throughout the world.

After Mr. Mortimer's address was concluded, the representatives got to work.

The morning session was presided over by Grand Patriarch George C. Latimore, of Toronto. An address of welcome was read on behalf of the local camp by P.G.P. and P.G.S., B. H. Moore, as follows:

Grand Patriarchs and Representatives:

On behalf of the local Patriarchs I have much pleasure on welcoming you back to Peterborough after an absence of 19 years. Many changes have taken place during that period. The town of Peterborough has developed into the prosperous and promising young City of Peterborough, and the grand bodies of our Orders have so grown that the Peterborough of 19 years ago could hardly hope to entertain such a large number as are now with us. I look around me and miss many of the familiar faces of the leaders of our Order that used to attend these annual gatherings. Some of these have removed to other fields of labor; some have retired from active life and others have gone to their last home. Yet our Order goes on in the even tenor of its way to fulfil its mission to man. The leader of but yesterday has passed away, and his place has been filled with another equally as well, if not more qualified, as those who preceded him. Can there be any better testimony of the stability of our Order, and the soundness of our principles.

At the last meeting of the Grand Encampment here, the charter for Hiawatha was granted, and Canton Peterborough No. 10 was born. The former of these has prospered and is within two years of its majority. The latter flourished for a few years but owing to removals to other places and the limited field from which to draw new blood, died, for lack of support. We will not be surprised if one of the results of this meeting will be the resurrection of Canton Peterborough No. 10. There is no good reason why a city with so many Oddfellows should not support a first-class Canton.

The local brethren have provided a free trip over the lift lock, which none of you should miss. A steamer will be provided for that purpose and you are cordially invited to avail yourselves of this opportunity to go over and inspect this massive engineering work.

As president of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club I am authorized to extend a hearty invitation to any who indulge in that game, to visit our lawn on the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets, where you will be welcome to join in a game of bowls.

Again, we welcome you, and trust your visit will be pleasant, harmonious and productive of legislation to the best interests of our branch of the Order and that each one will be the better for having met the other and will return home with increased conceptions of the possibilities of good Oddfellowship, and with even a little better opinion of Peterborough.

A number of committees were appointed to take up different branches of the work and instructed to report at two o'clock.

The Port Arthur Mines Opening Up

Buffalo Men Predict It Will Become Largest Silver Camp in America Before Long.

Port Arthur, August 8.—The silver district adjacent to Port Arthur, which has been dormant for years, is to be re-opened, and in the course of a few months mining camps that formerly employed hundreds of men will be again in full operation. Silver Mountain, Badger, Beaver and other properties have been purchased by a syndicate of American capitalists, and thousands of dollars will be expended on machinery and development.

M. A. Meyers and Mr. Hanson, of Buffalo, who are largely interested in the syndicate who own properties, arrived in town yesterday en route to Silver Mountain, where a large force of men is engaged in pumping out the shafts preparatory to commencing active mining operations. Other mines also will be pumped out and operated.

Mr. Hanson stated the district would eclipse Cobalt in richness, and that it would become the largest silver-producing camp in America. Up-to-date machinery will be installed.

Rebekah Members Were Welcomed

Yesterday morning at nine o'clock, many well dressed and (outdoor the personal allusion) good looking lady members of the Oddfellows' Order met in the I.O.O.F. hall with the president, Mrs. Moore, in the chair. There was a large attendance of lady delegates from all parts of Ontario. The morning session was opened by an address of welcome by his Worship Mayor Beat and Ald. Mason, chairman of the reception committee. Mayor Beat delivered the following address to the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, I.O.O.F.

The very pleasing duty has devolved upon me of giving you a welcome to Peterborough on behalf of its council and citizens. This is the first time that this Assembly has met here, and we desire you to know that the citizens all unite in giving you a hearty welcome and in hoping that your session will be as profitable and as pleasant as you could desire.

We hope you will be able to find time while you are here to visit some of the points of interest in our city. It is not always considered good taste to speak of age in a company of ladies, but I will venture to tell you that as a city this place is just a little over a year old, and you will find that it is a very vigorous infant. It is considerably larger, has more industries and does more business than some Ontario cities that are a quarter of a century older. We have several parks that we would like you to see as well as public buildings, and among the institutions you will find one excellent one, managed by women, for the benefit of women—I refer to the large and progressive Young Women's Christian Association, which owns a building, which would be a credit to any city. The lift lock, on the Trent waterway, which is within the city, and for visiting which, conveniently, arrangements have been made by the local Oddfellows, will well repay a visit, as it is a wonderful engineering work.

We are always pleased to receive visitors, and it is an especial pleasure to welcome representatives of an Order such as yours, in which ladies are united for the purpose of carrying on a work of benevolence. The branch of the Order which you represent must be of great benefit to the Order as a whole, for in the work of aiding the sick and relieving the distressed the brethren must find the assistance of an organized band of sisters invaluable. Much of this work is, of course, not seen by the public, but one prominent evidence of the largeness of heart and enterprise of the Rebekahs is the institution for the care of the helpless at Orillia, which is the outcome of your initiative.

We hope that your deliberations at this session will result in the further advancement of your Order, and that your stay in Peterborough will be most pleasant.

Mrs. Moore in well chosen and eloquent words responded fittingly to the civic address. She referred particularly to the beautiful parks of the city and called attention to our civic public work (the lift lock.

A South Africa Veteran Here.

Among the delegates to the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., is Bro. Hare, of Aylmer, Ont., who was in the South African campaign and who was personally present at the funeral ceremonies of the late Mr. Dan Spencer, after whom one of our local conveniences is named. Mr. Hare is a strong advocate for Canada, and says this is "The country in which to live."

Closely Follows Her Husband.

Belleville, August 8.—What looks like a case of wife desertion and bigamy is reported to the police here by Mrs. Jennie Sinnott, who comes from a United States town. Mrs. Sinnott says her husband left her a few days ago to go to the Thousand Islands, where, he said, he was going to work. She followed him, and found he had left for this district. She kept on the trail and found a man of Sinnott's name and answering his description had married a young woman a few days previously and left the district. The woman then came to this city, where charitable people are caring for her, while the police are trying to locate her husband. She has two children with her.

TO HELP GARNER WESTERN HARVEST

Twenty-five Thousand Harvesters are Expected to go Northwest

OPENING OF IMIGRATION

Maritime Provinces Will Send Out First Contingent To-morrow—Other Provinces to Follow

Yesterday the annual migration of harvesters for the great wheat fields of the Canadian North-West began, and it was the largest movement of its kind that the railways in this country have ever undertaken to handle. The Canadian Pacific hopes and expects to transport over twenty-five thousand helpers, who will aid the farmers of Manitoba and Saskatchewan to garner wheat for the bread basket of the world.

Excursionists were taken from all points on the Atlantic division of the C. P. R. That is to say, the Maritime Provinces will send their share of labor first. Then on August the 14th, 17th and 22nd the movement from Western Ontario will be inaugurated, and on the 28th those east of Peterborough and the Sault Ste. Marie district will begin their journey to the Prairie Country. On the 30th those from the Province of Quebec will start forth. To augment these latter, three hundred British emigrants, sailing on the Lake Erie, are due in Montreal on the 12th of the month. The call for men has been so great this year that the C. P. R. has been doing its best to get volunteers from the country and farming districts in the Mother Country, and with marked success. The three hundred pioneers on the Erie will be followed by others, so if Canada herself is incapable of supplying the demands and keeping up with the pace set by the western country, there are many other places to draw from.

MANY MAY SETTLE.

As in other years, many are expected to take advantage of the excursion to spy out the land with the intention of settling.

The pay of the harvesters varies according to the ability and experience of the men. It generally amounts to about $40 a month, the men getting about two months to two and a half work at the harvest.

The acreage under cultivation this year being much larger than previous years the number of men required is much greater, and as years go on this need is expected so materially to increase that it may become a question of national importance what steps may be taken so that there may be no danger of a labor famine.

Normal School Site Discussed

Yesterday some excitement was created especially in Government circles over the visit of inspection by Toronto Government officials of the various sites proposed for the new Normal school.

During yesterday afternoon Dr. John Seath, superintendent of education, and A. H. U. Colquhoun, deputy minister of education for the province, made an inspection of the numerous sites which have been offered as desirable locations for the new Normal School. They were accompanied on their tour by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mayor Beat, Ald. Mason, Elliot, Messrs. Dundle, Pringle, Hill Ferguson and several other aldermen and members of the Board of Education. The party left the National Hotel in cabs about two o'clock and visited the various sites which have been offered.

A final decision as to where the Normal school will be located was not returned, but will be noted in The Times shortly.

New Electric Railway.

Albany, N. Y., August 8.—The Frontier Electric Railway Company, of Niagara Falls, has been incorporated at the Secretary of State's office with a capital of $500,000, to operate an electrical road 25 miles long between Niagara Falls and Buffalo. The directors are H. G. Ramsdell, S. Ellis and W. Aspinwall, Buffalo.

Mr. A. Johnston is Injured

Last night as Mr. Arthur Johnston, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, was driving along Water street between St. Paul's church and Dr. Jessup Bernie's residence, his rig fell foul of an excavation on Water St. It seems that although underground work is going on this street, no lantern or other means of warning the public was displayed. Mr. Johnston had his ankle badly sprained, being thrown out of his buggy, and the skin completely torn from his left hand. Mr. Johnston will sue the parties responsible.

Municipalization of Telephones

Glasgow's Example Shows That Such a System is Foredoomed to Failure.

Glasgow, August 7.—The committee of the Civic Federation of America, headed by M. F. Ingalls, of Ohio, will find it necessary to revise its reports upon municipal ownership so far as Glasgow is concerned. When the committee visited Glasgow among other cities in search for intelligence regarding municipal ownership the members of the committee appeared greatly interested in the workings of the municipal telephone. This telephone was established between five and six years ago to compete with a private company. It was found that the municipal company was not a paying venture and the town council decided to sell the business to the postoffice at a loss of $100,000 rather than continue the undertaking. When the sale was decided upon more than $1,000,000 had been spent on the equipment, and a further expenditure of $500,000 had been found to be necessary.

The Glasgow Herald asserted that the undertaking was a mistake in the beginning and that the citizens have cause for being thankful that the loss is not more. Telephone experts say that the Glasgow experiments settle the question as to the practicability of a municipality successfully operating a telephone exchange. It is admitted that the nationalization of the telephone under the management of the postoffice department may become a success, but that the municipalization of a telephone in any city is doomed to failure.

Natural Paint Has Been Found

Enormous Deposits Discovered in Saskatchewan.

Vonda, Sask., August 8.—Enormous deposits of natural paint have been discovered some 15 miles from here on the shores of Houghton Lake. The deposits, which are found in three layers, are of yellow, vermilion and slate and are extensively used by the settlers in the district for painting purposes.

The discovery of these deposits was made by Edward Cornault, of the Duna hotel, who declares the supply is unlimited.

Mica and salt are also to be found in the same district in large quantities, and a syndicate is now being formed for the purpose of developing the discoveries.

In the Name of the King

Phoenix, Penna., August 7.—His Majesty King Edward VII. has acquired, for the sum of $1, a lease to hold the title to an acre of ground in the centre of the Borough of Phoenixville, and will remain in possession thereof until January 1, 1907. The deed to the above effect has been registered in the office of the Recorder of Deeds in Chester County. The ground on which a quantity of finished iron work is stored, was leased to the Quebec Bridge and Railway Company by the Phoenix Bridge Company, the former having been taken over by the Canadian Government. The lease has been transferred to the Crown and, according to custom, the deed has been made out in the name of King Edward.

Quick Lunch on Railway Train.

Montreal, August 8.—A "quick-lunch-counter" car has been tried with great success by the Canadian Pacific Railway on a recent excursion from Kingston to St. Anne de Beaupre. The train carried 350 passengers, almost all of whom were accommodated by the diner. It is a regulation 72-foot dining-car, except that the lunch counter runs the length of the car, taking fifty people at a time. The car is equipped with cold storage and a large cooking range. It has also a cellar. The car was used while at Ste. Anne by a large number of tourists. The railway will build two more of the cars at once, now that their success has been demonstrated. They will be used for the longer excursions, etc.

Dredge to Be Raised.

Toronto, August 8.—The dredge J. Israel Tarte, which sank near Port Hope about two years ago, is to be raised and put into service by the Polson Iron Works, Limited. The discovery of its whereabouts was made in a rather peculiar manner. A Port Hope coal dealer sailing along in his schooner a few miles out from the shore while a big swell was rolling on the lake, felt the keel of his boat strike something. He marked the spot and prepared for exploration when the lake was calmer. He dragged the water and found the J. I. Tarte sitting tight, keel down, at the bottom of the lake.

Man Who Stole $125,000 is Caught

Pittsburg Man Who Embezzled From Trust Co. Confesses---Gambled it all Away Except 60 Cents---Female Companion Held.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—Six months ago postal authorities to send Wray's mail here. Accordingly the post office was watched, and at 1130 yesterday morning, Detective Ray saw his man enter to go to the general delivery wicket. He called Sergt. Geddes who made the arrest and the prisoner was taken to the police court in the patrol wagon.

Wray has confessed everything. He said he came here last Tuesday and registered, with a woman from near Pittsburg, at the Tremont House as Mr. and Mrs. Wright. They left the Tremont next day and have been boarding in the city for a week.

WOMAN IN THE CASE.

The woman was caught an hour later in a Victoria street boarding house. She gave her name as Grace Loughery, of Kittanning, about 40 miles from Pittsburg. When searched she had $73 which had been given her by the male prisoner. Wray says the defalcation amounts to $125,000 exactly, and it is all gone. He says, "I gambled it away, dealt in stocks and other securities, anyway it is all gone. I have none left." When searched, he had only sixty cents in silver and at least 15 or 20 pawn tickets.

The Loughery woman says she has known Wray for several years and since he left the Trust Company they have been living together as man and wife. She is of medium height and build, fairly good looking, though rather pale. She was found by Detective Twigg and Markie.

Wray has said he will go back voluntarily and has confessed everything. He does not appear to be particularly affected by his position. One curious feature is that the local police were not notified of the case. The Pittsburg officers conducted it throughout until the actual arrest was made. Wray hails from Chicago originally, and is about 29 years old.

Chinese Officials Tricked Britain

Attempt to Resume Control of Customs in Pursuance of Deliberate Policy.

London, August 8.—According to The Times' Pekin correspondent, there seems little doubt that, in attempting to resume control of the imperial maritime customs, the Chinese officials are following a deliberate policy, and that the British Foreign Office has been tricked into accepting wholly illusory assurances as to the independence of Sir Robert Hart and the European control which he represents. The Times says that the situation created by the recent changes is plainly one which demands the promptest and most serious attention. The two new Chinese comptrollers have begun by granting themselves high salaries and opening fine offices in Pekin. They direct that no reports or statistical returns may be published until they have approved, or, more probably, censored them; and, with intentional impertinence, have appointed a special official to carry their instructions to Sir Robert Hart, whom they designate their foreign servant. Although the promises made to our legation were explicit that no fundamental alterations in service were intended, these have never been promulgated in China, and were not even communicated to Sir Robert Hart. He is therefore unable to issue them as service instructions and finds himself sulking daily into growing discredit with his own subordinates.

International Swindler and Thief.

Paris, August 7.—The police here have arrested Samuel Buchner, a native of Cracow, at the request of the Berlin authorities. He is wanted in the German capital for several swindles he perpetrated there. The New York and Vienna police also requested his arrest for swindling in these cities. Buchner is a handsome fellow. He stopped at the best hotels and carried much luggage with him. A large sum of money was found in his possession. It is said that he belongs to a gang of international thieves.

Brewer Scalded to Death.

Waterloo, Ont., August 7.—Jacob Klahn, night brewer for L. Kuntz, of the Park Brewery, was severely scalded while at work on Thursday morning. He was immediately taken to Berlin and Waterloo hospital, where he died of his injuries, at about noon yesterday. Klahn was a young unmarried man and highly respected.

Against the Use of Plumes.

New York, August 8.—William Dutcher, President of the National Association of Audubon Societies, some time ago wrote to President Roosevelt saying that Queen Alexandria had recently publicly made known her disapproval of the use of white heron plumes, and suggesting that a similar expression from Mrs. Roosevelt would do more towards abolishing them as millinery ornaments than months of work by the Audubon societies.

Inspecting the Slaughter Houses

Found in Unsatisfactory State and Central Abattoir is Recommended.

Brantford, August 8.—Dr. Pearson, medical health officer, has been inspecting slaughter houses in this vicinity, and in some cases has found matters in an unsatisfactory state. One house has been closed. The official is now endeavoring to establish a central abattoir for all butchers there, by doing away with slaughter houses. In this proposal he probably will be supported by the local board of health.

Rescued From the Brink of the Falls

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 7.—Chas. Walsh and his wife and a party of women were rescued from a disabled launch in the Nigara River today, just at the danger line as the craft was starting over the Falls. The launch lost her propeller, Walsh tried to drop anchor, but it did not hold. They then shipped the oars, and they snapped like pipe stems in the attempt to drive the heavy launch against the rapid current. One of the women tied a skirt to a broken oar, and the attention of people on shore was attracted. The party was rescued at the danger line.

Rattlesnake's Bite Was Fatal.

Port Jervis, N. Y., August 8.—Grant Dull, of Monroe County, Pa., was picking huckleberries near Evans Falls, he was startled by the warning rattle of a snake, and the next instant was bitten in the left ankle. The man was hurried home and two physicians worked over him, but he had been bitten in an artery, and in seven hours was dead. Dull was 38 years old and leaves a wife and two children.

Child Drinks Lye and Dies.

Hamilton, August 8.—Josephine LeBarre, the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. LeBarre, drank some lye which her mother had been using, and died at the City Hospital from the effects.

Degrees Conferred Last Night.

Last night a very large crowd gathered in the Market Hall, to see two ladies, Miss Treagon and Mrs. Ryan take the degree of Chivalry. During the proceedings a lady in the audience caused much amusement by getting up and dancing a jig.

AGED ORANGEMAN DEAD.

Belleville, Aug. 8.—In the death of Mr. Daniel Bierow, which occurred on Sunday in Amelisburg Township, Prince Edward county, one of the oldest, if not the oldest Orangeman in Canada, passed away. Deceased was 93 years of age, and for 85 years had been a member of the order. He was initiated into the order in Rhode Island, being a member of Benjamin Lodge, 274. He died in the township where he was born.

Masons to Organize.

Regina, Sask., August 8.—As the result of the convention held at Prince Albert on May 25th, the Freemasons of this province will organize in this city next Thursday the grand lodge of Saskatchewan. Invitations to be present have been forwarded to several leading members of the craft in Eastern Canada.

WHY RUSSIAN TROOPS MUTINY

Konni Zilliacus relates an incident of a few years ago, doubtless by no means unique, but one of many such, which throws much light upon the causes which have led to the present widespread disaffection, growing untrustworthiness and numerous mutinies among the Russian troops. It was late in 1900. Some petty thefts and other misdemeanors, entirely dissociated from politics, were detected in a Russian university by the students themselves, who thereupon held a meeting, a thousand strong, to consider ways and means for improving the moral tone of the institution. Although the meeting was orderly and quite non-political, it was dispersed by the police. Next day about five hundred of the students met again, to frame a memorial to the authorities. They were promptly "rounded up" by Cossacks, and, for punishment, 200 of them were drafted into the army as common soldiers. Zilliacus speaks of this scathingly, as a degredation of the army to the rank of a penitentiary. It was that, and it was something else still more ominous and menacing. It was an official establishment of a revolutionary propaganda of the most aggressive and effective kind among those very forces upon which autocracy depended for the prevention or suppression of revolution. It was about as distinctly suicidal as any government action could easily be.

For it would be contrary to human nature and to that elementary sense of equity which is so potent among so primitive a people as the Russians to suppose that those involuntary student-soldiers entered the ranks with any affectionate or loyal disposition toward the government which had treated them with such harsh tyranny. On the contrary, we must suppose that, since they were men, and not animals, they had a keen sense of the wrong which had been done to them and a passion of resentment, and that each of them speedily became, in his company and regiment, a force for disaffection and an active centre of revolutionary propaganda against a system under which such oppression was practised. If, as we may assume, the authorities scattered these conscripts about, singly, in different parts of the army and empire, the spirit of revolt was just so much the more widely distributed, and the army was so much the more generally inoculated with the revolutionary virus. Those 200 student-conscripts may well have caused many regiments to be "honeycombed with treason." Moreover, as we have said, that incident was doubtless not solitary. In these last half dozen years, under the malign influence of the Plehves and Bobrikoffs and Pobiedonostseffs and Vladimirs, the number of such missionaries of sedition may well have been swelled to thousands.

Nor was the seed sown upon rocks or amid thorns and thistles, but in good soil, promising a harvest of a hundredfold. Ivan Ivanovitch is not a fool. He was conscripted into the army from the people. His sympathies remain with the people. He does not enjoy seeing his mother flogged, his sister ravished, his brother shot, not even "in the name of the Czar." So long as the Czar was the "Little Father" of the people, Ivan was loyal to him. But "Vladimir's Day" changed all that. The Czar is no more the "Little Father" who is to be supported and obeyed for the people's sake. Now when Ivan is called upon to shoot his own kin and friends he refuses, and, and when his kin and friends appeal to him, saying "Come and help us to become free!" he replies "I will!" That is why the Czar's army is failing him in his direst need, and why Sveaborg, Cronstadt and Sebastopol have become centres of peril instead of bulwarks of safety to the empire. It may be that enough soldiers will remain loyal to the Czar to overcome the revolutionists. But at what cost will such a victory be gained!

ALL-STEEL CARS.

The attention of railroad managers is now being directed to extending the use of steel in passenger car construction. The eventual result will be practically an all-steel car as the usual standard. A compromise steel-and-wood construction car was recently built by the Pressed Steel Car Company for the Southern Railway. The building company has perfected plans for an all-steel passenger car more adapted to general service than those constructed especially for use in the New York subways. Both the Pennsylvania and the Harriman lines are developing designs of their own to this end, while several other railway systems are contemplating a call on the manufacturers for their best endeavor in this direction. There is also some disposition on the part of the government to encourage the greater use of steel in the construction of mail cars, so that the coming year gives promise of affording numerous examples of what shall practically amount to an all-steel construction of passenger cars intended for general service.

Regulations for Yukon Water Power

Permits to Be Issued by Minister and Location Approved by Yukon Commissioners.

Ottawa, August 7.—Owing to the need of the waters of the Yukon lakes and streams for mining, the Government adopted stringent regulations for the use of water for power purposes. The ordinance passed by the Government authorizes the Minister of the Interior to grant a lease of water to develop power for a period of not more than twenty years. Proof must be given of the ability of the applicants to utilize the power. The waste of or failure to utilize the power may be punished by cancellation or reduction. Grants are subject to rights of miners who, at the time of granting, may be working on the stream above or below. The location of the ditch must be approved by the Yukon commissioner, who when power is sold, controls the distribution and price.

Earl Grey's Visit Proved Success

The message reads: "Their Excellencies attended a ball given in their honor last night. This morning's press says it was the most successful function ever held in the island. The Premier and all members of the Cabinet were present. Visit an unqualified success. Their Excellencies join the SS Minto tomorrow."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you, and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, heartlessness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated, all drains cease, and more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. We invite all the afflicted to consult us confidentially and free of charge. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard-earned dollars. WE WILL CURE YOU OR NO PAY.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indigestion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, ignored my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbers in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business, enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will place you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

ing back several paces, and gazing in astonishment upon his betrothed.

"Yes; gentle Rose, miscalled Elmer, is the party. Do you know her?"

"Mrs. Elmer is my laundress. But you never told me that they were the parties!"

"It was inadvertence. I was not aware that I had not named them," said the lady, while her betrothed turned and walked up and down the floor, murmuring within himself:

"Rose, Rose Elmer, Baroness Etheridge! It may turn out so! It may! and if it does——" Here he stole a look at one or two of the family portraits. "And she is wondrously like the family 'a softened image' of those grim old barons! Strange, I never noticed the likeness before! It is certainly very striking! And now, if I should marry for her fortune this Laura whom I do not love, and afterward discover that Swinburne belongs to Rose, whom I do love—why, what a fool I shall have proved myself! I must gain time to see how this will end. I am sure of either of the women—that's a comfort—and I shall marry the Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne, whichever that shall prove to be."

Here he stole a look at Laura.

She was still seated at the table, with her elbows resting on its top, her noble brow supported by her hand, and her large, earnest eyes cast down as in troubled thought. She was ruminating, probably, over the strange phases of her lover's character, as brought out by the crisis.

She raised her eyes to meet his perplexed glance.

"Lady Etheridge," he artfully began, "I think you are right. As we cannot agree upon the proper course to be pursued in this matter of the new claim, as you differ widely from me, it is best, perhaps, that I should leave your conscience untrammelled in this action."

"Oh, Albert Hastings, how much I thank you!" she exclaimed, fervently, dismissing her late distressing doubt as to his integrity of purpose, and cordially holding out her hand to him.

He took it somewhat coldly, pressed it slightly, dropped it, and continued:

"And in order to leave you a moral free agent to act as you please in this affair, it is necessary that I make the great sacrifice of offering to defer our marriage to-day until this matter is finally settled."

She raised her eyes to his with one long, wistful gaze, as though she would have read his soul. And she did read it, and as she saw the dark characters of selfishness and duplicity inscribed therein, her eloquent countenance went through all the changes of astonishment, wonder, doubt and conviction, settling at last into an expression of bitter disappointment, shame, and pain—for him, not for herself—for him, that he should have fallen so far below her estimate of his character.

She had no word of vain reproach for him. She understood at once his whole policy, and in that policy she learned his nature. He had endeavored to persuade her to use her power to crush or buy up a claim, priceless as it was just, and failing to do so, he had determined to postpone their marriage and wait the issue of the contested claim—could any one doubt with what final purpose?

"You do not answer me, Lady Etheridge! Perhaps the proposition is distasteful to you?" he said, indulging himself in a slight touch of irony.

"On the contrary, I thank you for making it, Mr. Hastings. It relieves me for the present, and very much simplifies my course of action," she calmly replied.

"Oh, perdition! I do not wish to break with her finally and entirely. I wish to have it in my power to marry her, should she be confirmed in her present position, which I really think the probable termination of this affair. I must soothe her, and make her understand that our marriage is deferred, not broken off. Nor shall it be broken off unless she is positively proved to be the laundress' daughter," thought Albert Hastings. Then, addressing his betrothed, he said:

"My dearest Laura, you will see that my proposal leaves you free to act as you please in this affair of the contested inheritance, but it does not release you from your marriage engagement, to which, fairest lady, I must still hold you."

She was very pale and firm as she replied:

"Understand me, Albert Hastings. In this great crisis in my life, you propose to defer our marriage. I accept your proposition, and defer our union forever. But you wish to wait the issue of what you consider a doubtful case. I can save you time and trouble by telling you at once what that issue will be. Rose Elmer will be declared Baroness Etheridge, of Swinburne. Mr. Hastings, you are free from this moment forever."

"But, Lady Etheridge! Laura! I cannot and will not consent to your breaking with me in this manner. I only wished to postpone our marriage until——"

"You should know whether I should be confirmed in my inheritance of the title and estates of Swinburne. Pardon me, Albert Hastings, but poor as I have grown within the last few hours, I cannot keep myself attendant upon your pleasure, to be accepted or rejected. You are free, Albert Hastings! so am I. Farewell! The Lord knows, I wish you a better heart and a nobler spirit! Once more, farewell," she said, rising to leave the room.

He seized her hand and forced her to sit down, while, with all the impassioned eloquence of his gifted but perfidious mind he besought her to reconsider her decision—to give him time.

"To what end? To find myself rejected at last, when Rose Elmer shall have been declared to be Lady Etheridge! Oh! Albert Hastings, spare me that humiliation!"

"Laura, you will be sorry for this!" he cried, passionately.

"I know it. I do not pretend to strength, or hardness, or coldness that does not belong to me. I shall be sorry for—for this loss of love. I am sorry even now; but my sorrow is, and shall be, a thing between myself and my Creator. Once more I wish you well, Mr. Hastings. Good-by."

And before he could again prevent her she bowed and left the room.

Mr. Albert Hastings made a gesture of fierce impatience, and began walking rapidly up and down the floor, exclaiming:

"Here is a pretty dilemma! If she should, contrary to her expectations, be confirmed in her possessions? But I must try to prevent that. Her final and entire rejection of me has at least decided my course. Rose Elmer's prospects look well. Now, then, I shall embrace the cause of Rose Elmer. I shall hasten to her side, and persuade her to marry me, before she suspects her good fortune; and then I shall devote time, money and interest to the establishment of her rights."

And so saying, Albert Hastings left the castle, leaving to Lady Etheridge the task of explaining to her guardian the reason why their marriage was broken off.

On leaving the castle ground he took the road to the village, and bent his steps to seek Rose Elmer.

CHAPTER VI.

Lady Etheridge—we will continue to call her by this familiar name until she is legally deprived of it—Lady Etheridge stood where Mr. Hastings had left her, buried in thought, until she was aroused by the sudden recollection that Colonel Hastings was awaiting her in the crimson drawing-room.

Then, calmly and majestically, she left the library, crossed the spacious

A Rare Chance

TO MAKE BIG MONEY

The undersigned has, after much effort, secured a block of stock of the

Chloride Gold Mining Co.

I believe, one of the best mining propositions ever placed on the Canadian market. The capital stock of the Company is $1,000,000, divided into one million shares par value of one dollar each. All stock fully paid and non-assessable, with no personal liability whatever. The Company is splendidly officered, the President and Manager being an experienced practical miner.

The property is situated on Shrum Shrum Mountain, 11-2 miles east of the Town of Chloride, Arizona, and the Jumbo Group, 25 miles distant, 160 acres in all.

I unhesitatingly recommend this stock to my clients, and will be pleased to furnish further information on application. In a few days a full description of the property will appear in these columns. Watch for it.

Sin Against Health

Why the Usefulness of All Organs is Destroyed by Costiveness.

Most important to health and comfort is proper action of the bowels. By nature these organs are intended for the removal of the waste particles of matter which accumulate in the system.

Retain these wastes and you poison the blood, ruin digestion, bring on nervousness and anaemia.

Habitual costiveness is best overcome by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which establish regularity that is exactly consistent with nature.

Not a drastic purgative—not even a pain or sensation of grip, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills are vegetable and free from irritating mineral substances found in so many widely advertised remedies.

In every case Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure and bring sure relief from headache, biliousness and other manifestations of constipation.

Jas. McConnell of Walkerton writes "Since I was comparatively a young man I have not enjoyed real good health.

"My appetite was good and strength kept up, yet I knew something was wrong.

"Frequently I took bilious attacks and violent headaches. My stomach was disordered, skin was murky, under my eyes were heavy dark rings.

"Last winter I read through the 'Poison's almanac and decided my trouble was constipation. I used Dr Hamilton's Pills, and can hardly tell the help they have been. I am now as fresh, strong and well as a boy."

Just try the wonderful magic of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold by all dealers 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

Victoria Park Walk is Fixed.

A great improvement has been effected in the walkway through Victoria Park. The decidedly dangerous broken slat-work walk way leading from Water street to the court house has been quite re-done over, all the former treacherous holes being covered by neatly adjusted slat work boarding. It is to the credit of those performing this onerous public duty that our visitors will neither get legs broken nor carry away an unsatisfied opinion of our city parks.

One Last Chance for Investment

The Little Salmon Mine who are now offering their stock at 40 cents per share, will within a few days withdrawn the sale of such stock. Their property is already well developed and is surrounded by paying mines. This company is no "wild cat" scheme, as its directors are prominent and successful business men who have invested their money and are glad they have done so. Were it not for the want of money to develop their mine, the Little Salmon Mining Company would not offer a share of stock for sale. Now is the golden opportunity to get in at 40 cents per share before the stock soars in price. For full particulars address The Peterborough Brokerage Co., Peterborough.

Work to Begin at Once at C.G.E. Co.

Montreal Company will Start on New Buildings Immediately.

The Dominion Construction Co., of Montreal, has been awarded the contract and will at once begin work upon the large new transformer building of the Canadian General Electric Company in this city. It is said that the buildings and equipment will cost about $250,000.

The building will be 307 feet in length and 100 in width, and will be built with steel beams and superstructure, and a regular factory roof, which will be practically fire proof.

The building will be located just west of the brass foundry and will be equipped with a gallery running down one side and a crane bay, the crane travelling on two tracks.

The crane will be operated by electricity and will be capable of lifting any single piece of machinery up to 80,000 pounds in weight. The steel work and crane will be manufactured by the Canada Foundry Co. of Toronto, while the electrical apparatus will be made by the C.G.E. Company.

Those in authority state that the building will be completed before the snow flies.

A License Question Fix-up.

It is expected that the executive meeting of the local license commissioners held, as noted in yesterday's issue of The Times, regarding a transfer of the license of the Allen House, Simcoe street, from Mr. James Allen to Mrs. Bowman, will be resumed today. It seems that some difficulty exists owing to a misunderstanding between Mr. Allen, proprietor of the hotel and Mr. Watters to whom the actual license was given.

This is a complex affair the key to which is held only by the commissioners who will probably unlock the situation, if they meet today. The commissioners, it is rumored, regret the disquiet they made of this question, and will possibly solve the difficulty by granting the covered license to Mrs. Bowman.

Peterboro Boy Home for Vacation.

Mr. Fred Long an old Peterborough boy, but now of Park Rapids, Minn., is visiting his mother Mrs. Long, Sophia street, east ward. Mr. Long who left here some 14 years ago, is now secretary-treasurer of The Wilson Logging Co., This company has five camps and last year took fourteen million feet of lumber to Minneapolis.

A. B. McBride is Grand Warden.

Yesterday morning the ballots which were marked last May, were counted, and Mr. A. B. McBride of Waterboro, a prominent Oddfellow, has been elected Grand Warden of the I.O.O.F. Mr. McBride had a plurality of over 300. This means that Mr. McBride will shortly write G.M., after his signature.

LOCAL INCIDENTS

By The Times Man on the Street

—The cottages at Chemong are all occupied.

—The Times bids Peterborough visiting Oddfellows a hearty welcome.

—The Queen's Hotel yesterday accommodated 17 of the visiting Oddfellows.

—Times Bookstore for souvenirs, the best and largest assortment in the city.

—"Doc" Shaw and Jack Hopwood swam across Chemong Lake, a distance of over a mile on Monday.

—The visiting Oddfellows are one of the most orderly and thoroughly Canadian lot of fellows that Peterborough has ever had here.

—Direct your friends who are visiting in town to The Times Bookstore for souvenirs, views of all places of interest hand-printed on each.

—Last night a practice drill was held by the brigade. The new fire engine was given a thorough test, with one, two and three lines of hose.

—Yesterday more than the century mark was reached by the Oriental Hotel, as over 100 registered there during the day.

—Yesterday afternoon there was a nice little work out at the local track. Harry Nesbett's flyer, "Harry Direct" stepped the mile in 17 1-4 and then looked around innocently to see where the other horse was at.

—One good characteristic of our hundreds of visitors was to be taken out of a remark made yesterday by a local boniface. He said, "Well, it's a fine bunch of men but there's not much money for the bars. Still I'm glad to have such men in town."

Rolling Mills for Peterboro

That Peterborough is destined to be a large manufacturing center is daily proven. Yesterday Mr. Fred D. Mauss, manager of the new steel rolling mills, which will locate here in case the city complies with their request arrived in the city from Newcastle, Indiana. The Newcastle Courier, of that city says:

"Fred P. Mauss, the well known superintendent of the Indiana Rolling Mill, has tendered his resignation to the company, to take effect next week, for the reason that he has accepted the general manager's slip for a new company recently organized, with a capital stock of $200,000, near Toronto, Canada. He will leave next week for his new home and place of business and at once assume full charge of the construction of a big steel mill in which Eastern capitalists are interested.

"Mr. Mauss has been engaged in the steel mill industry all his life, and is a recognized authority on all questions pertaining to any branch of the business. Mr. Mauss has been the superintendent of the local mill ever since they were put into operation and his ability is well known to everyone. Henry Mauss will join his father in about three weeks and Frank will go in about two months. George and John Mauss will remain here. The entire male side of the Mauss family is made up altogether of rolling mill experts. They all like the business and will stick to it for all time to come.

"It will be with regret, both on the part of Mr. Mauss and on the part of Newcastle citizens generally over the departure which will take place next week. Mr. Mauss is well known, popular among the rolling mill employes, his neighbors and acquaintances, and has the esteem of a great many warm friends in all walks of Newcastle society, and for that reason every one will express regret when it comes time to leave. Mrs. Mauss, as her husband, is well known and highly regarded, and she, too, will be missed."

Shovel Company are Building.

Work has begun upon the Peterborough Shovel Company's new warehouse on Rink street. The building will be 100 by 40 feet inside and one story high. It will be made of solid brick and is badly wanted owing to the rapidly growing business of this new Peterborough industry.

Cops Arrive too Late.

Yesterday afternoon P.C. McGinty and P.C. Newball, in response to a complaint laid at the police station hustled over to the East Ward to gather in a number of tramps, said to be localled, incidentally with a good supply of beer, near Burnhams. When the officers arrived the Sons of Rest and Beer Besiegers had fled.

Eminent Doctors Praise Its Ingredients.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "In Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says. "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhœa; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhœa (suppressed or absent monthly periods), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anæmic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

Shot Five Japanese While Skinning Seal

American Officials Trapped the Raiders of Seal Rookeries, but They Refused to Surrender.

New York, Aug. 9.—A special despatch to the Herald from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, says:—Five Japanese were shot and killed on the island of Paul, of the Pribiloff group, by order of the agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor on July 17, the result of a raid by four Japanese schooners on the seal rookeries. The revenue cutter McCullough reached here yesterday from St. Paul with twelve prisoners, two seriously wounded, who were turned over to Deputy Marshal Harmon.

SKINNING THE SEAL.

The raiders were discovered lying near Northwest Point, St. Paul, by native lookouts of the North American Commercial Company, which leases the seal privilege from the government. Word was telephoned from the patrol station near the rookery, for which the raiders were aiming, and the special agent, Lemke, of the Department of Commerce on duty in the Pribiloff Islands, arrived on the spot as the Japanese reached shore. He ordered the boat crew to surrender, which they did.

On climbing the promontory at the end of the cape, overlooking one of the larger rookeries a schooner was seen close on shore. Looking straight down the cliff, the patrol saw a dozen or more Japanese skinning a great number of seal, which had been slaughtered indiscriminately. The raiders refused to surrender when Lemke reached the scene and tried to make off with their booty in small boats, several of which were drawn up on shore.

NATIVES OPENED FIRE.

The agent then ordered his guard of natives to open fire.

The Japanese offered no resistance, being without firearms. Three of the raiders fell dead on the beach, a fourth was seen to be thrown overboard from one of the boats that escaped, and a fifth body drifted in shore later on one boat.

The men had killed more than 200 seals, many of them cows. Those who escaped carried away about 120 skins.

The raid is believed to have been a concerted effort by the Japanese who have been hanging around the island for months, and giving the revenue cutter much trouble.

The raid is the most serious that has ever occurred in the troubled history of the rookeries. Many prisoners were taken just after the raid, but were allowed to return to their vessels, as the guard was considered insufficient to control so many. Two prisoners buried their own lead on the beach.

Dr. Ed. Hatton is Now Home

One of Peterborough's older and best known sons, in the person of Dr. Ed. F. Hatton, brother of Mr. Geo. W. Hatton, the local barrister, is in the city on a visit.

Dr. Hatton, who left Peterborough about twenty-five years ago, and resides at St. George, Grenada, West Indies, and is senior medical officer for the administration, and a member of the legislative council there, will be generally welcomed by a host of friends in this city.

Dr. Hatton has no sinecure in that tropical isle, as he looks after the insane asylum, house of refuge and gaol. Grenada is the seat of government for the group of Windward Islands, composed of St. Vincent, St. Lucia and Grenada.

He has just been on a trip to Sugland and Scotland, with Mrs. Hatton and next week will attend the British Medical Association gathering in Toronto.

If Dr. "Ed." does not have blisters on his right hand as a consequence of shaking hands with old friends, his manual epidermis must be case-hardened.

Trouble Between Spain ans Vatican

Cardinal Merry del Val Said to Have Caused Resignation of Spanish Ambassador.

Rome, August 9.—The Marquis of Tovar, Spanish ambassador to the Vatican, has resigned, owing to friction with Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, who ignored him, and in spite of his protests treated directly with Madrid. The marquis showed his resentment by staying away from Rome almost a year.

The papal secretary is blamed for provoking difficulties relating to marriages and cemeteries and for causing a diplomatic crisis as the Marquis of Tovar's colleagues refuse to accept his post. Your correspondent is informed that the pope is worried over the present unprecedented troubles with Spain and may write a personal letter to King Alfonso in order to smooth matters over. This is not regarded as exactly dignified, but it seems to be the only way out of the difficulty.

Drowned While Working on River.

Grand Mere, August 9.—Joseph Lacourse was drowned here while at work on the river with two other men. The three were on a raft when a wave swept over the raft and they were carried into the water. Two of the men were saved, but Lacourse went down before he could be given assistance.

This is Circus Day Barnum & Bailey Here

Arrival in Peterboro of the Colossal Show—Now on the Driving Park.

This is circus day.

But who needs to be reminded of that fact? There is something in the very air of circus day that breathes of sawdust, and spangles, and red lemonade, and elephants, and laughing hyenas, and acrobats, and airy, fairy riders, and a thousand other things associated in dreams and in reality with the white tents.

To be sure, there are circus days and circus days. There is the circus day that brings the little two-by-four ring show that an avalanche of gaudy preliminary billing has promised to be the "most colossal aggregation of wonders that the world has ever looked upon," and which is simply ridiculous because it is so different. There is too, the circus day that brings the show that, on a modest scale, honestly lives up to its pretensions. But after all, there is only one really big circus day, and that is when the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth comes to town. And that is not surprising, in view of the magnitude of this great amusement institution.

To any one who really cares to study the difference between this and other shows, there will never be a better opportunity than will be afforded today. Only, to see it all—to make a fair and just estimate of the resources of the show, and in that way be prepared to make the inevitable comparison—the student must have got up very early this morning. If he did so, he saw some surprising things suggestive of magnitude. He saw down in the railroad yards, five long trains of double length cars filled with the paraphernalia of the show; he saw wagon after wagon unloaded and started with their splendid half-Percheron teams toward the show grounds; he saw thirty elephants and twenty camels lope down the runways of their big box cars, and he remarked nearly fifty dens of other animlas line up for the procession to the lot. A little later, when he goes out to the show ground, he will see the contents of those great wagons metamorphosed into mammoth pavilions; he will see a vast hippodrome tent with seats for 14,000 persons, and furnished with opera chairs and all the comforts of a modern theatre; he will see a world of aerial rigging on which a great company of mid-air performers will give a series of startling acts; he will see three rings and two stages which hundreds of riders and acrobats and specialists from all parts of the world will utilize to present at the afternoon and night performances the very limit of arenic accomplishments; he will see the remarkable apparatus used by Miss Isabelle Butler in the "Dip of Death," and the Roller Brothers in their startling bicycle "thriller," the "Two Twists of Terror;" he will find in the adjoining pavilion, which is in itself larger than the main tent of any other circus, the most complete collection of wild animals in America, including four specimens of the almost extinct giraffe and the only bi-horned rhinoceros in America; and in the stables he will discover over five hundred horses of almost priceless value. If these things do not satisfy him in regard to the surpassing magnitude of the show, he is past conviction, or, worse still, a dyspeptic.

Owing to the magnitude of this year's show the street parade has been dispensed with, and the excitements of circus day will really begin with a remarkable interesting free show on the exhibition grounds between 10.30 and 11 o'clock. This performance, which will be given by Prince Youfurkey, a Japanese, and one of the cleverest high wire gymnasts ever seen in America, will be repeated at 5 P.M. There is absolutely no charge for it.

The first performance will begin at 2 o'clock, and the final one at 8 P.M. Doors will be open one hour previously to afford visitors an opportunity to visit the menagerie, to enjoy the performance of the Scandinavian gypsy musicians and dancers, the clever feats of the Gulliver Lilliputians and study the massive proportions of the Welsh giant and the Finnish gianticos. The spectacle, "Peace," begins promptly at 2 and 8. Owing to the vast amount of parahpernalia used in their performances, and the time required to remove it, the automobile and other big sensational acts will be given in the early part of the program.

Reserved and box seats will be on sale all day at Madill's Oak Hall Drug Store and on the Exhibition Grounds at the opening hours.

Lieut.-Col. Edwards is Honored

A fitting tribute was paid to Lt.-Col. E. B. Edwards, when the cottagers and campers at Stony Lake recognized in a tangible manner the regret they felt over this well known officer's departure for the North-West.

Mr. Sutherland, occupied the chair while Mr. Jas. Acton read the address, which was as follows.

Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards.

Dear Sir,—It is with feelings of deepest regret that we, as cottagers and campers on Stony Lake, have learned on your intended removal to such a distance.

In the many years that have passed since you first camped on these waters you have been identified with every movement that has had for its object the preservation and enhancement of its matchless natural attractions. At the cost, from time to time of considerable personal inconvenience and expense you have given yourself enthusiastically to the task of maintaining in all its primitive grandeur and simplicity, surroundings that have appealed and will continue to appeal so strongly to all who can appreciate nature's matchless charms.

We feel that, apart from personal and social qualities that have won the esteem of all who have been brought in contact with you, many of us, as more or less permanent residents or frequenters of the lake, will miss your unselfish interest and your wise counsel.

We wish, however, that your face may not become altogether unfamiliar to the haunts you have loved so well, but that on the contrary, the recollection of the fact that you have a warm spot in the hearts of those who summer at Stony Lake may be a lodestone that will counteract occasionally at least, the many difficulties that you must encounter when you are making your new home in our great, far west. We desire to assure you that you carry with you our warmest wishes for your continued prosperity, and happiness in the new sphere upon which you have entered, while we feel sure your sterling qualities will win for you, in time, as large a place as you hold in the esteem of your many friends among none of whom you will be more surely missed than by the cottagers and campers of Stony Lake.

Col. Edwards responded in feeling and appropriate words.

The evening was wound up by singing music, and such entertainment as usually characterizes such gatherings.

PREPARING HAUL BIG WHEAT CROP

Canadian Pacific Has Made Many Improvements in Its Western Lines

MUCH NEW ROLLING STOCK

Already Wheat Cutting Has Been Begun in the Prince Albert District.

Montreal, August 8.—The C.P.R. has plans already well under way for handling the big wheat crop of the western country. By the time the grain has been threshed and stored in the elevators along the different roads, the company expect to have added to its rolling stock a hundred new engines and 4,000 cars, all of which will be used to haul the crop to the sea. Further than that the roadbed all along the main line, and particularly between Winnipeg and Fort William, has been regarded and improved in the hope of preventing the usual congestion of traffic. Double tracking the section of the road between Winnipeg and Lake Superior was commenced last year and is now in condition to handle 1,500 tons in place of 500 ton loads last year. From Winnipeg west to Regina and even as far as Moose Jaw, the curves have been straightened out and the track over the whole prairie section ballasted anew and put into thorough running shape. The big grade at Medicine Hat up which it was necessary to use two engines to pull the freight and passenger trains has been regraded to such an extent that freight trains weighing many more tons than formerly could have been pulled up with two locomotives, can now be handled with one.

HARVESTING BEGUN.

The first cutting of the crop started in the Prince Albert district yesterday, and it is expected that the average will run up to thirty bushels per acre. There has been no damage from either rust or fly so far, and if the weather conditions continue favorable, an excellent crop will be harvested all over the district. Further west the grain is not so far advanced, but in just as good condition all around Northern Saskatchewan.

A western report says:—"There is evidently some powerful element concerned in spreading the impression that the yield of the wheat fields will be very much smaller than is indicated by reports from other interests."

WAGES HIGH IN THE WEST

Some Farmers are Paying $50 Per Month for Harvesters.

Scarcity of labor of all kinds in the West has materially added thousands to the field already to get relief pay for what they are doing. All the railway construction work now in progress and the harvest just coming on calls for a large army of unskilled laborers, and so great is the demand that farmers and ranchers are willing to pay much higher prices than formerly. A year ago fifty dollars a month with board for help on a farm or ranch was unheard of. Today it is reported that farmers are paying that price right and left for men to help them with their crops. Fifty dollars, however, is probably more the exception than the rule, forty to forty-five dollars with board being about as high as most farmers care to go.

Two dollars to $2.25 a day is the usual rate of pay for unskilled labor in the City of Winnipeg; $1.50 to $1.75 for railway trackmen, and $45.00 per month is usual compensation for teamsters and men of that class. A great number of the foreigners who were sent west to do grading for railways are said to have left their jobs and taken up land or gone to work on the farms, and this considered as only a matter of time when the keen competition between the C. P. R., G. T. P. and the C. N. R. will force a general increase in wages all round. It is said that over the Rockies, particularly on the western slope, Japanese and Chinese are being used to a large extent in railway repair and construction work.

Local Man Sued For a Wife's Love

Mr. H. G. Waters, who is supposed to hold the license of the Allen House on Simcoe street, has taken out a writ against Jas. Allen of that hotel, for $10,000, for alleged alienation of his (Waters') wife's affections. The writ, in part, is as follows,

"The plaintiff's claim is $10,000 damages caused to the defendant by reason of the defendant having alienated the affections of Gertrude Flora Waters, wife of the plaintiff, and having caused her to desert the plaintiff, her husband, and for wrongfully harboring and wrongfully enticing away the wife of the said plaintiff against his and without his consent, and for criminal conversation with the said Gertrude Flora Waters, the wife of the said plaintiff."

The writ has been filed in the local registry office.

Mrs. Bowman Gets The License

Local Commissioners Decide to Transfer Under Certain Conditions.

The License Commissioners of West Peterborough, have after mature deliberation decided to transfer the license of the Allen (or G.T.R.) Hotel, Simcoe street, to Mrs. W. Bowman, lately proprietress of the Oxford House, but upon certain specified conditions. These conditions are of course a matter of detail that are hardly of public interest, further than being such as will ensure the travelling public better accommodations, and making this hotel comply with the spirit of the present liquor law.

Mrs. Bowman who has managed the Oxford House for some six years with satisfaction to the commissioners and the public, will doubtless conduct an orderly and admirable stand when granted the license.

Barrie Was Well Represented

Yesterday a large number of local citizens, including press representatives, a noon awaited arrival of the special excursion train from Barrie. The excursion train consisted of 11 coaches and conveyed nearly 600 picnickers.

The committee in charge were: J. Sykes, chairman, A. W. Bell, Wm. Bunn, Herbert Robertson, and John Penny, who made arrangements whereby the excursionists were taken over the lift lock in the steamer Water Lily.

Clinton Wray Moralizes on Gambling

Money Dishonestly Gained Never Does One Any Good, He Says---Has Felt Like a Hunted Man For Years.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—Clinton D. Wray, who has admitted that he had taken $125,000 from the Union Trust Company of Pittsburg, Pa., was in a moralizing mood yesterday morning when he was brought into Sergeant Duncan's office.

"I have not had the same peace and content of mind since I took the money as I have today. The long anxiety is over. I knew it was only a question of time until I was caught, and now I am going back to take the punishment for what I did.

"I have led a pretty fast life in my time, and there never seen a single case where money got dishonestly ever turns to anything. No one can succeed with stolen money."

Wray spoke also of his gambling experiences.

"I had what I considered good tips on the fluctuations of the market, and at the rate I was going would have been a millionaire in a short time—had the tips turned out all right. So with my bucket shop experiences."

"Five hundred thousand dollars in a strange city does not give as much happiness as $10 a week in Toronto," said Wray.

The $10 was not a chance amount for on the afternoon of the day on which he was arrested the cashier of one of the largest monetary institutions in the State of Pennsylvania was to meet the manager of a department store in Toronto, and complete an agreement to work in the cashier's office at $12 a week.

"With his money I had decided to live quietly in Toronto, under an assumed name, and honestly, letting the past be buried.

When Wray's rooms were searched in Pittsburg a number of pawn tickets were found and nineteen more have been secured in his boarding house on Victoria street. All these are for diamonds pawned in Pittsburg. The pawn ticket found here represent a value of $15,000 and it is believed that $20,000 in all will be recovered from the jewelry than this no long more remains of the $125,000.

Wray says the he stole the money first in order to support the Loughrey woman.

Grace Loughrey, who was arrested with Wray, was allowed her liberty yesterday, and left for the States at nine o'clock in the morning. She comes from a wealthy family near Pittsburg, and claims that she did not know that it was stolen money the Wray was spending on her in Pittsburg.

"I was with him in wealth and I was going to stick by him when he was poor," she declared.

She was true to her word.

Of the $73 found on her yesterday Sergt. Duncan gave her back one dollar in the afternoon. Last night she returned and asked if she would be allowed to get a pair of pure silk socks for Wray, spending all she had. The request was refused, but she was given back the rest of the money.

"We had no right to it, as the woman was not referred to in our information from Pittsburg," explained Sergeant Duncan.

Miss Loughrey asked that the two private detectives should not be told where she boarded, and his was granted.

A careful search of the room where the two boarded failed to reveal a single cent of the big sum that Wray had stolen.

Owing to the absence of Judge Winchester on his vacation and Judge Morson both being out of the city, the prison was not brought up yesterday for examination, but will come up this morning.

He will waive proceedings and be taken back to stand his trial by the two detectives, whose status is the same as that of regular members of municipal police forces.

Took Poison While Temporarily Insane

Mrs. J. J. Armstrong of Toronto Committed Suicide at Kirk's Hotel, Waterdown, Near Hamilton.

Hamilton, Aug. 8.—A most pitiful scene was enacted at the inquest at Waterdown last night in connection with the death of Mrs. James J. Armstrong, the Toronto woman who suicided at Kirk's Hotel on Saturday. Her husband, who is superintendent of the Ormsby Roofing Company, Toronto, did not learn of her death until one o'clock yesterday afternoon, and immediately went to Dundas. He almost broke down when shown the body. At the inquest he swore they never had any domestic trouble, and that while he was on business in Owen Sound and Peterborough, he thought she was visiting relatives in Michigan.

Mrs. Armstrong was staying with friends at Dundas, but left there on foot on Friday, going as far as to Kirk's Hotel at Waterdown Saturday afternoon by a man who had probably found her on the road, and given her a lift. Later she was found suffering from the effects of carbolic acid she had taken, and although a physician was called immediately, he could not save her life.

She left two rambling notes. One was addressed to Charles Newman Bathurst street, city, and commences "Dear Father," it is simply a statement that she was going to commit suicide, and request of her father to take charge of her body. The other note was addressed to J. J. Armstrong, who is supposed to be her husband, but was not signed. It stated that she loved him so much that she was going to end her life to free him from blame. It was a very confusing statement.

Insanity is believed to have been the cause of her action.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by poison, self-administered.

Jap Troops at Korean Palace

Report That Emperor is Being Dominated by Mikado's Men.

Victoria, B. C., August 8.—The steamer Athenian, just arrived from Japan, brought news of further Japanese action to force Korea into subjection as a protectorate of Japan in furtherance of the treat executed, it is alleged by force last November. Japanese troops have been placed in charge of the Korean palace. Following the occupation of the palace by the Japanese troops, Marquis Ito demanded an audience with the Emperor and they were together five hours. Immediately afterward orders were issued by the Emperor, obviously by Japanese domination, for court reform.

Large Bass Caught in Georgian Bay.

Clark, of the Temple & Pattison Company, shipped to Toronto yesterday from Honey Harbor, one of the largest black bass ever caught in Georgian Bay. The fish weighed exactly six pounds nine ounces. It was caught on a hook and line and fought desperately before the sportsmen were able to play it into position to land the monster into the boat.

DEBS PREACHES ANARCHY

Declares That Accused Murderers Must be Liberated If Revolution is Necessary.

St. Louis, August 8.—Eugene V. Debs, former Presidential candidate on the Socialist ticket, today in a speech at Riverside Park, caused a stir among the workingmen of St. Louis and Illinois, when he advised all workingman of the United States to assist in the freeing of Charles Moyer, W. D. Haywood and George A. Pettibone, the three Denver miners confined in jail in Idaho, at any cost, even if it took a revolution to free them.

"More than a million workingmen in the United States will rise up and demand that these men be liberated," said Mr. Debs. "I will be at the head of this million to assist in liberating them, by bloodshed if necessary, but peacefully if possible."

The occasion for the speech made by Debs was a meeting of the Moyer-Haywood Defence Organization of St. Louis.

WILL THE CZAR ABDICATE?

New York, Aug. 9.—A cable despatch to a morning paper from Vienna says:—It is rumored that it is the Czar's intention to abdicate. The re-circulation of this report is ascribed to the reactionary councillors violently opposing Premier Goremykin's reform scheme, which the Czar supports. The story adds that the Czar will appoint Grand Dukes Vladimir and Nicholas Nicholaievitch as co-regents.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 9. — Premier Stolypin has gone to Peterhof to secure the Emperor's approval of the appointments of Prince Vassilichkoff as Minister of Agriculture, M. Filosoff as Minister of Commerce, and N. Iswolsky, brother of the Foreign Minister, as Procurator-General of the Holy Synod. Prince Vassilichkoff is a marshall of the nobility of Novgorod. M. Filosoff was Controller of the Empire under Count Witte. M. Iswolsky is now Russian Minister of Education.

Notwithstanding the improvement in the situation produced by the collapse of the strike, The Novoe Vremya announces that it is still the intention of the Emperor to place Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch in immediate command of the whole army, concentrating the direct authority over the troops composing each separate corps and division in his hands.

Warsaw, Aug. 9.—The terrorists are continually attacking and robbing post offices, Government spirit shops treasuries and the mails. The governor general has ordered that henceforth the inhabitants of villages, communities and cities in or near where such crimes occur shall pay the losses resulting from such robberies.

WHY SO WEARY?

Always Restless and Weak Isn't Natural—But It's Dangerous.

You have to work hard. This uses up lost of nerve force and tears down the body faster than it can build up.

The result is a half-dead feeling you can't shake off. The water in your blood must be turned into nutriment and building material.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which renews the blood and nerves, and makes each organ do the work that nature expects of it.

Ferrozone quickly increases your weight, brings appetite and healthy color, instills a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, debility, or sickness of any kind.

The enormous strengthening power of Ferrozone is proved in the case of Mrs. Edward Hill, of Orr Lake, Ont., who says:

"Two years ago I had a nervous breakdown. At night I tossed restlessly in bed, unable to get any rest from sleep. In the morning I suffered from over-powering weakness. My appetite was poor. I grew pale, thin and despondent. A slight hacking cough also added to my burden.

"My doctor said to try Ferrozone, and it did me good in a few days. I increased in strength, the nervous sensations disappeared, and with my appetite came back my color and good spirits. I have gained over ten pounds in weight, and as my age is 58, I consider Ferrozone is a marvel." (Signed) Mrs. Edward Hill.

REMEMBER THIS Ferrozone is a true tonic—not an alcoholic stimulant. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box for fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

RICH NEW YORKERS' MORALS.

The simple, earnest statement of a good woman during the trial of the Corey divorce case has attracted as much attention, the country over, as the circumstances which made the proceedings necessary. When the court took up the question of the disposal of Mr. and Mrs. Corey's son the sister of the steel magnate was called to the witness stand. Asked whether her brother was a proper custodian for his own son she answered simply that no wealthy New York man was fit to have charge of a boy of sixteen.

Speaking doubtless without much personal knowledge of the subject, her woman's instinct led her to the truth. While her statement is much too broad to be taken literally, it is, in a general sense, correct. The life of the wealthy men of New York is, in many cases, emphatically fast. Often it is vicious, as some of the recent scandals in the metropolis have shown. Late hours, costly midnight dinners, free-and-easy champagne parties, automobile excursions and a general lavish expenditure of money for physical pleasures do not combine to form a good standard of living for a boy under twenty years of age to contemplate.

The New York Sun takes exception to the statement of Mr. Corey's sister. It maintains that the men of money who have given New York its bad name are not New Yorkers but came to it from other cities and that the real wealthy New Yorker is, as a rule, a man of culture and refinement. True. But what would be left of New York if the so-called outsiders departed from Manhattan Island?

New York is the financial center of the Republic, and it must accept the evil as well as the good which goes with that distinction.

ENGLISH DEGENERACY.

The class of Englishmen who follow the plow, work the mills, and dig the ditches and excavations of the land, the class which Goldsmith called "its country's pride," is said by the London Daily News to be decaying in physical stamina. It is from this class that the legions of the Empire are recruited; and the fact of this gradual dwindling of bone and thew and sinew in the adult Englishman is indicated by the enlistment returns, which present a social problem of most serious import to British statesmen. From these returns we learn, according to the journal cited, that while thousands are willing to join the colors, not one in three desiring to enlist are passed by the military doctors as suitable for the service. This unfitness is due, the writer declares, to the social conditions under which the classes live from which British soldiers are usually drawn. He says: "How far this state of things is due to lack of food and general poverty of surroundings in childhood is a subject of inquiry. Moreover, if a third of those who would enlist into the army lack the stamina which the army standard demands, how can they be deemed efficient for the purpose of civil work? We have, therefore, a picture of 30,000 youths, whom the recruiting sergeant would gladly snap up, being thrown back in one year with a stamp of physical inefficiency. At the same time it must be remembered that army rejection is but one means by which we may measure the physical degeneration of our race. Perhaps there is nothing else that places this degeneration in so startling a light. It reminds us that the only truly imperial question is the social question.

Mr. Wm. Hales Has Passed Away

Well Known and Respected Resident of Burleigh is Dead.

The many friends, both in this city and county, of Mr. Wm. Hales, Burleigh Township, will sincerely regret to hear of his death.

Mr. Hales was one of the best known and highly respected residents of this county, and his death will be keenly felt by a large circle of friends.

The late Mr. Hales, who died at his residence, Apsley, on July 27th, was born in Hunkerford, Hastings County, in 1830, and in 1865 was married to Mary Jane Kearns, who survives him. During his life Mr. Hales resided at Colborne, Gore's Landing and Otonabee, removing to Burleigh in the year 1867.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and four children, viz.: John Waldron, of this city; William Watson, of Assiniboia, and two daughters, Mrs. A. Brown, of New Ontario; Miss Mary Ann, at home, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Hales; also numerous grandchildren. The deceased was a member of the Methodist church, and a member of L. O. L. No. 1072

The funeral services at the church, held on Sunday, July 29th, were attended by a large number of mourners, Rev. Mr. Bedford, of Lakefield, officiating. The Orangemen of that district carried the body to the grave, where Rev. Mr. Lord, chaplain of the Orange Lodge, completed the last sad rites.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Handed Out 200 Tens for $200

Unique Case at Tor. Junction Where Man is Supposed to Have Received $1,800 More Than Check Called for.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—A Provincial detective is assisting a Toronto Junction branch bank in locating a missing thousand dollars, or a thousand that is supposed to be missing. The teller says it is there, and he adds that he paid out the money he ought to know. Then, too, the books and cash tell the same story, and the bookkeeper is able to testify on the subject. The story connected with the case is a most unusual one.

According to the information given a Junction man presented a check for $200 at this Junction branch, and after receiving an amount from the paying teller, went away. A little later, a little girl appeared, with $800 and this message: "Father says you gave him too much money."

Then the incident was discussed by the bank staff, and in the discussion the teller said he had paid out $2,000, and a possible misunderstanding revealed itself as an explanation.

"When the check was presented," the teller remarked to the ledgerkeeper, "you said to me, 'Two hundred tens,' so I handed out $2,000."

"I did not say that," disputed the ledgerkeeper. "What I did say was 'Two hundred and ten, $200.'"

The teller was convinced that $2,000 had gone from his funds. Only $800 of the $1,800 excess was returned. Then began a hunt for the difference—a cool thousand. The customer adhered to his thousand-dollar story, and this made the complication ever more tangled. Attorney-General Foy's department was notified, and an inspector took up the case. He is still at work on it.

As may be imagined, there is agitation in the breast of the teller, and probably his fellow-clerk is also ill at ease. In most banks, at least, the person responsible for a discrepancy is asked to make it good. In the present instance, the teller is responsible, as he ought not to have taken anyone's word as to the amount of the denomination of the bills. The check was there to speak for itself. However generous his salary may be, a thousand dollar deduction is likely to make itself felt on his stipend. As to his colleague's connection with the matter, the manager may have to rule on that nice point, though the teller seems the one destined to bear the brunt of the complication and the resultant loss. Of course, should the detective take definite action, or should the absent guests return, the situation may improve in simplicity, while still leaving one or more mysteries

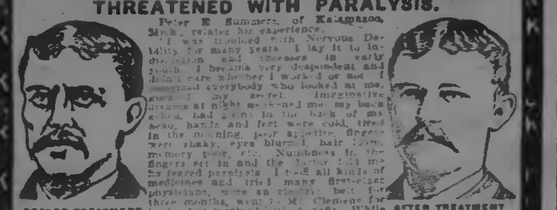
THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.



Peter E Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indigestion and disease is easily brought on. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night awakened me. My back ached. Had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair came, memory poor, etc. Nervousness in the fingers set in and the thumb and first finger persisted. I tried all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, some as specialists, but for three months, went to Mr. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While after treatment at Mr. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining, if not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to make is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. hall, and entered the presence of her guardian.

She found him reclining indolently in a lounge chair; but on seeing her enter he arose and came forward to meet her, with some gay salutation on his lips, when the marble whiteness of her face and the stern rigidity of her features startled him.

"Good Heaven, Lady Etheridge, what has happened?" he exclaimed, taking her hand and putting her into an easy-chair.

"The marriage intended between Mr. Hastings and myself is broken off by mutual consent," replied the lady, quietly.

"The marriage between yourself and Albert Hastings broken off, Lady Etheridge! You astound me! And at the last moment, too! It cannot be so! It is madness! just madness!" exclaimed Colonel Hastings.

"I have," she replied, "only just made a discovery of which I felt in honor bound to inform Mr. Hastings, leaving it to his discretion, under the new circumstances, to complete or not our marriage engagement. He proposed a middle course—to postpone our wedding and wait for events. I could not accept his proposal, and so, as I told you, our marriage engagement has been broken off by mutual consent."

"A discovery! What discovery can be so important as to cause the postponement or annulment of your betrothal, even at the last moment! Lady Etheridge, as your oldest friend and your late guardian, I should have been the first to be informed of this difficulty," said Colonel Hastings, in an excess of agitation, that scarcely seemed justified, even by the grave importance of a broken marriage.

"I deemed my affianced husband to be the proper person to be first advised of a discovery that so deeply affected my circumstances and his interests."

"In Heaven's name, Lady Etheridge, what is the nature of this discovery?" inquired Colonel Hastings, moving about restlessly, and scarcely able to restrain his agitation.

"It is simply that I, called Laura Etheridge, am not the heiress of Swinburne!"

The effect this announcement had upon Colonel Hastings could scarcely be explained as astonishment, doubt or disappointment. It seemed rather the consternation, terror and dismay of detected guilt. He dropped into a chair, wiped the cold drops of perspiration from his blanched face, made several ineffectual attempts to speak, and then gasped forth:

"For Heaven's sake, tell me! How did the existence of this other heir come to your knowledge?"

"By the confession of the nurse, to whom was confided the care of the infant heiress of Swinburne, and who, alas! was tempted to betray her trust, and palm off upon the wifeless baron her own child as his daughter."

"What!" exclaimed Colonel Hastings, in perplexity, but losing a portion of the abject terror that had lately and unaccountably shaken him.

"It is a sad story for me to tell! It compels my tongue to the unkind task of disinheriting myself, and to the harder and more cruel one of criminating my mother."

Lady Etheridge commenced and narrated the whole story as she had received it from the nurse.

Colonel Hastings, as he listened, grew graver and graver, and when she had concluded, he paused a long time in deep thought, and then said:

"Lady Etheridge, I know you well enough to be sure that if once you suppose the claims of another to be just, however opposed to your own interests those claims may be, you will at once admit them. I must see this woman, and, as a magistrate, I must take her statement officially, upon oath; and, as you say awkward as it may be—your marriage with my son must be postponed."

"Our engagement, Colonel Hastings, must be annulled," said Lady Etheridge, with gentle dignity.

"Well, well. We will talk of that at some future time. Meanwhile, we will direct good Mrs. Montgomery to explain to our friends that, from unforeseen circumstances, the marriage is necessarily put off, and we will go together to Mrs. Elmer's cottage, where I will cross-examine her," said the colonel, rising and touching the bell.

A footman answered the summons.

"Desire Mrs. Montgomery to come hither, and then order the horses to be put to the close carriage, and brought round immediately," said Colonel Hastings.

The man bowed and retired; and in a few moments the door opened, and a tall, dignified, elderly lady, attired in a black satin dress and white lace turban, entered the room.

"Good-morning, Mrs. Montgomery. We have ventured to request your presence here upon rather a sorrowful occasion. We have just received intelligence that an old and intimate friend of our family is lying at the point of death. This necessitates a temporary postponement of the marriage, as Lady Etheridge and myself must immediately repair to the deathbed of our friend. You will, therefore, Mrs. Montgomery, be so good as to take upon yourself the task of explaining to those friends who intend to honor our breakfast, the sad reason why our festivity is deferred," said Colonel Hastings.

To say that Mrs. Montgomery was thunderstruck at this announcement would give the reader but a faint idea of its effect upon her. She was stricken dumb for at least two minutes; but on recovering her speech, she set her tongue at work, "to make fast atonement for its first delay." Colonel Hastings, however, at once cut her short by observing that Lady Etheridge had not a moment to spare, as death was no respecter of persons, and would not wait for the mightiest on earth. And then, with the stately courtesy of the olden time, he conducted his ward to the door of her dressing-room.

And in half an hour afterward Colonel Hastings and Lady Etheridge were rolling along in the close carriage on their way to the house of the laundress.

The sick woman lay where Lady Etheridge had left her some hours before. She was attended by Rose and a neighbor, who watched with her.

The eyes of the visitors turned first upon Rose a glance of inquiry, to see whether as yet she knew or suspected the possible great fortune in store for her.

But no; that drooping form, pale face, and those tearful eyes spoke of anything rather than of pleasure and unexpected triumph.

Laura then advanced to greet the maiden, who was about to respectfully curtsey to the baroness, who immediately presented her to Colonel Hastings. And it must be admitted that the cunning old courtier bowed to the possible future Lady Etheridge, of Swinburne.

The neighbor arose, made her obeisance, and gave way to the distinguished visitors.

As Laura took the place by the head of the bed, the sleeping woman awoke, and seeing her, said:

"Ah, you have returned, as you promised! I knew you would, Laura! Laura! take my hand, my child. Forget your past grandeur, or regard it only as a brilliant dream, and take my hand, my child. I will not ask it long. Are we alone?"

"No, mother; Rose is here, and one of your neighbors."

"Send them away."

Laura arose and spoke to Rose and to the neighbor, both of whom immediately left the house. Then she returned to the bedside of the sick woman, who again eagerly clasped and held her hand, saying:

"Oh, Laura! Laura! do not feel coldly toward me. Let me have the comfort of my child's affection in the last few hours of my life. Oh, Laura! Laura! all those years my heart has

Beware of Mercury

You May Be Using This Harmful Drug and Not Know it.

A favorite method of administering this deleterious drug is in cathartic pills. Beware of "quick-result" articles, they may do more harm than good.

Drastic cathartics will weaken the strongest. With old people they are a positive menace to life.

Merely to restore normal bowel action and gently stimulate the liver is all that the wise physician recommends.

To keep the system pure and clean, nothing is so effectious as the vegetable pills of Dr. Hamilton, which are composed of such herbs as mandrake, butternut and dandelion; they contain not an atom of any substance that could injure even an infant.

By their certain action on the Liver Dr. Hamilton's Pills cause bile to be secreted which forms the stimulus that moves the bowels—this is nature's own method and the best one.

Mr. R. Hamly, of French River, Ont., writes as follows: "I was inclined to bilious attacks and frequently was too ill to work. Most remedies purged and weakened my bowels, but Dr. Hamilton's Pills gently stimulated my liver, and by strengthening the stomach made a perfect cure. My health has been just splendid since I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills from your druggist or storekeeper, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

Tax Assessors' Office Too Small

Did you ever happen whilst walking along Aylmer street, to notice the offices (?) used by the local assessors? No matter where or how good the assessors' quarters might be, there would still be a kick over the result of their assessments. Still men in charge of so important a branch of the city's work should have accommodation. The office where in tens, if not hundreds, of thousands of our local citizens assessments are arranged, is a little one story, rough-cast building, belonging to Mr. T. B. McGrath, the chief assessor. (While not grudging Mr. McGrath the rent for his building, such a head office for local city work is incompatible with the dignity of this city.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two, direct specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflamation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

A Painter Was Wronged.

In a former issue of The Times, of about three weeks ago, there was a mistake made concerning a local painter. The article referred to said that this painter had fallen off a bicycle whilst coming through the lane adjacent to the Allen House, Simcoe street. Yesterday the party named, called at this office to ask for a correction as our report might be misconstrued regarding his condition when the alleged bicycle accident occurred. We might say that this report as given in The Times was brought in by a local painter and thus taken in good faith. The fact of the matter is that the painter said to have had the bicycle mixup, was out of the city at the time specified in our report. The Times while anxious to give the news and all the news cannot be responsible for reports brought in by "Smart Alecks," who, under the guise of friendly confidences, give us unfounded concoctions.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed by the Grand Encampment to Bro. D. H. Moore, P.G.P., and P.G.R. of the D.P.M. for his valuable and valued services before and during the present session of the Grand Lodge. Many a visiting Grand Lodge representative referred, when in conversation with a Times man, to the great services rendered, during the past quarter of a century to the Order by "Dave" Moore.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Local Men Get Good Positions.

Messrs. Giles, Stone and George Long, who for the past decade have been employed by the Dickson Co., of this city have now secured good positions with the Holland Graves Lumber Co., of Wanapatie, Ont. This company is one of the strongest in Ontario, and these two local men are to be congratulated on their advanced positions. These two men are experienced lumbermen, and the company securing their services, has got two good men.

Rubidge Street Robbery.

On Tuesday some sneak thief entered the residence of Mr. J. McIntyre, 332 Rubidge street and relieved Mr. McIntyre of his purse of $24, which was in his trousers pocket. The burglar left the empty purse in the back yard, while he was making his "get away."

The stolen money was all in bills, there being one ten, two fives, and four ones.

The police are now on the scene and further developments may be looked for.

The Lights Were Lit.

In our report in yesterday's issue of an accident which occurred Tuesday evening when Mr. Arthur Johnston was injured, we find an unintentional error was made. We, relying on the information of seemingly creditable witnesses, noted that, at the time Mr. Johnston was hurt, there was no lantern or other danger signal displayed. We found yesterday that there were lanterns at the location where the accident occurred.

Will of Drowned Man Settled.

Letters of Administration have been asked for in the matter of the estate of William P. Dandy, teacher of Toronto, who, as noted in a former issue of The Times, was drowned at Stony Lake on July 13th. The estate is valued at $7,711.73, including a house and lot at 106 Bernard avenue, estimated to be worth $5,500. The estate is to be divided between the widow and John B. Dandy, the son of the deceased.

The Parade Well Attended.

There were at least 800 members of the I.O.O.F. in the great parade of last night, which started from Central Park at 7.30 sharp.

A Galt Man to Move Here.

Mr. John Steele of Galt, is here in attendance on the Grand Lodge. Mr. Geo. Wilkins of Galt, an expert machinist of that town, will move his family here in a few days, and locate permanently in this city. Mr. Wilkins has accepted a responsible position with the Wm. Mfg. Co.

A Trite Saying.

It is a trite saying that no man is stronger than his stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body and thus cures both liver and kidney troubles. If you take this natural blood-purifier and tonic, you will assist your system in manufacturing each day a pint of rich, red blood, that is invigorating to the brain and nerves. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people suffer from, is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin and the feelings "blue." Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" cures all blood humors as well as being a tonic that makes one vigorous, strong and forceful. It is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs, and the only one, every ingredient of which has the professional endorsement of the leading medical writers of this country. Some of these endorsements are published in a little book of extracts from standard medical works and will be sent to any address free, on receipt of request therefor by letter or postal card, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of. The "Words of Praise" for the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, by leaders in all the several schools of medical practice, and recommending them for the cure of the diseases for which the "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised, should have far more weight with the sick and afflicted than any amount of the so-called "testimonials" so conspicuously flaunted before the public by those who are afraid to let the ingredients of which their medicines are composed be known. Bear in mind that the "Golden Medical Discovery" has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of its ingredients.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Invigorate the liver and regulate stomach and bowels.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page Illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. Has Now Concluded

Officers for Ensuing Year are Elected and General Business Done After a Most Enjoyable Meeting in the Electric City.

Orillia gets the next meeting of the Grand Lodge. I.O.O.F. (this was carried near-on yesterday morning)

At yesterday's meeting of the Grand Lodge, with Grand Master F. R Biewer presiding, Past Grand Representative John A. Macdonald of Toronto, Supreme Monarchos of the Supreme Orient, Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection, made an announcement that at the annual convocation of the Supreme Orient held Wednesday evening, the sum of $150 had been voted to the fund of the Ontario Oddfellows' Home at Oakville and $50 to the Oddfellows' Home at Lockport, N.Y. The announcement was received with applause by Grand Lodge.

The Grand Master announced that at the request of Vivian Lodge, No. 146, Arnprior, he had a pleasant duty to perform in the presentation of a Veteran's Jewel, to Bro. John A. Macdonald, P.G.R., and the proceeding was received with great applause, by Grand Lodge.

After the minutes of Wednesday had been read the matter of selecting the place of meeting for next year was taken up, and Orillia was unanimously chosen.

Bro. D Derbyshire of Brockville reported for the committee on the Rebekah Degree. The membership is now 4,300, with $7,000 invested, and cash on hand of nearly $1,000. One new lodge was instituted at Essex Center on July 29. The Rebekahs have furnished the Oddfellows' Home at Oakville, and are doing acts of charity in every part of the country.

The committee on Fraternal Relations reported that the action of the Executive Committee, in extending immediate and substantial aid to our brethren in San Francisco, was well received.

Rep. A. B. McBride of Waterloo, on behalf of the committee on appeals reported on the Moore vs. Crescent Lodge case. The committee recommended that the matter be referred to the incoming Grand Master for adjudication.

Regarding the claim of the widow of William Geron against Electric City Lodge, No. 213, for widow's benefits, the committee recommended that Clause 14, of the bylaws of the said lodge, pending for the payment of widows' benefits having been amended, the lodge is not liable for the payment of benefits.

Some notable decisions of the Grand Master were made by the judiciary committee, of which Past Grand Master John T. Hornbrook was chairman. The cases were;—

1. A lodge, by change of bylaws, altered night of meeting from Wednesday to second and fourth Fridays in each month. Question—Is it legal, when meetings are semi-monthly, for official term to remain semi-annual? Answer—Where meets are semi-monthly, terms must be yearly.

A brother of A——lodge had his dues paid up to January 31st, 1906, he took sick on Feb. 4th, 1906, and on Feb. 6th, 1906, he paid his dues for the month of February and March, 1906.

Question—Is he entitled to sick benefits for such sickness commencing on the 4th February, 1906?

Answer—No, because he was in arrears for dues when he took sick. See Clause 91, Constitution of Subordinates, also clauses 101 and 102, and No. 21 of your bylaws (passed pursuant to said clause 91).

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The I.O.O.F. officers elected by acclamation were as follows;—

Grand Master—W. S. Johnson, Toronto.

Deputy Grand Master—R. K. Brett, Essex.

Grand Secretary—J. B. King, Toronto.

Grand Treasurer—W. J. McCormack, Toronto.

Grand Auditor—C. Parkes, Stratford.

Grand Representative—E. B. Butterworth, Ottawa.

A. A. G. Bruce, of Galt, complimented the executive officers upon the excellent manner in which they had performed their duties.

A. H. Blackaby moved, seconded by P. G. Master Boyle, that Dr. Campbell, Past Grand Secretary, be re-elected a member of the Oddfellows' Home Board, and John F. Hornbrook for the term left vacant by the retirement of Past Grand Master Whitelaw. E. Evanson, from the committee on Legislation, reported that there was a difference in numbering of clauses in the constitution for subordinates in the edition published in 1905 and those previously issued, and the committee could find no authority for this change. The renumbering had led to differences in construing of law. To clear up misunderstanding it was recommended that clause 104a, as it was passed by Grand Lodge in 1905, be eliminated from constitution, and also clause 103 in constitution of 1906, and that in lieu thereof the following be substituted;—

"No member of the lodge who shall be taken ill while in arrears for dues shall thereafter become entitled to sick benefits until four weeks from the date such arrears shall have been paid in full."

That clause 104, edition of 1905, be struck out, and the following substituted;—

"No member of this Lodge who shall have been in receipt of continuous benefits for eleven calendar months, and having recovered from such sickness (where the bylaws of the lodge provide for a reduction of sick benefits, e.g. the expiration of one year,) shall therefore become entitled to sick benefits for a recurrence of the illness, or for any other sickness within four weeks of his recovery, unless such subsequent illness shall occur from causes entirely remote from the previous illness.—Adopted.

Dr. Sinnock, of Toronto, reported, endorsing reference of Grand Master to the efficiency of Grand Solicitor, and recognition was made of service rendered by him to the subordinate, as well as Grand Lodges. In view of pending settlement of Hillsbury Lodge property case, he is recommended that further legal proceedings be stayed. Meantime value of property will be ascertained.

Committee saw no necessity for assessment of Grand Lodge for business tax, and recommended that Grand Lodge Solicitor be instructed to take all steps necessary to appeal to the fullest extent of law.

W. H. Brown, Meaford, moved a strong resolution discountenancing the use of letters and circulars by candidates for Grand offices. The motion was seconded by A. H. Bluckeby, and adopted.

Past Grand Master Hoyle moved, seconded by F. S. Evanson, Prescott; that instead of calling the roll of delegates in Grand Lodge, the Grand Secretary prepare a form whereby each member shall register his name at each session before two members of the Committee on Mileage and Per Diem, and upon this report the amount accruing to each be paid.—Carried.

Moved by Past Grand Master Hoyle, seconded by Representative Sleek that the Grand Master obtain from the Grand Lodge Solicitor his opinion on the position of the mortuary benefits of the Order in relation to the laws of the Province of Ontario.—Carried.

The following nomination were then received.

For Grand Master—R. R. Brett, Essex.

For Deputy Grand Master—A. J McBride.

For Grand Secretary—J. B. King.

For Grand Treasurer—W. J. McCormack.

For Grand Warden—D. Derbyshire, Brockville; W. D. Spence, St. Mary's; A. Cameron, Owen Sound; W. H. Moss, Dundas; W. E. Stevens, Aylmer; Col. Miller, Peterborough; S. M. Thomson, Brantford; S. A. Popleston, Exeter; S. C. Parks, Milton; B. J. Rothwell, Sault Ste. Marie; G. F. Ruttan, Sandwich; F. E. Evanson, Prescott; C. E. Speels, Mt. Forest; G. A. Griffith, Milton, Dr. Grassick, Toronto; E. B. Mowry, Ingersoll.

For Grand Representative—F. R. Biewer, Listowel.

The officers being installed, the Grand Master appointed the following,

Grand Marshal—M. W. Matchett, Peterborough.

Grand Conductor—S. A. Mills, Sarnia.

Grand Guardian—J. A. M. Duhaus, Ottawa.

Grand Herald—W. F. Give, Stirling.

Grand Chaplain—Rev. T. Dobson, Tigbury.

Grand Auditor—Ab. Fraser, Hamilton.

The newly-elected officers were installed into their several chairs, and after votes of thanks were tendered to the retiring Grand Master and to the citizens and Oddfellows of Peterborough for courtesies extended, the Grand Lodge was closed.

The Big B. & B. Show Largely Patronized

Immense Crowds Attend Barnum and Bailey's Circus.

Yesterday, notwithstanding the intense heat, many thousands of our citizens and country cousins flocked to the big show. Early yesterday morning large crowds, gathered at the corner of King and Bethune streets to watch the interesting operation of unloading the hundreds of wagons, cages and other vehicles belonging to this huge organization.

It was learned with some regret that the Barnum and Bailey Circus never, and have not for three years past, give a street parade. The managers of this, the largest and best managed circus in the world, decided some years ago to do away with this seemingly obsolete factor in the circus world. they concluded to save the vast expense incidental to a street parade and put this money into the regular performance.

One great feature of Barnum and Bailey's Circus, observable at every point, from unloading to reloading, was the entire esprit de corps, and satisfied spirit actuating their employees. Every man with the circus seemed to consider that the show's interest was his own, and a marked exhibition of courtesy was visible everywhere. The hundreds of horses were sleek and well groomed, and every feature of the show demonstrated a thorough management and well appreciated sense of kindly discipline.

The huge main tent, the largest ever made, is arranged so that even those holding the cheapest grade of tickets get a good and comprehensive view of the various rings.

This circus, which has displayed its wondrous aggregation of zoological specimens gathered from every quarter of the globe, in the different countries of Europe, during five years, and which has startled millions of patrons in America during thirty-two years, keeps every promise made in their advance advertising. This is a feature in one sense, as surprising as the magnificence of their exhibition. Many circuses pass through the country billing all kinds of possible and often impossible attractions, but the Barnum and Bailey people yesterday demonstrated that everything they advertised they showed: the Barnum and Bailey Circus most assuredly "kept faith."

The circus arrived on 97 cars, with a small army, 1,065 to be exact, of employees. They have 400 horses, their canvas covers 12 acres of ground, and before the big show arrives 25 advance agents have been ahead to let the public know what is coming.

It would be, perhaps, invidious to compare the various acts given in the rings, as all are excellent and the best of their kind.

One feature, however, that attracts attention more than others, is the wonderful and nerve racking L'Auto-Bolide act, where the fairepid performer, in a specially designed car weighing 20 tons, takes a plunge seemingly to a certain death. In this stupendous and nerve wraing act a young girl, of pleasing looks and good figure, starts in the machine from a platform 50 feet in the air, descends an almost perpendicular track, and then flies through the air 32 feet to the adjacent track. Her act was learned under a lady in Paris, who unfortunately was killed in the very act noted. The young lady performing this wonderful act draws the nice little salary of $1,500 a week. This latter fact was corroborated by a Times representative yesterday, who had the pleasure of an introduction to this daring young lady. However, no harm comes, unless it is to those who afterwards dream of this, the greatest act that a fearless performer ever attempted.

Whilst the Barnum and Bailey show was well attended yesterday, there is no doubt but if they revisit this city, there will not be a vacant seat.

Yesterday a Times representative, as the crowd was leaving the show, stood near the exit listening to the comments of the circus patrons as they left the show. Had a phonograph been at work and recorded the expressions of pleased comment heard, the record would have been an advertisement worth many a gallon of printers' ink.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., August 10.—The steamer Alexandria, of Picton, Ont., bound down the St. Lawrence to Quebec with passengers and freight, broke an engine shaft yesterday while passing here. She was caught and towed into Prescott for repairs. Ten minutes later the steamer would have been in the rapids.

Boring For Oil at Medicine Hat

C. P. R. Will Determine Whether There is Oil Under Natural Gas.

Medicine Hat, Alta., August 3.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is starting at this point one of the greatest undertakings in Western Canada. The company will make a test to determine whether there is oil under the natural gas here.

Last week nine carloads of modern oil drilling machinery arrived here, consisting of a modern cable rigged drilling outfit and drill pipes of various diameters sufficient to reach to a depth of 1,500 feet. The greatest depth ever reached in this district is 1,000 feet and the supposition is that an oil bed exists under the gas.

The company will spare no expense to determine whether or not oil exists here, the operations being under the charge of Eugene Coste.

POLICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

At the police court yesterday, G. Waters, the licensee of the G.P.R. hotel, charged James Allen, the manager, with assaulting him on August 7th. Mr. Allen pleaded guilty.

Mr. Gordon appeared for the plaintiff, while Mr. A. P. Poussette looked after the interests of the defendant.

After hearing both sides of the stories the magistrate had Allen bound over to keep the peace for one month on $200 bail.

Samuel and Thomas Anglesey were charged with assaulting W. Wilson and pleaded guilty. Thomas admitting that they hit the plaintiff. He said that Wilson had drawn two nails in the wall in his room. Wilson boarded at Anglesey's. Samuel was assessed $8.75, while it cos Thomas $4.60

Yesterday morning, his Worship D. W. Dumble, at the police court, rendered judgment in the case of Chief of Police Geo. Rostel, vs. Mither, for cruelty to animals.

The magistrate in summing up said.

"This is a charge of cruelty to animals, under Sec. 512, sub-sec. b. It appears that one Baldon was driving, with a young lady to Lakefield, at about 10:30 pm. The night was dark. Mr. Baldon was driving at eight or ten miles an hour. Seeing a buggy coming at a rapid pace in the opposite direction and on the same side of the road, he drew up nigh on the extreme edge of the road and left room between his buggy and the rail of the street railway for Mither to pass.

Mither says he was driving on the right side of the road and seeing a light in front, set as a warning where a sewer was being put in, he crossed to the east side of the street railways, and ran into Mr. Baldon's horse.

There were three men in Mithers buggy and the impact was with great violence, the shaft of his buggy ran into the body of Baldon's horse four inches, broke three or more of the horse's ribs, and the shaft of Mither's own buggy, and so wounded the horse that it died early next morning.

"I came to the conclusion that Mither was driving recklessly and that the injury to the horse was the result of his negligence.

"The clause of the act under which the charge is laid, reads as follows; 'Everyone is guilty, who, while driving any cart or other conveyance by negligence or ill-usage in the driving thereof, the means whereby any mischief, damage or injury is done by any such cattle or other animal.'

"A review of the authorities leaves me of the opinion that this charge is not sustained by the evidence—the offence is wholly statutory—not a common law offence, and I must be guided by the interpretation put on the statute.

"Was the act of Mither wanton or unnecessary? Was there any suffering inflicted or caused by any act done, which implied an intention to inflict injury or by any failure to act implying inhumanity or wanton disregard of suffering resting from his act or failure?

"The night was dark, there was no danger signal, by lighted lantern, on the west side of the road, not far ahead of him. He saw the rig coming towards him, he says, ten or twelve miles an hour, which is not according to evidence. He said the accident happened on the center of the street railway track, which is no true, and al-

Robs His Own Bank of $1,000,000

President Paul O. Stensland Said to Have Robbed Milwaukee State Bank for Real Estate and House

Chicago, Aug. 10.—The Tribune of yesterday says,—"A state of affairs more startling and shocking than has been hinted previously in connection with the collapse of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank was revealed last night when it became plain that through bare-faced forgery President Paul O Stensland had plundered his own bank systematically through a period of years.

"The question arose when Cashier Henry W. Horn proffered many large items by the plundering. His friends say he did not, though acknowledging that he may have had knowledge of what Stensland was doing.

"At any rate there has been discovered in President Stensland's safety deposit vault box memoranda detailing how the bank was looted. The amount thus taken is set down in Stensland's handwriting at $1,000,000. The money went to support his real estate speculations, his 'co-operative' building and business, and his fine household in Irving Park.

"The Tribune's informant saw the memorandum of forgeries, memorandum notes, and other fictitious paper. The thefts consist of nearly 200 items, ranging from $1,000 to $15,000 each. The names forged are those of directors and stockholders in the bank and of persons associated with Stensland in other business ventures. This discrepancy alone will mean the loss to each depositor of one-fourth of his savings.

Nelson, B.C., Aug. 9.—A big surprise was sprung at the meeting of the Kootenay Fruit Growers' Association here recently. Shortly after the meeting opened H. E. The motion was carried by a vote of 15 to 6.

Young Woman From Alexandria Bay Claims Half Million From Husband's Father.

New York, August 10.—Gilbert T. Rafferty, "coke king," of Pittsburg, has been sued for $500,000, and charged by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Deborah McIntyre-Rafferty, with having alienated the affections of her husband, George B. Rafferty, who recently served the full enlistment period of three years as a private in the United States army in the Philippines. After accepting the service of the summons and complaint, Mr. Rafferty left for the Thousand Islands, where he maintains two beautiful summer homes. "I shall never settle," said Rafferty, "and so far as my boy is concerned, he will have to continue to shift for himself, as he has since his marriage to this woman. I am done with him, and she will never get a penny of my money."

Rafferty was a former business associate of the late William Thaw. Young Mrs. Rafferty is a daughter of Mrs. A. C. McIntyre, of Alexandria Bay, N. Y. She formerly carried on a photographing business.

"There's a Reason"

Str. Erindale Burned, Female Cook Missing

Former "City of Owen Sound" Destroyed at Newcastle Early Yesterday---Toronto Woman Burned But Rest Escaped.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The steamer Erindale was burned to the water's edge at the wharf at Newcastle, Ont., yesterday morning. The loss is a total loss.

A woman cook is reported by a wire from Manager Jackson, who was with the boat, to have been burned, but his message is ambiguously worded, and does not say whether the woman was burned to death or only injured by the flames. The cook assumed her duties for the first time on Wednesday, and her name could not be ascertained in Toronto late last night.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

Roy Walmsley, the youthful local agent of the North Shore Transportation Company, which owns the boat, dreamed Wednesday night that the boat was burning. When he was at breakfast yesterday morning he told his mother of his dream. When he arrived at the little office in Yonge street he found a telegram awaiting him. It read;

"Newcastle, Ont., Aug. 9.

"Boat burned to water's edge. Total loss. Notify everybody.

"Thos. G. Jackson."

The Erindale was insured for $7,500, divided between two companies, as follows, Anglo-American, $2,500, London and Lancashire, $5,000. Lloyds' rate the boat at a value of $20,000.

The Erindale was 130 feet in length over all, and 18 feet wide. It had a carrying capacity of 250 persons.

The Erindale was formerly known as the City of Owen Sound, and plied between Owen Sound and the Soo. It was brought to Toronto, and ran to Grimsby the summer before last. It lay idle all last season, and this year it was purchased by Mr. Jackson, the price, it is understood, being $20,000. In January the name was changed, and this season the steamer has made daily trips, touching at Toronto, Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, and Newcastle.

Manager Jackson overhauled the boat and put it in good shape. It is asserted that as recently as Tuesday he was offered $27,000 for it by a representative of an American company, which wanted a boat to ply across the lake.

The Erindale was thirty-nine years old, having been built in 1867 at Sorel, Quebec. It had a steel hull, and was generally regarded as a staunch vessel for lake traffic.

The Erindale had a crew of fifteen, twelve men, two boys, and the cook.

Bowmanville, Aug. 10.—The steamer Erindale, Capt. Sullivan, that ran daily between Newcastle and intermediate ports to Toronto, was burned at the dock in Port Newcastle yesterday morning. The cook, a Mrs. Congdon, of Toronto, lost her life. She was the first to smell smoke, and ran to Manager T. G. Jackson's room and gave the alarm to the crew, and Mrs. Constantine returned to her room to dress or get her clothes and has not been seen since. It is supposed that she got bewildered in some way and either fell into the lake or was burned.

The fire originated in the after part of the boat, supposedly in the hold, but spread with great rapidity. Mr. Jackson escaped in his night shirt.

Manager Jackson believes that the boat was set on fire, as there are spots of oil as if cans had been used on the pier opposite the boat. A quantity of freight from the Bowmanville Foundry Company was destroyed.

Guelph Industry Was Totally Destroyed

Cartledge's Woollen Mills Were Burned Yesterday.

Guelph, Aug 10.—One of the heaviest fires this city has experienced for many years occurred at five o'clock yesterday morning, when Cartledge's woollen mills, situated near Gow's Bridge, were totally destroyed. The fire started on the dry kiln in the basement of the main building, and when discovered had apparently made good headway. Once the fire burst out the firemen were unable to approach the main building, and their efforts had to be confined to those adjoining.

In one of the buildings in the rear were the stores of the 11th and 13th Field Batteries, including some powder and ammunition, and this was saved from destruction, though several times on fire.

While the blaze was progressing, Lieut.-Col. Davidson and Adjutant Petrie directed the removal of the equipment.

The building destroyed was a landmark of the city, and belonged to the Peter Gow estate. About $10,000 will be the loss on it, while the Messrs. Cartledge place their loss on machinery and stock at about $30,000, a quarter of which is covered by insurance.

SUE FOR BANWELL LOSS

Guarantee Company Being Sued by the Bank.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The Banwell theft from the Crown Bank, for which he is now serving a term in prison, was recalled yesterday when suit was begun against the London Guarantee and Accident Company to recover $11,000 on policies issued in connection with Edwin S. Banwell for $5,000 and Francis M. Mansell for $6,000. The bank says that the company was to guarantee it against loss through dishonesty, negligence, etc., on the part of the men mentioned. The bank maintains that, according to the evidence, Mansell did not check all the moneys paid out.

The company denies on that the bank recovered all but about $4,000, and argues that the bank is not entitled to indemnity exceeding that amount. The company adds that it should not be expected to pay any part of the money spent in the pursuit and capture of Banwell.

Period of Calm now Rests Over Russia

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—In view of the improvement in the situation, a number of the guard regiments have already returned to the summer camp at Tsarskoe-Selo. The Emperor has arranged to go there Saturday and spend five days. The Empress yacht Alexandria, which has been under repairs for two years, steamed to Peterhof last night, leading to the belief that the Imperial family will soon make their proposed visit to Finnish Waters. Court circles are greatly relieved by the prospect of a period of calm which will give the Government an opportunity to inaugurate its program.

Moscow, Aug. 10.—The resumption of work here was complete today, but arrests of agitators and chiefs of workmen's organizations continue. Many of the more active of the workmen have been expelled from the city.

Riga, Livonia, Russia, Aug. 10.—A police patrol guarding the railroad was fired upon from ambush yesterday. One man was killed and one was wounded.

Defaulter Goes Back to States

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Clinton H. Wray, the $125,000 defaulter, left on the two o'clock train yesterday afternoon, in charge of Detectives Ray and Dolly, for Buffalo, en route to Petsburg to stand trial for defrauding the Union Trust Company.

"It's a great relief to me to get back," he said after leaving Judge Morgan's court, where he formally consented to extradition.

"We're indebted to you for a very good story in these dull days," said a reporter to Wray.

"Oh, you're welcome to it.

Wray seemed actually happy to be relieved of the strain under which he has been for the last two years.

"We've been treated very well in Toronto. If I were back of the other side camera fiends would be chasing me around and making my life miserable."

Wray asked several questions regarding Toronto.

"You have a fine city here. I wish I had more time to visit here."

Before Judge Morgan Wray appeared resigned to his fate.

"You have a right to have the case proven against you in Canada, but that is not necessary if you consent to go without it," said his honor.

"I consent to go without any probe," he said.

PALE AND ANXIOUS

Your Countenance Indicates the Body's Awful Struggle for Health

Impossible to work or think clearly when there is no reserve of vigor, no nourishment in the blood, no supply of nerve energy.

The life of the half-sick man is pitiful, in fact, almost criminal, when bounding strength is so quickly derived from Ferrozone.

This nutritive tonic is guaranteed to strengthen all men, women and children. Weak organs get new force, vital energy is generated. Muscle and fat are added, healthy color is restored, and the blood fairly tingles with new-found life.

Read the evidence of Jno. Carter, of 424 King St. East, Toronto, who says:

"After a severe attack of Grippe my health was almost shattered. I suffered constantly from nervousness and dyspepsia. At night I would waken with terrible palpitation and heart pains. Work became a great effort. At ten in the morning I was so tired and weak I could hardly work another minute.

"Then came a bad attack of rheumatism, which laid me up in bed. I could scarcely lift the weight of a pound, and to stoop or bend was impossible. My druggist recommended Ferrozone, and he knew what he was talking about, for it rebuilt my strength, gave me abundant appetite, better blood, and new nerve energy. The rheumatism has disappeared. I weigh more, feel refreshed and vigorous, and am able to work ten hours a day. Ferrozone did it all."

You will be steadied, toned and strengthened for all time to come with Ferrozone. Get the genuine in 50c boxes or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

MAHOMETAN UNREST.

The speech made a few weeks ago by Sir Edward Grey, in the British House of Commons, on the Government's decision to increase the British garrison in Egypt, and reports of the unrest among the natives in that country, indicate that there is reason to fear a Mahometan uprising as the result of fanaticism among the people, not only in Egypt but in other countries, in which a large part, if not the whole of the inhabitants are followers of the Prophet. Lord Cromer, the British representative in Egypt, and the actual if not the nominal ruler of the country, thoroughly understands the native mind and is not the man to exaggerate the situation. There is no doubt that the friction caused by the Sultan of Turkey's attempt to claim authority over territory within Egyptian boundaries has caused unrest in Egypt, and has been taken advantage of by the more fanatical leaders. Although the people are better governed, pay less taxes and are protected from exactions as the result of British control, they ignore these facts and only consider that their benefactors are unbelievers. There is no telling what conflagration a spark falling in Egypt might kindle. As the possessor of India, Great Britain is the greatest Mahometan Power in the world. Just and righteous government, with care to interfere with no man's religious belief, has enabled a mere handful of Europeans to rule the hundreds of millions in India. But a religious war once kindled might not be extinguished without extreme difficulty, and a vast expenditure of blood and treasure. For years there has been a movement among the more earnest Moslems to bring about an Islamic revival and there are multitudes who dream of a restoration of the glories of the Caliphate, when the Moors overran Spain and the followers of the Prophet established themselves in Europe, on which continent at one time it seemed not improbable that the Crescent might dominate the Cross. Prudence, therefore, dictates that precautions be taken, so that any Mahometan rising in Egypt may be suppressed before it can spread among the hundreds of millions of Moslems in Asia.

A VERITABLE STOREHOUSE OF WEALTH.

The early mining history of Arizona is one of romance and tragedy. While known by the pioneers to be rich in mineral deposits of gold and silver, the constant danger and battle with the various tribes of Indians who inhabited the region retarded its development and rendered prospecting and mining a hazardous undertaking.

In 1878 the world was electrified by the discovery of the rich mines of Tombstone, and the fame of the Territory spread throughout the land. From that day until the present, Arizona has been recognized as one of the great producing sections of the Union, ranking second in 1905 in the combined production of gold, silver and copper.

Following the early discoveries at Tombstone, prospecting throughout the Territory was conducted on a large scale, and rich discoveries were made in all sections. Although operations were at first conducted in a small way, only the richest and highest grades of ore being saved, it was soon found that the various discoveries were permanent fields, requiring modern development and machinery.

Attracted by the unusual richness of the mines, capital was readily obtained for their proper development, with the result that expensive machinery and modern methods were adopted, and some of the richest gold, silver and copper mines in the world are now in operation and are increasing their productions as more extensive work is inaugurated.

That nearly the entire Territory is a "Treasure House" has been demonstrated beyond question, and to its credit it may truly be said that in the discovery and development of her vast mineral resources, there has been fewer disappointments, both to the miner and to the investor, than has characterized any other mining section of the world.

Mohave County, situated in the northwestern portion of the Territory, bordering on the great Mohave Desert, that mysterious land which has puzzled scientists of the present age—and separated from it by the shifting Colorado River. Mohave County stands unique in its valuable deposites as having been known and worked by pre-historic man. Here its early discoverers found remains of former occupation by an unknown race, who, with their crude implements of stone, had conducted mining in past centuries. For many years Mohave County has been noted for its silver product, while there are many successful producing gold mines of which the public hears but little. In this section are the celebrated White Hills Mines, Gold Roads, the Minnesota, Tennessee, Elkhart, German American, Pinkham, Schuylkill, Katherine, Lucky Boy, Fourth of March, Samoa and C. O. D. All of these properties have been regular producers.

These mines with the exception of three are in the Chloride District. The Samoa and Fourth of March mines have perhaps the best showing to develop into very large producers of gold. The work so far has proven that their gold bearing veins extend through the full length of the claims and that the ore goes to great depth. A 900-foot shaft put down on the Fouth of March has opened the ore at that depth, and shows values of from $40 to $50 per ton. The ore bodies dip toward the center of the earth, and indications are that the ore will go down to a depth of five or six thousand feet.

The Samoa and Fourth of March group of mines consist of 70 acres of mineral ground through which runs six gold, silver and lead bearing veins. Assays and smelter shipments show values of from $42 to $126 per ton. One vein alone is producing about $240 worth of ore per day, and the other one is now being opened up and will soon be producing large quantities of valuable gold ore. Two plants of machinery and a good force of men are at work daily.

Samoa No. 1 vein is the largest in the group and can be traced for several thousand feet. A large tunnel is being driven to cut this vein at a depth of 541 feet below surface. This tunnel is now in over 900 feet and has only 150 feet yet to go before it cuts the big vein. This should be accomplished inside of 90 days. When this and the other veins are opened up these mines should produce several thousand dollars worth of ore per day.

The Samoa and Fourth of March group mines are located about three miles from Chloride, and are owned by the Chloride Gold Mining Company, a company incorporated under the laws of Arizona with a capital of $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares, par value $1 each, fully paid, non-assessable and carrying no personal liability to stockholders. Its General Offices are at Chloride, Arizona; Secretary's office, Room 10, Board of Trade, Pasedo, Colorado. The mines are under the personal supervision of the President and Manager of the Company, Mr. I. Hoffman, a man of 30 years of mining experience, who is generally known as the most progressive mine operator in Mohave County.

Mr. Hoffman is now preparing to sink the Fourth of March shaft down 650 feet deeper, at which point the other veins will be connected with shaft, and all ores handled through the main shaft.

At the Katherine mine ore running $300 per ton has been shipped. This property also has the characteristics of a bonanza, resembling in many respects the famous Comstock lode, which produced over $100,000,000.

At the C. O. D. mine in one vein the ore has run 16 ounces gold, besides 750 ounces of silver per ton, while the other ore bodies run 8 ounces gold and 200 ounces silver.

The Arizona boom is on with Mohave County in the lead, and the readers of this paper may expect to hear of phenomenal results from this section of the Golden West.

The Chloride Gold Mining Company is ably officered and promises to give splendid results. The company is represented in the Canadian field by Mr. W. K. Hall, who will be pleased to furnish full information to intending purchasers.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter S. Summers of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indigestion and sickness in early life. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, sneered at me. Imaginative ideas at night weakened me so I was afraid to marry. I came to the conclusion that my head, hands and feet were cold, that my circulation was poor. Numbness in the fingers set in, and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicine and tried many first-class physicians, some at enormous fees, for three months, went to Mr. Clemens for treatment and in two weeks I felt like a new man. Within two months I was restored to perfect health. Was examined by Dr. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic. I could feel an electric current going through my body. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $228,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Hers Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH — A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

yearned to you with such a mighty, unquenchable thirst for your presence and your love; and when I have heard all the people praise the goodness, and wisdom, and bounty of Lady Etheridge, I have said to myself: That is my daughter. No haughty, cold-blooded and selfish Etheridge ever was good, wise or bountiful. It is because she is my daughter!' and when I have seen you passing through the village in state and grandeur, and joy, I have not dared to linger and gaze upon your form lest I should rush out and catch you to my bosom. Do not be cold to me now; indeed, it would break my heart and cut short even the few hours I have to live. Do not shrink from me now, my only child!" pleaded the woman, in a voice of such deep sorrow that Lady Etheridge bent down and tenderly kissed her, saying:

"I do not, mother. I have come to stay with you till the last."

"Oh, thank you, Laura!" cried the wretched woman, pressing her hand with spasmodic haste. "And you forgive me?"

"Poor mother! Forgiveness is a profane word to pass from child to parent."

"Yet I cannot rest without it, Laura."

"Then take it, with all my heart. If you think that you have injured me, take my forgiveness, as freely and as perfectly as I hope for that of Heaven! And now, poor mother, a trial awaits you, which I would willingly spare you, if I could do so with justice to another. But be strong and patient; it shall be the last trial to which you shall be subjected. It will be but short, and when it is over I will remain with you as long as you live, and try to perform toward you all the duties of a daughter."

"Give me the love of one, my child. I need it greatly. And now what is it you would have me do, Laura?"

"The statement that you made to me last night, to be of any avail to the true heiress of Swinburne, must be put into writing, sworn to, signed, and duly witnessed in the presence of a magistrate. Also, it is needful that you submit to an examination by a physician, who will duly testify that you are of sound mind when you execute the document."

"I will do all that you wish me, Laura. Let the proper person be brought hither. The sooner the better."

Laura beckoned Colonel Hastings, who had retired to the farther end of the room, out of hearing of this conversation.

When he came to the bedside, she presented him to the dying woman, saying:

"Here, mother, is my late guardian, Colonel Hastings, who wishes to take your deposition."

"Yes; certainly. I will be very thankful to you, sir, if you will send for a physician and a lawyer, and any one else whom you may think proper to summon, for the purpose of committing and insuring the validity of the statement that I wish to make," said Mrs. Elmer.

Colonel Hastings growled an inaudible reply, for he was very much perplexed and dissatisfied; and went out, entered the carriage, and drove off to bring the proper parties.

In half an hour he returned with them.

I will not weary my readers with the details of the formal proceedings that occupied the next two or three hours, and that confirmed the validity of the dying woman's statement. The whole business was conducted in a manner at once legal and confidential. No form was omitted that could go to confirm the evidence; yet, each member of the party stood strictly pledged to the others to keep the secret until proper proceedings could be taken upon it. Immediately after the signing and witnessing of the document, all left the cottage, with the exception of Colonel Hastings and Laura, who remained by the bedside of the patient, who had sunk into a deep of utter exhaustion.

"Well, Lady Etheridge. However that may eventually result, whoever may be declared the true heiress, of this you may rest assured that, position being nine points of the law, at least, in any case, for months, if not years, before you can be compelled to give down your title, or give up your estate, or leave your home at the call of—"

"Colonel Hastings, I do not believe that there is one candid person in the world who could witness what we have witnessed to-day, and not feel convinced of the truth of my mother's statement, and the rights of Etheridge of Swinburne. I shall not wait to be just for the tardy permission of the law. I here and now solemnly resign in favor of the new claimant all right and title that I may be supposed to have to the barony and estates of Swinburne. This is my final resolve. Call me, therefore, no longer Lady Etheridge, but, if you are kind, call me, as you did in my happy childhood, Laura, for that name is mine yet."

"But, my dear Laura, this is fanaticism, sheer fanaticism. You are not now in a condition to judge what you should do! You are unnerved by this sudden shock. You have spent the night in watching. You need repose and cool reflection before venturing to act in this affair. Let me entreat you to return home, retire to your chamber, and take a few hours sleep. You will then be in a better condition to think and to act."

"I thank you, Colonel Hastings; but my mind is clear enough and strong enough, even now to know right from wrong."

"Well, Laura, I perceive it is useless to combat your resolution at present, though I deem it a most injudicious one."

CHAPTER VII.

When Rose Elmer left her mother's cottage, it must be remembered that she had no knowledge or suspicion of the exalted fortunes in prospect for her. Her heart was filled with grief and despair—grief for her supposed mother's failing mind and body, and despair at the discovered falsehood and treachery of her lover. For him whom she had known only as William Lovel, her pure affection, honor, and trust, had amounted to real faith and worship. With the heathenish idolatry of a young, warm heart, she had adored him as a god. And now to find this idol of her adoration a traitor of the deepest dye, who could now woo her under false pretenses and an assumed name, and who, even on his eve of marriage with Lady Etheridge, could coolly plot her own ruin, so wrung her heart with anguish, and distracted her brain with wonder, that her whole nature seemed beaten about between madness and death, as a storm-tossed ship between wind and wave.

In this mood of mind she left the cottage, and after parting with her neighbor at the door of the latter, she walked listlessly down the narrow street, intending to seek the hills. She had proceeded but a little way beyond the outskirts of the town, and had sat down on the trunk of a fallen tree to rest for a while, when she heard a familiar footstep approach, and, looking up, she saw Albert Hastings standing before her.

She started up with the intention of hastening away, when he caught her hand, replaced her on her seat, and smilingly said:

"What, my sweet Rose! you broke your appointment with me last evening, and now, on seeing me approach, you try to run away. How is that, sweet Rose?"

"When I made that appointment yesterday morning, I thought that I was making it with my own betrothed lover, William Lovel, and not with the affianced husband of Lady Etheridge, Mr. Hastings," replied Rose; with more severity upon her young brow than any one would have supposed her capable of showing.

"Mr. Hastings! Lady Etheridge! What is it you mean, Rose? Some one has been slandering me to you."

"No, Mr. Hastings. Thank Heaven that no one on earth knows our acquaintance except your worthy friend and valet, Levere. Thank Heaven that none else in this world knows the extent of your falsehood and my folly."

"Rose, what, in Heaven's name, is the meaning of this? It seems to me that to-day I have fallen into a train of mad adventure."

"Not so strange, either, as those you had marked out for yourself when you proposed, in the same day, to marry a peeress, and ruin a peasant. Oh! against which of the two did you meditate the blacker treachery? Against the unloved lady whom you were about to lead to the altar, or the ill-loved cottager, whom you were al-

What Does It Mean?

Dr. Hamilton Gives a Full and Satisfactory Explanation.

Look at your tongue!

Sometimes it's heavily coated sometimes it's clear and red.

Study this out and you'll find some interference with the functional activity of the body.

This means the bowels are not regular, the liver is sluggish and the blood is contaminated.

Strong cathartic pills act so destructively on the intestines as to provoke deathly sickness, this often frightens people from taking medicine when they badly need it.

To the multitude of dangerous purgatives now on the market, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a notable exception, they neither gripe, cause sickly feeling or headache, yet they cleanse and purify the entire system in one night. No other laxative acts with such mildness and certainty Giving proper stimulus to the liver and kidneys, strengthening the stomach and lending valuable aid to digestion. It's small wonder that such marvellous results accompany Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Geo. O'Hagarty of Amherst, N. S., writes, "Last winter I worked in a lumber camp and neglected my health I was dreadfully constipated and had a headache that fairly made me reel at times. I was sick and miserable, and hadn't the slightest ambition to work or stir around. I felt heavy and dull and had a bad taste in my mouth. I sent into the city for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I knew were good for my condition. They fixed me up very quickly and have kept me in good condition ever since. There are other men in the camp that use Dr. Hamilton's pills also. They say they wouldn't be without the pills for ten times their price.

Good Street Car Service Yesterday

Yesterday it was generally remarked that the street car service was admirably managed. The thousands taken to the circus grounds were unfavorably handled with prompt ness. During the evening there was some kick made about those returning from the evening performance being delayed. People should reflect that seven thousand people cannot all get into four or five cars within six minutes. A Times representative talking last night to Mr. McNeil, the general press representative of the circus, was assured, by him that Peterborough's street car service is superior to any doing business in any city of the size of Peterborough.

Mr. Alf. Crawford Has Passed Away

Yesterday at two p.m., Mr. Alfred Crawford, passed away at his residence, 229 Edinburg street, after an illness extending over some months.

The late Mr. Crawford was one of the best known and generally respected residents of this county. Most of our citizens will known Mr. Crawford by the fact that one of Peterborough's best known summer picnic spots, "Crawford's Grove," about two miles below the locks, was named in his honor.

The late Mr. Crawford was 83 years of age, and leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, both living at home.

The deceased was a consistent member of the "Friends." The remains will leave per G.T.R for Lindsay on Saturday morning, and the interment will take place in the township of Orps, where his wife is buried. Mr. Crawford's death will come as a great shock to his many friends both in the city and county

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free

An Ops Farmer Attacked by Bees

A few days ago Mr. John Brown of West Ops had an experience that was decidedly unpleasant.

It seems that Mr. Brown was busy on his farm, and whilst cutting hay, was attacked by a furious swarm of bees.

The disturbed bees came in thousands, using their stinging department to most effective advantage, and first of all drove Mr. Brown's horses fairly frantic. The men when going to the horses' heads were attacked and a miniature shower was the result.

Cigarette By-Law is Ultra Vires

As noted in a former issue of The Times, Mr. M. Pappas, the only one of all those engaged in the tobacco business in this city, took out a license, as required by Ald. Ball's by-law, for selling cigarettes.

The local bylaw has now been quashed Justice McMahon, of the Single Court, has decided that the bylaw is ultra vires on the ground that the license fee is disproportionate to the nature and profits of the business, and so, in fact, amounting to a prohibition.

The Toronto papers of yesterday contained the following report of Justice McMahon's decision,—

Re William Ernest Talbot and Thos. William McDonough and the Corporation of the City of Peterborough - Judgment (J.).—Motion for an order to quash a bylaw passed by the Municipal Council of Peterborough on May 8th, 1906, regulating the sale of cigarettes, on the ground, among many others, that the fee of $500 for a license, without the payment of which no owner or keeper of a store or shop (other than taverns or shops holding licenses under the Liquor License Act), could sell cigarettes was an excessive fee, and was, in fact, prohibitive. The bylaw came into force on July 1st last. The affidavits of several tobacconists of the city of Peterborough went to the effect that the profits on the sales of cigarettes were not sufficient to pay the license fee. The Council for the City of Peterborough, in fixing $500 as a reasonable license fee, relied on the judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench in re Neilly and the Town of Owen Sound, 37 O.L.R. (1875), 298.

Runaway on George Street.

Yesterday as the people aboard a street car returning from the circus grounds at 12 noon were suffering with the heat, their attention was attracted by a runaway horse attached to a local grocery delivery wagon. The horse, turned into George from Dalhousie street, no one being in the wagon. Much excitement was created as the streets were crowded with those going to the circus. The horse at a mad gallop rushed up George street, narrowly escaping striking several conveyances and a street car, and was fortunately captured at Charlotte street after turning west there, and swerving the order of its flight, and making toward the river. Nothing was injured except the temperature of the horse, and several articles that were thrown from the rig.

OPEN PUBLICITY THE BEST GUARANTY OF MERIT.

When the maker of a medicine, sold through druggists for family use, takes his patients fully into his confidence by frankly and fearlessly publishing broadcast as well as on its bottle wrappers, a full list of all its ingredients in plain English, this action on his part is the best possible evidence that he is not afraid to have the search light of investigation turned full upon his formula and that it will bear the fullest scrutiny and the most thorough investigation. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of the weaknesses, periodical pains and functional derangements of the organs distinctly feminine, is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for woman's special use, the maker of which is not afraid to take his patients into his full confidence by such open and honest publicity.

A glance at the published ingredients on each bottle wrapper, will show that it is made wholly from native, American, medicinal roots, that it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs, no narcotics and no alcohol—pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol, both for extracting and preserving the active medicinal properties found in the roots of the American forest plants employed. It is the only medicine for women's pecular diseases, sold by druggists, that does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, which is in the long run so harmful to woman's delicate, nervous system. Now, glycerine is perfectly harmless, and serves a valuable purpose by possessing intrinsic value all its own, and besides it enhances the curative effect of the other ingredients entering into the "Favorite Prescription."

Some of the ablest medical writers and teachers endorse these views and praise all the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is composed—recommending them for the cure of the very same diseases for which this world-famed medicine is advised. No other medicine for women has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. If interested, send name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his little book of extracts from the works of eminent medical writers and teachers, endorsing the several ingredients and telling just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of. It's free for the asking.

TIMBER FOR TIES

Freight Rates Fixed by Commission —Kaministiqua Power Co. May Cross Railways.

Ottawa, Aug 10.—Several additional orders have been issued by the Railway Commission. A year ago a man named Sewell secured an order of the Board forbidding the Kingston and Pembroke Railway to charge a rate on timber for ties higher than that levied on ordinary lumber. On petition of Gillies Bros., lumber merchants, Braeside, Ont., and The Rideau Lumber Company, Ottawa, this order is extended to apply to all railways. Barrels or wardall ties now treated with preservatives must be treated as ordinary lumber, except in the case of certain comparative rates.

The Kaministiqua Power Company is given permission to cross the right-of way of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. at West Port William, with a transmission line carrying as much as 45,000 volts. The work must be done at its own expense, and the railways indemnified from all damage.

A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. Bell Co. and the City May Agree Upon Terms Governing the Laying of Wires Underground---Council Modify Their Agreement.

The City Council met in Committee of the Whole last night to hear the views of the Bell Telephone Company through their district superintendent, A. T. Smith, as to what terms of agreement with the city, the company would enter into for an underground right of way for their telephone wires. It appears from the remarks of Mr. Smith that the only objection the Bell Company have to the city's draft of agreement is a proposed limitation of rights for underground wires to 15 years.

The result of the meeting was that Mr. Smith will submit to his company the following resolution, which the Council think should be accepted as a satisfactory safeguard to the Bell Company's interests.

Moved by Ald. Hicks, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That clause four of the proposed agreement with the Bell Telephone Company, with respect to placing its wires underground be amended by striking out the term of 15 years and adding a provision that their right to maintain the conduits, cables or wires may be terminated at any time by the Board of Railway Commission or other body having control of the matter, on the application of the municipality.—Carried.

The Council and Mr. Smith entered most harmoniously into the question, and in reply to the Mayor, Mr. Smith said his company are not asking any rights which they do not possess in other places. It is, he said, rather surprising to him that this municipality should in any way block his company's desire to construct underground work, when some municipalities are giving five years' exclusive franchises in consideration of getting poles removed from off the streets.

His Worship remarked that he thought that the time is coming when public opinion will force the Dominion Government to take over the Bell Company's trunk line, in event of which he did not want Peterborough debarred from any advantages accruing therefrom through any perpetual agreement with the Bell Company.

To his Worship, Mr. Smith said, his company would place their underground conduits just where the city engineer directs. Also the Bell people are now and would be under existing conditions subject to any advantages given to municipalities through any act of the Railway Commission as provided for in the new act. The company would object to an agreement standing over 15 years with a right to renewal at the expiration of such time as the expenditure of putting their wires underground would not be justified for so limited a term.

Ald. Hicks—The principal objection the city has to giving a perpetual right is that we do not know what changes in the system of wiring may arise in a few years.

His Worship suggested that the Bell Company agree to leave this matter referred to the Railway Commission, and abide by their decision.

Mr. Smith replied that should the city consent to their putting their wires underground without any 15-year limitation, they would agree to be governed by any new legislation which may come into force by reason of the new act.

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall, proposed that the Bell Company enter into an agreement for a 15-years right for their underground system, absolutely free, and at the expiration of such term, the company be allowed continued rights, subject to the approval of the Railway Commission.

After considerable further discussion on this vexed question. The city agreed to amend the time limit clause in their proposed agreement, by providing that the Railway Commission or otherwise authorized body shall decide upon a termination of the company's rights in Peterborough, when called upon by the city.

Mr. Smith agreed to submit this proposition to headquarters for approval or disapproval, and the matter here closed, with peace in sight.

NEW C.P.R. LINE.

Ald. McWilliams pointed out last night that notwithstanding the assertion made by a local evening newspaper last night that the Council had neglected taking active steps in the direction of securing the passage of the new C.P.R. line from Victoria Harbor through Peterborough, this was not true, he said. The Manufacturers' Committee had left no stone unturned in this direction, and but lately, he (Ald. McWilliams) had been into communication with Mr. Leonard of the C.P.R., and he informed him that the only question with the company was that of maintaining a satisfactory grade all along the route. And it had not taken long for him to hear that objections had been lodged with the council by interested citizens to the only apparent feasible route to get this grade through Jackson Park. Consequently, Mr. Leonard had ordered more surveys to be made. The C.P.R. had not determined yet upon any route that will avoid Peterborough. In fact, Mr. Leonard had expressed his strong desire that the new line should touch Peterborough, and when these new surveys have been made he will meet the city authorities and determine upon what can be done to this effect. As to the Wallace farm route, which has been suggested by some citizens, it would only permit of the maintenance of the desired grade for a couple of miles out of Peterborough, which would not meet with the requirements of the C.P.R.

Ald. McWilliams offered this information last night so that the public may rest assured that the Manufacturers' Committee are not asleep in this important matter.

CONVENTION OF CONSTABLES.

Ald. Hicks moved, seconded by Ald. Hall,—That the chief of police be authorized to attend the meeting of Ontario's chief police constables, to be held at Toronto on September 4th and 5th; Mr. Rossel's expenses to be paid by the city.—Carried.

DELEGATES TO HALIFAX.

Ald. McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the Mayor, as a slight recognition of his long faithful and valued service in the interests of the city, be authorized to attend the meeting of Canadian Municipalities at Halifax next Tuesday.

Ald. McWilliams further pointed out that it was important that the convention should be attended as valuable information in the interests of the city will be learned thereat.

His Worship was not anxious to go, but finally acquiesced in the unanimous desire of his colleagues that he should do so, providing he were accompanied by some other member of the council or the city official staff.

Ald. Wilson moved to amendment that City Clerk Armstrong and the Mayor be delegates to this convention.

This was favorably received by all, and Ald. McWilliams withdrew his motion, and moved in accordance with Ald. Wilson's amendment, seconded by the latter gentlemen.

This was carried, and His Worship and City Clerk Arms rong, if they comply with the resolution, must leave on the C.P.R. midnight train tonight.

Buenos Ayres, August 11.—A railway 10,400 miles long to connect New York with Buenos Ayres, the capital of the Argentine Republic, South America, is entirely feasible, according to the report of the committee provided for by the Last Pan-American conference in Mexico in 1902.

When completed, the railway will be the longest in the world, surpassing the famous Siberian road.

The project has been before all of the Pan-American conferences, but it now shows more promise of completion than ever before. The report of the committee which has just been submitted to the conference is very optimistic.

The committee makes every effort to point out the great commercial value of the Pan-American Railway. It is shown that regions of great wealth may be pierced and the richest carried away. The course is through Mexico, into Central America and down the side of the Andes into Argentina. Everywhere there will be radiations and branches running to the seacoast, or into the interior if the Pan-American is following the coast.

The distance from New York to Buenos Ayres along the line of the proposed railway is 10,400 miles. According to the report there are not more than 3,700 miles of inter-continental railway not specifically provided for.

The committee under whose direction the intercontinental surveys were made, and of which A. J. Caswatt was chairman, approximated the cost at about $32,000 a mile; but, allowing the largest estimate for railway construction, which is $50,000 per mile, this would mean that the expenditure of $185,000,000 would insure the completion of all these sections.

Mr. Carnegie has suggested that the United States Government give $100,000,000 to the project if the other countries interested pledge themselves to an equal sum. The investigations of cost indicate that all remaining gaps could be closed by the sum which would be obtained in this manner.

After leaving the borders of the United States, probably at El Paso, the first section of the Pan-American Railway is across Mexico, from north to south. Following out the railroad building policy of President Diaz, much of this section is already finished. The existing road runs south through the City of Mexico to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec and thence on to a point only about twelve miles from the Guatemalan border.

The Mexican Government has had before it for years this project of building a line of railway connecting its northern and southern borders. The final steps in this policy were the construction of the Vera Cruz and Pacific, the Tehauntepec National and the road known as the Pan-American.

Guatemala is the next country through which the Pan-American will pass. For some years the Guatemalan system of railways reached to a point within twenty-eight of thirty miles of the Mexican border. It has not been deemed advisable nor necessary to finish the small gap until the Mexican lines are ready to meet it.

Now that the Mexicans have pushed their railroad down so far, the work in Guatemala will soon be taken up, the connection made in accordance with some one of the various Guatemalan railway projects, and then there will be a through line from New York city to Guatemala city.

Sewer Connection For New School

Satisfactory Understanding Entered Into by the School Board and the City Council Last Night.

The School Board waited on the Council in a body with a view to getting immediate sewer connection with the new south ward school. Mr. Pringle pointed out that as the roof of the new building is a flat one, immediate sewer connection is imperative in order to carry off water falling from the roof, to say nothing of other sanitary requirements.

Mr. Dumble remarked that sewer connection with the new school by way of Aylmer to Lansdowne had been discountenanced by the engineer because of difficulties in connecting at Roumaine street. This left the only feasible connection to be by way of George street. This scheme, he understood, had been blocked by the Mayor, who was unwilling to open his land for sewer connection, when other property owners were acquiescent thereto.

The Mayor—"You, Mr. Dumble, give a free right of way on your property, and I'll do the same on Roumaine street."

Mr. Dumble—"There is no similarity in the conditions. My lot is but two acres, while you have nine or ten acres valuable building property, in which there is a fortune when sewer connections are 'Assured.'" Continuing, Mr. Dumble went on to say if no agreement with the city could be arrived at for sewer connection with this school. The Board would themselves make connections through their own property with George street, and they have the power to do so.

After considerable discussion as to the most satisfactory method, to all parties concerned, of securing sewer connection with the new school, his Worship agreed, to the opening up of Aylmer to Princess street, and thence to Lock street, for sewer connection, the Board to construct their share of sewer work to the southern boundary of their lot on Aylmer street.

This was satisfactory to both the city and the Board, and the Board of Works will be instructed to take this matter up at their earliest convenience.

Another Local Electrocution

Peterboro Will Soon Rank as Premier Dangerous City.

Yesterday afternoon, about four o'clock, Mr. Jos. Collins of Douro township, drove his horse and buggy down George street, little thinking that within a few moments his horse would be dead and he, himself, run a close escape from death.

Mr. Collins stopped his horse in front of the Peterborough Hardware Company's establishment and started to buckle the tie chain to a ring on an electric light pole located there. As soon as Mr. Collins attached the snap to the ring on the pole, the fatal current, brought by a "ground" wire from the cross arms to the earth, has horse dropped dead, killed by the electric fluid straying through the ground wire. Mr. Collins, whose hand was of course touching the bit, that had been the means of ingress, of the current which killed the horse, came within a close call of being electrocuted himself. His fingers, the muscles being contracted by action of the current, refused to release the bit, and it was only by the prompt action of a friend, Mr. Ed Trennum of Smith, who quickly dragged him back, that his (Mr. Collins') life was saved.

Shortly after the accident had occurred, the electric light authorities had an employe on hand, who climbed the pole, and cut off the deadly ground wire.

About an hour after the accident had occurred, the city scavenger, Mr. Williams, arrived with a car, and loaded the deceased equine thereon.

This is the second case of horse killing by live wires in the city within the past few weeks; it is to be hoped that the next dangerous live wire will not take the life of a human being.

POLICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

Yesterday the Sons of Rest in attendance at the police court, got their money's worth, there being quite a budget before the magistrate.

Thomas Ringland, a conductor on the G.T.R., was charged with permitting his train to block the Stewart street crossing for more than five minutes last Sunday evening. He pleaded not guilty.

Chief Rossel said that on Sunday evening, August 5th, a double-header G.T.R. freight train blocked the Stewart street crossing for many minutes.

Mr. Ringland said that at 6.50 o'clock on the evening of August 5th, his train stopped on the Stewart street crossing. A knuckle on the car broke, and it was utterly impossible to move the train until it was repaired.

The magistrate said he did not think the cause of the detention was willful and dismissed the case.

The Waters vs. Allen case, laid over from Thursday morning was dismissed by the defendant, Mr. Allen, paying a fine of $5 and $4.50 costs.

George Carpenter pleaded guilty to allowing cattle to run at large, and was assessed $2 and $3.60 costs.

New Fire Horse To Be Examined

Fire, Water, and Light Com. Must Be Assured That They Have Value for Their Money ---How Much Was Paid For It?

The Fire, Water and Light Committee met after Council adjourned, when the question of the method pursued in purchasing the new fire horse again came up for investigation. This matter was referred back to the committee at Monday's Council meeting.

Ald. Graham offered that according to rumor the purchased horse is no sound and has since his purchase been afflicted with distemper.

Ald. Adams—"The only trouble is that the horse is too good to be put on that heavy wagon."

Ald. Graham—"Who bought the horse. Robertson says he did."

Ald. Adams admitted that it would have been better had he called the committee into consultation before taking any steps in the matter. But the resolution authorized the committee to purchase a horse, the animal to be paid for on certificate of the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee." Continuing, Ald. Adams went on to say that Chief Rutherford told him that he had received a message from Lillicrap, of Lakefield, that a good horse was for sale there, and he authorized Chief Rutherford to go and purchase the animal if found satisfactory. This was done, and the animal was examined, although not by a vet., and pronounced a good one. The purchase check was made out to Mr. Rutherford. "However," added Ald. Adams, "if the committee are not satisfied, the horse will be taken off the city's hands, and the check refunded."

Ald. Graham—"I was told by a man that his uncle asserts that Chief Rutherford paid $175 for the horse. I do know that the animal was up for sale before, and all they could get offered for it, was $160."

(The city's check for this horse is said to have been for $200.)

Ald. Hall—"Tex Powers of New York, the best judge of horseflesh in America, said the horse was one of the best he has ever seen."

In response to Ald. Graham, Ald. Adams replied, "Chief Rutherford had no authority to buy the horse in his own name. He was simply instructed to go to Lakefield and buy the horse for the city, if found suitable."

Ald. Duncan—"The chairman of this committee had no right to give him authority without first submitting the matter to the committee.

It here transpired that the purchase check for the horse has not yet been cashed; but no one could say in whose hands it is—The treasurer's or Mr. Rutherford's. It was made quite clear, however, that it is ready to be returned if the committee refuse to confirm the purchase.

Ald Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That the horse be examined by Veterinary Surgeon, Mr. McKercher, as to his soundness.—Carried.

Aldermen Graham, Duncan and Hall were appointed a committee to visit Cobourg, and inspect the electric arc lamps in use there. They will probably go on Monday next.

Gold Bullets Were Used by Indians

Mounds and Bullets Have Been Found in Indian Relics to the North.

Victoria, B. C., August 11.—The discovery some four months ago of Indian relics to the north of the Nanaimo lakes, of bullet moulds, and a number of bullets, made out of almost pure gold, has brought to public attention a legend of the Nanaimo natives to the effect that in the years ago, the red men were in the habit of utilizing the precious metal, drawn from afar inland Vancouver Island source, as their missiles of death in warfare and in the hunt. Chief Louis Good, of the Nanaimo tribe, has had this legend handed down to him with much circumstantiality, and in the light of the casual discoveries referred to is inclined to give it more credence than ever he has before. He has formed a small party and has now left from Nanaimo with the object of verifying the native information as to the source of gold. Tradition in the Nanaimo tribe, has it that somewhere about the centre of the island there is a small waterfall over which comes fragments of gold from which the Indians of a century ago were in the habit of drawing their ammunition. Chief Louis Good and his associates, all of them being natives, will also seek more definite information regarding the Vancouver Island wild man, who has been seen at intervals during the past nine years, and was last reported from the shore of Horn Lake in the Alberni district, by two prospectors toward the end of June. The wild man, as on previous occasions, when fallen in with by the white prospectors, was clothed in sunshine and a smile. He ran as soon as the prospectors came within his view. His shelter was found and also many traces of where he had been gathering roots for sustenance among the weeds fringeing the little lake.

A FIREMAN'S HEROISM

Jumped Twenty-Five Feet Into the Water and Saved Drowning Man.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 11.—One of the most heroic rescues recorded along the north shore in a long time was the accomplished by a Canadian Pacific Railway fireman, W. Fitzgerald, of Algoma Mills. Mr. D. A. Jones had been swimming with a number of companions. He remained behind them in the water and took cramps. The men on shore witnessed his struggles, but could not or did not render aid. Just at the opportune moment a locomotive crossed the bridge. Mr. Fitzgerald noticed the man in trouble, and without even stopping to remove his clothes jumped a distance of 25 feet from the bridge to the water. The drowning man grasped his leg, and a struggle between man and man ensued, but Mr. Fitzgerald's efforts were finally crowned with success, when he got Jones to the shore.

Husband Forced Her to Take the Pills

Mother of Mrs. Bridant Makes an Affidavit Stating That Daughter Told Her Brute Force Was Used.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Evidence of the most startling character will be brought out at the trial of Edmund Bridant and Mrs. Lillian Miller for murder next Monday. The new testimony will make it go much harder with the male prisoner than had been thought likely.

A letter from the deceased, Agnes Bridant, and also her dying statement made to her mother, Mrs. Villard, on the night before her death are highly important pieces of new evidence now available.

TALK WITH HER MOTHER.

On the last night that the murdered woman spent in this world she had a long talk with her mother, Mrs. Villard who had just come down that evening from Kingston.

Mrs. Villard made an affidavit, which will be presented at the trial, in which the mother tells what her daughter told her regarding the reason which led her to take the drugs.

"How did you come to take the drugs?" asked the mother.

"He made me," answered the daughter. "He fought with me just like he would with another man, and hit me with his fists, knocking me down against that little bed there. He knocked me unconscious, and when I came to he forced me on the larger bed there and abused me. Then he made me take the pills to do away with the child. He also abused me and forced me to put my little May in the Orphan's Home here."

"But, why did you take them?" repeated the mother again.

"I couldn't help it. He made me and forced me to."

The mother swears in the affidavit that this conversation took place on the night before the girl died between the hours of seven and ten o'clock.

"It was just after the priest had administered to her the last rites and the girl knew she was dying," said the mother.

A letter written by Mrs. Bridant a few days before her death to her mother in Kingston is also in the possession of the authorities. The letter begins by complaining of the treatment she was receiving at the hands of her husband, and goes on saying.

"He seems to wish to make me suffer and be unhappy. Life isn't worth living here, and if things don't change soon I don't think I'll be responsible for what I do. But I won't tell you all the awful cruel things he's done to me, for I know it'd only make you more unhappy.

THINKS OF HER CHILD.

"Oh, mother, how I wish I'd left little May with you. I wish she was safe. If you want to write anything special to me, write it on another piece of paper, so that Edmund won't see it."

The letter is simply signed "A" for Agnes.

It reads like the heart-broken wail of a distracted and desperate woman, ready, if much more misery is heaped on her, to commit suicide.

Artists Not to Sketch Divorce Cases

London, August 11.—President of the Divorce Court today announced that the court has decided that hereafter newspaper artists shall not be allowed to make sketches in court, as the practice was embarrassing and prejudiced witnesses, and because it was not in the public interest pictorially to draw attention to divorce cases.

HOW CONSTMPTION STARTS

Tired When You Waken—Languid All Day—Nerves Worn Out—Snap All Gone.

Your limbs feel 'draggy' and excessively weak. A night's sleep seldom brings satisfying rest. Continuous headaches, exhaustion and nervous sensations destroy your health. Soon every spark of vitality is used up. Then you catch tuberculosis.

Start today. Build up, get new nerve force, and overcome this process of decay. Use Ferrozone, which physicians consider the most vitalizing, uplifting tonic ever made.

Ferrozone cures because it can furnish the body with sufficient nutriment and building material.

Think of the instant effect—at once the appetite increases, delightful color in the cheeks proves that rich, red blood is being circulated. Tired muscles are invigorated, flesh and weight are added. Nerve force develops, and abounding, joyous health is firmly established.

This is certain—Ferrozone restores failing strength from any cause. The experience of Mr. Thos. Dowd, of Schreiber, Ont., proves this.

"Household worries and cares had about exhausted my strength. I was weak and miserable. My cheeks lacked the color of health, and occasionally I had spells of rheumatism. Then my appetite fell off, and nothing could tempt me to eat. Worn-out feelings, chills and despondency filled my very being. I became anaemic and dwindled down to a shadow. Consumption was very near. Ferrozone put strength in my body with a rush. It built me up, strong, virile and happy, and I have been well ever since."

Ferrozone cures sickness by curing the real cause—lack of blood, and nerve tone. It keeps people at their best—fit, ready and anxious for work. In 50c. boxes only, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 11 1906

"COMPOUND" ADULTERATION.

It is announced from Ottawa, says the Montreal Star, that the Department of Inland Revenue is to institute proceedings against manufacturers of fruit preserves who have failed to obey the law requiring preserves made with glucose instead of sugar to be plainly marked "compound" on the label. It seems that the manufacturers have been inclined to do the consumer by stealth, and blush to find it known, putting the tell-tale word "compound" in type too small for the hasty eye to read, in as modest a position as possible on the label.

We have permitted ourselves the literary flourish of referring to the word "compound" in this connection as "tell-tale." But if it tells a tale, it does so in a mumbling tone hard to understand. Should the mere amateur pick up a can of preserves and find the word "compound" mixed in with the laudatory announcement on the label, is there anything in the awesome term to lead him to imagine that he had better not buy the goods? Why, for instance, should "compound" suggest glucose to his mind unless he be experienced in the manufacture of this line of delicacy? "Compound" might be a complimentary adjective, indicating a desirable multiplication of virtues.

If there be enough glucose in a can of preserves to make that fact worth noting on the label, why should not the word 'glucose' be printed there in all its simplicity, and then the wayfaring householder, even though he be "keeping bach" without his wife, need not err with respect to what he is getting for his money. Moreover, there are other ingredients in a can of preserves besides sugar. If we put nothing but "compound" on the label, the purchaser might imagine that the sugar was all right, but that some substitute was being worked off on him for the fruit. Now he might not object to glucose, and still might have a strong objection to apple pulp in place of raspberry.

The department should take all steps necessary to compel the manufacturers of preserved foods of all sorts to live up to the law. If the detailed regulations will not accomplish this with certainty, then they should strengthen and clarify the regulations. It ought to be possible for a man to tell with absolute accuracy what he is buying when he purchases food in a sealed can or bottle; and, if any fraud be attempted by which he is to be deceived, the persons guilty of these frauds ought to be punished with a severity that will make this kind of cheating exceedingly unpopular for the future.

—There are now 4,300 members in the Rebekah Degree, and no a husband or a lover need ask the simplest sign of that order, without he joins.

A GOOD EXAMPLE IN CHICAGO

Chicago is not going to be content with offering people outside of her limits clean and good things to eat. She is going to greater lengths in the official inspection of food served to the public in restaurants than has been attempted by any other American city. Under an ordinance recently passed the six thousand restaurants of Chicago are required to take out licenses which are revocable for cause shown. The inspection authorized covers the quality of the food furnished, the manner of its preservation, the attire and habits of employes, the ventilation of kitchens and such other details of management as it may be necessary to investigate to secure the proper sanitary conditions. The inspection is to searching, and the revocation of licenses, it is believed, will be a sufficient penalty for the violation of the regulations. The cost of the inspection will be met by the restaurant license fees, which will yield $80,000 to the city.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

Good Work Done by a Peterborough Contractor.

A Douro subscriber writes The Times as follows:

The cement work at St. Joseph's church is now completed. It is a splendid piece of workmanship, and is considered by experts who have seen it to be superior to any they have seen in Peterborough. It is fair to the contractor, Mr. G. C. Hodgens, of Peterborough, to say that his work is completely satisfactory to the whole parish of Douro, and that he has given them a job which they are unanimously proud of.

CAUGHT A BAD ONE.

Cowboy Sack, an Undesirable American Visitor, Landed in Sail.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The mounted police authorities at North Portal, Saskatchewan, have reported to head quarters the arrest of a well-known "bad man" named Chas. Monaghan alias "Cowboy Jack," a well-known American character, who has been trying to set Canadian authority at defiance.

Cowboy Jack on the occasions of his visits to Canada usually succeeded in starring up affairs, and then slipped back across the border before the Canadian police could catch him. Last month, however, after raising a fuss in a hotel, he was captured by Constable Hogg, and is now doing a year's sentence for riding his horse into hotels and otherwise playing rough house.

THE APSLEY SOCIAL

A Correspondent of the Times Has Something to Say.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, Apsley, announced a social for the evening of July 17th, which has since been reported a failure. Why? because a man (?) (I can't but call him a gentleman) came to the social, influenced against it by one of more of his disciples to throw cold water on it, and, on learning they were charging an admission fee of 25c., went to the lady door-keeper and ordered her to refund the money she had collected. Now all those who came gave their 25c. freely, knowing it was for the church and to help pay this same man's salary, and they would get the worth of their money. Everybody who came had all they wished of fruit and cream, cake, etc., and the little man ate heartily along with the rest. Of course, he thought he was doing his duty towards the few who were opposed to the social, and they were only a very few. The majority were strongly in favor of having a social and they would have thanked him to mind his own business, as the ladies were quite capable of managing their own affairs. He now goes around with a scornful laugh, making it public conversation and saying the social was a complete failure and he soon made them give the people their money back; calling it disgrace to charge and that not 60% cent of that money would have been accepted by the church. Now this same man would have accepted the money last spring, and not asked where it came from or how it was collected.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

To the Fagged Girl.

Start finding out the cost of food. Learn the cuts of the joints also when certain items of diet such as game, fish, etc., are in season. Then study cooking. Even though your lover's income may be sufficient to provide a reliable servant or servants, you should, nevertheless, know thoroughly how everything should be cooked. Then, in the matter of housework, master all its details. Do not imagine that because you will not have to sweep rooms, clean silver and burnish brass you need know nothing of such work. On the contrary, you should be proficient in every household trifle or you are not fit to be an employer of domestic labor.

Cleaning Porcelain.

Common house ammonia is much better for cleaning porcelain than sand soaps. Many of the stains on porcelain tubs, washbasins and sinks are caused by allowing them to be injured. When new porcelain is smooth and is rubbed with sand soaps it becomes rough, and it is quite impossible to remove the discoloration.

Coarse Eyebrows.

In the event of the brows being staring and coarse a bit of mucilage or bandoline applied at night after smoothing them into shape will prove effectual. Quite a bit of difference in the brows can be accomplished by accentuating the upper line by rubbing the hairs up from the bottom, or vice versa.

Dress and Emotion.

Every woman knows that the consciousness of being ill dressed has a distinct effect on her expression and manner. On the other hand, the feeling that one is well and tastefully dressed imparts a cheerfulness to the spirits that finds clear expression in the looks.—Drapers' Record.

Many Deserters From The Ranks

Westerners Make More Money With Pitchfork and Shovel Than With a Gun.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—That the permanent force of the Canadian militia is still undermanned is exemplified by the difficulty the recruiting sergeants have in filling the depleted ranks in the West and the desertions that are constantly occurring here. In the short time the Royal Canadian Mounted Rifles have been in camp at the Sturgeon Creek Rifle Ranges there have been seventeen desertions, and the squadron was not complimented when it was under canvas.

The time bear the West is calling. The wheat fields and construction camps of the big railroads look good to them, and the prospects of high wages for the rest of the year in the two Dakotas account for much of this unceremonious manner of leaving the colors. It is said that the strenuous discipline of an officer lately arrived from the east has not tended toward a longing to stay with the old regiment, and consequently his Majesty's red coat and rifle are the easier exchanged for a suit of overalls and a pitchfork or shovel, as the case may be.

ONE MAN TO SIX HORSES.

According to reports, deducting the services and batman of the officers and non-commissioned officers cooks and men otherwise employed than in the ranks, there is one man to every six horses.

A similar mix-up affair occurred in June, when the regular batteries went into camp at Petawa. Each battery would be about 120 strong on paper, but an average of fifty-seven answered the roll.

DON'TS FOR THIN WOMEN.

Don't walk to excess. A short walk will be beneficial, but long walks are flesh reducing.

Don't strive for long waisted effects. The longer you make yourself look the thinner you will appear.

Don't wear black. Black has a tendency to make any one look slender. Light clothes are the most becoming.

Don't stay up late at night. Get at least nine hours' good sleep. A woman needs more sleep than a man, and nothing keeps her in good condition like lots of sleep.

Don't wear stripes. Checks, plaids and horizontal effects are better for thin women. They should strive for becoming, deceiving effects if they study art in dressing at all.

Don't forget that a well rounded figure makes you look younger and is considered a mark of beauty. Starchy foods, massage, moderate exercise, rest and sleep should produce this.

Children and Manners.

Did you ever stop to think that children, as a rule, know each other far better than their parents and teachers do? Boys and girls show their real characters at play, when they have not the restraint of the presence of their elders or any incentive to appear at their best. So when you tell your boy you wish he would be as gentlemanly and polite as Harry Lee your view point is that of Harry's conduct in your house when he comes on an errand or to play with your boy. Your son knows him as he is when off guard on the playground selfish, rude, sly, perhaps and he resents being asked to copy such a character, says a writer in the Mother's Magazine. Quite likely your boy has on his company manners, too, when away to an extent you would hardly believe. Children have pride in their behavior, and it is an old saying, well proved, that they often behave better when their parents are not around.

Brush Your Eyebrows.

Do you ever brush your eyebrows? You look after your hair and hands with religious care. But perhaps it never occurs to you that your eyebrows might be improved by a little attention. Buy a soft little eyebrow brush, made especially for this purpose, and night and morning brush the brows in the way they should go. If they aren't going the right way then train them to. Suppose they are too thin. Then keep handy a little sweet almond oil and before brushing put a few drops of this on the finger tip and gently rub it into the eyebrow. If the lashes are short and scanty do the same thing to them. Treatment of this sort ought to make a noticeable difference in a few months. A very simple tonic for the eyebrows is composed of red vaseline and boric acid, five grains of the former to five of the latter. Make into a smooth paste and apply at night.

Oilcloth.

When oilcloth begins to lose its shiny surface it can be improved in appearance and made to last much longer by being varnished with glue. Wash the oilcloth thoroughly and let it dry. At night when the traffic of the day is done go over it with a piece of flannel dipped in glue water. Choose a nice dry day for this, and then the glue will be quite hard by morning, and the oilcloth will look like new. The glue water must be prepared some time before it is needed by putting a small quantity of glue in a pint or so of water and letting it stand on the stove till dissolved.

Dead Flies by the Ton.

A ton of dead flies was the strange cargo a vessel from Brazil unloaded at the London docks. Dead flies are admirable food for chickens, birds in captivity and captive fishes. The river Amazon abounds with flies. Brazilians float down the stream in boats and scoop in millions of the flies which circle in dense clouds just above the water's edge. The flies are killed, dried thoroughly in the sun and packed in bags. They are then shipped. Dead flies constitute one of the richest of foods for animals. For chickens the flies are mixed with other ingredients, such as millet and corn. By themselves the flies are too rich, but their power of nourishment is so great that a small quantity of them has a most beneficial effect. Two years ago the Brazilian Government stopped the exportation, being afraid that the fish in the rivers would suffer by being deprived of this fly food. But the prohibition has been removed. Formerly dead flies sold at 10 cents a pound, but the demand has grown and the supply so lessened that 30 cents a pound is now charged.

"PE-RU-NA WORKED WONDERS"

Says a Well-Known Canadian.

MR. P. BRIEN.

Mr. P. Brien, Accountant, residing at 28 Third street, Limoilou, Quebec, writes:

"The fatigues entailed by my duties as accountant began to weaken my system about a year ago. I felt that I would not long be able to withstand the severe strain upon my nerves, as, a thing unknown to me before, I would long for office hours to be over in order to rest.

"I gradually grew weaker and a few months later my sight was impaired. I then broke down completely and was obliged to take my bed. I was also suffering from palpitation of the heart.

"After a few weeks' treatment by a local physician, I was in the same critical condition, and as the doctor held out no great prospects for me, I decided to experiment on myself.

"I took several remedies advertised as tonics, but did not derive any benefit.

"Peruna was then given a trial, and before I had taken it a week I felt my condition improving. After a few weeks more had elapsed, during which time I followed the directions carefully, my shattered nervous system became firmer, my sight stronger and I hoped to be out soon again.

"My expectations were realized, for in three weeks I assumed my duties as accountant at the office.

"Peruna certainly worked wonders on my system, and for persons run-down from overwork, I believe it is the most efficacious tonic."

Pe-ru-na Is a Systemic Catarrh Remedy, Especially Adapted to Cases of Nervous Prostration, Caused By Overwork, Mental Strain Or Extreme Summer Heat.

IN latitudes where warm weather is of long continuance, the inhabitants become more or less accustomed to it.

In Temperate Zones, however, where the change from winter to summer is great, the system is sometimes poorly prepared to meet the exigencies of hot weather. This is the cause of much sickness.

Stomach catarrh, indigestion and dyspepsia are not among the least of summer ailments.

When the digestion is disturbed, the assimilation is also affected, and as a result the body does not receive the nourishment it should. Lassitude, weakness, brain fag, loss of flesh and nervous prostration are the natural results.

INDIGESTION CAUSES WEAKNESS

What is needed is a remedy that will restore the digestive organs to their normal condition.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It has proven itself of priceless value in thousands of cases of this kind.

Its action has been seemingly miraculous in restoring some patients who had given up all hope of recovery.

But there is nothing strange about Peruna's action. It simply tones up the mucous membranes of the organs involved restoring them to their normal conditions and leaving Nature to perform her duties unhindered.

PE-RU-NA'S BENEFICIAL EFFECT.

That person who has sound, healthy mucous membranes lining the entire digestive tract is well-guarded against the usual summer ailments.

Peruna is the means whereby to attain this most desirable condition.

If you suffer from any of the above-mentioned symptoms, try a bottle of Peruna.

One bottle of this remedy is sufficient to convince any one of its merit as a safe and reliable remedy for all catarrhal conditions.

We have many letters of gratitude received from persons who have experienced its benefits.

These testimonials are proof to us that Peruna has not failed in the mission for which it was intended, that of relieving suffering and restoring health.

Assistant War Correspondent Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Mr. H. B. Manley, assistant War Correspondent during the War in China, care "Black and White," 668 Craig St., Montreal, Canada, writes:

"When a man travels in extremely hot or cold climates, he realizes how valuable a friend he has if he carries a bottle of Peruna.

"I know of no article in my traveling outfit which I have learned to praise higher.

"If you are suffering with the extreme heat, Peruna restores you, or if you are afflicted with a cold, la grippe or bronchitis, Peruna restores you in a short time.

"Or if you suffer with sleeplessness or if your appetite is poor, again Peruna acts as a good, true friend and is the tonic needed.

"I have tried it for months and am only too glad to acknowledge it as a true, loyal standby in times of trouble. I do not hesitate to recommend it to all."

"WILL ENGLAND MAKE NO SIGN?"

The shame of a Majuba Hill
Lies heavy on our line,
But there is shame completer still,
And England makes no sign,
Unchallenged, in the market-place
Of freedom, chosen land,
Our rulers pass our rule and race
Into the stranger's hand.

At a great price you loosed the yoke,
Neath which our brethren lay,
(Your dead that perished ere 'twas broke
Are scarcely dust to-day)
Think you, ye freed them at that price?
Wake, or your toil is vain!
Our rulers Jugglingly devise
To sell them back again

Back to the ancient bitterness,
Ye ended once for all
Back to oppression none may guess,
Who have not borne its thrall—
Back to the slough of their despond
Helots anew held fast,
By England's "Seal upon the bond,"
As helots to the last.

What is their sin, that they are made
Rebellion's lawful prey?
This is their sin, that oft betrayed,
They did not oft betray
That to their hurt they kept their vows,
That for their faith they died.
God help thee, children of our house,
Whom England hath denied.

But we, what God shall turn our doom,
What blessing dare we claim,
Who slay a nation in the womb,
To crown a trickster's game?
Who come before amazed mankind,
Forsworn in party feud
And search the forms of law to bind
Our blood to servitude

Now, even now, before men learn
How near we broke our trust,
Now, even now, ere we return
Dominion to the dust;
Now, ere the gates of Mercy close
Forever 'gainst the line
That sells its sons to serve its foes,
Will England make no sign?

—Rudyard Kipling.

Baby's Eyes.

Absolute cleanliness is one of the most important things to consider. The infant's eyes should be bathed two or three times a day and dried with a very soft fine towel or handkerchief. If, as is sometimes the case, the eyelids get incrusted from cold or other causes, great care is needed to prevent the lashes being pulled out when the matter is removed. The proper course to pursue is to bathe the eye with lukewarm milk and water and afterward apply a very little pure vaseline to the edge of the upper lid.

Spanish Fritters.

An excellent way to use a stale loaf of bread is to make what are known as Spanish fritters. Cut stale bread into even slices. Dip each into a mixture of egg and milk, using one egg to a cup and a half of milk. Butter a hot frying pan and brown the slices in it. Serve them hot, either with a little powdered sugar and cut lemon or with a bit of currant jelly. Sometimes a pinch of grated nutmeg is added to the egg and milk, and as this is a sufficient flavor when it is used the lemon will not be needed.

Spirits of camphor should not be used on the complexion. It is very strong and will cause the cuticle to become rough.

For the removal of grease spots from woolen dresses salt dissolved in alcohol is recommended.

KRUGER'S GRANDSON

Has Been Arrested on a Charge of Murder in the Transvaal.

Stephanus Paul Kruger Smit, a grandson of the late President Kruger, has been arrested in the Rustenburg district of the Transvaal on a charge of murder, says a recent despatch to The London Daily Mail.

It is stated that he had been for some time in negotiation with a man named Herman Davis in regard to certain buried treasure of which Smit was supposed to possess knowledge. This treasure was stated to consist of bullion and to be worth £60,000, and Mr. Davis, who believed in Smit's story, even communicated with the Government as to whom it should be delivered to when brought into Pretoria.

On June 21 Smit called at Davis' house, and together they drove in a cart towards Daspoort, where they were to search for the treasure. Nothing further was seen of them till the evening, when Smit, who was alone, pulled up near Zwart Spruit Hotel, twelve miles from Pretoria.

Mrs. Davis, becoming anxious at the absence of her husband, applied to the police, who found that the cart used by Smit on the day of the search was spattered with blood stains, and that there was a bullet hole in the hood. The veldt was then scoured, and, after a prolonged search, Davis' body was discovered in a lonely spot about six miles from Pretoria, with four bullet wounds in the head and neck. Fragments of promissory notes, the property of the dead man, were also found on the veldt.

Smit was arrested while in bed at his house at Rhenosterfontein, but when he heard the charge he denied all knowledge of it.

At the inquest on Mr. Davis, Smit's sister-in-law stated that he had borrowed her cart, and the morning after he had returned it he came to say good-bye, stating that the detectives were after him, and asked her not to tell anybody that he had had the cart.

The magistrate, says The Cape Times, considered there were good grounds for suspicion that the wounds were inflicted by Smit, and committed him for trial on a charge of murder.

For Tapering Fingers.

Frenchwomen have always taken great pride in tapering finger tips, and to this is probably due the invention of little devices for training them in the way they should go. They are little things, like steel thimbles, and are lined with soft felt. There are different sizes for the various fingers, and these are adjusted by pressing them to the desired size. The pressure should not be hard enough to cause any discomfort. Of course, results are not at once visible, but by continually wearing these little devices at night and as often during the day as convenient even very thick finger ends may be trained into a much more tapering effect.

Poor Little Queen.

The queen of Holland when a child was in consequence of her position shut away from many youthful pleasures and often denied the companionship of those of her own age.

On one occasion she was heard to say to a supposed refractory doll, "Now, be good and quiet, because if you don't I will turn you into a queen, and then you will not have anything to play with at all!"

The Restless Brook.

Do you suppose the babbling brook
Would stop and rest its head
If some one got a scoop and took
The pebbles from its bed?

The Retort Caustic.

An American in Devonshire, according to The London Tribune, had been told he must not miss seeing a certain peculiar rock formation known locally as "Satan's Stool." While leisurely examining the curiosity he was accosted by an irate military-looking man, who demanded in unprintable language what he meant by trespassing on private property. "Waal," said the Yankee, "I was told I should make a point of seeing 'Satan's Stool,' but I never guessed I should have the pleasure of meeting the owner."

The King's Wardrobe.

King Edward's tailors have a standing order for 100 suits a year, apart from military uniforms and court dresses. The King selects the patterns and materials himself, but the suits are all fitted to a dummy, a skillful contrivance that perfectly represents his person. The royal wardrobe at Buckingham palace is ninety feet long by thirty-six feet wide.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience.

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $225,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and in all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving rich incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

luring to destruction? Good Heaven! what blackness of wickedness! Stand out of my way, sir, and let me pass. Your presence darkens the very sunshine to me!" exclaimed the maiden, with a horror so real that it could not have been concealed.

"Rose! I have twice asked you what is the meaning of this attack. I have a right to an answer."

"You shall have it, Mr. Hastings. But first, perhaps, you will explain to me how it is, that on this, your wedding day, and hour, you are here, questioning me, instead of being at the church with Lady Etheridge?"

He saw, by her manner and her expression, that she knew too much for him to attempt to carry on the deception. He felt no other course was possible for him but to tell the truth, and defend his conduct as best he might. He said:

"Rose, it is true that many months before I knew you and love, partly to please my father, who desired the marriage, and partly to please the lady who conferred upon me the honor of her preference, I contracted myself to Laura Etheridge, without a particle of love on my side entering into the affair. Afterward I saw you, Rose of the world, and loved you, the first and only woman I ever did love, the last and only woman I ever shall love. I could not forego the pleasure of seeking your dear presence, and beseeching your love. If I approached you under an assumed name, it was a lover's stratagem, and as such, you will forgive me. If I sought to make you mine upon unequal terms, it was a lover's extravagance, and, as such, you may pardon it. I love you, Rose, with a whole and undivided heart. In proof of which, I have this day done what I should have done months ago. I have broken with Lady Etheridge, and I have come hither to throw myself upon your mercy, to beg pardon for all the wrongs done or meditated against you, to lay my heart, hand and fortune at your beloved feet, and to beg you to be my wife Rose, I am at your feet. Will you forgive me? Will you accept my hand, and be my beloved wife?" he supplicated, sinking upon one knee, and taking her hand.

She snatched it from him and shrunk away, exclaiming:

"You have broken with Lady Etheridge! Double traitor! false to me! False to her! Who shall trust you?"

"Rose! Rose! I do not merit these bitter reproaches from you—not from you! To you, at least, I have been true!"

"But false to her! false to that noble lady who gave you all she possessed, and, above all, her whole heart's rich love! Ah! do you think, sir, that I admire treachery any more, because another is to suffer by it rather than myself? Shall I thank you, because you have turned traitor to Lady Etheridge, rather than to me? No! no! no! no! a thousand times no! I spurn the faithless heart! Go! leave me, Mr. Hastings! Your presence infects the very air I breathe!"

"Rose! Rose! Why this fierce indignation against one who adores you? Why do you continue to strike one who loves you too tenderly to retort? If for a time I vacillated between the lady who had my promise and the maiden who possessed my heart, if finally, I broke with the lady and decided for the maiden, was that so great a crime? If so, you at least, Rose, who profit by it, should not reproach me with it," said Albert Hastings, bitterly.

"I profit by your treachery! I pick up your broken faith, and wear it as a trophy! Never! Know me better, Mr. Hastings."

"Rose, you are very cruel."

"Listen to me once more, and for the last time, and you will understand why you and I must speak no more on earth. Yesterday afternoon you met me, breathing vows of sincere, undivided, undying love!"

"Which were true, Rose! as true as heaven!"

"They were? Well, so I believed them to be, and so I, hoping in a fool's paradise, left you. Well, when I reached home, my mother, very unexpectedly on my part, dispatched me to the castle to request Lady Etheridge to come to see her. On reaching the castle I was shown to the library, where I found the lady sitting with documents before her, and with her noble face beaming with happiness and benedictions, as though she were anticipating the arrival of some one upon whom she was about to bestow some new token of her love—some unexampled good. In a word, Mr. Hastings, this noble and generous lady was expecting her betrothed husband, upon whom she was about to bestow in advance her whole vast landed estate. I had scarcely time to deliver my message and to gain her consent to come to my mother, when your name was announced. The dear lady, who had nothing to conceal, did not send me from the room, but bade me retire to the bay-window seat, and amuse myself with some prints until she should be at liberty to go with me. I obeyed her, and in another moment, your name, your true name, and not the false one by which I had known you, was announced, and you entered the room. I heard your voice, and recognizing it, started and turned around to assure myself that my ears had not deceived me. No; there you stood, breathing to her the same vows of sincere, undivided, undying love, that you had just three hours before breathed to me! And there she stood, noble lady; with all her loyal soul beaming from her fine face, believing your words that fell from your false tongue, just as I believed you three hours before! To her you have been false, but to her I will be so true, that I will spurn the traitor heart you take from her to offer to me. I will always defend my sister woman, with all my might, against the world, the flesh, and the demon, if need be. So, may the Saviour of us all defend me at my greatest need. Take yourself out of my way, and let me pass, Mr. Hastings."

"And will you not forgive me, Rose?"

"If ever the Lord gives me grace enough, I may. I cannot yet."

"Will you not wish me well, then? She with whom, for your sake I broke faith, she wished me well."

"She is the Baroness Etheridge, of Swinburne, a peeress of the realm, a noble lady. Yet she has a meeker heart than I, the cottage girl, possess. I cannot so easily forgive. We waste time. Let me pass." And Rose, putting out her white arms, seemed to sweep him aside, while, with the air of a young princess, she passed on her way.

CHAPTER VIII.

The father and son met at dinner. Mrs. Montgomery was at the head of the table. The good lady was full of anxious inquiries as to the condition of that dying friend to whom Lady Etheridge had been so inopportunely summoned.

Colonel Hastings took but little notice of Mrs. Montgomery's remarks. He was absorbed in much more weighty matters, and was anxious to be alone with his son. As soon as the cloth was removed, and the wine set upon the table, she retired, leaving the gentlemen alone.

"Now, then," exclaimed Colonel Hastings, turning toward his son, "here is a dilemma. What do you think of this?"

"Nay, I should ask that question of yourself, my dear sir. You, I understand, have been at the bedside of this woman Elmer, and have taken her dying deposition. What do you think of it?"

Before answering, Colonel Hastings arose and went to each door to be sure that no one was hearing. Then he returned to his seat, stooped close to the ear of his son, and whispered:

"I think that the little village maiden, Rose Elmer, is the true Baroness Etheridge, of Swinburne. I think that the evidence leaves no doubt upon the question; and if that evidence should come before the House of Lords, she would be immediately declared as such."

"Well?"

"But that evidence shall never come before the tribunal. I was the magistrate who took that dying woman's deposition. The only other witness is in my pay, and at my mercy, and I know how to keep him subservient to one who can reward him with gold, or punish him with a jail; and he will be silent until I give him leave to speak. So make up your quarrel with Laura, and all evidence that might shake her in her possessions shall be suppressed."

"And suppose she refuses to make it up?"

"Then hold this evidence over her head as a rod of iron. Let her understand that, unless she consents to become your wife, you will bring forward this evidence of another's claim, and hurl her down from her high position. Let her find that her only safety is in becoming your wife."

"But now," suggested his son, "suppose that I, myself, decline to make up the quarrel?"

"You? Pooh! nonsense! I don't understand you!" hastily exclaimed the colonel.

"Well, then, I will explain. To begin. You never imagined that I really loved this woman?" asked Mr. Hastings, with a sneer.

"Nay, excuse me! I always gave you credit for judgment to appreciate Lady Etheridge. Whether you really loved Laura or not, I cannot tell."

"You were quite right. I always appreciated Lady Etheridge, of Swinburne. As my father, you ordered me to appreciate her—as a good son I obeyed you. At your command I proposed for her hand, and was accepted. But it was only Lady Etheridge that I valued. If you suppose that I cared for Laura you are mistaken. If we had married, we should have led a terrible life. No; I detested Laura; but I valued the Baroness Etheridge, of Swinburne."

"Well; to what does all this tend?" asked the colonel, impatiently.

"Why, to the solution of a problem that has plagued my heart for the last twelve months."

"In faith, I do not understand you at all!" exclaimed the old man, almost losing his forebearance.

"Then I will explain. I hated Laura, but valued the Baroness Etheridge, of Swinburne. I still hate Laura, and still value the Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne, who, it seems, is not Laura, but Rose Elmer, the poor maiden, whom I have loved for more than twelve months."

CHAPTER IX.

Meantime Laura Elmer watched by the deathbed of her new-found mother. It was a dreary vigil to the fallen peeress.

At length Rose came in, bringing a basin of gruel, which she affectionately pressed upon the sick woman's acceptance.

"Yes, I will take it, Rose; for I need a little strength to support what is yet to come," said Mrs. Elmer, while Laura raised her up, and supported her on the bed, and Rose fed her with spoonfuls of the restorative.

When she had taken sufficient, and was laid upon the bed, and when Rose had put away the basin, and resumed her seat at the bedside, Mrs. Elmer said:

"Child of my love and care, if not of my blood, do you remember the conversation we had yesterday afternoon before I sent you to the castle?"

"I do."

"You thought that very strange talk?"

"Yes, dear mother, but I ascribed it to your illness; you were not well."

"Nay, I was in my perfect senses, Rose, though I remember that you thought me mad and raving. I was not delirious then, dear Rose, nor am I now, when I address you as Rosamond, Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne," said Mrs. Elmer, solemnly.

"Oh, mother! mother. Pray do not ramble so dreadfully," exclaimed Rose, blushing scarlet; and then turning to her visitor, and saying: "I am humbled to the earth, dear lady, to think that my poor mother will ramble so wildly! Please forgive her; she does not know what she is saying; her poor head is so bad."

"She knows what she is saying, Rose," gravely replied the lady.

"Oh! indeed she does not! She is rambling, wandering in her mind. She never would offend your ladyship so if she were in her right mind, or knew what she is saying. Pray do not be angry with her," pleaded Rose, with tears in her eyes.

"I am not angry with her; nor do you understand either me or her. She knows what she says; and I know that she speaks the truth," replied Laura, gravely.

"I—I am afraid that I am very stu-

NASTY SITUATION IS THE RESULT

But the Death of Five Jap Poachers Will Not Lead to Any Complications.

Washington, Aug. 10.—There is no reason to expect international complications as a result of the incident yesterday reported to Washington, in which five Japanese were killed, but there is no question that the situation in the Aleutian Islands, especially as it affects the Japanese, is a delicate one and that numerous difficulties are almost certain to be encountered in enforcing the laws protecting American citizens and their rights.

The cable despatch from Mr. Saul does not make entirely clear the character of the offence of which the Japanese were guilty, but it does that the officers and crew of the McCulloch were in no way responsible for the killing of the fishermen, and that those who were captured were trespassers on American territory, having come ashore probably to salt and cure their catch.

JAPS CHIEF POACHERS.

When the bill to prohibit aliens from fishing in Alaskan waters was under consideration in the House the Committee on Territories informed that body that the message was "especially intended to exclude Japanese fishermen from fishing in Alaskan waters." The committee further stated, however, that "this is not by reason of the existence in the United States of any feeling of hostility toward the Japanese people, but because of the proximity of Japan to Alaska the Japanese fishermen [illegible] more in Alaskan waters than [illegible] other aliens combined."

RAIDERS WERE BURGLARS.

Seals are recognized as property by international law, and the Japanese killed by the American officials stand in the same position as burglars shot in the act of stealing according to prominent authorities on international law. No international incident can result from the shooting of the Japanese poachers, it is said at the State Department. The United States Government has no amends to make to Japan other than those that courtesy may prompt.

ANCIENT WATER VILLAGES.

Relic of Old Customs Prevailing in the "Spreewald."

One of the most interesting regions in the "old fatherland" is the so called "Spreewald," the forest of the Spree, situated not far from the German capital, in the province of Brandenburg. Each village is a little Venice, every house a little island, and these islets are connected by bridges sufficiently raised to allow boats to pass under them. Most of the houses, with their barns and stables, rest on piles, and there is generally a strip of artificial terra firma either in front or at the rear of every building. By means of these land strips and of the bridges the slender land communication is kept throughout the district, but most of the business and amusement are carried on through the canals, which not only form the main highways, but penetrate and cross and recross the whole region. It is on these lagoons that all traffic is conducted in boats during the period from spring when the last vestiges of frost and ice are disappearing until the end of autumn. You see the letter carrier shoot up and down the canals, performing his duties in his frail craft; the police glide leisurely along the banks, watching everything going on; peasants bring the products of their toil to the nearest towns; children go to and from school; young mothers, dressed in their Sunday clothes, are rowed to church, carrying in their arms a small, queer looking bundle from which two large eyes in a tiny face stare at the stranger in wonderment—baby is going to be baptized, an important moment with this strongly religious people.

The Healthiest Trade.

It is stated that the healthiest trade in the world is that of dyemaking from coal tar. The average life of a tar worker is eighty-six years.

Wheat.

Experiments show that wheat has the same nutrition no matter where it is raised. Even though the plant itself gets very poor food it turns out a grain of uniformly high nutrition. The amount of wheat alone varies.

Florida Ants.

There are more ants to the square mile in Florida than in any other country in the world. There are ants that will measure more than half an inch in length, and then there are ants so small that they can scarcely be seen to move with the unaided eye.

Miss Lillian Wilson, who is a soloist of great quality of voice and late resident teacher of the Whitby Ladies' College, speaks in favor of the New Scale Williams Piano.

Gentlemen,

After using the New Scale Williams Piano for teaching and practising for about four months, I am pleased to advise that I am entirely satisfied with it in every way. It is delightful for accompanying the voice. I have very rarely found such purity and volume of tone in an upright piano, while the sustaining quality is excellent, and the action is easy and exceedingly responsive.

CHILDREN'S ACHES.

Make Sure Whether or Not They Are Rheumatic Pains.

Rheumatism is much more frequent in children than in grown people, especially that form called acute rheumatism. Many times the symptoms of rheumatism in children are attributed to growing pains when in reality rheumatism is developing. It has been estimated that at least 25 per cent of the children in our hospitals are there because of rheumatism. As is well known, acute rheumatism in children is liable to produce heart disease, from which the child rarely recovers. The patient may live several years, but is an invalid, and there is little hope for his entire recovery. Therefore, it is very important that rheumatism in children should be guarded against in every possible way.

There are three things that mothers can do to guard their children against rheumatism, especially during cold weather:

First.—See that they are dressed in warm flannels or at least fleece lined cotton undergarments; that their feet are kept dry by wearing overshoes when outdoors, which should be immediately removed when indoors.

Second.—An overindulgence in sweets, cheap candies, sirups and sugar tends to the production of rheumatism; hence the use of such things, especially between meals, should be prohibited. A liberal amount of sweets with meals should be allowed, but cheap candies between meals are productive of urates in the blood, which are a predisposing cause of rheumatism.

Third.—The child should be encouraged to drink freely of pure water. The habit of taking a glass of water before each meal is a very good one. To keep this up during the cold weather requires some attention on the part of the mother. During the warm weather the child is naturally inclined to drink water enough without any prompting, but during the winter season, when rheumatism is more prevalent, drinking water is neglected.—Medical Talk For the Home.

ARTISTIC SCREEN.

One That Combines Cheapness and Good Taste.

Screens are always useful in the home, and they may easily be made to lend an artistic air to any room. Good taste is shown in the screen illustrated herewith. It may be constructed of plain pine finished with white enamel paint or stained in color, of chestnut either stained or varnished or of other kinds of hard wood, varnished and polished to show the grain of the wood. The pictures at the top may be either water colors, affixed by a narrow molding, or a tooled sketch.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Wardrobe.

One of the most important things to be remembered in the care of one's clothes is keeping the wardrobes and cupboard in which they are hung in perfect order and cleanliness, and, above all things, do not forget that they need frequent airing. On a sunny day the doors should be left open for several hours and the fresh air allowed to circulate thoroughly. A bottle of spirits of camphor, with the cork removed, may be hung on a hook. This will keep out moths and give a fresh, clean odor to the garments, but not strong enough to make them offensive when worn. Cedar oil, if preferred, may be used in the same way. A dress bodice should never be put away without airing.

A Clothes Tree.

The furniture of a sewing room should always include a clothes tree, which may be purchased at small expense. For hanging unfinished garments it is of the greatest use, and, of course, there should be a supply of coat hangers, which cost only a few cents each. This is decidedly the best method of disposing of garments that are as yet in unfinished stages. Quite often they must be left with sleeves pinned in or trimming pinned on in such a way that it is most inconvenient to fold them. If the clothes tree is covered with sheets the garments will be quite as free from dust as if folded away in drawers.

For Shabby Leather.

For improving shabby leather chairs take a pint of linseed oil, boil it and let it stand till nearly cold, then stir in half a pint of vinegar. Stir till mixed, then bottle for use. When required, shake the bottle well, pour a little on a soft cloth, rub well into the leather, turning the flannel as it gets dirty, then rub with a soft duster till the polish is restored. This polish softens the leather and prevents it from cracking.

Aconite.

Aconite is the active principle of the plant known as Aconitum napellus, which grows in the mountainous districts of Europe, Siberia and central Asia. It is well known from appearing as an ornamental plant in flower gardens. Aconite as a medicine was first used by Storck in 1762, being employed then, as now, in infinitesimal doses.

DREAM MYSTERY.

The Events That May Be Crowded Into a Few Seconds.

The duration of a dream is so seldom accurately measured that a story published in the St. Louis Medical Record is worth repeating.

The writer, a doctor, was seized with an uncontrollable drowsiness during a call and was struggling to keep awake when he was asked by his companion, "How long may you stay in B.?" His answer, which came promptly enough, was, "That depends on the Western Union," and, catching himself, he explained that he was expecting a telegram. In fact, however, his answer related to the facts of a dream which had been sandwiched between the two parts of the sentence.

After hearing the words "How long" the doctor had dozed off, dreamed that after long and tedious experiments he had invented a wonderful apparatus for holding telegraph poles in a vertical position, had negotiated with the postal company for its sale, but unsuccessfully, and had finally gone to the authorities of the other company. They, in the dream, told him they were considering a German invention for the same purpose, and the dreamer crossed the ocean to examine the rival device, returned, explained the differences to the intending purchaser and was writing a reply when he woke in time to hear the end of his companion's question.

The events of the dream had apparently consumed months, yet the actual time that elapsed was merely that required for uttering about four short words.

Precedent For "Governess."

Albert, VII., archduke of Austria, married Isabella Clara Eugenie, infanta of Spain, who brought to him as dowry the sovereignty of the Low Countries, etc. When Philip IV. of Spain ascended the throne in 1621 he took from his aunt the sovereignty of the Low Countries, but left her the title of governess. Her husband died soon after, whereon she took the veil, though still retaining the reins of government. She died at Brussels in 1633, aged sixty-six. Here there is precedent for the use of the word governess when a lady holds the post.—London Notes and Queries.

Paid For the Opinion.

Shortly after Chief Justice Parley of the court of appeals of New Hampshire had retired from the bench and resumed the practice of his profession a man called on him to get his opinion in a certain matter. After stating his case clearly he said, "Well, judge, what do you think of my case?" The judge promptly replied, "I think you are a scoundrel." "How much do I owe you for that opinion?" inquired the client. "Ten dollars," demanded the judge. The fee was promptly paid.

Rhodesia's Largest Nugget.

Weighing 21 62 ounces, a gold nugget which measures five and a half inches in length and three inches in width was recently found near Bulawayo. It is believed to be the largest yet found in Rhodesia, and is now in the British South Africa company's museum at 2 London Wall buildings, E. C.—London Mail.

The Woman of It.

Mother (impatiently)—You have been very naughty today, Juanita. I shall have to tell your father when he comes home. Juanita (aged seven)—That's the woman of it! You never can keep anything to yourself!

The Determining Factor.

Helen—Sometimes I like waltzing and sometimes I do not. Ethel—It depends on your mood? Helen—It depends on my partner.

Of all persecutions, that of calumny is the most intolerable.—Hazlitt.

Candlelight.

Hail, candlelight, without disparagement to the sun or moon, the kindliest luminary of the three, if we may not style thee radiant deputy, mild viceroy of the moon! We love to read, talk, sit silent, eat, drink, sleep by candlelight. They are everybody's sun and moon. This is our peculiar and household planet. By the midnight taper the writer digests his meditations. By the same light we must approach to their perusal if we would catch the flame, the ether. Night and silence call out the starry fancies. Milton's "Morning Hymn In Paradise," we would hold a good wager, was penned at mid night, and Taylor's rich description of a sunrise smells decidedly of the taper. Even now a loftier speculation than we have attempted courts our endeavors. We would indite something about the solar system. "Betty, bring the candles."

Weak Lungs

Cherry Pectoral breaks up this taking-cold habit. It strengthens, heals. Ask your doctor, the very next time you see him, what he thinks of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for weak lungs.

It is the old story of a weak throat, a tendency to weak lungs in the family. You no sooner get rid of your old cold than a new one takes its place. Ayer's

TOM THUMB SACHETS.

A Way to Use Up Your Little Odds and Ends of Ribbon.

A use has been found for the little odds and ends of ribbon useless heretofore, yet too pretty to throw away. They are now used for Tom Thumb sachets, which are just the thing for birthday tokens, luncheon favors or for pinning into one's gown to impart a delicate fragrance. The tiny pocket which contains the sachet powder, about an inch square, is sewed to the ribbon, the ends of which are brought forward to cover the bag and are snipped to form a dainty flower. Of course upon the morsel of ribbon in hand depends the kind of flower to be made. Thus pale pink makes a charming little wild rose, purple a pansy, yellow a buttercup, white a dogwood and so on. The shaping of the petals is most important, as upon this as well as the coloring depends much of the naturalness of the flower. The center of the blossom is added by means of a few stitches in floss of the appropriate color, yellow being used for the wild rose, and so forth. When employed as luncheon favors the little sachets are furnished with temporary stems of wire so as to hang upon the edge of the water tumblers.

IMPROVE THE KITCHEN.

Try the Effect of Hanging Up a Picture or Two.

Hang at least one picture in your kitchen in such a place that it will meet your eye a score of times daily. Let it be a landscape or a figure or a picture "that tells a story," only be sure that it is not a scene that reproduces something of the daily routine.

If practicable, change the picture for another once a week or month. Good prints of the best pictures can be had. Take a look at the picture often, seeing what it means, or, rather, realizing each time what it says to you personally.

This will break up the monotony, which is the deadliest thing about housework and some other occupations, and will help to prevent the formation of the "fixed idea," which is the seed of most mental and emotional troubles.

Just try this for a month. You will find this suggestion one to be thankful for, always bearing in mind that "the point of the idea lies in the application of it."—Exchange.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Dry your saucepans before you put them away.

Coffee grounds kept in the sink strainer will catch grease and thus prevent clogging of the pipes.

A cloth dipped in boiling water, wrung out and placed over fish that has been boiled will keep it warm for quite a while.

Sprinkle a little crushed borax on a flannel cloth that has been wet in hot water and well soaped. This will brighten the copper like magic. Rinse and polish.

The odor that clings so persistently to a utensil in which fish or onions have been fried may be dispelled by placing in a hot oven for ten or fifteen minutes after washing and drying.

If a teaspoonful of concentrated lye with a cupful of water be put in a kettle whose contents have burned on the bottom and left to stand for a few hours there will be no trouble in removing the burned substance.

To Clean Jewelry.

A sharp pointed implement should never be employed to clean rings, as it loosens the stones. Soak them in liquid ammonia and the dirt will be loosened. Afterward they should be polished with a soft cloth. It is a good plan to keep rings in sawdust, as it enables the gems to retain their brilliancy. Warm water and a little prepared chalk are all that is required to clean plain or chased rings. Toilet articles, lorgnettes and other small trinkets may be easily brightened without the use of powder by placing them in an aluminium receptacle and pouring boiling water over them. Polishing should be done by means of a piece of clean chamois leather, but in adopting this treatment it must be remembered that the silver should never be allowed to become tarnished.

Testing Drinking Water.

If your drinking water comes through lead pipes, test it to see whether it contains any lead. Some water acts strongly upon a leaden pipe, and a year or two of using such water will bring on lead poisoning. In rare cases the water will form a coating, which will protect it from further contamination. There is more danger in warm weather than in cold. To be on the safe side, use this simple test occasionally: Boil a quart of water away till only a gill is left. In this put a tablespoonful of a solution of potassium iodide and let it stand overnight. If a yellow deposit has formed, lead is present in the water.

Frumpish Dress.

To be frumpish in dress is self murder as far as appearance goes. It is not necessary to spend a fortune or have a great quantity of garments, but have nothing that does not suit you or that fails to show off your best points. Make a study of yourself. Be certain of your opinions as to yourself and keep to them. If you have not money to squander, follow fashion at a distance. Never be out of fashion or wear what is diametrically opposed to her current whim, but never fall into the latest of her follies, for when she has changed her mind you will be out of it. Dress is the framework of the scheme of personal good looks.

Olive oil is the beauty doctor's cure all for poor complexions. He advises its use in every possible food, plenty of green salads reeking with it, and then doses of it by the teaspoonful, says an authority on health.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS LILLIAN MUSGAT.

A Fashion Artist Whose Work Brings Her a Princely Income.

Miss Lillian Musgat of Chicago enjoys the triple distinction of being the hardest working young woman in the world, of earning more money than any other woman commercial artist in the world—a much greater sum than is earned by any of her rivals among the sterner sex—and of having worked herself up within six years from nothing a week to an income that is princely. Only twenty-four years of age, she learned to draw fashion pictures in an engraving house, and now she has a studio of her own high up in Quincy street, where she has all the work she can do and is able to command prices paid to few if any of the fashion artists in the world.

This fashion artist, whose drawings are seen in the advertisements every morning in the Chicago papers and whose work probably is scanned by more women than that of any other artist, is classed by all those who know something of the amount of work she turns out as the hardest working woman in Chicago or in the world.

The fashion artist comparatively is a new employee of the engraver, and in no place is he paid more than living wages. His first fate is to commence and work without pay to learn, the learning to be accomplished without supervision or attention.

This was the way with Miss Musgat. She worked a couple of years putting in checks and laces and ruffles and everything included under the mysterious name of "detail." It was apprenticeship, with no one to teach you—you just learned; that was all.

After Miss Musgat acquired a good knowledge of the business she took a course at the Art institute, then worked for a time on salary and finally opened a studio and started in business for herself. Since then her success has been phenomenal.—Chicago Tribune.

Decorative Crude Materials.

The various forms of work which have taken for themselves the modest name of handicraft have demonstrated in a striking way the immense possibilities for decorative purposes which lie hidden in the crudest materials. Burlap is only a development of bagging, and many another so called "art material" is nothing more than a stuff of homely origin, says an exchange.

Yet for their purposes these roder stuffs have in them a certain style that the more finely woven stuffs utterly lack. The coarsest crash made can be turned into the most artistic sort of hangings by stenciling, while a delicate silk stuff, though it might be prettily stenciled, would be utterly lacking in character.

Table covers and couch covers are made of rough bagging, treated in a bolder way, of course, like the delicate Mexican drawn work, the same spider webs and butterflies woven of threads in the open corners left, while threads that cross are drawn. That same bagging can be stenciled or motifs of it in colors may be appliqued into it, each part of the figure outlined with heavy thread—not unlike a sort of glorified twine.

Linen Hints.

When hanging your linen to dry use two lines comparatively close and parallel for your tablecloths and sheets. Throw one selvage side of your tablecloth over one line toward the other, allowing it to hang down about a quarter of a yard and being careful to pin it a short distance from the ends. Take the opposite for your cloth and throw it over the other line, facing the first line, and pin it in the same manner. This will form a sort of bag and will prevent to a considerable extent the wild blowing of the tablecloth in windy weather.

After the table linen is thoroughly dried remove it from the line and prepare to dampen it. A whisk broom is excellent for the purpose.

Table linen, in order to bring out the bright gloss that makes it attractive, should be dampened quite considerably. Sprinkle the tablecloths freely, being sure that the selvage ends or bemstitched borders are thoroughly damp, says Woman's Life. Roll up tightly, patting the roll frequently to spread the dampness.

Too Young to Marry.

A small paint brush with long, strong, supple bristles is the best thing with which to keep cut glass clean. It is the only means of reaching the dust in the small carvings.

She Forgave Boy Who Shot Her Daughter.

Mrs. Shwackhammer Tells Young Peter Wilson She Forgives Him—Shooting was Accidental.

Guelph, Aug. 10.—The coroner's jury enquiring into the death of the little Schwackhammer girl brought in the following verdict: "That Mary Augusta Schwackhammer came to her death by being shot by a gun in the hands of Peter Wilson on Saturday, Aug. 4, at about 6.30 in the afternoon."

The evidence all went to show that the shooting was purely accidental. There was none to show that there had been malice or anger on the part of the prisoner, Peter Wilson.

Mrs. Peter Wilson, of Toronto, the daughter of the boy under arrest, came up to Acton on the morning train yesterday, and will call on the inquest in the afternoon. She first only heard of the tragedy the day before, having been on a holiday at Lake Park, and when she met the boy on the Erin township side road there was an affecting scene.

FORGAVE THE BOY.

There was also a touching incident when Mrs. Augusta Schwackhammer, the mother of the deceased little girl, came out of the school house when the jury had retired and met young Wilson. She took him by the hand and said,

"I don't think you intended it; I forgive you, be a good boy and God will forgive you."

Young Wilson will appear here before County Police Magistrate Saunders on Monday morning, he having been remanded for a week, when first brought up here. What action will then be taken is doubtful, but he may not be sent up for trial.

HOME VAPOR BATHS.

Two Ways by Which Exercise Without Baths Can Be Obtained.

Sponging with salt water is often recommended as a tonic for delicate persons. A pound of coarse salt is dissolved in four gallons of water and the body well sponged with the solution. After drying brisk friction should be applied over the whole surface.

A vapor bath can be given by seating the person in a cane bottom chair, pinning a blanket around the neck and letting it fall to the ground on all sides. Under the blanket place a large pan two-thirds full of boiling water. Into this plunge hot bricks, one at a time (two or three will be enough). In a short time the patient will be in a perspiration. Dry with warm towels and put her to bed. This is effectual treatment for a bad cold if the sufferer can be kept warm the next day.

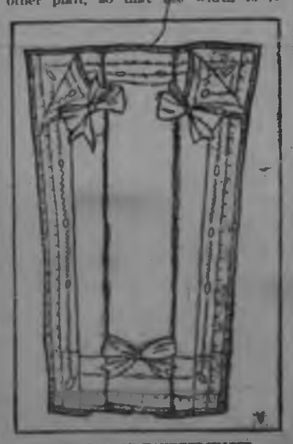
A vapor bath can be given in bed with the aid of a teakettle, a spirit lamp and two chairs. Substitute blankets for the cotton sheets, then make a tent of the bedclothes by raising them over the chairs, laid sideways on the bed, and introduce the spout of the teakettle under the tent. The kettle can be kept boiling by placing the lighted lamp underneath it.

A bath should not be given immediately after a full meal; but, if the strength is much reduced, some light refreshment before it will help the invalid to bear the fatigue with less exhaustion. Baths are an active remedial agency, and for that reason can easily be misapplied. They should never be given in serious illness without the sanction of the doctor in charge of the case, and his directions should be asked and followed in the matter of temperature and duration.

WASHABLE BRUSH BAG

A Dressing Table Convenience Made of Two Handkerchiefs.

From two fancy handkerchiefs, about thirteen inches square, a nice little washable brush bag to lie on the dressing table may be constructed. Fold in the middle of each a box plait about two inches wide, and at both sides another plait, so that the width is reduced to about six inches. If you pass an iron over the plaits they will stay in till you get the stitching done.



BRUSH BAG OF HANDKERCHIEFS.

Take each handkerchief separately and stitch across the box plait only at one end, about an inch from the edge. The end where this is done is for the opening. Now lay the handkerchiefs exactly over each other, right sides out. Commence about two inches from the opening end and an inch or so within the edge and sew down the side across the plaited end and to a corresponding point at the opposite side. Arrange your seam so as not to spoil the embroidery or printed pattern. For instance, it may run almost invisibly along a row of hemstitching. Turn back the top corners with a bow of ribbon and add another bow at the bottom of the bag. The opening spreads a little owing to the outer plaits being left unstitched.

Your Own Hair.

If your hair is so thin that you cannot carry out some desired style of coiffure without the assistance of a braid or rat, save your combings. When you have collected a large bundle take it to a good hairdresser, and he will untangle the mass and fashion whatever you wish, provided the quantity of hair permits. Then if anybody asks you if your hair is false you may truthfully say, "It is all my own."

IN COOKING MEAT.

Care Should Be Taken to Preserve the Juices.

Except for soup stock, meat should be cooked in a way to preserve its juices. In the first few minutes of boiling it should be subjected to a temperature higher than boiling point, so that a crust will form and keep in the juices. Then the temperature should be lowered and the meat merely simmered till done.

In roasting and broiling the same principle is followed. The meat is put directly into an extremely hot oven or over the flames and allowed to become seared over the surface, after which the temperature is lowered.

For soup stock meat should be put into cold stock or water and gradually brought to the boiling point in order that the juices may flow from it, adding strength to the stock.

When roasting beef some housewives to give it flavor rub the surface with an onion or place an onion on top of it.

A certain housewife who prepares delicious roasts says that she never bastes her meat with water, but uses the drippings instead.

THE BEDROOM.

It Should Have as Little Furniture in It as Possible.

Decorations and hangings for a bedroom should be of the daintiest material both in color and design.

Printed dimity is quite the prettiest and most inexpensive to use in furnishing a sleeping apartment. Curtains, bedspread, dresser covers and chair cushions may be made of it, though for the latter chints in the same design is heavier and more desirable.

In the properly appointed modern bedroom as little furniture as possible is used. This insures proper sanitary conditions, for the less there is to collect dust the better.

The floor should be either plain varnished wood, with a few rugs on it, or a denim carpet tacked close to the wall.

The bed is best of iron or brass, as it is less apt to collect dust or dirt. A pretty cover can be made for it of dimity, with ruffles at the edge, hanging well over the sides, but clearing the floor by several inches.

Improve Your Complexion

Give Up Cosmetics and Seek the Cause of Your Bad Color.

When it's so easy to bring back the bloom of youth, to remove the blemishes and fill the hollows, isn't it foolish to plaster on cosmetics?

Sallowed skin and fallen in cheeks are produced by disorders of the alimentary canal.

Remove the cause—correct the condition that keeps you from looking as you ought. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and very soon you'll have a complexion to be proud of.

Just imagine how much happier you will feel when those pimples and murky look have gone.

Dainty looks came to Miss Vrooman, a well-known resident of Belfast, from using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Read what she says:

"My friends all admit that I have a very delightful complexion. This I owe positively to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I used to look so yellow I thought it might be jaundice. There was simply no color in my cheeks at all. Today my skin is clear and never gets that murky, dull appearance it had before. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have also given me a good appetite and improved my general health also."

Not only the complexion, but every organ of the body is strengthened, cleansed and made healthy by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Buoyancy, vim and a feeling of vigor invariably follow their use. Sold in yellow boxes by all dealers; 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Street Company's Record Day

Yesterday a Times representative dropped into the Street Railway office to enquire as to the business that company had done on Civic day. We were informed that from when the first car pulled out of the barn until the last weary motorman sighed with relief as he took his car into the barn, the cars were crowded, some 12,500 fares having been collected.

Of the great majority went to the exhibition grounds, and it was that branch of the road that the company put all its extra cars. At the same time, however, the regular service to the other parts of the city was maintained.

Going down and coming back from the circus the cars were filled—every foot of space was occupied. Passengers stood between the seats, along the sides, at the front and back, and anywhere a foothold was possible.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Mr. Jas. Dodds is in the Hospital

Result of Accident at Canadian General Electric Co. Works.

Yesterday another of those accidents that seems to befall employes of all large factories happened at the Canadian General Electric Company's works, to Mr. Jas. Dodds, who is now in Nicholls Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain. His condition is somewhat critical. Dodds is an Englishman and has only been out from the Old Country about a month. He was working yesterday morning in a room where a block and tackle were being used. In some manner he was struck on the head by the block when it was descending, and was rendered unconscious. The Dan Spence ambulance was called, and Mr. Dodds was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain. Latest reports from the hospital are to the effect that the injured man is resting as easily as could be expected.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two, direct specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflamation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

A Pretty Wedding At Lakefield

A very pretty wedding was that celebrated Wednesday evening by Rev. John Bedford, when in the presence of some sixty guests at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bettes, Lakefield, their daughter Lily Vivian, became the bride of Dr. S. S. Westgate.

The marriage ceremony took place in the drawing room the bridal party standing under an arch of white water lillies, ferns and evergreens. The bride was charmingly dressed in white silk, with the customary veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Lou Copperthwaite, Peterborough, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a pretty dress of Persian lawn and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was assisted by Dr. Steel of Cuba. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous dejeuner. The happy couple went to Chicago, Ill., where they will spend the honeymoon. The bride's going-away dress was of navy blue, with fawn jacket and hat to match.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Dom. Express Horse Runs Away.

Yesterday one of the Dominion Express horses, while waiting at the C.P.R. station, took fright at something and taking the bit in his teeth, ran away. The rig attached to the fleeting steed got its wheels locked with those of another express rig, and in consequence, both wagons did a speedy get-away. One of them was upset and damaged in front of Ackerman's factory. Both horses were stopped before any serious damage was done. The horses got off with hardly a scratch, while the wagons were not injured.

Peterboro Lose New Line?

It is now up to our city councilland Board of Trade to see that Peterborough is not given the go by, by the new C.P.R. grain route. It looks, at present as though the new line would tap the main line at Havelock instead of coming via Peterborough. Let those controlling such matters interest themselves before too late.

Mr. Hamilton Hall Seriously Ill.

We regret to say that Mr. Hamilton Hall, a son of Mr. Rich. Hall, is in a serious state at the Nicholls Hospital. Mr. Hall is suffering from pneumonia and enquiries at a late hour last night, whilst we ascertained that his condition was "no lower than during the day," was still serious. We hope to get a better report during the day. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will have the sympathy of the whole community during this period of anxiety.

Are You Tired, Nervous and Sleepless?

Nervousness and sleeplessness are usually due to the fact that the nerves are not fed on properly nourishing blood; they are starved nerves. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood, and thereby the nerves are properly nourished and all the organs of the body are run as smoothly as machinery which runs in oil. In this way you feel clean, strong and strenuous—you are toned up and invigorated, and you are good for a whole lot of physical or mental work. Best of all, the strength and increase in vitality and health are lasting.

The trouble with most tonics and medicines which have a large, booming sale for a short time, is that they are largely composed of alcohol holding the drugs in solution. This alcohol shrinks up the red blood corpuscles, and in the long run greatly injures the system. One may feel exhilarated and better for the time being, yet in the end weakened and with vitality decreased. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains no alcohol. Every bottle of it bears upon its wrapper The Badge of Honesty, its a full list of all its several ingredients. For the druggist to offer you something he claims is "just as good" is to insult your intelligence.

Every ingredient entering into the world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery" has the unanimous approval and endorsement of the leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice. No other medicine sold through druggists for like purposes has any such endorsement.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only produces all the good effects to be obtained from the use of Golden Seal root, in all stomach, liver and bowel troubles, as in dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, ulcerations of stomach and bowels and kindred ailments, but the Golden Seal root used in its compounding is greatly enhanced in its curative action by other ingredients such as Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure triple-refined glycerine.

"The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. For 50 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Man Shoots Four Bears In One Day

Last week Mr. Alva Lawrence had a unique experience whilst out hunting. It seems that whilst out hunting he shot at a bear cub, when the bear roared with pain of the wound. The noise attracted the attention of the mother bear, which charged the slayer of her cub. However, by a well placed shot he killed the older one. Lawrence then made a reconnoitre and discovered two more cubs, which he killed. He sold the skins to a Mr. E. Hubble for $30.00.

Pickpockets Get In Their Work

It seems that despite all precautions that the best regulated circus can take, pickpockets will accompany such shows.

Mr. James Leitch, of Millbrook, who on Thursday, was standing in a crowd at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, was relieved of his pocket book, containing $28. Mr. Mr. Stanley Grandy, of Millbrook, also reports that he was "touched" for some $9, while Mr. Porter, of Cavanville, had his pockets picked while waiting for a car.

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

Russian Regiment Fires on Grand Duke

Glaring Endeavor to Assassinate President of the Council of National Defence While He Is Reviewing Troops at a Sham Fight.

St. Petersburg, Aug 12 — Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, President of the Council of National Defence, narrowly escaped assassination yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Imperial Guards in the guard camp at Krasnoye-Selo. It has been definitely established that the shots were fired by the first battalion of the sharpshooters of the Guard, who advancing in rushes while making a sham attack on an entrenched position. Fully a hundred shots were fired, but the impatience of the conspirators led them to open fire at such a distance as to frustrate their object.

BULLETS HISSED OVERHEAD.

Thus far the Associated Press has only been able to obtain meagre details of the affair, from which it appears that the grand duke was personally reviewing, manoeuvering and putting the troops through blank firing practice when he suddenly was startled by the hiss of bullets about his head.

Fortunately neither himself nor his horse was touched.

The command to cease firing was immediately given, and the soldiers of the regiment from which the bullets came were marched back to their quarters and an investigation was begun, in the hope of ascertaining from the barrels of the rifles which of the soldiers fired ball cartridges.

Several arrests are understood to have been made.

DELIBERATE PLOT.

One of the grand duke's aides-de-camp, who, however, was not personally present, advanced to the Associated Press the theory that possibly the bullets were fired by accident, but he considered beyond a doubt there was a deliberate plot on the part of a number of disloyal guardsmen, who deliberately planned to take the grand duke's life under cover of the general blank cartridge firing.

The aide-de-camp added:

"It was no more an accident than was the firing of the famous charge of grape from the saluting battery at the winter palace on the occasion of the ceremony of blessing the waters of the Neva by the emperor a year and a half ago."

SCARES THE CZAR.

The bold attempt on the grand duke's life caused an immediate change in the plans of the emperor, who has arranged to go to Krasnoye-Selo today and spend a week with the soldiers of his imperial guards.

It was learned that the troops were in extended order and engaged in volley firing when the accident occurred rendering it difficult to determine the regiment from which the bullets came.

The grand duke surrounded by officers and aides-de-camp, was all one side out of the line of fire.

The affair has created a deep impression in military circles, and is the one topic of conversation in the clubs, but the attempt on the grand duke's life is not generally known here, no word on the subject having been published in the newspapers.

REIGN OF TERROR.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Aug. 12.—An incendiary state of affairs reigns at Warsaw and Lodz.

The inhabitants are at the mercy of bandits, anarchists and terrorists. Murders and robberies occur daily. The authorities, apparently, are powerless.

At Lodz, today, six anarchists attacked a German factory owner and his clerk, who were returning from the bank, also and killed them both, and decamped with $700.

OMINOUS.

Reval, Russia, Aug. 12.—The workmen of all the factories here struck yesterday as a mark of sympathy with the mutineers of the armored cruiser Pamyat Azova, who are to be tried by court martial.

Tashkent, Asiatic Russia, Aug. 12.—The controller of the Central Asian Railroad was murdered on the street here yesterday.

Libau, Courland, Russia, Aug. 11.—The postmaster here was killed yesterday and robbed of $14,000.

Local Banker Returned From West

Mr D Hughes Charles, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, who has recently returned from a western trip, has been deeply impressed with the progress and growth of Canada's western provinces. Mr. Hughes Charles whilst away investigated the conditions in that section, and is thus able to speak with authority on the prospects of the country.

As noted in a former issue of The Times Mr. Hughes-Charles left Peterborough on June 16th, and went west via Owen Sound. On arriving at Regina he found hotels filled and every indication of busy progress. He had a long chat with Mr Fred Haultain, formerly premier of the Northwest Territories.

From Regina to Saskatoon, Mr. Charles says, there are signs of settlement at every little station. Building was going on everywhere and there seemed to be a tremendous influx of settlers.

Mr. Charles seems to have great confidence in the future of Saskatoon, owing in part to the splendid railroad facilities. Real estate at present is ranged at high figures, but Mr. Charles considers that existing conditions justify the prices.

Peterboro Wins Championship

On Saturday afternoon another feat was added to Peterborough's laurels, gained in the athletic field when the Junior Shamrocks defeated Port Hope at Oshawa. This game was to decide the championship of this district, and resulted in the Shamrocks winning from Port Hope, in a well contested game by 7—1. Quite a number of the Shamrocks supporters accompanied the team.

Fred McGrath was in charge of the team, and did his duty nobly. F. G. Waghorne, of Toronto, as referee gave satisfaction to all, and is a most capable official. Ford was field captain.

The line up was as follows.
Goal—Gilman.
Point—White.
Cover-point—Devlin.
1st defence—Dugay.
2nd defence—Davis.
3rd defence—Feeney.
Center—Tucker.

Horror Over Meat Sold in Winnipeg

Disgusting Conditions Revealed by Health Department Investigation.

Winnipeg, August 13.—A horrifying state of affairs has been brought to light through an investigation by health inspectors in the north end of the city who have discovered that purveyors of meat in that district have been disposing of in their shops and peddling around city meat entirely unfit for use, especially what is known as slink veal. Spotters were placed on guard at abattoirs and it was found the foreign butchers and peddlers of meat hung around these places and carried away offal, some of which was offered for sale in various forms in shops. The most disgusting case, however, developed when espionage was put to work on Isaac Rosenstein, who has a shop at 676 Pritchard avenue. He was seen to gather up entrails of an animal which had just been slaughtered and remove them to his butcher shop, when it was found later that he had a slink calf in his possession, though it could not be proven that he had offered it for sale. He was brought before the magistrate and fined five dollars and costs for having it on the premises. It is believed that in the north end sausages and other products placed on the market have been manufactured from meat procured in a manner indicated, and a thorough investigation is to be made by the health department.

Normal School is Located

Central Park Chosen as Site of Peterboro's New Gov't Building.

The deputy minister of education, acting for the Ontario Government, who as noted in a former issue of The Times, has been here to investigate the matter of where the new Normal School shall be located, has forwarded the report of his visit here with Dr. Seath. The report, which is made to the mayor, was received Saturday morning, and states that the Central Park site has been selected.

The site for the new Normal School has been selected, and it will be erected on the ground originally intended as the site for the Collegiate Institute, on Central Park.

Saturday morning a letter was received from Mr. A. H. U. Colquhoun, deputy minister of education, to the effect that this site had been selected as best adapted for the purpose. The letter asked that the formal papers of transfer be sent to the department at once, as it was the intention to commence work on the new building in the near future, and the school is to be ready for occupancy by September, 1907.

This means that the city, in case the request of the deputy minister of education is complied with, will have to look up a new site for the Collegiate Institute.

It is probable that at an early date a joint meeting of the City Council and the Board of Education will be held to consider the matter.

Thaw Will Not Be Starved.

New York, August 13.—Harry K Thaw, who is in the tombs awaiting trial for having killed Stanford White, the architect, was suddenly yesterday an object of general generosity, for food poured in on the prison authorities for him for some time. Chicken, roast beef, stews, ragouts, soup, fish, vegetable, pies, puddings, and coffee, figured in the list. Accompanying all of these eatables were knives and forks, which prisoners charged with capital offences are not allowed to use. The incident was due to a report that Thaw had quarrelled with the prison caterer and that he had breakfasted on ordinary prison fare. The report had it that a disagreement was due to Thaw's insisting on a knife and fork being supplied with his meals. Later the report was denied.

Cattle Killed By Lightning

Last week Mr. John Bricknell of Roseneath, was a sufferer by lightning. It seems that on Sunday night a thoroughbred bull and cow standing beneath a tree on his property, were killed by the subtly dangerous agency. Werden Weir and another person were standing near the church shed at Roseneath, when the lightning struck a tree and slashed it to pieces. At Mr. Bricknell's a boy drove a lot of cattle to the barn but the bull and cow would not go in. When he went back in a few minutes to investigate he found them dead.

GOOD POINTERS FOR CANADIANS

Reports of Commissioners offer Some Very Wise Suggestions

NEW ZEALAND'S MARKET

Canadians Should Be Careful of Their Exports to Australia—Some Complaints Made.

Ottawa, Ont., August 11.—Mr. J. S. Larke, in a report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, suggested that New Zealand preferential tariff is having its effect in increasing importations from Great Britain and from Canada. The crop of potatoes in New Zealand is much below what was expected. As a consequence, prices have gone up, and in Wellington potatoes are quoted at $2 per ton, so that in October there will be a demand for any surplus Canadian supply at good rates. Mr. Larke comments upon the possibilities of Canadian sheep breeders finding a market in Australia for highly bred sheep and expresses the opinion it would be worth the breeders while to try the experiment.

Mr. Larke states the New South Wales Government is adopting the Australian system of dealing with tramps that is to say, the vagrant is put upon bread and water and his diet is improved in proportion to the work he does.

Complaint has been made that some of the herring sent to Australia from British Columbia have been almost worthless. If this kind of fish is shipped, Mr. Larke says, British Columbia herring will fail to secure the reputation that will command the best prices.

Some vehicles recently sent from Canada have been pronounced by the trade unsuitable to the market, being heavier than the Australian vehicle and will have to be sold below cost. Other vehicles in the same shipment promise better results.

Mr. D. H. Ross, commercial agent at Melbourne, reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce that an experiment made by the Victorian Government in using motor busses as feeders for suburban railways has not proved successful and the service has been discontinued owing to the non-productiveness in revenue and frequent breakdowns. On the other hand large motor cars are being successfully operated in the public service by private enterprise in other parts of the state. The Chicago disclosures, Mr. Ross adds, have caused many inquiries for Australian canned meats, which are packed under rigid veterinary inspection.

Mr. Alexander Maclean, reporting from Tokio, expresses regret that the Canadian manufacturers are not displaying either by sample or by prospectus, and in effect declares there should be a rigorous advertising of Canadian wares.

This Man's Children Saved Him From Jail

William Hodgson's Matrimonial Ventures Led to Legal Entanglements, But He Was Given a Chance.

London, Aug. 11.—William Hodgson appeared at the police court to answer to a charge of bigamy, laid by Margaret J. Mackenzie. He elected trial by the magistrate, and after the case was heard he was allowed out on bail of $400, having agreed to support the children.

His story was a strange one. He married Murdo James in 1889, and they had five children. In 1903 the couple disagreed and separated. Soon afterward he met Miss Mackenzie and married her in July, 1904. He claimed that she knew at the time of their marriage that his first wife was alive, and he never tried to conceal her otherwise. Some time before his marriage to Miss Mackenzie he had applied to the Michigan courts for a divorce from his first wife, but at the time of his second marriage he courts had no decided on the matter. After their marriage a child was born.

Ultimately trouble arose and Miss Mackenzie left him. In the meantime his first and legal wife died. He then married a widow with one child, Mrs. Harbon, with whom he is now living, and who, he claims, is his legal wife, because his first and legal wife was dead at the time of his marriage to Mrs. Harbon.

Margaret Mackenzie admitted that she had known at the time she first met Hodgson that his wife was then alive, but she was not sure at the time when she married him whether his wife was living or not. Hodgson, she stated, was the father of both children—the one born before their marriage and the one soon after. She did not deny that she had been living with Hodgson when she knew that she was not his legal wife.

The magistrate pointed out that although Hodgson had violated the law, yet Miss Mackenzie was not deserving of any pity, as she had prudently been as much to fault as he was, having known all the time what she was doing. The care of the children was, he thought, the first consideration in this case, and as they appeared to have been properly cared for in the past, Hodgson was allowed out on bail for a month to see how he supported the family.

Lindsay Men Were Robbed

The Lindsay Post says.

Circus pickpockets were on the job yesterday, and as a result there are several people wiser in mind, but lighter in pocket. On the excursion train from Peterborough to Orillia, pickpockets were at work and also on the regular train. The plan followed was, There were two thieves at works—a fat man and a much thinner one. When in the cars they were noticed to be, apparently, in a convivial mood and inclined to be very friendly and apologetic. In this way it happened that they got "next" to a few citizens and touched them for their wallets.

Mr. Jas. Keogh was on his way to Omemee to visit Dr. Keogh and was relieved of a roll of some fifty-three odd dollars, which was taken out of his inside coat pocket.

A town man on his way to Orillia with the C.M.B.A. either lost a wad of $10 and some silver, or had it "nipped" from him by some clever hand. He offers a reward for the same.

Cashier Hering is Now Under Arrest

Was Connected With the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, Which Was Looted by President Stensland

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Henry W. Hering, cashier of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, which closed its doors some days ago, was arrested here yesterday. He will be refused bail as it has connection with the disappearance of nearly $1,000,000 of the bank's funds is cleared up.

Paul O. Stensland, President of the institution, is still a fugitive, and although nearly 100 detectives are searching for him, his whereabouts is a mystery. Hering immediately after his arrest was taken to the office of Chief of Police Collins and examined as to his knowledge of President Stensland's alleged mismanagement. He declared he did no know where President Stensland was, and had no communication with Stensland for more than a week.

Hering denied responsibility for the failure of the bank, and maintained that if he were guilty of breaking the banking laws of Illinois President Stensland was responsible for his actions. Hering declared he never had benefitted one dollar by President Stensland's system of banking.

Receiver Fetzer reported to the Superior Court yesterday that a dividend of at least 25 per cent. probably would be declared to depositors in the bank within the next two weeks. The bank's directors declare that there will be found a sufficient revenue from the assets to pay all depositors in full.

Not Advisable to Insist Upon a Deposit

Foreign Insurance Companies, Select Committee Report, Think That It Is Unnecessary for Policyholders' Protection and Would Result in Disagreeable Complications.

London, Aug 13.—"In view of the evidence they have heard, the committee do not consider that in the interest of British policyholders it is desirable to compel foreign companies to deposit funds in this country."

Thus the select committee of the house of lords appointed to inquire and report on what steps should be taken by the deposits of funds or otherwise, to provide adequate security to the British policyholders in life insurance companies which have their chief offices outside the United Kingdom, and which carry on business in this country, sums up its findings.

REASONS WHY.

The committee found an almost unanimous opinion among the leading British actuaries and life insurance managers against compelling foreign companies to deposit funds for the security of British policyholders, their reasons being that:

It would be contrary to the principles in regard to insurance companies which had hitherto prevailed in Great Britain.

It would violate the principle that the whole of the funds of an insurance company should be available for the claims of all policyholders alike.

It might lead to reprisals on the part of foreign governments.

It might lead the public to believe that the solvency of the companies making the deposits was guaranteed by the government.

Such deposits might seem to imply a statutory basis for valuation, the tendency of which might weaken rather than strengthen the reserves.

And the such deposit of securities would appear to give an unfair advantage to British subjects holding policies in a foreign company, while under such a limited scale of supervision it was doubtful whether the policyholders would be as well protected as they are by control through publicity and the freedom which exists in regard to British companies.

The evidence, according to the report, induced the committee to recommend against foreign companies being required to make deposits.

PLACED ON PAR.

The report further says that foreign companies should be placed so far as possible on the same position as British companies, they should, in fact, be made so far as possible to comply with the requirements of the Life Insurance Companies Act of 1870, which insures a full measure of publicity of the accounts of insurance companies and gives ample legal remedies to policy holders, some amendments to this act might be made in view of the great increase in the insurance business.

FAVOR BRITISH TRUSTEES.

The committee feels that the appointment of British trustees to act for foreign companies is highly desirable, and that all insurance companies, whether foreign or British, be required to furnish the board of trade with full revenue accounts, balance sheets and valuation statements of their business, allowing at the same time the expenses for management, and that, further, the board be empowered to vary from time to time the forms of questions insurance companies are called upon to answer, in conditions the committee considers it most desirable to provide a statement, by foreign and British companies, of the market value of the securities held by them.

Galway Residents' Golden Wedding

On Aug 7th; an interesting ceremony was celebrated in Galway township when Mr. and Mrs. Coulter celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, surrounded by their grandchildren, when a most interesting day was spent celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Coulter, was it is claimed, the first settler of Galway township, where he settled in the year 1856, the date of his wedding. At that time Galway was a forest, and wolves kept the settlers awake by night, and anxious by day.

Mr. Coulter is the son of the late Andrew Coulter, and was born in County Down, Ireland, in 1828.

Newmarket Puts in a Protest

The Toronto Star says: Newmarket puts in a protest alleging that Bradford's Rube Foreshaghera broke away from all the traditions of that township, and played a youth named Dixon when last they licked the lads of the Tannery Town. Dixon is a St. Kitts boy, and played in the alleged exhibition game that the resurrected Athletics played with the Tecumseh twelve some time ago at the island.

Madoc Man is Injured by Gun

Mr. Jos. Boomhour of the Monk Road, had a close call from death day last week. It seems that he was out picking berries last Tuesday, and had his gun along with him. The butt of the gun was resting on a log when it slipped off and the trigger struck a knot, discharging the weapon. His right hand was over the muzzle of the gun when the explosion took place, and the little finger was badly lacerated. He was brought to town and had his injuries attended to.—Madoc Review.

AN OLD TIMER

Has Had Experience.

A woman who had used Postum Food Coffee since it came upon the market eight years ago knows from experience the necessity of using Postum in place of coffee if one values health and a steady brain.

She says: "At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum, and got a sample and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use and very soon it's beneficial effects convinced me of its value for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia.

"My husband had been drinking coffee all his life until it had affected his nerves terribly. I persuaded him to shift to Postum and it was easy to get him to make the change for the Postum is so delicious. It certainly worked wonders for him.

"We soon learned that Postum does not exhilarate or depress and does not stimulate, but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach. To make a long story short our entire family have now used Postum for eight years with completely satisfying results, as shown in our fine condition of health and we have noticed a rather unexpected improvement in brain and nerve power." Name given by Postum Co. Battle Creek, Mich.

Increased brain and nerve power always follow the use of Postum in place of coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner.

THE SCOURGE OF CONSUMPTION

Thousands Are Dying—If Tired, Languid or Run Down Get Protection Before Too Late.

No child, man or woman is safe from consumption unless their blood is pure, rich and nourishing.

Allow the blood to become thin, and immediately the whole system grows weak. The lungs are deprived of resisting power and the ever-present tubercular bacilli develops.

The most positive protection against consumption is Ferrozone, which restores the blood to full strength. Weak organs are instantly strengthened. Worn-out tissues are rebuilt. New life is given to the lungs and all danger of consumption is destroyed.

Mrs. E. J. Richardson, Manotick, Ont., tells as follows of her enormous gain in health from Ferrozone: "For two years I was not well. I was thin and anaemic. Towards spring I fell into a condition of nervous exhaustion. A dead tiredness hung over me like a load of lead. Housework of any kind I simply couldn't do. A bad cough developed that worried me greatly for I though' it might be tubercular. When I first read of Ferrozone I was convinced it was good. I took it regularly for eight weeks and the change in my condition was wonderful. My cheeks filled out and became clear and rosy. I gained eight pounds and now am strong and vigorous as possible."

Ferrozone feeds, nourishes and tones up the body—it sends the thrill and vim of robust health from head to foot—makes you feel better at once. Won't you use Ferrozone? Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

ALBERT DREYFUS AND MRS. FLORENCE MAYBRICK.

The return to New York of Mrs. Florence Maybrick from a secret trip to England, resumably to establish her innocence of the charge of murdering her husband, marks another chapter in the story of a woman's struggle for vindication—a struggle in which for 17 years the governments of two nations and their highest officers have been involved. Alfred Dreyfus has secured complete exoneration and restitution of his honors and standing as an officer of the French army and a patriot. In the name of unhappy Florence Maybrick, the victim of prejudice, false theories, garbled evidence and the unreasoning animosity of a deranged judge, to be cleared at last?

It was 27 years ago that Florence Chandler, the daughter of a Mobile banker, was wedded to James Maybrick, of Liverpool, England. In 1889 Maybrick died, the crown physicians said, of arsenical poisoning. Though it was proved by the defense that Maybrick had been accustomed to take arsenic in large quantities, his wife was convicted of his murder. The charge of Judge Stevens shocked the British public. He was reported to be of unsound mind, and died in an asylum. This court sentenced Florence Maybrick to death. The sentence was commuted to a life of penal servitude.

For 14 years this woman was immured for a crime which few now believe she committed. Messrs. Blaine and Foster, of the United States Government, Lord Salisbury, the Congress of the United States, the Parliament of England, legal and medical societies of her fellow-countrymen and influential men and women on both sides of the Atlantic have labored for her freedom. For the one sin which she did commit, but which was not murder, she was monstrously punished.

A year ago last February she was pardoned. Since then, until today, the world has had no sight nor sound of her. If she has spoken now it is with the hope that the charge which has utterly ruined her life will be lifted from her by the British Government.

The trial, conviction and exile of Dreyfus, too, involved nations, the honor of nations. He was sacrificed for the honor of the French army. Mrs. Maybrick seems to have been sacrificed because she was an American woman. The conspiracy against Dreyfus, while led by a coterie of scoundrels, was aided and abetted unwittingly by the French Government and French people in good faith for the love of their country and hatred of the man who seemed to have betrayed it. The might of the British law and the power of public sentiment that drove Florence Maybrick into a dungeon and kept her there for 14 years cannot be defended on the score of patriotism. She was tried and convicted out of court and condemned by the caprice of a judge. Here another international victim calls for belated justice.

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 11.—The report of the Pecuniary Claims Committee of the International American Conference, presented in yesterday's session, recommends the extension and the withdrawal of all modifications for five years of the "treaty" of arbitration for pecuniary claims agreed upon at the Mexican conferences between the different republics.

The conference decided yesterday that The Hague tribunal shall be informed of the arbitration conclusions of the conference through the Brazilian Secretary of State.

Young Wife Took Poison

Left Pitiful Farewell Note, Saying She Had Always Been a Trouble.

Toronto Aug. 11.—Nine years old and a bride of seven months, Mrs. Kate Bingley this morning ended her life by taking poison. In a farewell note she said she had taken her life because she had always been a trouble to her friends. She lived with her husband, Mr. Walter W. Bingley, in 355 Spadina avenue, and when he returned home at six o'clock last evening he found her unconscious. She died about an hour and a half later. She had taken the poison purchased for her by a little girl of the house, at a drug store across the road avowedly for use in cleaning clothing. No inquest will be held.

THE CHURCH IN SPAIN

Even There Civil Authorities Are Resisting Its Claims.

Madrid, Aug. 11.—The Cabinet yesterday discussed the protest of the Papal nuncio against the Government's action in denying the right of the clergy to refuse burial in consecrated ground to those married civilly. It was decided by the Ministers to maintain absolutely the rights of the civil authorities. During this discussion the Minister of Justice, Count Romanones announced his resignation so as to give the Government a freer hand. The nuncio later informed the Minister of Justice that he had applied to Rome for authorization to negotiate with the Spanish government with the view of arriving at a compromise.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

The College offers exceptional conversational advantages in French, under a resident French Mistress, assisted by six resident specialists in modern languages.

Particular attention is given to physical training by two graduates of the Boston Normal School of Physical Culture who reside in the College, and give individual care to the pupils. Instruction in swimming will be given in the new swimming bath.

Large grounds adjoin the College, and afford ample space for tennis, basket ball, cricket, etc., in Summer, and for hockey upon a full-sized rink in Winter.

A new Junior School is now being erected. The Curriculum includes, among other subjects, elementary courses in Cookery, Wood Carving and Basket Weaving.

A Domestic Science School, with six departments, is now being fitted up.

Copies of the Calendar, containing full information as to entrance, fees, etc., may be obtained on application to the Bursar.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 5o per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From carefut tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who, receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

pid; either I do not hear rightly, or I do not understand your ladyship," said Rose, in her perplexity.

"Then I will speak more plainly. When my mother, your nurse, Mrs. Elmer, here present, treats you as Rosamond, Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne, she speaks the sober truth, for such you are," replied Laura, slowly, and emphatically, fixing her eyes upon the perplexed face of her hearer.

"I wonder which of us three is crazy?" said Rose.

"None of us, dear Rose, though what I have just divulged to you is enough to stagger your faith in our sanity. You are Baroness Etheridge, and, as such, you will, in a few weeks, be recognized by the whole world. Can you not receive this fact?"

"Lady Etheridge, if I am not quite mad—if I am in my right senses—if I know my own identity—I am Rose Elmer, the child of the village laundress; and you are the last Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne," said Rose, in amazement.

"No; Rose; I am only Laura Elmer, the daughter of Magdalene Elmer, the laundress."

Rose gazed in hopeless consternation upon the speaker.

At last the sick woman spoke.

"I see the crime must be confessed anew. Rose, you were the only child of the late baron, who left you in my charge, from the time you were but a few days old, until you were six months old. I had an infant girl of the same age. While the baron was gone, the demon tempted me to change you in your cradles; and when, at the end of six months, the baron returned, I hid you, his own child, from his sight, and gave him my child, whom he brought up and educated in the belief that she was his own. Remorse for this act pursued me through life. Remorse for this act compelled me to make this deathbed disclosure."

While she spoke, Rose, white and ghastly as a corpse, sank half-fainting into a chair.

"Now, at last, you understand and believe, Rose?" said Laura, quietly.

"Oh! Lady Etheridge," replied Rose, covering her face with her hands.

"What is the matter, dear?" inquired Laura, kindly.

"Oh, Lady Etheridge, what a trial for you! And it was no fault of yours! Oh, Lady Etheridge, I never, never will interfere with your title, or with your estates. You were brought up to consider them yours. You know how to wear them. You are used to rank and wealth, as I am to poverty and obscurity. I will never interfere with this arrangement! It is too late now. It would be very cruel! Forget this painful revelation, Lady Etheridge, for I shall drive it from my own mind."

"Rose, dear, you rave! It is not in your choice to reject your good fortune, though the manner in which you receive it proves you most worthy of it, Rose. It is your duty to accept, as it is mine to resign this rank. And, in yielding it, Rose, it is a comfort to know that I yield it to one who will wear the ancient name and title both gracefully and graciously," said Laura.

"Then, lady, you must share it equally with me. You must be my sister, as your are my foster sister, and share everything equally with me. And you must make the lawyers fix it so that no one will be able to deprive you of the half of all I possess."

"Dear and generous Rose, I thank you from my profound heart! But this cannot be, my love. My own pride, Rose, would forbid me to become even your dependent, or receive heavy benefits from one so meek and gentle as yourself. I have lost everything else, dear Rose. Let me feel that I have yet my conscious self control."

With tears Rose repeated and urged her petition.

Rose was silent, for she felt that in Laura Elmer's position she would have done as Laura Elmer did.

"And I can serve you in no way at all? It is very distressing to me."

"We are talking too much by the sick bed I fear," said Laura, leaning over the suffering woman.

"No, no," replied the latter, opening her eyes; "no; I wish that all should be settled before I go hence."

"All is settled, dear mother. I am of age, you know, and no longer in the power of Colonel Hastings, so that in this affair I can do as I like and you wish. Were I a minor, Colonel Hastings, as my guardian, might choose to contest the claim of Rose. But as I have attained my majority, I shall use my freedom to do justice. I shall myself, without waiting for the law, abdicate the estate to Rose. I shall take her to the castle, and install her there. The House of Lords, I presume, will take up the case, and confirm her in her rights, at their leisure. But in the meantime she will be in the full enjoyment of her rights."

"God bless you, Laura! You have a noble heart. When will you conduct Rose to the castle?"

"Mother, mother!" interrupted Rose—"let me still call you mother—I will never leave you while you live."

"She is right," said Laura Elmer. "We must not leave you."

"Then, when all is over, you will do as you promise?" inquired Mrs. Elmer.

"We will," replied her daughter, gravely.

The suffering woman, quieted by these assurances, dropped into a deep sleep that lasted several hours.

The physician that Laura had employed to attend her mother arrived in the course of the morning, and expressed his opinion that her awakening would probably be decisive for life or death.

And so it proved. Magdalene Elmer awoke only once again to ask forgiveness of heaven and of earth, to bless her wronged child and foster-child, and then she sank into her last sleep of death.

Laura mourned for the parent found only to be lost, and Rose wept bitterly for one who had always seemed a most tender mother to her.

Of Magdalene Elmer it might be said, her sins were buried with her—her repentance and her affection survived her in the memories of Rose and Laura.

Laura retained her self command and assumed the direction of affairs.

After the funeral, Laura placed Rose in a close carriage and conducted her to Swinburne castle.

CHAPTER X.

Rumors of the change of ownership had reached the castle. And as the carriage drew up before the central hall door, the head servants arrayed themselves in the hall to welcome back their beloved lady. First, on the right and left, stood the steward and the housekeeper. They bowed and curtsied low as Laura led Rose through the hall and up the broad staircase to a pleasant apartment that had been the late Lady Etheridge's morning room.

"Take off your bonnet and mantle here, dear Rose; we will have some luncheon and then rest. To-morrow you must be presented to the household as the baroness."

"Oh, no; dear lady, no! Not yet. I am frightened at this great place, and all those military-looking attendants. Do not tell them yet, and do not ever leave me!" exclaimed the terrified maiden.

She was far from rejoicing at her good fortune. The death of her foster-mother, the treachery of her trusted lover had nearly broken her heart, and now this vast wealth suddenly fallen upon her had crushed her spirit like a great calamity.

"Do not leave me, Lady Etheridge! Oh, never leave me in this vast wilderness of splendor alone. I shall go mad!" she wildly exclaimed.

"Sweet Rose, you will not be alone. Mrs. Montgomery is a good woman; she is your near relative as she has always been supposed to be mine; and you will find her very kind and very competent to become your chaperon in that society which will quickly gather around you after your position has been confirmed by the House of peers, as it must be in a few months," said Laura, with her usual calm, sweet seriousness.

"Oh, Lady Etheridge! I care nothing for all those things!" said Rose, very sadly.

"Do not call me by a title to which I have no right, my dear; call me Laura or Miss Elmer, which you please. And now let me tell you that you should care for these things, Rose! You should value the gifts of Providence, in gratitude to the Giver, and you should consider how much good you may do with this power."

"Ah! but if you knew—if you knew—how much I have suffered!"

"I do know, dear Rose. I know that you have suffered. But I am ignorant

A. O. H. To Meet Here Tomorrow

It is expected that over one hundred delegates will attend the convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, to be held here this week, and which opens Tuesday.

The different sessions will be held in the T.A.S. hall. The local division have completed arrangements for the reception of the visitors. The officers of the local division are as follows.

County President—M. J. Maher.
President—C. P. Murty.
Vice-Pres—Wm. Lynch.
Rec.-Sec.—A. E. Doherty.
Fin.-Sec.—Jas. Drain.

Mr. Maus is in the City.

Mr. F. P. Maus, manager of the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills, of Newcastle, Indiana, is in the city endeavoring to get this business going. The company will employ only first-class mechanics, no boys and girls. In consideration of such a help to Peterborough's industries the rolling mills naturally expect to get a fixed and low taxation assessment.

No Paper Issued Tomorrow.

Owing to Monday being Peterborough's Civic Holiday, and our employees thus having the day o themselves, The Times will not be left at our subscribers' residences tomorrow morning. We are sorry to have to deprive our readers of their usual first course and prandial intellectual treat, but printers like other members of the human race want, at least one day a year Not from the "strenuous life" of catering to the public.

Mainspring of Life

No One Can be Strong With a Weak Stomach.

The stomach is the mainspring of life. When it is strong and acts perfectly, then the whole system is right, assimilation is perfect, and body and brain are thoroughly nourished.

One may perhaps get temporary relief from stomach troubles by using pepsin, or some other digestant, but this treatment has no curative effect. It does not reach the seat of the trouble and remove the cause.

How much better to use Mi-o-na, which restores lost functions of the whole digestive system, revives flagging nutrition, and aids in the assimilation of food.

Mi-o-na is a pleasant remedy to use, and benefit is seen from almost the first day's treatment. It restores the torpid glands and stimulates the natural digestive secretions. It checks fermentation, stops germ growth, soothes inflammation and cures all troubles, such as headaches, backaches, rheumatic pains, furred tongue, sleeplessness, nervousness, and general debility, which are caused by imperfect digestion.

Mi-o-na costs but 50 cents a box. If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N. Y.

LOCAL INCIDENTS

By The Times Man on the Street

—No paper Tuesday.

—Don't forget the Printers' excursion to Idyl Wyld today.

—Owing to today being Civic holiday there will be no issue of The Times on Tuesday.

—Mr. W. O'Brien, the George St. tobacconist, will be open for business today. Try him for your smokes.

—It now seems that the city is not responsible for Mr. Jos. Collins' horse being killed by electrocution.

—The Peterborough Golf and Country Club have arranged with Mr. William Bell, the Toronto professional, for his services.

—It is said that Mr. Barnes is attracting some favorable notice by his voice of late, notably in his rendition of "The Little German Band.

—Last week's issue of the War Cry contains a life-like portrait of Brigadier Turner and the brigade of Peterborough's Cadet Corps, with Sergt.-Major Braund.

—It seems as though Peterborough's streets are a dangerous locality for horses. It is about time the crop of live wires that flourish so generally was gathered in.

—Mr. A E. Miller, formerly stoker of H.M.S Daphne, who was through the China campaign of 1900, wears a medal for participating in the war, arrived in the city on Saturday. Mr Miller will engage in the steam fitting position as soon as he gets a position.

Mr. Thos. Twomey Is a Victim By Fire

News reached the city on Saturday morning concerning the burning of a barn belonging to Mr. Thomas Twomey of Emily, who lives near the Pigeon Creek bridge, by lightning on Friday last. It seems that the building was struck by lightning, and burned with all its contents, including a valuable span of horses. This evidently the same storm that caused so much excitement at Stony Lake.

Gleanings From Gores Landing.

A well attended meeting was held last week in the Gore's Landing Public Library, when the subject of establishing an auto-mobile bus was seriously considered. It was thought that an auto-bus might be run between Cobourg and the village.

The formation of a branch of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association is receiving serious consideration.

Mr. N. C. Clapp, of Toronto has instituted a movement to supply summer cottages at Rice Lake, it being said that he has purchased forty acres on Curtis Point, upon which he purposes erecting from twenty to thirty cottages, to be disposed of to summer visitors.

Stock Quotations Supplied to Passengers on Trains.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has arranged to provide stock quotations on its through trains between New York and Buffalo. These stock quotations will be placed on board trains at Buffalo and at Glen Summit Springs, Pa., being received direct at these points by private wire.

Notices will be displayed in the smoking rooms of coaches and of Pullman cars on Lehigh Valley trains.

This innovation will no doubt be popular with the operators on the markets who make business trips over this line.

And the Auto Would not Go.

As a local professional man, accompanied by his wife was riding up George street Saturday evening in their "auto," something went wrong with the mechanism of the machine and the drive was at an end. Strange to say the auto would work backwards but could not be induced to go in the way desired. Considerable amusement was furnished the passersby

Another Chartered Accountant.

By request of Mr. W. R. Morris, chartered accountant of Water street, we note that he has engaged an assistant for his office here, and Mr. H W. Hopwood, formerly of the office staff of Messrs. Jenkins and Hardy, Toronto, will now be associated with Mr. Morris in his work. Mr. Morris seems to be doing an increasing business in the city.

24th Given Good Send-off.

Saturday evening quite a crowd gathered at the G.T.R. Depot to see the brave battery boys, in their handsome uniforms, for their outing. Much regret was expressed, over Major Young's inability to accompany the battery he command so ably.

Mr. Hamilton Hall is Better.

A late call by phone at Nicholls Hospital, last night, gave The Times the pleasing assurance that Mr. Hamilton Hall was very much better. Mr. Hall as before noted, is at the hospital, suffering with a severe attack of typhoid fever.

Douro Horse Was Struck.

Robt. Allen of Douro, had a call by lightning on Friday last. The electric fluid struck the chimney of his house, and set the bricks in all directions. The stovepipes in the kitchen, where the family were sitting, were knocked down, but no further damage was done, none of the inmates being injured.

Peterboro Engages a Pro.

Mr. Wm. Bell, pro for the Toronto Golf Club has been engaged by the Peterborough Golf and Country Club for the month of September and will arrive on the first of the month. His services will no doubt be appreciated by the members of the local club.

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must appeal to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, yes criminal, to condemn the poor, weak, over-worked housewife who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens, and suffers from weaknesses, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Frequent bearing of children, with its exacting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weaknesses, derangements and debility which are aggravated by the many household cares, and the hard, and never-ending work which the mother is called upon to perform. Dr. Pierce, the maker of that world-famed remedy for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ills—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—says that one of the greatest obstacles to the cure of this class of maladies is the fact that the poor, over-worked housewife can not get the needed rest from her many household cares and labor to enable her to secure from the use of his "Prescription" its full benefits. It is a matter of frequent experience, he says, in his extensive practice in these cases, to meet with those in which his treatment fails by reason of the patient's inability to obtain from hard work long enough to be cured. With those suffering from prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion of the uterus or other displacement of the womanly organs, it is very necessary that, in addition to taking his "Favorite Prescription" they abstain from being very much, or for long periods, on their feet. All heavy lifting or straining of any kind should also be avoided. As much out-door air as possible, with moderate, light exercise is also very important. Let the patient observe these rules and the "Favorite Prescription" will do the rest.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

Peterboro's Big Regatta Assured

A meeting is to be held in the Oriental Hotel on Wednesday evening next to complete arrangements for Peterborough's big regatta to be held early in September. Sufficient funds have been guaranteed the committee to warrant them calling a meeting to select a date and to proceed with all the other details.

One of the features of the races will be a prize donated by Sir. W. Laurier, who has already forwarded a handsome donation.

It is quite probable that Mr. F. Pedley, superintendent of immigration will be present at the regatta, as well as a number of other dignitaries.

TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION

Is authorized to act as

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

The Emperor Goes to Guards' Camp

Rigid Precautions for the Safety of the Emperor. To Court Martial Onipko--Peasants Become Catholics.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—In view of the [illegible] on the 17th of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, on August 19, Kronstadt, the emperor, accompanied by his entire family and the major portion of the court, has gone to Krasnoe Selo to spend a week at the Guards' camp. Six additional guard regiments have gone to the camp from St. Petersburg, and the most rigid precautions have been taken to protect the emperor's safety during his stay.

COURT MARTIAL FOR DEPUTY.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—M Onipko, the peasant member of the late Russian Parliament, who was arrested at Cronstadt after the recent mutiny there, and brought to St. Peter and St. Paul, will be tried by court martial separately. When he was arrested a plan of the fortress of Cronstadt was found on his person, but the drawing is said to be crude and of no strategic value.

CONSTITUENTS PROTEST.

Stavropol, Caucasia, Aug. 15 — A large meeting of sympathy and protest was held here yesterday against the arrest and trial by court martial of M. Onipko, who represented this district in the outlawed Parliament.

MOSCOW REVOLUTIONISTS.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The police attach great importance to the capture of revolutionists at Moscow, and in the vicinity during the last few days, believing that they have broken up the headquarters of the military fighting organization and have arrested the leaders. In addition to seizing their combative printing establishment and a large supply of bombs and explosives, including shimose powder, the authorities secured elaborated plans which were to be used in the event of an uprising.

PEASANTS BECOME CATHOLICS.

Mahilev Russia, Aug. 15.—Since the publication of the decree granting freedom of conscience almost 220,000 members of the orthodox church, a majority of whom are peasants, have embraced the Roman Catholic religion in this bishopric.

Strongly Object to Chinese Labor

Farmers' Movement in British Columbia Meets Firm Opposition.

Victoria, B.C., August 15.—At a meeting just held of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association, a vote was passed calling for the relaxation of the Chinese tax. The resolution met with a spirited opposition, and public sentiment by no means endorses the act. A new company declared it was breaking faith with the settlers, who wanted the land for white and not Mongolian settlement. Fewer than [illegible] men altogether would be required.

The argument used by the members favoring Chinese labor was that European labor was unprocurable and high-priced, and consequently it would be impossible to properly develop fruit farms with white labor alone. It was urged that in the North-West harvesting alone would take 35,000 men, and that the question there of help was already a burning one. Oriental labor would have to be employed, as white labor was so scarce, hence the North-West wheat farmer would be obliged to join the Asiatic [illegible] passed, asking for the modification of the present head tax. Further, that the restriction of the head tax to Chinese was invidious.

OTHER LABOR AVAILABLE.

Objection to Chinese was purely sentimental. They were first-class gardeners and dependable. Objection to the resolution made the point that Chinese were not the only source of cheap labor. There were Japanese and Hindoos available under the tax. It was also shown that the resolution would raise a storm of protest from the labor unions everywhere, and that the general sentiment of the West was against it. Also that if Chinese were allowed to go upon the land it would be impossible for the poorer class of British emigrants to compete, and the stream of immigration would be further diverted from British Columbia. G. O Buchanan, dispenser of Dominion Government bounty in land, and president of the associated boards of trade and a leading Kootenay capitalist, spoke strongly against the resolution, saying that it would not be expected that Ottawa would consent to a modification. The resolution was finally carried by fifteen to six, about half of the delegates declining to vote.

A Railway to Hudson's Bay

Prince Albert, August 15.—A local company holding the charter for a railway to Hudson's Bay intends to begin construction this fall. Only a short section will be built, owing to the scarcity of labor.

WHERE MICE EAT HAY

Down in Maine the Farmers Mourn Losses of Crops.

Bangor, Me., August 14.—Conservative farmers and orchardists of the State estimate that mice have caused more damage to crops and trees than any other creatures that live within the state. They are a short-tailed meadow mice, and statistics collected from the farmers with great care place the damage to orchards at $50,000 a year, while the harm worked upon hay in stacks and other farm products exceeds $100,000 annually.

The mice girdle the trees and eat about two-thirds pounds of clover hay per year, and as they are prolific, they destroy fully 100,000 tons annually. One pair, if permitted to produce and increase for five years, would have, it is alleged, 2,000,000 offspring.

POLICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

At yesterday's police court, which did not open until 10.30, John Mehaffy and Harold Fowler were charged with having stolen a horse and buggy from the Cavanagh House yard on Sunday, August 12.

Mr. Fowler, father of one of the boys, noted that a mistake had been made. Two officers came to his house at four o'clock yesterday morning and said they had come to arrest George Fowler. The ladies of the house went to the front door, in their night dresses, and said that if they, the officers, would wait till they dressed, the door would be opened. This the officers would not do, and forcibly pushed the door in, breaking the lock. The chief explained that a mistake had been made in George being arrested in place of Harold, the former's name having been given in.

The magistrate said he could not go into the details of the mistake in the boys' names. Both the boys pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried summarily by the magistrate.

They were each fined $5, to be paid forthwith, and in default of payment 15 days in jail.

Mr. Fowler made another kick about the wrong boy being arrested, but the magistrate would not deal with this.

Mr. Fowler then walked to the desk and said he would not pay one cent of any fine. He did not think the boy was tried fairly. The magistrate then enlarged the case until Thursday, and asked the respective fathers if they would individually agree to have their boys present for trial Thursday, instead of keeping them locked up till then. Mr. Mehaffy agreed to this, but Fowler said "No, I'll not. The boy must be tried by a jury." So then young Mehaffy was allowed to go until Thursday, Fowler being locked up.

A. O. H. Convention Well Attended

Peterborough is becoming a rival to Detroit as a "convention city." Notwithstanding the many conventions Peterborough has welcomed lately, still another, as foretold in a former issue of The Times, opened yesterday morning.

The latest of the guests welcomed by the city are those attending the provincial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, who meet in the T.A.S. rooms. There are about 125 delegates in attendance, 48 of whom are ladies representing the auxiliaries in connection with the order. The male delegates number 75 and several more will arrive before the convention is over.

During the morning the delegates attended high mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father McColl being the officiating clergyman. Rev. Father Kelly, chaplain of the local division of Hibernians, preached an appropriate sermon. The occasion was graced by the presence of his Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and Rev. Fathers O'Brien, Gaffin and Larkin, the latter being John Amonde.

After the service the delegates met at the T.A.S. hall, where they were welcomed by Rev. Father McColl. The committees then got ready for work.

The afternoon session, opening at one o'clock, lasted three and four. During the afternoon the visitors were given a trip over the city on board the steamer Water Lily. Afterwards a car ride around the city was taken.

The first actual business session was held during the evening. The convention will likely last until Thursday noon.

A MILLBROOK WEDDING

Nuptials of Mr. Thos. Leith and Miss Clara Ridpath.

A pleasing event took place at the home of Mr. Thomas Leith, Millbrook, August 8th, when Miss Clara Ridpath became the bride of Mr. Robert Leith, of Redlands, California.

The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white silk, and carried a shower bouquet. The bride was attended by Miss Morton, of Fraserville, while the groom was supported by Mr. Fred Ridpath.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C Allen, of Millbrook.

The happy couple left on the five o'clock train for their future home in Redlands, California. Among the guests present were noticed several from Hamilton, Port Hope, Perrytown, Bailieboro, and Minga, Man.

The presents were costly and numerous, showing the high esteem in which the bride was held by her many friends.

BIG SALE OF ISLANDS

New York Attorney Buys a Large Number for Little Money.

Watertown, N. Y., August 15.—Some 250 islands, rocks and points in the St. Lawrence River, the majority of them surrounding Grindstone Island, were sold at auction by Senator Geo. H. Cobbin, in this city, Saturday. The total sum realized was $11,595, while it is said that half of Maple Island alone, which brought $7,000, is worth $25,000. The bulk of the most valuable islands were struck off to Guy Van Amridge, a New York attorney, whose purchases amounted to $11,805. He claimed to represent various interests and made the purchases for his clients. Few residents of the Islands' district were present. The Islands were sold under a judgment in a partition action brought by Jane Satterell as administratrix against Stephen S. Yates, et al.

MUST BECOME NATURALIZED

Spain Will Introduce Bill Regarding Religious Orders.

Madrid, August 13.—The Government continues to maintain a firm attitude on the church and state question. A Minister today declared that while the Government was desirous of avoiding a breach with the Vatican, it had determined to defend the supremacy of the State. At the first sitting of the Parliament, the Government will introduce a bill making the religious orders amendable to the law controlling industrial corporations and will also introduce a bill providing that members of orders recently expelled from France will required to become naturalized or leave Spain. The Minister added that the cabinet was determined to carry these measures, and did not fear papal excommunication.

LABOR BUREAU TO BE STARTED

Canadian Employers Must Have More Skilled Labour

WANT BRITISH MECHANICS

The Supply of Tradesmen Not Equal to the Demand.

Montreal, August 15.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association are considering the advisability of establishing an office in London, England, for the purpose of supplying Canadian manufacturers with a sufficiency of skilled labor.

This statement was made by Mr. G. M. Murray, the association general secretary of the association, yesterday.

"We have requests for some six thousand men from different points throughout Canada, and labor is so scarce that it is impossible to supply the demand.

"The question of the establishment of an office in London will be one of the important subjects discussed at the coming annual meeting which will be held in Winnipeg next month.

"The establishment of the office in London has become a necessity owing to the reports sent abroad by Canadian organized labor to the effect that the Canadian labor market is already overcrowded, and to the lack of success the manufacturers receive from the Government in the direction of a proper labor supply.

"Should this office be established, and our expert sent over to run it, we certainty will not misrepresent anything. Even at the present time we are not encouraging anybody to come to this country. We want them to secure positions before they come here. Before leaving Canada this expert will make a personal visit to the factories throughout Canada, and carefully note kinds of employment. In this manner he will know just what is wanted out here. Then once on the other side, he will carefully select the mechanics whom he will send out here to positions which have been obtained before the mechanics leave the other side.

"The manufacturing business in Canada is increasing at a considerable rate, and it is absolutely necessary that we have more skilled labor to run the various factories throughout the country. We have on many occasions tried to secure men by applying to the Labor organization, but without success, as could not get a response. This shows that the demand is in excess of the supply in Canada and we will have to look to the old country for an increase of skilled mechanics."

Times on the New Phone System

The Times is perhaps the most recent example of the progress and efficiency of the Bell Telephone Company's most modern system. Yesterday this establishment was placed on the "selected" system of calls. This means that where two or more phones are on the same line, instead of the various departments of a business concern being bothered by each having its own call bell ring, and having thus to listen as to whether the one, two or three distinguishing rings are called, the separate department or house (if more than one line is called) only the phone bell is that wanted will call.

After the anyone wanting The Times business office or Mr. Robertson in person is wanted, call for him; if the sub-editorial or mechanical department is wanted, call No. 1031. This will enable our readers and friends to save time, and also save much confusion in The Times establishment.

This recent addition to the service is of great use to, and highly appreciated by the Bell Company's patrons.

Was She a Thief or Only Peculiar?

Walked Into a House and Was Very Embarrassed in Her Reply to Queries.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—The climax of boldness was shown by an elderly woman yesterday morning in entering a house on Palmerston avenue, near College, and it is supposed with the intension of making a haul of all the valuables she could find in a hasty search.

The man of the house and his wife were away for a short time, and two of the inmates were in a back room upstairs. The sister of the owner was in the house next door, when the unknown elderly woman walked coolly up to the door, and pushing the screen door open, entered without waiting to rap. The woman next door was seeing to her cook-stove, and no one being seen the stranger came to the house before she was suspicious. She peeped in the door, and saw the strange woman wandering about in the kitchen and dining room. Then the neighbor came to the conclusion that the owner was not at home, and went to the window in the dining room.

"What do you want?" she demanded sharply.

The stranger was so taken that she could hardly answer. Finally she murmured something about looking for a Mrs. Hambly, who lived on the street. She was referred to a house into which new tenants had come a few days ago.

Then she made her exit, offering no explanation of her boldness. The woman watched her as she walked up the street, and, seeing that she was watched, she suspected she returned to ask them if there was a grocery store on Palmerston avenue. It was the store she wanted to find.

"Well, I'm sure that is no grocery store," remarked the young woman of the house. "The store is a hundred yards further up."

The woman walked up the street again, but she did not enter the grocery store, though she passed it. Her conduct was certainly suspicious.

She was dressed in a black and white dress, wore glasses and had a bonnet, carried a shopping bag, and seemed to be about 60 years old. Her hair was white.

Free Site For Steel Rolling Mills

City Council Agrees to Grant the Company $6,000 for This Purpose, and a Fixed Assessment---Bylaw to be Submitted.

The Committee of the Whole Council met last night, when there were present, Mayor Boyce, Ald. Adams, McIlmoyle, Johnson, McWilliams, Elliott, Graham, Duncan, Hicks, Mason, Wilson.

Mr. D. O'Connell was present as solicitor for the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Co., which concern, he pointed out, are desirous of locating in the city. All the members of the company reside in the County of Peterborough. The concern has been capitalized at $200,000, $50,000 of which will be subscribed by the end of September, 1906. The mills will start operations with 50 men, which staff by the end of five years will be increased to 200 men, all earning big pay from $2.10 to $3 a day, with an average pay per day of $3 a day. At the end of five years the remainder of the capitalized stock of $200,000 will be taken up, the men will work in three shifts of eight hours each per day. The company have selected a suitable site for their purposes comprising five acres of land, which it is estimated will cost $6,000, and they ask that the city give them a bonus of this sum, and [illegible] assessment at this amount for ten years. Should the site by any chance cost more than $6,000, they ask from the city such that amount, the additional purchase price to be paid by the company. Mr. O'Connell asked that the council move quickly in the matter, as his company are desirous of getting into running shape by November first. The site selected is contiguous to the canal, such location being essential for a steel rolling mills industry.

Mayor Best thought the company might find a suitable site on the Cox property, purchased for manufacturing purposes. This is where the Brinton corset factory is going up.

Mr. O'Connell explained that this property is no suited for a rolling mill which demands high land, to afford ready means of carrying off the water continually flowing from the rolls, and also a water frontage for freight purposes.

Messrs. W. H. Dunlop and Alex Blair, [illegible] of the proposed steel company, were also present. The company's charter is expected this week.

Ald. Elliot moved, seconded by Ald. McWilliams,—That a bylaw be prepared to authorize the granting of $6,000, to the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Co, with which to purchase a suitable site on which to erect their factory, also giving them a fixed assessment for ten years on the amount, and that said bylaw be submitted to the people at the earliest possible date—Carried unanimously.

The terms and conditions of this measure will be the same as those on which the city have assisted other companies which have located here the past few years.

This measure, dealing with a steel industry, will simply require a one-third vote of the possible vote in its favor, and would not have to be confirmed by the legislature.

The site selected is the McDonald one, running from the present wharf in Ashburnham to the canal.

Mr. O'Connell on behalf of the company, thanked the council for their attention to the company's petition, and especially to the Manufacturers' Committee and its chairman for their courtesy and energy in dealing with the company's representatives on all occasions.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY.

Ald McWilliams moved, the question of giving inducements to the Peterborough Hot Water Boiler and Radiator Co. to locate here.

Ald Adams moved, seconded by Ald Wilson,—That the Manufactures' Committee meet with the representatives of the Peterborough Hot Water Boiler and Radiator Co., to arrange for the location of that company in the city on similar terms granted to other manufacturers and that a bylaw on such lines be prepared to be submitted to the people at the same time as the bylaw for the Steel Rolling Mills Co—Carried.

NORMAL SCHOOL SITE.

Ald. McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That the clerk be instructed to write the School Board, enclosing copy of the Minister of Education's demand for a transfer of the New Collegiate Institute site to the Conrad Park, on which to erect a Normal School, and asking whether the Board are willing to surrender this site—Carried.

Ald Hicks moved,—That the matter of the reception of the delegates to the Provincial Division of the Hibernian Society, be left in the hands of his worship the Mayor, and Ald. McWilliams, chairman of the Reception Com.—Carried.

FIRE WATER AND LIGHT.

The committee met on adjourned meeting of the council, and Ald. Adams reported that the visit to Cobourg to inspect the arc lamps in use there was unsatisfactory, the lamps being too far apart to form any judgment of their lighting efficiency.

Ald Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Elliot,—That Ald. Adams, Elliott, Duncan, Mason, and as many of the committee as can go, visit other places using the new closed arc lamps such as the Peterborough Light and Power Co., propose to instal here—Carried.

Printers' Picnic Most Enjoyable

The excursion gotten up, and most splendidly managed by The printers of this city to Idyle Wyld, per the steamer Water Lily and Rainbow on Monday, to use a slang expression, "took the cake."

The trip down the river was merged to universal enjoyment by the hundreds lucky enough to take this trip in, and next year it is prophesied the extra boats will have to be put on to accommodate the crowds.

During the afternoon some good sports were run off, the winners in the different events being as follows:

Boys race, F. Hayes, W. Crowe.

Girls' race, Lillian Burrows, Ella Horgan.

Young men's race, G. A. Ford, W. Rose.

Young ladies' race, Miss Lowry, Miss Zeta Burk.

Married ladies' race, Mrs. J. Haggart, Mrs. M. K. Hutchinson.

Married men's race, G. Paxman, E. J. Sharrard.

TIREDNESS MEANS DANGER!

Indicates Faulty Blood and Worn-Out Nerves—Build Up, or Total Collapse will Surely Follow.

When you're tired all day, bothered by trifles, exhausted with nervousness, be sure there is something wrong.

You need bracing up, need more nourishment in the blood, need a powerful medicine to vitalize the nerves and distribute force and staying power to all over-worked organs.

The most marvelous success is Ferrozone, a nourishing tonic so scientific as to be the admiration of every physician. Ferrozone performs wonders for people in poor health. It acts directly on the blood, enriching it with strength and new life that is at once dispatched to all parts of the body. Ferrozone feeds the nerves and vital energies, supplies force, determination and joyous, buoyant spirits.

A case where there was lassitude and lack of strength is told by Mr. David Brown, of post-office box No. 36, Berton, Ont. "About a year ago my health commenced to fail. My hands and feet seemed always cold. I felt worn-out and exhausted, weak as a little child. My face twitched. My limbs and arms commenced to lose their sense of feeling and finally my left side was perfectly numb. All the color left. My appetite ran down. Ferrozone was the first to give me any help. I improved with it very quickly. It toned up the blood and started circulation, so that the numbness gradually disappeared. My condition was perfectly cured by Ferrozone, and I have been well ever since. (Signed) David Brown."

SPECIAL NOTICE—To get satisfactory results be sure you get Ferrozone only. Fifty cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

NOT YET A REVOLUTION.

No matter what the sympathies of the onlooker may be, one way or the other, the cold fact still manages to stare the world in the face that the alleged Russian revolution doesn't revolute as far as it might.

Who is to blame in the premises, or to whom the credit is due (looking at it in the other light), it is difficult to say. But that it is no fault of the news correspondents, both at home and abroad, there can be no question. Certainly they are doing their best to chase the Czar out of Peterhof, and to drench old Muscovy with a precipitation of 6.9 inches of blood all the way from the Caspian to the Black Sea. But, somehow or other, the thing doesn't work out.

Above all things, no blame should attach to the hired men of the yellow journals. No men on earth could have done more to make this so-called revolution a success than the Hearst school of Remington thumpers as they labored and sweated over the task in their offices in New York and in every town all the way from Seattle to Boston, wherever they are scattered or congregated. They have streched their powers of invention to the utmost, and have created daily revolutions under every date line that the Russian alphabet is capable of constructing. And after all, they haven't made much more progress than they did with the revolution they recently ripped up Mexico with so badly that our under republic now lies a torn and bleeding corpse on the highway of nations.

Viewing the situation at its worst, Russia does not appear to be having a great deal more trouble with its anarchistic population than the United States has with the same dovilish breed ever so often. The Czar is apparently eating his three or four meals a day, right along, and what he is saying to the people is only what he ought to say to them whether he means it or not. He says that the country must come to order, after which he will put certain motions to be acted upon for the good of all. But he says that there's no use putting the motions until the "reds," the "blacks" and all those other shouters quit bellarin' so that a man can hear his ears.

That the country at large is disposed now to take a right view of matters is becoming more and more evident. The late dispatches state that the effort to get up a general strike of workingmen all over the empire is not proving successful. The Poles, who are among the Czar's most discontented and fiery subjects, are coming over to the idea that the best thing to do is to quit rioting and smashing things, and to hold another election, as the Czar has suggested and arranged.

There can be no doubt that Muscovy is bleeding to a certain extent, but her main arteries are still in good working order. The Slav has as much sense as other nationalities have, and it may be that he will settle down to business pretty soon and go at the regeneration of his country in a sane and sensible manner, which is a sight better than pitching bombs and burning up a lot of property.

HOW TO GET MARRIED.

Perhaps the new girls don't want to get married. They don't act as if they did. But if they do perhaps they can learn something that will be to their advantage from Frau Liebreich, a rich woman of Munich, who is convinced that girls who wear white dresses get married sooner than girls who wear all kinds of colors. Accordingly she has organized a "league of white women" among her friends, the members of which undertake to wear pure white for all important and ceremonial functions. In her address to the first members of the guild Frau Liebreich is reported to have said: "I loved my husband before he loved me and he returned my affection only when he saw me accidentally in a white dressing gown. White is a symbol of pure love and thus appeals to the better half of the male creation. The plainest girl dressed in white will conquer hearts more rapidly than a beauty who stoops to the meretricious attractions of a hundred hues."

"If this advice is good the girls who want to get married may now know how to do. But who will tell them how to stay married."

Falls in Love With Burglar

Takes Girl to His Father's Mansion and She Loots it.

Philadelphia, Pa., August 13.—Benjamin Hines, a scion of a wealthy family, has a sad story to tell today to his mama and papa when they returned from the sea shore. It was the tale of how he met with a lady burglar, made violent love to her, took her to the family mansion at 872 North Thirty-eight street, where there are beautiful paintings and bric a brac, and then how she looted the place. The lady burglar was in a cell here today. While she chewed gum, she said Benjie was a real nice young man and she was awfully sorry she had hurt his feelings. The girl wore a Marcel wave and stunning clothes. She removed the valuables from the Hines mansion with the aid of a rough-looking man. Most of the property has been recovered.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A NEW SUGAR REFINERY

West Indians Thinking of Establishing One in Canada.

Ottawa, August 13.—There is a feeling among the West Indian planters in favor of establishing a sugar refinery in Canada, because of the injustice which the planters consider they experience at the hands of the refiners here. The latter either gobble up the whole of the provincial rate in favor of West Indian sugar or occasionally share the rate very grudgingly with the planters. Then recently, it is alleged, the Canadian refiners decided that if the West Indian planters wanted to share in the preference, sugar must be carried in Pickford and Black's steamers. This is looked upon by the West Indians as an attempt to create a monopoly and the suggestion is made that in addition to supplying raw sugar, the planters should have their own line of steamers.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 10 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. of the nature of your sufferings. It is something besides the loss of her whom you loved as your mother; that, indeed, would cause you deep grief, but not a bitter, misanthropical, hopeless case like this. Come, you must unbosom yourself to me, it will relieve you."

"Oh, no! no, lady! to you least of all others ought I to speak of my troubles!"

"Nay; to me of all others you should talk of them. For, Rose, I have been wounded in the very depth of my heart!"

"You, lady! Oh, yes, I know. It is a great reverse; I wish it had not happened," said Rose, thinking that Laura Elmer alluded to her sudden vicissitude of fortune.

"It is not that; that could not have touched my heart, still less pierced it as this other blow has. No, Rose, it is this—my marriage is broken off."

"Your marriage broken off! Oh, lady, how was that?" said Rose, remembering that she had heard the same fact from Albert Hastings—yet wishing to know more.

"It was in consequence of my change of fortune."

"Oh! the traitor! Oh! the base traitor!" exclaimed Rose.

"Hush, my dear. I cannot hear the man whom I once loved spoken of in this manner," said Laura, with gentle dignity.

"Ah! but, then, you do not know all his treachery yet, or how much right I have to call him a traitor! And now, since I hear from your own lips that the marriage is broken off, and the reason for it, I will tell you something which you ought to hear, that you may dismiss forever from your heart the memory of such a traitor."

Laura looked up in amazement.

Rose paused a moment to recover her self-control, and then commenced and related the history of her acquaintance with Albert Hastings from the time that he presented himself under the name of Lovel, to the time that she discovered him to be the betrothed husband of Lady Etheridge.

"And that was the cause of your fainting in the library that day?" said Laura.

"It was, lady: I am ashamed to acknowledge the weakness. I never again will faint, or even weep, for that traitor!" exclaimed Rose, with flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes.

After an early tea, Laura and Rose, both greatly needing rest, retired to their respective chambers.

Rose was shown up to hers by a pretty, neatly-attired housemaid, who informed her that she had been appointed the young lady's personal attendant.

"My name is Anne, miss; and please can I do anything for you?" inquired the girl, as she put the night lamp upon the dressing-table.

"No, Anne, thank you, you may go," replied the cottage girl, to whom the attendance of a maid was more embarrassing than useful.

The next morning Laura Elmer summoned her chaperon, Mrs. Montgomery, to the library, presented Rose to the ancient gentlewoman, and explained to her the strange discovery that had reversed the places of the baroness and the cottage girl. It was a long time before Mrs. Montgomery could be made to understand that Rose Elmer was really the Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne, and that she whom the old lady had hitherto been assured was such, was only the daughter of the village laundress. And when at last this truth was forced upon her mind, it nearly turned her brain. She could not comprehend why such a great change of ownership, involving such a vast estate, should be effected without the help of many lawyers, and a great lawsuit. And she could not approve of Laura anticipating the majestic slowness of the law by doing prompt and simple justice.

"Do not be alarmed, Mrs. Montgomery; you shall have a suit all in good time; the affair will come before the house of peers; they will have to confirm Rose in her rights; but, in the meantime, as they are likely to be most nobly tedious, I prefer to put Rose in immediate possession, that she may enjoy her fortune," said the high-souled Laura.

"Hem! well, I am glad the peers will investigate this strange affair. She does look like the Etheridges, that is certain; but she may be an Etheridge with the bar sinister across the arms—a sort of Fitz Etheridge!" sneered the old lady.

"Do I not tell you that she is not? She is the only child of the late baron, by his lawful wife, the late Lucy Tremorne," said Laura, a little impatiently, as she commenced and recapitulated all the evidence of Rose's birth and lineage.

"Well, well, 'those that live longest will see most,' quoth the clergyman's widow; and, having uttered this unanswerable adage, she solaced herself with a pinch of snuff.

The old housekeeper and butler were next informed of the change of proprietorship, and commissioned to break the news to the rest of the household. They had been old and faithful servants of the late lord, and were deeply attached to his house. Greatly as they were shocked and perplexed by all that they heard, they readily comprehended their duty to their late lord's daughter, whoever that daughter might now prove to be. And deeply as they were distressed by the reverses of one whom they had so long loved and revered as their lady and mistress, they performed the task intrusted to them with fidelity and discretion. And thus, before the day was over, all the household obscurely understood that Little Rose Elmer was the Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne, and that she who had so long and worthily borne that name and title was just Laura Elmer, the daughter of the late gamekeeper. But not one jot or tittle less of respect and honor did the high-esteemed Laura receive from those who esteemed her more for her personal worth and dignity than for adventitious wealth and rank.

That evening Rose retired to rest the acknowledged lady of Swinburne Castle.

The next morning, while the ladies were still lingering over the breakfast table, a pair of cards was laid before them, bearing the names "Colonel Hastings," "Albert Hastings, Esq."

"Where have you shown these gentlemen?" asked Laura Elmer.

"Into the drawing-room, my lady" answered the man, who, from force of habit, still addressed his late mistress by her title.

"Whom did they inquire for?"

"Miss Elmer," replied the footman.

"Right; say that I shall be with them in a few moments," said Laura.

The servant, with a low bow, retired.

"Lady Etheridge, it was I whom they wanted," said Rose, who persisted in giving the ci-devant baroness her abdicated title.

"No, dear, they inquired for Miss Elmer," said Laura, smiling, "and that is my name. Pray let me go. I have more self-command than you have; and this self-command gives one a great power over others."

"Oh, then, I thank you, and accept your kindness," said Rose.

Colonel and Mr. Hastings, who were both seated, arose to meet her.

"Good-morning, gentlemen. Pray resume your seats. You inquired for me, I believe? How can I be so happy as to serve you?" she said.

"Nay, we are very happy to see you, Lady Etheridge; but we inquired for Miss Elmer," said Colonel Hastings, while Mr. Hastings, after bowing deeply, stood silently before her.

"Miss Elmer you know to be my name; while you do but mock myself and the truth when you call me Lady Etheridge," said Laura Elmer, gravely, as she motioned them to seats, and took a chair for herself.

"Then," said Colonel Hastings, "you really are resolved to give up this title and estate without a struggle?"

"I have already given up all right, title, and interest in the barony and estates of Etheridge of Swinburne. I have inducted the true heiress into her rights, and introduced her to her household. I have caused Rose Elmer to be acknowledged the Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne, a title in which, you know, the House of Lords, when they have heard the evidence in her favor, will confirm her."

"I judged that such would be the rashness of your folly, Laura! But, pardon me, cannot we be permitted to speak with this Rose Elmer?"

"You shall see Lady Etheridge," replied Laura, with a slight conge, as she left the room.

"You must go to them, my dear; they inquired for you! be firm," said Laura Elmer, as she re-entered the breakfast-room, and sent Rose to meet the visitors.

As Rose entered the drawing-room, she caught a glimpse of Colonel Hastings retreating into the conservatory, so as to leave her alone with his son.

Albert Hastings hurried to meet her, with outstretched hands, beaming eyes, and earnest will, beginning to say:

"My adored Rose, I have sought so often and so vainly to see you. And at last I am more fortunate. Dear Rose ——"

"Come no nearer, Mr. Hastings," said Rose, raising her hand with a forbidding gesture, while her whole face crimsoned with honest indignation. "And, indeed, I do not know why you should presume to come at all; you inquired for me as I understand, and I stand before you, only to say that which I hope will induce you to shorten your visit, and prevent you from ever repeating it. And this is what I have to say, Mr. Hastings: Miss Elmer and myself have had a full explanation. I told her everything you ever said or swore to me. And after such a mutual discussion of you—your truth—honor—disinterestedness—and general magnanimity—you may judge the verdict we made up upon your case. We coincided exactly in our judgment of your character and deservings—the only difference being that she, the high-souled, queenly woman, considered the man, however unworthy, whom she had once crowned with her love, sacred forever from her reproaches; while I, Mr. Hastings, can find no word strong enough to express the revulsion of feeling that has turned all my regard for you into loathing and disgust."

"Insolent girl! your supposed good fortune has quite turned your head! How dare you call the lady of this house 'Miss Elmer,' or presume to suppose that there is any truth in the ridiculous story that would constitute you, a peasant girl, Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne? Coronets are not given away so readily, let me tell you!" exclaimed Albert Hastings, beside himself with rage.

"I call the lady of this house Miss Elmer, because she has requested me to call her thus. As for the truth of the story that would constitute me Baroness Etheridge, I care nothing about it, except that I have a slight hope that it may prove to be a mistake. As for the coronet of which you speak, I do not want it. I am as unfit to wear the coronet of a baroness as you are to wear the form of manhood," said Rose, severely, for this pretty little creature

Local Citizens Get a Scare

On Monday a prominent local citizen got a bad fright as did a married lady well known in the city. It seems that the citizen, who holds a leading position here, had been out rowing on Chemong Lake and got back very thirsty. He went to his cottage in the park and found that the "crenze" had run dry. His next move was to go to the cottage of a friend whom he knew to have something wet and stimulating. Unfortunately his friend was out fishing, and the friend's wife entertained him on the verandah, saying her husband would soon be home. The P.C. waited until he began to fear his welcome would wear out.

As he started to leave, the lady suspecting the object of his visit, said "Say Mr. ——, wouldn't you like a little drop of something. I know my husband has a bottle of Scotch whiskey."

"Yes, thank you, said he P.C. The lady went into the house, and brought out a bottle labelled "Scotch whiskey. The P.C. poured out a generous quantity into a tumbler, and adding some water, proceeded at one gulp to swallow half the concoction. With a look of disgust he spit out what he could of the mixture, and said, "Say, Mrs. ——, what is the stuff? The lady suddenly remembered having had some carbolic acid in the house, turning white, ejaculated "My heavens, Mr. ——, is the carbolic acid?" The prodigious citizen at first frightened, smelt of the mixture, and said, "No, Mrs. ——, I'd rather drink its vinegar." So it was, and after much laughter on all sides, the real mouth was found, and the P.C. went home feeling better.

Sturgeon Point Regatta.

The excursion to Stoney Lake Regatta, under the auspices of the Chemong Park Association, proved a very successful and pleasant outing, being largely attended by patrons from the city and park. This association has arranged for another excursion per steamer Ogamah to Sturgeon Point Regatta on Thursday, August 16, leaving the park at 9.30 a.m. and returning about 8 p.m. Buses and auto connection both ways can be arranged for by Peterborough parties wishing to attend. Return fare from Chemong to Sturgeon Point 75c. This should provide a delightful outing as well as an opportunity for seeing the best regatta of the season.

Hunter Street Sewer Finished.

The east Hunter street sewer, placed in good shape by Mr. R. Stochy, was finished yesterday afternoon. The sewer on Mark street, north of Hunter street was begun. The work on the east Hunter street, was particularly hard, as the contract of had to go down quite twenty feet in order to get the necessary grade to enable it to discharge into the outfall sewer recently completed by Mr. Jas. Bogue.

—Mr. George Lecros, of Messrs. Lecros & Johnston, who recently opened a large restaurant in Oshawa, spent the holiday here, the guests of Mr. M. Papros, the George street cigar man.

Another Stony Lake Drowning.

Another sad drowning accident occurred near Black Rock, Stony Lake, Saturday, when Jas. K. Erb, of Chicago, lost his life by his sailing canoe upsetting during a squall. Mr. Erb had been stopping at Gregg's with a friend from Chicago. The remains were shipped to Laporte, Ind., for interment. On Monday by Mr. W. Comstock.

LOCAL INCIDENTS

By The Times Man on the Street

—The Printers' excursion to Idyle Wyld on civic holiday was one of the most enjoyable, best managed, large excursion for some time.

—The I.O.O.F. general committees will meet on Thursday evening to wind up the business in connection with the recent meeting of the Grand Lodge.

—Times Bookstore for souvenirs, largest and best assortment in town. Colored stereoscope views at Times Bookstore on bargain at six for twenty-five cents.

—Mr. M. G. Hutchison, who caught for the Examiner team on Monday at Idyle Wyld, could certainly give cards and spades to Cap Anson of the Chicago in base ball.

Auto-bus Company Sued for Damages

It now seems that there are people who do not appreciate the fact that the new auto-bus has, by law, a right to the road, under certain complied with conditions as well as drivers of horses, and are trying to get damages because their horses is not yet accustomed to modern appliances. Mr. Samuel Killen, reeve of Emilsmere, per Mr. R. F McWilliams, has entered a suit in the Division Court for $60 damages against the Peterborough-Chemong Auto Bus Co. It will be remembered that last week Mr. Killen's horse became frightened by the bus and threw Mr. and Mrs. Killen out of the buggy, Mrs. Killen being severely bruised. The plaintiff claims that he signalled for the auto to stop but it would not.

It is said that the same morning the horse had passed the machine unright. The amount of the claim has been reduced, so that it could be tried in the Division Court, which will sit in September. Then it would be necessary to get a verdict of at least a couple of hundred dollars, to pay the cost in the county court.

New Machine at Jackson Park

A new moving picture apparatus arrived Monday to replace that destroyed by fire on Sunday night. The new machine worked splendidly at Jackson Park last night, and a fine assortment of pictures was presented. It is considered now that Sunday's fire was caused by small boys. The old machine was totally destroyed.

Good Fishing at Chemong Lake

On Monday, the Civic Holiday, two ladies, Mrs. Toomey and Mrs. W. Gibbs, accompanied by two little boys, Masters Earl Toomey and Fred Brooks, went out from the Park in a skiff to fish. They were only out about two hours when the party succeeded in capturing seventeen weighing 24 pounds. One bass was a specimen which those catching, by Master F. Brooks, which turned the scales at 5 1-2 pounds. This is a good weight for a small-mouth black bass, especially when caught by a small boy.

On the same day a boy named Porter, caught a bass in Chemong Lake, near the Park that weighed 5 3-4 pounds, and which was described as a black bass. It was purchased by a local capitalist.

Stock Quotations Supplied to Passengers on Trains.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has arranged to provide stock quotations on its through trains between New York and Buffalo. These stock quotations will be placed on board trains at Buffalo and at Glen Summit Springs, Pa., being received direct at these points by private wire.

Notices will be displayed in the smoking rooms of coaches and of Pullman cars on Lehigh Valley trains. This service will no doubt be popular with the operators on the markets who make business trip over this line.

Mrs. Bowman in Charge of Hotel.

Mrs Mary Bowman on Monday took control of the Arlen House, formerly the C.P.R. Hotel. Mrs. Bowman during her fourteen years' proprietorship of the Oxford House, from which she retired, was taken recently, owing to the building not complying with requirements of the law, never and a convention of the Temple law. Thus there is every expectation that her new venture will not only be successful but a credit to the city.

A Kick About Jackson Park.

Yesterday a local gentleman, with wrathy countenance and fire in his eye brought us in a letter complaining bitterly as to the posts he alleged are now placed across the entrance to Jackson Park. He went on to say that the beautiful trees of the park, Mrs. Nesbitt's did not mean to have the park thus practically closed. As this writer signed the letter with his own signature, we mention this circumstance but; in lack of further information do not insert it, until such time as the entire truth of the matter be made public.

Chief Rutherford Will Sue for $2000

Chief Rutherford of the local Fire Brigade, will in a few days issue a writ for $1000 each damages against Aldermen Graham and Aldermen Duncan for defamation of character in the recent house purchase business. Mr. Rutherford, in the meantime, has deposited $200 with the city treasurer in the matter of the purchase, and says he will not allow the horse to be examined by Dr. McKercher as moved by the committee.

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures. Send for and read the little book of extracts, treating of the properties and uses of the several medicinal roots that enter into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and learn why this medicine has such a wide range of application in the cure of diseases. It is sent free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Discovery" contains no alcohol or harmful, habit-forming drug. Ingredients all printed on each bottle wrapper in plain English.

Sick people, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy.

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

King and Emperor Kissed Each Other

Meeting Between British and German Sovereigns Was Extremely Cordial---Their Majesties Heartily Cheered.

Cronberg, Hesse-Nassau, Prussia, Aug 16.—King Edward arrived here on a special train from Frankfort at 8.45 a.m. yesterday. Emperor William and Prince and Princess Frederick Charles of Hesse-Nassau met him at the railroad station.

The Emperor assisted the King in alighting and then they kissed each other on both cheeks. The meeting was very cordial.

The King wore a black Prince Albert coat and a silk hat. The Emperor had on the uniform of the Posen Jaeger Regiment with a steel helmet.

King Edward was accompanied by Sir Charles Hardinge, permanent under secretary of the foreign office, Major-General Sir Stanley Clarke, chief equerry, and Major Frederick E. G. Ponsonby, equerry to his Majesty.

Sir Frank Lascelles, the British Ambassador to Germany and the British Consul General, Francis Oppenheimer, joined the royal party at Frankfort.

After introductions had been exchanged the royal party and their following proceeded to Friedrichshof in automobiles.

The streets were profusely decorated with evergreens, flags and streamers.

Their Majesties were heartily cheered by the crowds and school children who were lined up along the route. Many Englishmen from surrounding watering places were also present.

After reaching Friedrichshof the Royal party breakfasted, and then the Emperor and King spent some time together.

At about 11 o'clock they, with Prince and Princess Frederick Charles, took a drive to see the monument erected in honor of Emperor Frederick in the Schloss Park.

After lunch, at the King's wish a visit was made to Homburg, the Roman camp at Stalburg.

A program of assiduous sightseeing and drives has created the impression, among those surrounding their majesties that they wish to avoid prolonged political discussions.

MEETING HAS SIGNIFICANCE.

London, Aug. 16.—The strictest silence is maintained in official circles as to the subjects to be discussed by King Edward and Emperor William at their meeting at Friedrichshof.

Up to the last moment it was not admitted at the Foreign Office here that Sir Charles Hardinge, the permanent under secretary of the Foreign Office, would accompany the King. He had been away on a holiday and spoke of it up to join the royal party on the continent.

His presence adds significance to the meeting, for, as the permanent under secretary of the Foreign Office, he is really the man who carries on the foreign affairs of the country, and the fact that he is attending King Edward leads to the belief here that the discussion between their majesties, will be of the widest range, taking in all questions outstanding between the two countries and those likely to come up in the future.

PRESS IS HOPEFUL.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—The press of all sections greets King Edward's visit to Emperor William from the standpoint of being a sign of improved relations between him and the Emperor and the belief and hope are generally expressed that the visit will have a beneficial effect on the people of both countries besides putting their political relations on a better footing. The papers, however, avoid all extravagant hopes in this direction, evidently trying to keep within the safe minimum of practical results.

Nobody expects positive political arrangements, but the Cologne Gazette, which usually reflects the views of the Foreign Office, expects the rulers to discuss all political questions concerning Germany and Great Britain, and also the general position of European politics.

The Post, which also maintains a close connection with the Foreign Office, cherishes the "glad expectation that much of the ill-feeling and many of the misunderstandings may be removed by a frank face to face talk."

A tone of sincere admiration for the King pervades all the leading articles. The Cologne Gazette greets his Majesty with feelings of reverence, the National Zeitung calls him a practical statesman of the first rank and the Neueste Nachrichten, while complaining that the King's policy has been to isolate Germany, pronounces him a "political artist."

The Highest Court in British Empire

Montreal Lawyer Deeply Impressed With Its Efficiency.

Montreal, August 15.—"Not a Canadian lawyer goes over to England on an appeal to the highest court of the realm, but returns deeply impressed with the magnificent work of the Judicial committee of the Privy Council," said Mr. Eugene Lafleur, batonnier of the Montreal Bar, who returned to Canada a few days ago. Mr. Lafleur was in England arguing four appeals before the Privy Council, and while there met a great many lawyers, not only from Canada, but from all parts of the Empire, who had cases to carry before the Law Lords.

"We were all greatly impressed with the way in which the work of this, the court of last resort of the Empire, was carried on," said he. "Despite the fact that Parliament was sitting at the same time, and the members were, of course, due to attend the sessions of the House of Lords, we always had a full board, and each case was given full consideration. There are now on the Judicial committee two recent appointments of the Balfour Government, Lord Dunedin, who was previously Lord Advocate, and Lord Atkinson, who was previously Attorney-General for Ireland. Both were engaged on the cases I had to argue, and they have evidently brought great strength to the Privy Council. To us Canadians in London on these appeals, it was evident that special care was taken to preserve the qualifications of the Judicial committee of the Privy Council as the Empire's highest court, and in each case that was heard, no matter where from, ample care was taken to secure the facts and do justice."

NOW IN CANADA

Man Who Wrecked the Chicago Bank Traced to the Dominion.

Chicago, Ill., August 16.—The police today have positive evidence that Paul O. Stensland, the fugitive president of the wrecked Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, is in Canada with a woman. The trail from Chicago led to Mendota, Wis., where he occupied a cottage by the lake and went driving with Mrs. Leslie Langdon Key. It is said he had shaved his head to give himself the appearance of baldness. From Mendota, the trail led to Madison, where it was lost. Banks of the Chicago Clearing House Association today offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest of Stensland. Leone Langdon Key is in a state of nervous collapse and attempted suicide. Another woman in the case is being sought by the police.

Child of Twelve Suicides.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., August 16.—Seized with a fit of temporary insanity, Charles Wilson, aged twelve, of St. Peter's Bay, hanged himself to a tree near his father's house.

The Richest Ore Land on Earth

Splendid Opportunity to Get in on Ground Floor of Good Mining Co.

As many of our readers are doubtless aware, the richest individual section of land on this continent and, outside the diamond fields of South Africa, on the surface of the globe, is that of the Bullfrog mining camp district, Nevada.

Here are assembled, in a comparatively limited area of land, gold mines which, with trifling exceptions, are all producing fabulous amounts of gold and other precious minerals. The veins of ore seem to spread through all sections of this district, so that land adjoining or in proximity to any of the Bullfrog mines now in operation, is almost certain to be gold producing.

The Missouri Bullfrog Mining Co. has a splendid property in the Bullfrog, Nevada, mining district, consisting of five full claims of twenty acres each, on which, at a depth of sixty feet, ore has been discovered which assays at $141.50 value per ton. The Missouri Bullfrog is, for a short time only, offering its stock at 20 cents per share, whilst the stock of every developed property in the vicinity of their mine is selling at from $1 to $22 per share.

Here is a golden opportunity to get in on the ground floor and get stock at 20 cents which will doubtless sell at as many dollars per share, in a short time, when the mine is fully developed.

For full particulars write Messrs. The Stiles Investment Co., Fiscal Agents, 309-310 Beals Building, Kansas City, Mo. On application, prospectus, engineer's report and full particulars will be sent.

WILL VISIT SPAIN

British Royalties Will Be the Guests of Alfonso This Autumn.

Madrid, August 16.—It is understood that King Edward and Queen Alexandra will make a state visit to Spain in the autumn.

The feeling is growing here that an extension of the entente with France and England over the Algeciras conference into a naval alliance with England would be infinitely valuable to Spanish national life. The idea is the usufruct of her splendid ports in certain eventualities. It is stated that King Alfonso is so enthusiastic over the idea that he took with him to England specially prepared charts to indicate how in this way England might establish complete domination on the Atlantic and gain great strength in the western Mediterranean.

LORD CURZON COMING

Former Viceroy of India to Visit America in Autumn.

London, August 15.—Lord Curzon intends to go to America in the coming autumn if the state of his health will warrant it. The shock of his wife's death and other worries, including political troubles, have aggravated his spinal affection, which has always been a source of anxiety.

He is a heart-broken man, has not mentioned his wife's name to any of his relatives since her death, and has only replied to letters of sympathy from a few intimate friends in a single pathetic line of acknowledgment.

A Great Blow to Local Rowdyism

Ernest Hudson Will Have two Months to Regret Assaulting a Cop.

Yesterday morning he case that occasioned much interest some few weeks ago, wherein P.C. Meharry was badly assaulted, was brought for trial before his Honor Judge Weller.

It will be remembered that this row took place on Saturday evening, July 28th, on the corner of Charlotte and George streets between a young man by the name of McKnight, who was somewhat "full," and Policemen Meharry and Newhall. While making the arrest, Hudson, one of McKnight's friends, gave P. C. Meharry a number of severe kicks. After McKnight had been taken to the Hotel des Cops, Hudson came around and tried to force his way into the police station, but was told to go home. This he refused to do and again tried to get in, with the result that P.C. Newhall placed him behind the bars along with McKnight.

He appeared before the magistrate the following Wednesday and was committed for trial.

Mr. D. O'Connel acted for Hudson.

At yesterday's trial the only witnesses were P.C.'s Meharry and Newhall and Motorman Fleming of the street railway company. All these witnesses corroborated their evidence as it was given in the preliminary hearing August 1st.

Hudson was placed in the box and denied that he kicked the constable or anyone else. He said at the police station that night that he wanted to find out if he could obtain bail for his friend.

In summing up the evidence he judge said that he hadn't any doubt whatever but that the story told by policemen and Motorman Fleming was correct. His Honor was also satisfied but Hudson kicked the policeman. Hudson's conduct in the police station, warranted P. C. Newhall arrested him. In his opinion he prisoner at the bar committed a far worse crime than did McKnight. Why should he interfere with a police man asked his Honor.

"I want him to understand it, and all other young men in this city that they cannot interfere with a policeman."

The prisoner was sentenced to two months in jail with hard labor.

"I hope it will have a good effect upon him and also others," added Judge Weller. "The next man that appears before me on this charge and is convicted, will be sent to Central Prison."

ENFORCES HEAD TAX

Newfoundland Puts Into Effect Measure Against Chinese.

St. John's, Nfld., August 16.—The measure adopted at the last session of the Legislature requiring all Chinese entering the colony to pay a head tax of $300 each, was put into force today by the Colonial Cabinet. The assent of the Imperial Ministry was secured before the step was taken. The proclamation comes just in time. It is said, to prevent a scheme for the importation of five hundred coolies into the colony.

MORE RAILWAY EXTENSIONS

Japan to Double Track Railroad from Dalny to Mukden.

Tokio, August 16.—It is announced that Japan is planning to double track the railroad from Dalny to Mukden. The new improvement is said to be a counter-demonstration against Russia's Siberian projects.

Kuropatkin's Son a Laborer.

Bellingham, Wash., August 15—A special from Vancouver, B. C., to The Herald says:

"With hands blistered and raw from unaccustomed work as a laborer in the woods, Capt. Kuropatkin, son of the famous Russian general, has left for Seattle. He complained bitterly while here of gentlemen having to perform peasant labor to keep alive."

SUMMER CATARRH

Hot Weather Seems to Have Bad Effect Upon Some People.

It is generally recognized by physicians that many people suffer more with catarrh during the summer than in the winter. The hot, dry weather and the change from the cool days to cool nights seems to have a bad effect upon the disease.

Even after the usual methods of treating catarrh have been unsuccessful, Hyomei will cure the disease, and all catarrh sufferers should take the treatment.

In many instances Hyomei has cured catarrh when the patient has suffered since childhood. Quite a number of people in Peterborough who for years have been unable to get a good night's sleep on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, have obtained quick relief from a few treatments of Hyomei and the continued use has made a complete and lasting cure.

There is no stomach dosing when one uses Hyomei. Simply breathe its medicated air through the pocket inhaler that comes in every outfit and all germs will be killed and the mucous membrance will be healed.

The complete outfit costs $1.00, extra bottles, 50c.

The party, who arrived at midnight, will be joined here by several from Peterborough, among them being Mr. J. D. Armstrong, Water street, who will act as host, during their trip.

Buttermilk for the creamery has been offered aboardship in unlimited quantity, and nothing in fact has been overlooked in either the commissariat or other departments.

Local Fisherman Loses His Rod?

An amusing incident occurred at Stony Lake on Monday, Civic Holiday, which was reported on us by an American subscriber passing through the city yesterday en route to New York.

It seems that Mr. Reid, of MacGregor & Reid, together with Mr. Ackerman of harness renown, were out bass fishing during the holiday, in a canoe. These two disciples of Izaac Walton had great luck with the black bass, capturing seven splendid specimens of the small-mouth bass in a short time, and a silver bass was also caught either. These two local men, it might be noted incidentally were guests of Mr. R. J. Wauch, near the head of Stony Lake.

Whilst out fishing Mr. Reid captured three good bass and Mr. Ackerman four, one of which weighed four pounds by scale, not fisherman's guess.

Where the pitch of the story comes in is when Mr. Ackerman got his four-pounder. This sturdy bass gave its captor a run for its life, and when nearly reeled in and seen by its captor, Mr. Ackerman, the fish neared the boat, in his excitement, threw his rod to one side and dashed for the line holding his prey. After nearly upsetting the canoe, and taking in more water, than a tramp would use on his ablutions in ten years, Mr. A. succeeded in getting the bass into the canoe. After performing the usual ceremonies with a club, and having duly inspected his catch, Mr. A. looked for his rod which was missing. "Say, I have lost my rod," he ejaculated. However he was shown the rod floating some 50 feet away, still attached by the line rapidly running out from the reel attached. The rod was recovered.

TREASURE HUNT FRUITLESS

British Yacht Returns With No Trace of $5,000,000 Sought.

Gibraltar, August 16.—The yacht Alkalda, commanded by its owner, Capt. Gage, has just returned from a treasure hunt in the Island of Alboran, in the Mediterranean, opposite Melilla. The search arose from a statement made to T. C. McMichael, of Brighton, by an old army man who had a secret confided to him when he was a boy to the effect that treasure worth $5,000,000 was buried by pirates on the island in 1832. Nothing, however, was found.

Breed Lions in Ireland.

Dublin, August 16.—There is one very thriving industry in Ireland—the breeding of lions. These animals are being exported all over the world by the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland. A few days ago a tiny cub about ten days old was carried off by a lady together with a small terrier to keep it warm and comfortable. It went to Paris, where it is to drive about in its owner's motor, occupying a place of honor in front, next to the chauffeur.

Chevalier Guard Whipped Woman

Russia's Crack Soldiers Brutally Ill-treated Girl Who Made Sarcastic Remark--A Court-Martial Demanded.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16—Intense popular indignation has been created here by the brutal treatment of Mlle. Smirnoff, a refined young woman, at the hands of the crack Chevalier Guards.

While a squadron of these guardsmen was passing along the Newski Prospect yesterday Mlle. Smirnoff, who was accompanied by another young lady, remarked, "They are as gay as if they had captured Port Arthur."

Pedestrians hearing the remark repeated in and quite a crowd collected and joined in the jeering.

The commander of the cavalrymen suddenly wheeled his squadron and gave the command to charge with drawn whips.

The troopers then charged the crowd, laying about them right and left.

Mlle. Smirnoff and her companion, who, in the meantime, had passed on down a side street, were pursued. They tried to escape into a doorway, but were caught.

Under the direction of an officer they were forced to enter a cab, and were driven to the guards' barracks, where they were taken before Colonel Steinbuckeltser.

The latter was disposed to turn Mlle. Smirnoff over to the police but other officers interfered and the girl finally was taken to the court yard where troopers in the presence of two officers, administered to her 25 lashes with their whips.

The girl's clothing was cut out as if by knives by the wire thongs of the whips and her flesh was horribly lacerated.

The papers are demanding the trial both of the officers and men who participated in the affair. Reports of both police and private surgeons are printed describing in detail the extent of the wounds inflicted.

The girl's back is so swollen that it is impossible as yet to ascertain whether any of her ribs are broken.

No action on the part of the military authorities has yet been announced.

The Twentieth Century, which printed another story of the case yesterday, has been confiscated.

Large Business at Burleigh Falls

Yesterday Mr. Thomas Darcy, the popular and genial host of the Burleigh Falls summer resort hotel, was in the city and dropped into see The Times. Mr. Darcy states that the business at his place this year exceeds altogether that done at Burleigh in any preceding year, and has exceeded his most sanguine expectations. The hotel has been filled to overflowing since the season opened; not only that, but the booking ahead assures the hotel being full to the middle of September. At the present time there are 85 guests at this most attractive resort.

Mr. Darcy, however, has the faculty of always finding room for those who stop at Burleigh, and the means of making his guests comfortable.

He was accompanied by his son, Mr. F. H. Darcy, proprietor of the Darcy House, Young's Points who also reported business at that resort as first class.

Ananias Was a Fisherman

It is an open secret that every fisherman's tale of his catch is open to careful watching, unless verified, in sight, by a veritable scale.

Yesterday a local gentleman was telling The Times how a friend of his had caught a black bass, on Monday, weighing 5 1-2 pounds. The Times man asked, "are you sure it was a black, not a green bass?" "Why, yes," replied the gentleman, "there it is," exhibiting a paper parcel. "Why," said The Times man, "that looks small for the weight." "Well," said the tale teller, "I gave about two pounds of that black bass to Mr. ——, you see it has been scaled and cleaned."

A few moments after another acquaintance of the gentleman-with-the-fish, happened along, and was told the same story. The gentleman impulsively opening the parcel, said "Now there is the fish to prove the story. Unfortunately as the parcel was opened, exhibiting the white interior department of the bass, the paper slipped showing the tail of the fish and also the gills, thus disproving the piece being cut off, and at the same time showing that the bass had been a "green" one. Thus do fishermen risk their future to get in a good story.

Traces of Gold Found.

Ottawa, August 16.—The Mounted Police engaged in making a wagon trail between Pine River and Atlin, B.C., have succeeded in blazing a trail from a point twenty miles west of Fort St. John, B.C., to Fort Graham. Traces of gold have been found along the Cyprus and Halfway Rivers.

Lands Here With Meningitis

Yesterday on the 5.15 C.P.R. train pulled into Peterborough, a very ill young man, by name Frank McNulty, 18 years of age, was removed from it, and taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

Dr. Grey, C.P.R. physician, says the McNulty, who comes from Detroit, had been on a trip to Quebec, and that he is suffering from cerebro spinal meningitis. The patient consulted a physician in Montreal, and was placed on board the train in the hope that he might reach home.

After leaving Montreal his condition grew so serious that it was deemed advisable to place him in the hospital here. It is said that the young man cannot recover.

Toronto Lawyer in New Role

As our old friend W. Shakespeare says, "All this world's a stage; the men and women merely players, etc." The well-known criminal lawyer, Mr. Frank Slattery of Toronto, when calling upon his old friend, Mr. Arthur Johnson at the Windsor Hotel yesterday, found that, owing to a large crowd of A.O.H. delegates about the bar, the wine clerk could hardly keep up with the order. Mr. Slattery at once went behind the mahogony and got busy. The way he did make his brother A.O.H. delegates put up was on a par with professional advice fees. When a bill would be placed on the counter he would blandly inform the delegates, "Nothing doing, no charge." The delegates considered that as a bar tender, Mr. Flattery is "IT."

Chandos Cattle Destroying Crops

It seems that the farmers of Chandos are having trouble over cattle running at large, and consequently straying into and eating up neighbors' crops.

On Tuesday a deputation came down from that section to interview his Worship County Magistrate Edmison regarding some of the by-laws of the municipality. It appears from their story that certain farmers in Chandos, have been allowing their cattle to roam at large, evidently regarding the highway as a first-class spot for pasturage. The roving cattle have broken into fields of grain not belonging to those owning the said cattle. The Chandos deputation want some sort of legislation to prevent cattle running at large.

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Emma Daigle, of Moncton, N. B., Sends an Open Letter to All Sufferers.

Most women are tired when they wake up. Housework drags along with great difficulty. Nervousness is always present, headaches seldom depart, tears are ever ready to flow.

But there is a cure, a true specific for women's ills that restored a prominent lady in Moncton, Mrs. Daigle, who tells the following experience:

"About a year ago I had a serious sickness, sort of a general breakdown. My digestion failed entirely and I was able to eat but very little. I took violent stomach pains and suffered terribly from headaches. My doctor said it was 'nerve exhaustion' and I might never be well. My troubles increased, for as I grew weaker I became subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. Sleep finally forsook me and I almost lost heart. Different medicines didn't help. Doctors couldn't do me any good. I was desperate when I heard of Ferrozone. The first box convinced me it was just what I needed. It toned up my stomach, gave me a splendid appetite and then my recovery seemed easier. Ferrozone increased my weight several pounds, has restored my nerves, gave me a good color and strength such as I never had before. For the weak and sickly I can truthfully recommend Ferrozone." (Signed) Emma Daigle.

REMEMBER: No mere stimulant or alcoholic concoction can take the place of the nerve and blood nourishment contained in Ferrozone. This true tonic always does what is claimed for it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn. U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

IS CARNEGIE'S MONEY DANGEROUS?

The controversy between Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Carnegie has attracted the attention of journals on two continents. As to the plain issue of fact there is no doubt that Sir Charles has the best of it, says the Montreal Star. Mr. Carnegie has advanced many doctrines by way of adjusting the affairs of nations and may be excused if he forgets some of them. He has been an advocate of triumphant annexation as well as an exponent of triumphant democracy.

Sir Charles Tupper has given the discussion a certain turn by a classical quotation which implies that he stands in fear or Mr. Carnegie, especially when he comes to Canada bearing libraries. A Toronto contemporary refuses to believe that Sir Charles Tupper really fears Mr. Carnegie or anybody else. There is reason to doubt whether Sir Charles really believes the Carnegie libraries to be so dangerous as the "dona ferentes" clause suggests. He seems to commend Montreal for not accepting a Carnegie library, yet there is no more loyal Montreal or Canadian institution than McGill University, and no sign is given that McGill will refuse her share of the Carnegie fund for professors' retiring allowances. Halifax has not yet accepted a Carnegie library, because the people could not decide in what part of the town it should be built. But Dalhousie College is already retiring one of its old professors on a Carnegie pension.

After all, why should the opinions of Mr. Carnegie on international questions implicate his libraries or his pension funds? Nothing is so impersonal as money. Once it gets out of the hands of an owner, it disowns him and all his ways and works. Often it performs services contrary to the previous owner's view. Scattered through Europe are institutions of learning and of charity—colleges, hospitals, libraries, churches, art galleries, gifts of benevolent men in years or ages past. They do their work, but the communities who use them have forgotten the name of the giver. Generations of Canadians shall read in the Carnegie libraries, and never know whether the donor was an Imperialist or a Continental Unionist. Mr. Carnegie himself has not asked that his opinions shall affect the choice of books, or the scheme of teaching of those professors who shall be retired on the Carnegie fund. The Carnegie library nearest to Montreal has no copy of Mr. Carnegie's books in it. There is not even a monition to those who imbibe from these fountains of knowledge, analogous to the inscription of the fountain, in Marmion.

"Drink, weary pilgrim, drink and pray
For the kind soul of Sybil Grey,
Who built this cross and well."

Mr. Carnegie asks no prayers and no endorsements. He could not well demand the latter, because his own views are transitory. Yesterday he was a triumphant Democrats. Today he is the Laird of Skibo. The other day he published grave reflections upon the intellectual character, undesirable habits, and general depravity of the gentleman who is now King of Great Britain. In this volume it was contended that England's nobility was a blemish and incumbrance. But at Skibo Castle has not King Edward been, since then, a welcome guest, treated by Mr. Carnegie as almost his equal? When Mr. Carnegie set aside a large sum of money for the improvement of the university work in Scotland he did not seek triumphant Democrats for trustees and managers. His list of trustees might be an extract from Burke's Peerage. So little is Mr. Carnegie in practical affairs affected by his abstract doctrines.

The truth is that Mr. Carnegie is a shrewd man of business. He knows how to do things right. What he says on international questions and philosophies is neither here nor there. These obiter dicta need not enter into a question of the acceptance of his libraries and other endowments. The Carnegie libraries will not contain armed Greeks who shall emerge in the night, open our gates to the enemy, give the country to destruction and cause "fult Canada" to be ejaculated by Colonel Denison, Dr. George R Parkin and other fleeing patriots.

Farmers Cry For More Help

Manitoba Grain Ripening Too Fast for the Harvesters in the West.

Winnipeg, Aug. 15. — Weather conditions in Manitoba during the past week have been fine, and, in fact, a little too fine, as the grain is ripening too fast for the farmers who are short of help.

Very few Eastern harvesters have alighted here, most of them going as far as their transportation will take them, and there is an urgent demand for men. A trip through the country now finds the grain at its most beautiful stage. Practically no damage has been done around here through hail, and the crop shows every promise of being above the average yield to the acre. Towards the north, where land is inclined to be sandy, the grain is well ripened, and should be cut, but in the eastern and southern districts it can stand a week more of fine weather. All farmers are well stocked with binder twine, and they only await the coming of help to rush the cutting of the 1906 crop to completion.

The continued fine weather has brought the crop very fast, and by the middle of the week cutting will be general.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Death Mask in Snow Indentified Remains

New York, Aug. 15.—With be imprint of his face in the snow, forming a perfect death mask, as the only means of identification, the skeleton of Bernard F. Kissam, formerly of Plainfield, N.J., and later of Long Island, has been found by the Canadian Mounted police in the Klondike.

Kissam was hunting near Klukhue on Sheep Creek, December 6 last, and was overtaken in the mountains by a blizzard, and was finally carried into a canyon by a snowslide. His friends and Mounted Police searched for him during the winter, but without success. With the coming of spring the Mounted Police kept a sharp lookout in the neighborhood where Kissam was last seen.

Man Choked By Raw Meat

Kingston, Aug. 15.—Robert Shaw of Picton, while under the influence of liquor, went into a butcher shop and began eating raw meat. A piece stuck in his throat, choking him to death.

Frederick Kellar, a retired citizen of Picton, died on Monday, from a complication of diseases.

John Rees, Napanee, aged 74, died in Kingston Hospital from jaundice. His remains were taken to Winchester for burial.

A new Government dry dock for use on the Rideau Canal is being planned to be built here during the winter. Several other vessels are also being contemplated of large dimensions, and with steel frames.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are amazing in their yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $270,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

could let fly terrible shafts of rebuke from those rosy lips of hers.

Albert Hastings walked up and down the floor in fierce impatience, striving with himself until he had attained some degree of composure, when he suddenly paused before Rose, and said:

"Rose, I beg you will pardon my mad words. I scarcely knew what I was saying. Your cruelty and scorn really drove me to frenzy. Rose! I love you to distraction. I always have done so! I always shall do so. Rose, do not let us quarrel. I know that you are the rightful heiress of Swinburne; and I came hither to-day, Rose to offer you my best services to assist you in the establishment of your rights, but your stinging words provoked me to an unmanly retort, for which I humbly beg your pardon, Rose. Say you forgive me; consent to be mine, and I will devote all my time, means, and energies, to the establishment of your claims to the barony of Swinburne. You will want all the aid you can get, Rose, for, believe me, the House of Lords will not easily transfer the title from one who has so long borne it, to another of obscure origin. Answer me, dear Rose, but before you answer me, remember that I, who now implore you to become my wife, loved you before the rising of your sun of fortune—loved you, and won your love while you were simple Rose Elmer."

"And while you were the betrothed husband of another. Do you imagine that to remind me of your perfidy, and my delusion, will be a ready road to my favor? I had given you credit for more worldly wisdom. I return you due thanks for your disinterested proffer of services. Of course, so unselfish a friend as yourself will be rejoiced to hear that they are not in the least wanted. Miss Elmer has already ceded to me all that is claimed as my right; and if I am not quite indifferent whether the House of Peers confirms my claim or not, it is because I have some faint hopes that they will reinstate her, who has so long, and so worthily, worn the honors of that ancient house; and now, Mr. Hastings, you will permit me to wish you an eternal farewell!" And so saying, the young girl bowed, and withdrew from the room.

Albert Hastings started forward to intercept her withdrawal, but was too late; she glided from the room so quickly that she disappeared before he could take three steps. The baffled and frantic plotter was about to follow her, but was stopped by his father, who hurried from the conservatory, and laid his hand upon his son's arm, saying:

"What are you about, you young fool? Sit down and listen to me."

"All is lost if I let her leave me in this mood!" exclaimed Mr. Hastings, throwing himself into a chair.

"Ridiculous! Nothing is lost or in danger. Listen to me, who knows women in all their phases—which are much more various than those of the moon, let me tell you—and who has known them since forty years before you were born: that girl loves you to distraction!"

"Ha! ha! ha! She takes the strangest way of showing it!" exclaimed young Hastings, with a sardonic laugh.

"No, she does not. She takes a perfectly natural, and very common way of showing it—namely, by excessive, even insane anger, at the discovery that you had been making love to another woman. Give her anger time to cool, and then will come the reaction of old love and weakness. You must make up your quarrel with the enraged beauty."

"But if she will not?"

"But she will; and if she should be very long in coming to her senses, I possess a talisman that will bring her to reason."

"And what is that?" inquired the young man, looking up with curiosity.

"The power to pull her down from her present position to her original obscurity," exclaimed the elder, sternly.

"But, in the name of Heaven, how can you do that, sir, when once the House of Lords has confirmed her title?" inquired Albert Hastings, in astonishment.

"Easily! By showing that, after all the evidence, she is really not the heiress of Swinburne!"

"Not the heiress of Swinburne! In the name of all that is inexplicable, how could you prove that?"

"By producing and proving the true heir!"

"And—that is, after all, Laura?"

"No!"

"What, sir! neither Laura nor Rose the real heir! Who, then, in the name of wonder is?"

"One whom you cannot marry. Therefore, I shall keep silent upon the subject until you see whether you can marry Rose. If she prove obstinate, I shall let her know that she holds her position at my will! and only upon condition that she marries my son!"

"You are the best of fathers, my dear sir! But are you quite sure of what you say?"

"Entirely! I have proof enough to overwhelm every court in the kingdom."

"How long have your preserved this secret, sir?"

"Since the night upon which the late baron died!"

"What! during the whole time that you administered the estates as the guardian of Laura?"

"Yes! but I was managing the estates and educating the heiress as a bride for my son, who was designed to be the master of Swinburne Castle, with, perhaps, the reversion of the title! Now, since a claimant with right has displaced her, I say, woo and marry that claimant! But if she refuses she shall in her turn give place to another, who has the greatest and the only right! So you shall be master of Swinburne, despite the caprices of these two women, for the barony of Swinburne is in our power!" said Colonel Hastings, with savage triumph.

* * * * * *

In the course of the next week, it was generally known throughout the country that the old barony of Swinburne had changed proprietors. The rector, Dr. William Seymour, called at the castle to discover for himself the truth of the report, and the reason for the breaking off of the marriage engagement between the ci-devant baroness and her chosen husband.

Laura received him with her usual grave and stately courtesy, and promptly related to him the history of the last month. She then spoke most kindly of Rose, the new baroness and sought to enlist for her, the sympathy and assistance of the learned and excellent man. This was readily promised by that minister, who next inquired:

"And you, my child, what are your plans for the future?"

"I shall remain with Rose for a few weeks longer, until she is more at ease in her changed circumstances. And in the meantime I shall advertise in the Times for the situation of a private governess in some gentleman's or nobleman's family," replied Laura, with a faint smile.

CHAPTER XI.

We return to Ferdinand, Cassinove, the humble secretary of Colonel Hastings.

Upon the same evening that the supposed Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne had made a conveyance of her estate to her betrothed husband, the several documents had been collected and intrusted to young Cassinove, with directions to proceed immediately to

Now, Then, Who's Who?

In his speech at the Royal academy's annual banquet Mr. Kipling said that every writer has hope, or has had hope, that through him a miracle with words would be wrought. "And why not? If a tinker in Bedford jail, if a pamphleteering shopkeeper pilloried in London, if a muzzy Scotsman, if a despised German Jew or a condemned French thief or an English admiralty official with a taste for letters can be miraculously afflicted with the magic of the necessary words, why not any man at any time?" So Mr. Kipling. Now, then, young ladies and gentlemen, let us see how much you know about the famous writers. The tinker is easy, but who were the pamphleteering shopkeeper, the muzzy Scotsman and the rest? — Harper's Weekly.

Mr. Morgan's Ivories.

Little by little our most precious works of art are going to America, where they obtain a most magnificent reception. Among the latest acquisitions of the great transatlantic collector, Pierpont Morgan, who has not only the means of buying everything, but the taste to choose well, are some admirable ivories of the middle ages from the splendid collection of Baron Albert Oppenheim of Cologne.—Paris Figaro.

Pale Faced Girls

Thousands Using Successful Cure For Paleness and Anaemia.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton had invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up the young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that awakes her system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness was hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills 25c. per box or five boxes for $1, by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Big Bend Lumber Company Met

The annual meeting of the Big Bend Lumber Company of the British Columbia, was held in the Bank of Commerce building there was a directors' meeting Tuesday afternoon and the general meeting of the shareholders took place as noted. Representatives are present from Kingston, Lindsay, Harrowsmith and other towns. Mr. R. H. Hall, M. P., and other local capitalists are largely interested in this immense concern.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two, direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflammation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form), is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

A Hotel Rumor Contradicted.

It is not true, as rumored Saturday last that Mr. T. Bricault, is to manage the C.P.R. Hotel, recently acquired by Mrs. Bowman. There was no foundation for this rumor, further than a silly joke played upon this gentleman. Mrs. Bowman is fully able to manage her own place, as demonstrated by the excellent manner in which she, some years ago, managed the large hotel, since burnt down, at Julian's Landing, Stony Lake. Our older readers will remember that the Julian's Landing Hotel, was one of the most popular and best patronized of any Canadian summer resort.

Stock Quotations Supplied to Passengers on Trains

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has arranged to provide stock quotations on its through trains between New York and Buffalo. These stock quotations will be placed on board trains at Buffalo and at Glen Summit Springs, Pa.; being received direct at these points by private wire.

Notices will be displayed in the smoking rooms of coaches and of Pullman cars on Lehigh Valley trains. This innovation will no doubt be popular with the operators on the markets who make business trips over this line.

51 Years in Same Room.

Yesterday a local citizen, living on London street, whilst talking with a Times representative noted, (and his remarks has been verified) that he was born 51 years ago in the same room as that in which he now sleeps nightly. Speaking of old English homes where the same families have dwelt for centuries, The Times challenges any local citizen to produce a case similar to that quoted above, born in a certain room, and the infant of 51 years ago having slept there ever since. A first-class leather medal is offered for a parallel.

Special Lacrosse Train Saturday.

A special train to Lindsay on Saturday afternoon is now assured. A good game is also assured, as the Beaverton team is one of the best aggregations playing in the junior series.

The special will leave the G.T.R. depot at two o'clock sharp on the afternoon of August 18th, and returning will leave Lindsay about eight o'clock. The Young Shamrocks had a good work out last night at Riverside Park, and are in the pink of condition.

Blind Horse Commits Suicide.

On Tuesday evening John Grady, owned a venerable grey remnant of horseflesh. Today he does not. The equine, on Tuesday night fell into a hole in the new public school grounds, dug for ascertaining the depth of water. The hole was six feet deep, the horse was blind and now the horse is six feet beneath the surface elsewhere, minus his hide.

Few Burials During Hot Weather

No burial took place in the Little Lake cemetery between July 15th and Aug. 15th. This is a record for many years. The report of the Roman Catholic cemetery whilst not quite as encouraging, is smaller than for many years during the same period. This speaks well for the general health of Peterborough.

A. O. H. Delegates at the Windsor.

The following delegates to the A.O.H. convention are registered at the Windsor Hotel: Messrs H. McCaffrey, W. Richardson, J. Kennedy, P. Cannon, J. J. McAuley, of the Press Committee; J. Loudon, H. Kelly, P. Wallace, M. Ryan, J. Daniels, J. Hennessy, B. McWilliams, all of Toronto, are guests at the Windsor Hotel.

Treating Wrong Disease.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages this practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse, by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Six Young Ladies Receives Holy Habit

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

War of Terrorism in Russian Poland

So Active the Revolutionists, and so Numerous the Assassinations, that the Whole Country has Been Thrown Into Consternation.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—The war of terrorism which the fighting organization of the Social revolutionists declared immediately after Parliament was dissolved seems now to have begun in earnest.

From all parts of the empire the telegraph brings the same story of attacks on police officials of all classes, accompanied in the majority of cases by plunder.

The Polish revolutionists are especially active.

There is a veritable reign of terror from the Vistula to the German frontier.

Almost fifty cases of assassination were reported early last night.

The Novoe Vreyma yesterday headed its list of murders and other crimes "St. Bartholomew's Night in Poland."

A DIFFICULT TASK.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—The resumption of terroristic activity on a large scale renders the task of the government more difficult and darkens the prospect of the present ministry accomplishing anything in the direction of an amelioration of the situation.

While for the moment the campaign of the terrorists is bound to increase the revulsion of the more conservative public opinion against the wild excesses of the extremists, it is at the same time certain to force the Government to redouble the measures of repression which, it is claimed, will, in the end, drive public sympathy back to support almost any means of relief.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS.

Some of the despatches from Poland assert that the outbreak of terrorism is in retaliation for the wholesale arrests and repressions of the Governor-general.

The government announces that the new parliament will not be deprived of the right to revise the budget for 1907. The budget will be submitted to Parliament when it reassembles in March, and in the meantime the credits for the first two months will be one-sixth of the credits of the present year, under the authority of the fundamental law assigning the credits for the preceding year in case of the failure of the passage of the budget.

RESUME PUBLICATION.

Several Liberal papers have been permitted to resume publication either under their old names or with new franchises.

The Holy Synod has declined to yield to the request of the Minister of Justice to allow divorce cases to be adjudicated by the civil courts, except in cases of adultry, the minister himself is now the defendant in a suit.

The wife of Vice-Admiral Alexeyeff is seriously ill.

INDICTMENTS DENIED.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—The Official Messenger today prints a denial of the recent announcement that the Rapp Commission had returned indictments against Lieut.-General Stoessel, the commander of the Russian forces at Port Arthur; Lieutenant-General Fock, who commanded the Fourth East Siberian Division at Port Arthur and others.

The Official Messenger says it is the duty of the commission simply to present the results of its investigation, upon which the indictments will be based.

The denial is more technical than real, as the conclusions of the commission under the regulations necessitate indictments on the lines published.

MASSACRE AT WARSAW

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Aug. 17.—It is now stated that during yesterday's massacre thirteen policemen, four police sergeants, seven gendarmes and four soldiers were killed, and that eight policemen, two sergeants, two gendarmes and six soldiers were wounded.

The soldiers, in replying to the attacks on the police with volleys and charging the crowds, killed thirteen men and two women and severely wounded seventy persons and slightly injured ninety-five.

During the night shots were heard in different parts of the city, but the casualties have not been ascertained.

The Polska Gazeta and the Daven Polaks, organs of the Polish Nationalists, today published strong leading articles denouncing the state of anarchy which the Socialists are producing in Poland. A close object lesson, the papers declare, is not the attainment of freedom, but the bringing about of a civil war.

Dundas Merchant Is Missing

In the local police station is a card, showing a picture of the one sought for man, offering $100 to any one who can locate the party.

The missing man is Willoughby Cowper, a Dundas merchant, who strayed away from his home on August 9th, and has not been heard of since. He was last seen on the Dundas Hamilton road on Thursday afternoon August 9. He is described as about 60 years of age, memory impaired, grey hair, small grey moustache, hazel eyes, height about five feet, 4 1-4 inches, weight about 140 lbs. He wore a black stiff, Christie hat, black suit, black laced boots, white shirt, white collar and a blue tie. Any information regarding him should be sent immediately to W. Cowper's office, Dundas, Ont., or to Chief Constable Twiss of the same town.

Visiting Welshman Gives His Views

Dr. B. M. Bartlett, of Carmarthen, S. Wales, is in the city and gave The Times a friendly call yesterday. The doctor is on a visit to his nephew Mr Fred Bartlett, 68 Murray street, and is accompanied by Mrs Kindy. Dr. Bartlett is in his 58th year, and is hale and hearty.

In conversation with The Times, he referred to the strides which Peterborough has taken since his last visit three years ago, and believes there is a great future for this city. He also was of the opinion that Canada is the brightest gem in his Majesty's possessions, and that Canada has a glorious future, and at some future time will be as great as the Motherland in power and wealth and was pleased to see the loyalty that prevails everywhere in this country, and thought that the bond of union was strengthening, rather than weakening as a few would have thought.

In discussing the Boer war, the doctor thought that Hon. Joseph Chamberlain was responsible for this great conflict. The Times suggested that the Boers would have to be brought into subjection sooner or later and that there is no use in delaying the eventual struggle, or take down the flag on the African continent. The doctor did not agree with this view, as, in a short time, British people and influence will have subjected the Boers. He thought there would have been an easier solution of the Boer difficulty had Chamberlain used his influence differently.

Dr. Bartlett deplored the drink habit which prevails particularly in South Wales. In the town where the doctor resides, which has a population of 14,000, at present there are about 99 public houses, where drink is sold. This would mean, on the same ratio of population that Peterborough would have 130 places licensed to sell liquor. He was pleased to know that we are so much in advance in regard to settling the evils of intemperance in this country.

The doctor will remain several weeks before returning to his native land.

The Fair Is Now Well on Its Way

It looks as though the Peterborough Fall Fair directors are not letting the grass grow under their feet and are determined that the fair this fall will be a success, if energy, intelligent management and attention to details can make it succeed. The rest is now up to our citizens, who should, by their patronage, figure that a great attraction being a success and thus a permanent institution, thereby advertising our city and county.

The directors in session, which was well attended and ardent in one have arranged all the preliminaries. Those present were Messrs. D. Hughes Charles, president; F. J. A. Hall, secretary; G. E. Elliott, E. M. Elliott, R. J. Munro, H. C. Winch, H. C. Garbutt, Wm. Collins, Robt. Fair, K. Eardly-Wilmot, J. H. Larmonth and F. H. Dobbin.

The prize lists are now being printed and will be ready for distribution in a few days. The premiums for horses are practically the same as last year. Appropriations were made for the different committees and much other routine business attended to.

President Charles stated yesterday that the indications were highly favorable for this year's exhibition and the show will probably exceed all previous ones.

Tramp Held Pending Woman's Recovery

Owen Sound, Aug. 16.—John Patterson, the tramp who was arrested in connection with the recent outrage on Miss Louise Jones, was arraigned in the police court yesterday morning before Magistrate Creasor on the charge of vagrancy, and was remanded for eight days, pending the recovery of the young woman.

The police have reason to suppose that Patterson was implicated in this outrage, and his appearance would by no means tend to refute this supposition.

A constable was sent to Desboro, a small village south of Owen Sound, yesterday afternoon, to arrest another tramp, but the innocence of the latter was established, and the result was that the arrest was not made.

The Attorney-General's Department has decided to send a special officer to Owen Sound, as soon as Miss Jones, the unfortunate lady who recently suffered a brutal assault, is able to give a statement, to procure the same. The case is regarded most seriously by the Government, and it is not improbable that special officers will be detailed to run the perpetrator of the outrage to earth. If is the determination if possible to make an example of him.

POLICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

Viole Booth was fined $2 for riding on the sidewalk.

Fred Thomas was charged with riding a bicycle on Chamberlain street on Aug. 13th. He pleaded not guilty and had been working all that day including the time of the alleged breach of the city bylaw.

John Mehaffy and Harold Fowler were charged with stealing a horse and buggy from the Cavanagh house yard last Sunday evening.

The first witness called was Lawrence Bell, the boy who owned the horse taken. He was not present.

P. C. Newhall in the box identified the confession made by young Mehaffy. Mehaffy admitted the truth of the confession. He said he tried to hire Bell's horse, Sunday night, but Bell would not let him have it. He left the yard and Harold Fowler advised him to wait and they went and took the horse. They drove out to Carnegie property. Harold Fowler then asked witness several questions.

Jr. Glynn, in the box said he saw the boys drive out to McBain's farm that night. Mehaffy was out looking for a drive and Fowler was driving.

Harold Fowler said he did not take the horse, but Mehaffy took it. He got in to the buggy at the Oriental. He has not been in the Cavanagh House on Sunday at any time.

Young Mehaffy, then questioned by the magistrate, said it was he who spoke to Bell about the horse, but Fowler took it. This was distinctly denied by Fowler. The magistrate said "One of you is deliberately committing perjury!"

Young Mehaffy admitted having lied to the police when he brought the horse to the police station. The magistrate fined them $5 each to be paid forthwith.

Fowler paid his fine $5 with 75c. witness fee. During the morning, later on young Mehaffy's father paid his fine.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle's Yacht Saved

A few days ago what might have been a serious occurrence was prevented by a well known local man. As this gentleman who had been spending his holidays on the northern lakes was crossing Temeron's lake, above Fenelon Falls, he came across a fine gasoline launch belonging to Mr. J. D. Flavelle. There were a number of ladies and children aboard, the waves were running very high and the yacht had lost her propeller. Those aboard were in a serious predicament as the waves were beating over the gunwales of the craft. The local gentleman, whose name by request we omit, went to their assistance and succeeded, in spite of the storm then raging, in getting all aboard safely to shore.

The result of the election was as follows.

Provincial President—G. J. Foy, Perth.

Provincial Vice-President — James McLaughlin, Ottawa.

Provincial Insurance Secretary — Frank Walsh, Toronto.

Provincial Treasurer—A. Tobin, Ottawa.

Provincial Secretary—W. E. O'Meara, Pembroke.

Provincial Medical Examiner—C. H. Coughlin, Peterborough.

Albany Club in New Quarters

In an evening contemporary of yesterday's issue appeared an article in part as follows:

"It is possible that the Albany Club, which some months ago turned over the lease of their club rooms in the Bradburn Block o the Elks, may secure the rooms over what was formerly the Palace Hotel, which has recently been leased by Mr. Pappas and fitted up for club rooms."

The Times has known of this possibility for some days, but by request of Mr. Pappas pending arrangements did not have the matter. Last night a Times representative interviewed Mr. Pappas and was told that, whilst Mr. D. O'Connell has the matter in hand, nothing definite has been settled yet. Still as our T.C. states there is more than a possibility that these fine quarters may be leased by the club.

Fine Bath Rooms in the Oriental

Many of the large number of visiting A.O.H. delegates, who made the Oriental Hotel their headquarters, were loud in their praise of the recently refitted Oriental Hotel. One of their leading officers while talking with a Times representative noted that the Oriental in the matter of bath rooms, both public and en suite, is more completely furnished than any hotel in Ontario. This hotel now has a large number of bed rooms on each floor with a splendidly fitted up bath room attached, in addition to several public bath rooms. The baths are of the most recent and up to date class of enamelled ware, fitted with silver hot and cold water taps, and marble topped stationary basins. Mr. Graham has spared neither trouble nor expense in making the Oriental a thoroughly modern and comfortable house.

Heavy Bail Demanded for Pickpockets

That of William Lennox Was Placed at $2,000 ---All Prisoners Were Remanded for a Week.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Under a charge of vagrancy, two of the men and the three women who were arrested by the detectives on Wednesday in their raid in the two boarding houses on Church street, appeared in the police court yesterday morning, and were remanded for a week to allow the police time to make enquiries about them. Heavy bail was demanded by the Crown, and the prisoners remained in custody. An old charge of theft was brought against Tompkins, and he was also remanded.

The names of the prisoners, with the charge and bail, are as follows.

Harry Tompkins, Toronto, theft, did not plead.

Minnie Tompkins, his wife, vagrancy, $1,000 bail.

Charles, alias "Kentucky" O'Neil, Niagara Falls, N.Y., $1,000.

Wm. Lennox, alias Callen, Montreal, $2,000.

Nellie Lennox, his wife, $1,000.

Mrs. Hattie Dineen, New York, $1,000.

The six sat together in the dock when the court opened and the "vagrants" were called within five minutes. All were well dressed and appeared to be quite self-possessed.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

Charles O'Neil was the first called. "Not guilty," was his plea through his counsel, Mr. J. M. Godfrey.

"I will remand you for a week," declared the magistrate.

"Will you give me bail?" asked O'Neil.

"One thousand dollars," replied Mr. Corley.

Mr. Godfrey objected to the amount.

"Bail as I interpret it, calls for a reasonable amount; $1,000 is excessive for a charge of vagrancy.

"The bail always depends on the importance of the prisoner and the nature of the case," replied the Crown attorney.

"Mr. Corley must decide the amount and of course, it must be approved," observed his worship, as if with an extra precaution.

Mrs Hattie Dineen was the next. Her plea was not guilty also, and the bail the same.

"But she has never been convicted before," put in her counsel.

"The bail must remain as it is," decided the magistrate.

CUSTODY OF LITTLE CHILD.

For Minnie Tompkins, the wife of Harry Tompkins, a special plea was made. When arrested yesterday her son, a bright little boy was taken along with her.

"I would ask for a special order for the woman, as she has a little boy, four years of age, and should take care of him."

"The child will be better taken care of away from the mother, I imagine," observed the magistrate.

The bail of William Lennox was placed at double, $2,000.

Harry Tompkins was the 1st to be called.

The old charge of theft of a chatelaine umbrella and other articles from the T. Eaton Company was brought up again. To this Tompkins did not elect or plead, nor was bail asked. Like the others he was remanded for a week.

After this all were removed by the detectives, taken upstairs in the elevator, and had their pictures taken and left the imprint of their fingers and thumbs on the paper sheets.

Measles Rage Among Indians

Thirty Die and the Whole Tribe Has Been Placed in Quarantine

Toronto, August 17.—An epidemic of measles, resulting in the death of thirty Indians in ten days, is reported by Mr. T. J. Patterson, who is engaged on the survey of the boundary line between Ontario and Quebec. The outbreak occurred near the Hudson's Bay post at Lake Abitibi, and the tribe has been placed in quarantine. The Indians are located near the east end of the lake, a few miles within the Province of Quebec.

C. P. R. AND THE CROP.

It is stated that by the time the Western wheat crop is ready to move the Canadian Pacific will have a hundred additional engines and 5,000 cars, which will be exclusively used to haul the western crop. Further than that, the roadbed has been, and is being, so improved by reducing grades and curves and double-tracking that where formerly trains of five hundred tons were about the limit, in places the engines can now haul fifteen hundred tons, which means a vast improvement in the capacity of the road.

No Medical Assistance Given

Inquest on the Death of a Victim of Christian Scientist Methods to be Held.

Yesterday evening a man named Arthur Rundall, about 35 years of age, died at the residence of Mr. Todd, Christian Scientist, from typhoid fever. It is stated that no medical assistance was procured until a few minutes before the man's death when Dr. Boucher was called in, who of course too late to do anything. Dr. Gray, coroner, was notified and at once ordered an inquest to be held. P. C. Mchaffy was placed in charge of the body, and the undertaker, Mr. D. Bellegham, was ordered not to embalm the remains.

The inquest will take place this morning at the residence of Mr. Todd when interesting developments may be expected.

THE TURF.

Harry Direct, Mrs H. Seobert's flyer, which he has through many columns, offered to back for a substantial sum to beat the local record, made a good showing at Dufferin Park races in Toronto on Wednesday. Lady Gothard, Mr. Martin Quinn's well known trotting mare/horse, also got more than a look in. Against strong competition Harry Direct took second place in the 2.17 class and Lady Gothard came third in the 2.50 pace.

Haze Bells was also entered in the latter race, but did not get a place.

Describing the 2.17 class, the Mail and Empire says;

"The 2.17 pace proved a great contest, Minnie Keswick winning the first heat after a great finish with Peter Miller. In the second heat Harry Direct came to life in the fastest time of the race, leaving the others far behind. Tom Boy, and Proctor, who was behind Peter Miller, to make a better drive, which had a good effect on Collins, as Tom Boy went away with Harry Direct and the pair raced head-and-head the whole mile, Tom Boy just nosing Direct out at the wire. Tom Boy won the next two heats, the last after a whipping finish with Minnie Keswick.

TUNNEL TO NEWFOUNDLAND

The Newfoundland Government, Railway Owners and English Capitalists at the Bottom of the Venture

Montreal, August 17.—A railway to Belle Isle and thence by tunnel under the straits and across to Newfoundland.

This project is now receiving considerable attention, in fact, negotiations are said to be in progress between certain well known and financially strong English concerns, interested, along with the Government of Newfoundland, in the development of the timber and other resources of the Labrador regions and of Newfoundland, on the one hand, and the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway on the other.

The negotiations have been carried on for some time, and it is believed a successful solution of the problem has been reached. The Quebec and Lake St. John Railway will extend their present system to Belle Isle, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, and thence tunnel under the Straits of Belle Isle, a distance of some twenty miles, to Newfoundland.

It is stated that there is every possibility of a successful issue to the pending negotiations. If so the completion of such a work would have a marked bearing on the shipping business to and from this country, amounting almost to a revolution in this trade along the Canadian and American Atlantic seaboards, as the project would shorten the Atlantic voyage to Europe to between two and three days.

The damming of the Straits of Belle Isle is also discussed. This would be done, not only for the purpose of affording a crossing for a railway to Newfoundland, but would greatly benefit the climate and navigation of Eastern Canada by preventing the Arctic ice from passing through the Straits into the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

These projects have been discussed for some time, but not until the present have they been taken up seriously. Both the Canadian and Newfoundland Governments are now negotiating a modus vivendi respecting the Labrador boundary, which will enable these large interests to not only formulate plans, but continue those works already in progress.

All Thin, Pale Women

Can Learn the Cause of Their Nervous, Used-up Condition.

With women, ill-health is usually traceable to nerve exhaustion. Feeling run-down and tired most of the time is nature's warning that more nerve-force is required.

You must build up, nourish the body, vitalize the nerves, get more flesh and blood.

It is the abundant nutriment and building material in Ferrozone that enables it to cure so many sick women. It increases the appetite, adds weight and strength, restores lost color and develops a surplus of energy and nerve force that defies sickness of any kind. There is living proof in Mrs. Daniel Ferguson, Jr., of Prescott, Ont. Read her statement:

"A year ago my health failed. I grew thin and exceedingly pale. At times I was prostrated with nervous and sick headache. All day I was tired. At night it was difficult to obtain restful sleep. My appetite was variable and indigestion bothered me considerably. I became morose and suffered from heart palpitation. You could scarcely believe the benefit I derived in one week from Ferrozone. Color came back to my cheeks. My vitality and appetite increased, renewed nerve force and better spirits came also. Ferrozone did a world of good and made me well."

Remember this: No alcoholic stimulant can nourish and build up like Ferrozone. Fifty cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

THE PATRONAGE SYSTEM.

Mr. Goldwin Smith says that as long as we have government by party, so long will we continue to bear the evils that spring from the patronage system in connection with the making of appointments to positions in Municipal, Provincial and Federal administrations. Acute and accurate as are many of Mr. Smith's observations on political and governmental matters, we venture to think that on this subject he takes an erroneous view. It would not be difficult to find cases of gross abuse of the possession of patronage, with which partyism had no connection. Particularly is this the case in municipal administrations, and that in towns or cities in which there was no division of public opinion in respect to municipal affairs on Provincial or Federal party lines. To do away with popular elections because incidentally the evils of the patronage system have followed in some instances the election of a person to a legislature, seems to us to be a misconception of the matter and an entirely erroneous assumption of a necessary connection between the two things. Public opinion, or, rather, public indifference is responsible for the patronage system. When public opinion is heard in distinct opposition to the system, it will disappear.

Not only is the patronage system bad in itself, but it is inimical to the best and most efficient administrative service. In the Civil Service in the United Kingdom, patronage has little or no say in the appointment of the members in that service. Yet partyism is as strong in the British Isles as in any country which has popular representative institutions. At the same time if would be difficult, if not impossible, to name any other country in which a more honest, capable and reliable body of public servants is to be found than that which carries on the administration of national affairs in the United Kingdom. But the British Civil Service is entirely apart and distinct from political influences. The Ministers who are the political chiefs of the various departments of the Government, come and go as the party to which they belong secures or loses power as the result of changes in public opinion. But the permanent heads of the departments and all the subordinate officials are unaffected by the ebbing or flowing of the Conservative or Liberal tide, and are secure in their positions as long as they properly perform the duties belonging to their offices.

It rests, therefore, with the people whether the patronage system shall continue or be abolished. Partyism is no obstacle to the abolition of the system, any more than from the circumstance that the party attempting to inaugurate the reform may find itself at some disadvantage when the succeeding appeal for popular support is made, on account of many positions in the administration being filled by appointees of its political opponents. Probably in no country has the patronage system so saturated the civil administration as it has in the United States. The Democrats claimed that Mr. Cleveland's honest attempt to deal with the evil was one of the causes of their defeat at the next election, as he had left in office so many of the appointees of his Republican predecessors. While not so deeply rooted in Canada, the patronage system has, we think, been growing of late years. But if public opinion were firmly declared against it, a salutary change could be brought about to the great advantage of the country.

NO ENOCH ARDEN HE

Returns to His Home After an Absence of Thirty-One Years.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Professor Chas H Frye, former superintendent of the Chicago Normal School of this city, returned yesterday to Chicago, after an unexplained absence of 31 years.

One of his first acts on arrival at his home was to hand $100 bills to his wife, with the remark, "Ask me no questions."

Frye was thirty-one years old when he disappeared. Since that day no word had been received from him by his wife.

He was recognized immediately, in spite of his added years and altered appearance. He is said to have made money in the Philippine Islands, where he lived for several years.

His wish that no questions be asked him regarding his wanderings has been respected, and he has settled down at home as though nothing had happened.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

The Advancing Expeditions to the North Pole.

"With the expedition headed by Walter Wellman from Spitzbergen, that of Mylius Erichsen from Greenland and that of Mikkelsen from Alaska, all advancing upon the pole this summer, interest in Peary, who went north last summer and thus has a year's start of them, is becoming greater," writes P. T. McGrath in the Chicago News from St. John's, N. F. "Peary went north from Newfoundland in July, 1905, in his splendid new steamer Roosevelt and hoped to be able to work his way up into the polar basin west of Greenland before navigation closed, a feat almost accomplished by Captain Hall in the Polaris in 1871. An open season in the seaway there, which occurs occasionally, enables an extreme northing to be made, and if Peary were so favored he would be able to shorten by some hundreds of miles the distance he would have to cover on foot in advancing toward the pole itself. Peary's intentions were to send Eskimos south from his ship to Cape Sabine this summer with news of his progress. The Scotch whalers which left Dundee in May for Davis strait took letters for him in case their cruise carried them so far north. They were also authorized to take aboard and convey south any dispatches which might be lodged there from him.

"Cape Sabine is, so to speak, the last accessible outpost in the north. In addition to the Scotch whalers, the Newfoundland sealer Adventure, which has been chartered by the dominion government for patrol service in Hudson bay and will proceed there in July, will also go to Cape Sabine and should reach there about the middle of August. Peary's friends have requested that the Adventure make a special search there for records from him, and as these are always deposited beneath a cairn in Lifeboat cave, the scene of the Greely tragedy in 1884, it is certain that any papers which may be sent south by him will be recovered and the fact probably communicated to the world from the Marconi station on Labrador. It is thus highly probable that toward the end of that month some news of him will be learned by the world.

"It is barely possible that with extreme good fortune he may have forced his ship so far up that he has achieved his aim and got, if not to the pole itself, at any rate beyond the farthest point—86 degrees 33 minutes—reached by any previous explorer—the Duke of Abruzzi, who advanced that far in 1900. On the other hand, the prospect is that he may have to spend a second year there, working into the polar basin this summer and pushing poleward next winter and spring over the mighty floes which stretch to the apex of the globe. Peary's most formidable opponent will be Wellman, with his airship."

Mishaps of an Automobilist.

An English automobilist, C. S. Rolls, tells of the things that have happened to him: "I have burnt my boiler out three times on a steam car, I was once stuck in a deep flood and had to bail a punt, once had to be practically dug out of a bog, was once stuck for want of a match for over three hours with my burners out, the longest distance I have had to walk for petrol was in France—twelve miles; have three times had a passenger fall off a racing car moving at a fair speed without being killed, once had a horse and cart on top of me, in the Paris-Vienna race ran into a tree at seventy miles an hour, twice been overturned, once had my head mashed in by a starting handle, have twice run away completely down hill forward and two or three times backward, once upset an apple cart in the Strand, and twice had my car burnt up."

Pupils are prepared for Matriculation at the University of Toronto, for the Havergal Diploma and for the examinations in Music of the Conservatory and the Toronto College of Music, and in Art of "The Royal Drawing Society," London, England.

The College offers exceptional conversational advantages in French, under a resident French Mistress, assisted by six resident specialists in modern languages.

Particular attention is given to physical training by two graduates of the Boston Normal School of Physical Culture who reside in the College, and give individual care to the pupils. Instruction in swimming will be given in the new swimming bath.

Large grounds adjoin the College, and afford ample space for tennis, basket ball, cricket, etc., in Summer, and for hockey upon a full-sized rink in Winter.

A new Junior School is now being erected. The Curriculum includes, among other subjects, elementary courses in Cookery, Wood Carving and Basket Weaving.

A Domestic Science School, with six Departments, is now being fitted up.

Copies of the Calendar, containing full information as to entrance, fees, etc., may be obtained on application to the Bursar.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

Colonial Diamond Mining Co,

50 Congress Street. Boston, Mass.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the man interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH — A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

London, and lodge them, for greater security, in the hands of the family solicitor, and afterward to go to the house in Portman Square and wait the return of his patron. And the young man, glad to escape the presence of that queenly woman, whom he could not look upon without love, and could not love without sin, promptly obeyed the orders of his employer, and the same night set out on his journey to London. In due time he reached the city, executed his commission and retired to his own peculiar den in a great house in Portman Square, to await the arrival of Colonel Hastings, who was expected in town immediately after the marriage of his son and the departure of the happy pair upon their bridal tour. With his whole soul consuming with a passion that his reason assured him to be as well founded in esteem as it was hopeless in prospect, young Cassinove passed many weary days, vaguely wondering at the prolonged absence and unaccountable silence of his patron. At that day news did not travel with anything of the alacrity with which it flies at this. Young Cassinove heard nothing of events progressing at Swinburne Castle.

Nearly a month had elapsed since his return to Portman Square, when, one evening, the household was startled by the sudden arival of their long expected master, accompanied by his son, who was supposed at that very time to be far upon his bridal tour.

Colonel Hastings resented the surprised looks of his household with many oaths, that did not tend to restore their self-possession, and then retiring to his library, called and ordered the attendance of his secretary.

Ferdinand Cassinove entered the presence of his employer, saying:

"The deeds are safely deposited with the Brothers Barlin."

"D—— the deeds. They are not worth the parchment they are written upon," roared the colonel, in a fury, following up his exclamation with a volley of oaths that made the secretary stare in astonishment, and doubt whether his venerable patron had not been for once overtaken by intoxication.

"I trust, sir, that no misfortune," began Ferdinand, but he was interrupted by a terrible torrent of profanity, and the words:

"Misfortune, misfortune! Worse, sir. A confoundedly ridiculous contretemps that has made us a nine days' wonder—a town talk all over the country."

"Whatever it was, it does not in any way affect Mr. Hastings, or his bride?"

"Perdition, sir! It was just those two whom it did affect," exclaimed the old man.

Ferdinand turned very pale, and moved a step nearer, and then, from very agitation, sank back into his chair, murmuring:

"And what, sir, if I may be permitted to ask, is the nature of this calamity, and the manner in which it touches Mr. Hastings and his bride?"

"Confound it, sir! At the very last moment it broke off the marriage."

Cassinove sprang upon his feet with a cry of irrepressible joy.

Colonel Hastings mistook this for an exclamation of astonishment, and, thinking himself sure of an interested and sympathizing listener, he related, with many imprecations, the discovery that had been made at Swinburne, with the events that followed.

Young Cassinove listened with a joy that it was almost impossible to conceal, all the while saying to himself:

"She may yet be mine—she may yet be mine. This noble creature may yet be mine. Oh, what a revulsion from despair to hope and happiness! Now I have an incentive to action; now I have an inspiration to live and do, and endure; now shall days of toil and nights of study anticipate the long passage of years, and I will win fame and wealth to lay both at her feet. I will restore her more than she lost. Hear it, oh, ye spirits that inspire and direct noble passions, and bless my efforts!"

While these glowing hopes and inspirations warmed the bosom of the ardent young Italian, Colonel Hastings brought his long story to an end, concluding with the words:

"And, of course, you must be aware, Cassinove, that there could be but one line of action for us, my son's destined bride being proved an impostor."

"Impostor, sir," indignantly interrupted the young man.

"Well, not impostor, exactly, since she was no conscious party to the fraud that imposed her upon the late baron as his daughter and heiress, but as she was discovered and proved to be the daughter of the late gamekeeper, of course, a family of unblemished lineage like our own could not possibly receive her. Mr. Albert Hastings, with my full approbation, requested to be freed, and was freed, from his engagement to her."

"The base traitor!" exclaimed Cassinove, in indignant scorn.

"Sir!" vociferated the colonel, in astonishment at his secretary's boldness.

"I say the base traitor! And would to Heaven I had the brother's privilege of chastising him for the most infamous act that I ever knew a man to be guilty of!"

"Get out of my house, sir!" cried the colonel, striding toward Cassinove, and shaking his fist.

"I intend to do so; but not until I have fully expressed my opinion. This seeming sad reverse of this most noble lady is really no misfortune, but a happy vicissitude for her, since the same providential blow that deprived her of rank, wealth and title, dashed from her side a wretch unfit to breathe the same air, or tread the same earth with herself."

"Will you begone from my house, sir?" thundered the old colonel, advancing on him.

"I am gone! Not one moment would I remain in the service of those whose own lips defend their own dishonor."

The enraged old man rushed upon the younger one with uplifted hands and furious eyes.

But Cassinove, taking off his hat, turned and calmly confronted his employer, saying:

"Sir, the gray hairs that have not brought you respect yet protect you from resentment. I wish you good night, Colonel Hastings, and a better understanding of that which really blemishes an unblemished lineage," and with a bow the young man left the room, and hurried immediately to his own little den on the third floor, where he commenced preparations for a hasty departure. It was the work of a few moments to pack his slender wardrobe and small stock of books. Next he called a cab, ordered his luggage to be put upon the vehicle, and directed the driver to take him to No. 8 Flitting street. A half hour's drive through the intricate thoroughfares of the centre of London brought him to a small, clean-looking thread-and-needle shop, that bore over the door the sign "Ruth Russel." Pulling up here, he got out and went into the cheerfully lighted little shop that was for the moment occupied only by a neat little dark-haired woman of about thirty years of age, dressed in a widow's weeds and cap, and standing behind the counter.

"Well, Mrs. Russel, how does the business?" said young Cassinove, cheerfully, as he entered.

"Oh, very indifferently, I thank you, sir. Your last half dozen of shirts are quite finished, and I should have sent them yesterday, only Frank is sick with a cold, and little Emily does not know the way. How sorry I really am that you should have had the trouble to come."

"Reassure yourself, Mrs. Russel, I have not come about the needle-work. I wish to know if your second floor front is let?"

"Oh, no, sir! The rooms take no better than the shop, somehow. It seems Saves Dishwashing.

"I've almost solved the dishwashing problem," said a New York housewife. "I use those lovely carved wooden trays for bread and cake and all kinds of dry fruit, and they never have to be washed. I slip a paper napkin or doily under the bread and throw it away when I am through with it. My salads I serve in the shell of a grape fruit or an orange, and I cook my meats on a plank, including fish and fowl. I bake French pancakes on a soapstone griddle, and in all these ways I lighten the burden of housework."

Dresden's Dog Bath.

At Dresden a new bath for dogs has been opened for the convenience of busy people who have not the time to look after the cleanliness of their own pets. Dogs are left at the bath by men on their way to business, and during the day they are kept in kennels, cared for, given a wash and a good rub down, clipped if necessary and returned to their master when the day's work is done.

Are You Often Bilious?

Read This and Learn How To Prevent Attacks.

Biliousness is merely a term applied to a condition that exists when the body is over-loaded with bile.

The complexion turns yellow, eyes look dull, pimples, itching and eczema break out, headaches are ever present.

Biliousness has two great causes, constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken they not only correct the bowels, but act directly on the liver, regulating its bile secretion.

Unlike ordinary medicines, which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the condition which causes biliousness; thus permanent cures are effected.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure biliousness and liver ills under all circumstances.

We prove this by the statement of Mr. Fenwick Luddington, of New Harbor, N.S., who writes: "Three months ago I had no expectation of ever getting free from periodical bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and dreadful headaches. If I stooped over my head would swim and a nauseous feeling crept into my stomach.

"Dr. Hamilton's Pills fixed up my liver, drove all the bile out of my blood and made me a well man in a few months. Today I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion, and the best of good health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills today. Sold by all dealers; 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Local Dogs for the Toronto Show

Once more Peterborough takes a prominent part in outside competition, as three local dogs will compete in the Toronto Bench Show to be held shortly.

Mr. F. L. Robinson, V.S., has entered three dogs for the Toronto Dog Show. His entries consist of two Boston terriers and one French bull terrier. His entries are good specimens of the classes they represent, and should make a good showing. The entries for the show have now closed.

Street Car Off the Tracks.

Yesterday morning, about 7.30 an unusual accident occurred at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, when car No. 7 of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, recently out of the barn, and going north jumped the rails and came to a standstill in front of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Fortunately no damage was done further than a fender bound for the emergency ward of a machine shop. As the car, in its erratic flight, completely left the rails, the car service was not interrupted for any appreciable length of time. However it took fully an hour to get the car back to the rails. Had this accident occurred a few hours later the consequences might have been serious.

Horses Gone to New York.

A Fay Prophecy is Verified

There is at least one firm believer in the Fays who showed at the opera house here some months ago. It seems that whilst the Fays were showing here, Mrs. McMartin of Otonabee, asked Mrs. Fay a question concerning a watch which she had lost some two years ago. The answer was that a woman called "Hattie," was in possession of the missing article. The sequel of the incident has just come about, and on Wednesday, Mrs. McMartin received her watch from an American lady who is visiting near Mrs. McMartin's home. It appears that the lady, whose Christian name is "Hattie," found the watch on a previous visit two years ago, and had carried it back to the States with her.

Peterboro Riflemen for Ottawa.

It is expected that ten Peterborough marksmen will attend the D.R.A. matches, which will open in the Rockcliffe ranges, Ottawa, on Monday, August 27th, and continue throughout the week.

For the past few days, through courtesy of Mr. Chas. Curtis some of the experts have been practising at the ranges. A good practice was held yesterday afternoon which was well attended.

Mayor and Councillors Cheered

Yesterday afternoon the Mayor and some of the councillors entertained the visiting A.O.H. delegates to a round trip excursion over the street car route. Those taking in the trip were highly delighted and agreeably surprised at the progress and growth of the city. On returning to the corner of George and Charlotte streets, about 7 p.m., as the visitors got off the cars they gave three times three hearty cheers for the Mayor and aldermen.

The Fire Charts Rapidly Filling.

Mr. C. B. Lasell, representing the Fire Department, and who is getting our fire charts, for the benefit of the local Fire Brigade's sick benefit, and incidentally working towards getting a lower rate of fire insurance assessment, is meeting with great success, most of the leading local factories have already taken up a large amount of the advertising space. Next week Mr. Lasell will call upon the merchants and professional men of the city.

A Heavy Load to Carry.

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general ill-health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system. The blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion, and in turn the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, dizziness and general breakdown. It is not head work, nor over physical exertion that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor, thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous habit-forming drugs.

A little book of extracts, from prominent medical authorities extolling every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will be mailed free to any address on request by postal card or letter. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many years of active practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots as medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both efficient and safe for tonic, alterative and rebuilding agents.

The enormous popularity of "Golden Medical Discovery" is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of its ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle said, gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an unknown or secret remedy. It is not a patent medicine nor a secret one either. This fact puts it in a class all by itself, bearing as it does upon every bottle wrapper The Badge of Honesty, in the full list of its ingredients.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures, weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver and biliousness, ulceration of stomach and bowels and all catarrhal affections no matter what parts or organs may be affected with it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills, first put up 40 years ago. They regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Much imitated but never equaled. Sugar-coated and easy to take as candy. One to three a dose.

Dom. Express Man For Montreal

Mr. W. Thornton of Local Office Receives a Promotion.

Mrs. Wilbert Thornton of the local branch of the Dominion Express Co., left last night for Smith's Falls where he will relieve for two weeks. He will then proceed to Montreal, to assume a good position in the company's employ in that city.

Mr. Thornton is well known in athletic circles here. He is a member of the champion Charlotte street baseball team, and is also a well known hockey and rugby player. His many friends in this city will wish him every success in his new position.

Hotel Employe Skips With Booty.

A Havelock hotel man, Mr. Armstrong, is now regretting employing a slick young man in his hotel. The young man, some days ago was given a job in the Armstrong House, but has "skipped by the light of the moon," taking the cook's gold watch and $12 in cash.

He was followed to Norwood by the constable, who saw the man he was after, lurking around the C.P.R. station, but before he could get his hands on him, he was gone, and has not yet been caught.

For the Stomach Heart and Kidneys

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a Cause Cure—not a Symptom Cure.

It is common nowadays to take artificial digestants for stomach troubles—or heart stimulants for weak heart—or so-called kidney remedies for diseased kidneys. These organs do not act separately or of their own accord—they have no control over themselves—and not once in 500 times is the sickness the fault of the organ. It is the fault of the nerves which control the organ—and only through these nerves can stomach, kidney or heart disorders be cured. Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wisconsin, learned early in his medical experience that these inside nerves were the power nerves—that through them only was it possible to cure indigestion, heart burn, backache, bad breath, sleeplessness and Bright's disease and all other affections of the kidneys. For all of these ailments are not separate sicknesses and are not to be treated as such. They are merely symptoms of inside nerve weakness, and when the nerves are restored the symptoms and the sickness disappear. The remedy which Dr. Shoop prescribed for these ailing nerves is known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It relieves the pain and distress of kidney, stomach and heart troubles quicker even than those medicines designed simply to give temporary relief. Dr. Shoop's Restorative can now be had of druggists everywhere. For sale and recommended by

Is authorized to act as

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

"No Surrender" Says Education Board

Normal School Cannot be Located Upon Site in Central Park Chosen for the Collegiate Institute.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last night in the board room. There were present, Messrs Chairman Ferguson, Dumble, Hill, Crane, Burnham, Morrison, Fair and Pringle.

The chairman read a communication from the city clerk which the latter had received from the Minister of Education, re site for Normal school, asking that the deeds should be made out and forwarded at once.

The chairman stated that at the recent joint meeting of the Board and the Council, the Board was unanimous in their opinion to retain their old site in Central Park for the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Fair asked why was the Board's old site taken into consideration at all as it was not available. The Department of Education had a man sent down to inspect the site here and his visit was only lost time.

Mr. Hill said it is the duty of the Board to refuse to give the Central Park lot. It is not in the Board's power to do so. The Dominion Government has a right to use the lot on which the cadets will drill at the rear, for drill purposes.

The Dominion Government has a right to use lots 5 and 6, provided their lots are left open to the cadets.

Messrs. Dumble and Pringle followed, by showing that the lots gotten from the city were for the specific purposes of an armory and a Collegiate Institute. The Board has no right to give up these lots as the people voted the money for the above purposes.

Mr. Pringle continued by saying that there are other sites adapted to the Normal school.

Mr. Crane said that he had previously remarked that to get this good public building, it might be advisable to do, the government have the lot. However, he now thinks that, under existing circumstances the Board must hold the lots and then seconded Mr. Hills' motion.

Mr. Hill explained that the military authorities want the Board to retain their present lots, so as to ensure a good parade ground.

It was moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. Crane, that the secretary of the Board be authorized to reply to the City Council, respecting a site for the Normal school, that this Board cannot consent to any arrangement which will exclude the Collegiate Institute from Central Park for the following, among other reasons, viz., that the Central Park property purchased for a site for an armory and for a Collegiate Institute has been appointed; the south two acres for an armory and the north two acres for a Collegiate Institute subject to a pledge to the Dominion Government, that the unoccupied grounds of the institute in rear of their building, should be kept open for use of the military authorities for parade and drill purposes. The Government at Ottawa on this understanding contributed $10,000 towards the purchase of the land, and without the sanction of the Dominion Government, and the approval of the people who voted the money for the purchase of the site and the erection of the Institute it would not be in the power of the Board to surrender their site for purpose of a Normal school.

Some few changes in the new South Ward school were considered.

Another Christian Science Death

Inquest on Late A. N. Randlett Postponed Until Wednesday.

Another case is in our midst where it is alleged a human life has been lost owing in part to a sick man being under control of Christian Science and the services of a qualified practitioner being delayed until too late.

It seems that Arthur N Randlett, of Lowell, Mass., was suffering with hemmorrhage of the bowels, a result of typhoid fever, at the home of Mr. R. J. Todd, Christian Science practitioner, 456 Aylmer street, and passed away on Thursday night.

A coroner's inquest on the body of the deceased opened yesterday morning at ten o'clock at Bellegham's undertaking establishment. After hearing considerable evidence, an adjournment was made until Monday evening, August 20th, when the inquest will be resumed.

According to the evidence Randlett had received no medical treatment during his illness except for an hour before his death. Dr. Boucher was called between nine and ten o'clock Thursday night, but when he arrived the man was dying, and passed away about an hour later. Dr. Gray, coroner, was notified of the circumstances Thursday night, and decided that an inquest was necessary.

Randlett came to Peterborough on July 18th, from Ottawa. Since that date he has been receiving Christian Science treatment from Mr. Todd. He resided at Mr. Todd's house since July 25th.

The inquest opened at ten a.m. Coroner Gray presided and R. E. Wood looked after the interests of the Crown.

The following were the jurymen empannelled, R. McWhinnie, foreman, O. Lefay, Harry Morgan, John Shea, N. K. Reid, T. C. Elliot, F. Allison, J. W. Butcher, T. Redman, A. Johnson, W. Morgan, F. Garden and Jas. O'Shea.

Dr. Boucher, the first witness said he was telephoned for about nine o'clock, Thursday evening, and went to Mr. Todd's house. At the house he was given a history of Randlett's case by Mr. Todd and made an examination of the patient. He found Randlett apparently suffering from extreme exhaustion. There was no pulse, and the man was in a dying condition. Witness was told by Mr. Todd that deceased had two hemorrhages of the bowels.

To Mr. Wood witness said that there was no hope of saving the man's life when he arrived as he was dying. Mr. Todd informed him that he (Todd) had treated the deceased. He did not say what the treatment was. There were no traces of medicine about. Dr. Boucher said that the mortality rate in typhoid cases properly treated in private houses was five to twelve per cent. In hospitals the rate was any where from seven to twenty per cent. At hospitals the patient were usually in wards where there were many other patients. He had treated patients suffering from hemorrhage of the bowels and often their illness had not proved fatal.

Mr. R. J. Todd, the next witness on being examined by Mr. Wood, said he had lived in Peterborough six years. His occupation was demonstrating Christian Science. He charged for his time in some cases. When the patient was not able to pay there was no charge made. He saw Randlett first on the 18th of July when deceased came to his house on Aylmer street. His son in Ottawa, had given him a card introducing him to his father, Mr. Todd. Randlett was not in good health at the time. He said he desired Christian science treatment as he had been benefitted by it before when he had an attack of typhoid fever, and when the doctors had failed to help him. Randlett first came to witness's house on July 18th, in order that he might have quietness. Witness commenced to treat the dead man on July 18th, and continued to treat him until he died.

Under examination by Mr. Wood, Todd, after a skilful fencing with words, said his whole treatment was prayer, that he charged $5 a week and that deceased owed him money for board and treatment.

The inquest was then adjourned.

24th Field Battery Did Good Work

Local Boys Who Obtained Prizes During the Petawawa Competition.

Canada's infant battery, our own 24th, during the recent meet at Petawawa where they took part in the gunnery and other competitions proved that whilst young, this battery has established a record for efficiency.

The battery went down to camp last Saturday night with the 14th battery, the other division of the 10th brigade, under the command of Col. McNaten, of Cobourg.

The local battery beat the 14th, the other battery of the 10th brigade, by a large number of points, and great praise was given to Acting Major Hall for the manner in which he handled his battery. It certainly reflects great credit on this young officer for the high state of efficiency which this battery has attained.

During their outing the 24th artillerists met Corp. Fee, now of A. Battery, Kingston. Corp. Fee has done good service to the local battery, having given great assistance to Maj Young, previous to the Cobourg trip.

The 24th Battery boys say that the Petawawa is one of the best locations for a military camp in Canada, and the Dominion Government has acquired ten square miles around Petawa and are now erecting extensive buildings there. The camp is being laid out by a corps of engineers, and they are putting in their own gas and waterworks plant, etc. The annual training for all branches of the services will be held in Petawawa annually for both the militia and regulars.

A and B batteries, of Kingston made a rout march from that city to Petawawa in ten days, and have been camped there since July 14th.

Among those who won prizes in the recent competitions, the local men held up their end. Bomb. Galvin got first prize in gun laying. Vance Wilson obtained first prize in fuse setting, setting three fuses in twenty-four seconds; this is a wonderful record for a green battery, who will, doubtless put the regulars guessing by next year.

Following is a list of those who went with the battery.

Rate War on Local Steamers

On Thursday, the first rate cutting war for many a year was in evidence on the steamers plying between Peterborough and Rice Lake. It seems that that afternoon two well known boats, the Monarch and Water Lily, that are both popular with Peterborough passengers going south on the Oconabee, got into a mix-up as to rates.

The usual rate from Peterborough to Rice Lake on the afternoon trip is 10 cents. The Monarch cut the price to 25 cents, the Water Lily retaliated by making the price 20 cents. This was the limit of fair shot fired in the war.

The boat captain making the first cut unreasonably remarked that the other boat would soon be throwing in free meals with transportation. An armed neutrality now exists and in the meantime the public gets the benefit.

ANNA HELD DANCED

But Some of the Ladies Present were Scandalized to a Degree.

New York, Aug. 18.—Anna Held, the actress, who has been studying music abroad for two years, returned yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Some of the passengers, including several clergymen did not like her style of dancing as a ship's entertainment and said so.

At the captain's dinner there had been repeated calls for Miss Held, and she was finally lifted up on a table some passengers said, where she gave her new Maxixe dance.

Nothing like it was ever seen before on the high seas. Most of the men though, it was fine, but many women, it is said, shut out their view of it with their fans.

The protesting clergymen left the saloon at once. They told the officers that a ship was no place for a dancer to elevate her toes to the electric lights.

One Telephone Service Sufficient

Why the Glasgow Municipal Ownership System Was a Total Failure.

The Glasgow Herald states that the municipal ownership of the telephone in that city has been a failure and has resulted in loss to the ratepayers. As a consequence the municipal authorities have disposed of the plant, right, title and goodwill to the government. As a municipal telephone is one of the hobbies which municipal ownership faddists wish to exploit, it may be well to consider some of the causes which contributed to Glasgow's failure in a similar direction.

In the first place, it is fair to say that telephone systems are in a class by themselves, and only experience and skilled management have succeeded in making them a success even under private ownership. It has not been shown that any city has been able to carry them on satisfactorily. Moreover, in the best interests of the community a telephone system must remain a monopoly. There can be no such a thing as competition in the ordinary sense of the term. A second telephone system installed in a city, simply means that the customers are obliged to use two systems instead of one at double the expense, and at corresponding inconvenience. The experiment in Glasgow grew out of a feeling that the private company, known as the National Company, was charging excessive rates. Experts were employed to prove this. You can always get experts to prove anything if you pay them enough. Now the expert employed for this particular purpose sat down and figured out that a first-class service could be supplied at the cost of £5 5s (about $27.50) per subscriber. The expert, however, forgot to include a lot of things that go with it, so to speak. He forgot that developments are rapid in telephone and all electrical systems, and that the life of a plant is not thirty years as he figured it. To add to the difficulties the original Glasgow instalment was not up-to-date. A telephone equipment that is not up-to-date is not much use. To correct the first mistake a lot of patch work was done to improve it, which resulted in increasing the inefficiency of the system. To understand the terms of the competition it must be understood that the National Company's rates were just double those of the city. At the end of two years the number of subscribers to each were about equal; but it was just here where the disadvantages, or rather defects of the municipal system began to be apparent. The private system began to go ahead, while the other remained practically at a standstill. In the next three years the company was able to give its subscribers double the number of 'phones the municipal system had. As the value of a telephone largely lies in the number of connections which may be had, it will be seen that in the end the company's service at double the price was really the cheapest. Finally the deterioration in the municipal plant, and the lack of uniformity in equipment became so serious that it was plain the city must adopt either one or the other of two plans; either go out of business or scrap a large portion of its plant and spend hundreds of thousands of dollars out of capital in replacing it.

The moral of the situation is obvious. The enterprise was not launched on or carried on on business lines. The business conditions which determine the success or failure of such an enterprise were not taken into consideration, the usual result of municipal management. An aldermanic body is only an aggregation of men, and if individually they are not experienced in the business which it is proposed to undertake, collectively they are no better but rather worse, because in the multitude of inexperienced counsel there is confusion and not wisdom. But, in any event, the telephone is a business with which from the nature of the conditions which govern it municipalities should have nothing to do. Municipal ownership theoretically is the finest thing in the world. It works out mathematically perfect, and if we had ideal conditions of municipal management would be perfect; but experience has shown us, the world over, and especially in America, that the conditions in municipal government cannot be obtained as they are obtained under private control to ensure the best results with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of expenditure.

Lindsay Bathers Cause Trouble

The Lindsay Post says: — Some weeks ago the police were instructed to "pull" any person found bathing in the Scugog river within the corporation limits between the hours of eight in the morning and at eight at night, if the bathers were not properly costumed. But law or no law, boys will be boys, and almost daily canoeists paddling under the iron bridge see nude forms on the shore and in the water. As a result ladies refuse invitations to go boating, the demand for canoes fall off, and our builders and boat livery men lose hundreds of dollars worth of custom. It is not easy to estimate what the laxity of our police and the neglect of Ops Council cost the town.

Assured of Harvesting Great Crop

Winnipeg, Aug. 17.—Western Canada seems now absolutely assured of safely harvesting a great crop and a feeling of optimism is apparent in all circles in the metropolis.

It is estimated that the wage bill of the visiting harvesters will amount to two million dollars. The railway companies take about $300,000 of this amount for transportation.

In Neepawa district by Eden and Spring Hill and southwest in Glendale and toward Brookdale, the crop will run four or five bushels above the general average, which, for the whole district should come pretty close to eighteen bushels for wheat.

In Melita district, a correspondent writes that he does not think the average will exceed Sixteen bushels per acre for the whole section; on some farms, which are specially cultivated, the yield will be away above this. But there are so many poor fields that we must make allowances for them."

There was some damage from hail to the southwest toward Lyleton, but no crops were totally destroyed.

First Lydite Shell Fragment

Mr. R. Hay Has Piece of First Lydite Shell Fired in Canada.

Mr. R. Hay, the local artilleryman, has quite a curiosity in the shape of a fragment of the first lydite shell ever fired in Canada. This shell was fired during the artillery meet at Petawawa, in which our local battery, the 24th, took part.

The gun from which this shell was fired was 4.7. calibre, and the range was between seven and eight miles. When the shell exploded it dug a hole in the earth about 4x4x7 feet in size, thus carrying to the immediately destructive quality of such ammunition.

Mr. Hays specimen weighs about a pound and its edges are jagged like the business edge of a saw.

INDIANS SUSPICIOUS

Conceive Idea Government Wants to Take Away Their Lands to Make Them Soldiers.

Prince Albert, Sask., Aug. 16.—It is probable that Mgr. Pascal will go north with the Dominion Government expedition, which leaves here this week to treat with the Indians outside the treaty limits in the northern portions of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

There is much hostility among the Indians to the negotiation of a treaty, according to reports which are brought down by mounted policemen and others.

The Indians have conceived the idea, how it is difficult to say, that the Government desires to take away forcibly the land which they look upon as theirs, and impress them as soldiers.

Police to Expel Squatters.

Borden, Sask., August 17.—Trouble between squatters on Doukhobor homesteads and original holders, who, by congregating in communities and other methods peculiar to their sect, have not fulfilled homestead regulations, has assumed a new phase. Mounted Police have been instructed to expel squatters from the land. They will likely refuse to go without recourse to the courts.

FRUIT INDUSTRY

Hon. Nelson Monteith Speaks Encouragingly of the Prospects.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—"There are wonderfully bright prospects for the future of our fruit industries," was the cheery announcement of Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, yesterday. "The fruit-growers are getting closer together, and are co-operating in the right spirit."

The Minister has just returned from attending the meeting of the Lincoln Fruit Growers' Association at Jordan on Tuesday, and the Hamilton Association at Burlington on Wednesday. He reports general satisfaction with the institution of the experimental fruit farm at Jordan Harbor, which, it will be remembered, was the gift of Mr. M. S. Rittenhouse, the Chicago millionaire. And with present prospects of improved transportation facilities its popularity will be increased. The entire Niagara Peninsula, Mr. Monteith says, was represented at the meetings.

It's a Bit Of a Job to order around and boss free Americans and bullyrag them if they don't obey "orders" without question.

Quite a little chair.

The labor trust leaders tried by threats and other measures to bully members of Congress into passing some laws for the benefit of the labor trust but not in the interests of the people at large.

They were told they didn't represent all the people.

There happen to be 85 millions anti-trust Americans and about 4 millions labor trust members, many of them held by force.

Naturally every gain of either money or advantage for the members of any trust must be absorbed from the "common" persons outside the trust. Every trust must fatten by feeding off "outsiders."

Think it over a moment and see if that's right.

The beef trust raises the price of meat.

Who pays the raise?

The labor trust raises the price of labor and we don't object to that in reason, but who pays the raise? The oil trust tries to freeze out a citizen who starts in an independent oil business. Why? So it can rule and have its own way and make the people outside the oil trust "obey" and pay toll.

The labor trust tries to force an anti-injunction bill through Congress to prevent courts from issuing restraining orders or injunctions, so it can be free to attack property or independent men when the protection of the courts is withdrawn and thus terrorize the people and make them "obey" the trust leaders and prevent every independent American from selling his labor at all even though his family may be starving.

You are ordered to refuse any labor but that sold by the labor trust, and not to buy any article of merchandise unless it bear the "union label" the trade-mark of the trust.

Some of the most irksome tyrannies and outrages are put upon citizens who believe in the old doctrine that America is for freemen and a "square deal" for everybody.

But this biggest of all trusts, the labor trust, assumes to itself the right to rule the balance of the people and make them pay tribute to it, for the further fattening, principally of the leaders and incidentally of the humbler members.

So, having been restrained by Congress, the labor leaders now propose to go into politics and elect labor trust members to rule the balance of us.

Such massing of class or trust power in the hands of a few men is exceedingly dangerous for the safety of the common people.

There is but one safe procedure. Elect men who do not represent any trust but stand steadfast for the citizens, the 100 per cents, the whole people and not the few trust members who seek to feed off the many.

What could be expected of a labor trust city council, Legislature or Congress but to enact strict labor trust laws.

We need anti-trust representatives in this country to protect the people at large.

Don't fail to question your candidates.

"Do you stand for the trusts, either of labor or capital or will you represent the best interests of the people."

Don't permit any cowardly excuses but demand to know.

This is a trust burdened age, but the people's prosecuting officers are trying to protect the people and will no doubt soon turn their attention to prosecution of the labor trust leaders for their many conspiracies and overt acts against the citizens.

Think over this trust question and "let the little Light of Reason burn." Give the public a clear analysis of facts and they will do the rest.

C. W. POST.

N.B. This announcement is paid for by the maker of Postum and Grape-Nuts from money still left to him after about 3 years of boycott of the labor unions in their attempt to ruin the business.

It is an offering to the cause of human liberty and the rights of the common man. He offers an honest sympathy to every workman, both in and out of the union. Many an honorable mechanic is held like a slave and forced to do what his inherent manhood rebels at.

Let every man sturdily defend his own personal liberty and vote and act against coercion and tyranny of any trust including the wide-spread labor trust.

BREAK WITH BELASCO

Miss Leslie Carter Will Now Play Under the Management of Charles B. Dillingham.

New York, Aug. 18.—The break between Mrs. Leslie Carter Payne and David Belasco had been formally announced.

Ever since her recent marriage it has been generally believed in theatrical circles that Mrs. Carter Payne would never again play under the guidance of Mr. Belasco, who heretofore has refused to have anything to do with her since her wedding.

Mrs. Carter signed a five-year contract with Manager Charles B. Dillingham last night. The contract calls for the exploitation of the actress in a play by Oct. 1.

Free Lunches Were Unfit to Eat

Chicago, Aug. 18. — That the free lunch served to hundreds of saloons in Chicago is largely composed of meat in a condition absolutely unfit for use, was discovered yesterday by Food Inspector Murray, when his force of assistants raided a barn at 124 Illinois street, owned by Wm. Davidson.

The place contained thirty stoves over which six men were working in an endeavor to prepare decayed pork and beef into a semblance of its original form, and thereafter "manufacture" it into free lunch for the saloon trade.

The men were arrested on warrants sworn out by Inspector Murray, and with Davidson are accused of violating the health ordinances of the city.

This raid followed the inspection of a cold storage warehouse, where Inspector Murray found 25,000 pounds of meat unfit for use. A search of the books of the company showed that this meat was the property of Davidson.

In addition to equipment at the barn for converting unsaleable meat into cuts from supposedly good roasts, the inspectors found a plant for the manufacture of sausages of different kinds, and other articles of food, which heavily adorn the free lunch counters in cheaper middle class saloons.

The entire plant was confiscated, and will be used as evidence against Davidson and his assistants in Justice Gibbons' court today.

OBSERVING OPEN DOOR

But Japanese Articles are Replacing American in Manchuria.

London, Aug. 18.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Tien Tsin telegraphs that, having made a tour of Northern Korea and Manchuria, he found that the Japanese are now more strictly observing the open door.

Japanese manufacturers, however, have largely replaced articles of European and American origin throughout the interior of Manchuria, mainly owing to the advantage obtained by the free entrance of Japanese goods through Dalny.

The Times correspondent at Pekin describes the aspect of the Customs question in Manchuria as so tangled that skill and patience will be required to unravel it.

Japanese Minister Hayashi has begun negotiations with the Chinese Foreign Board.

The United States is impatient for the establishment of Customs regulations, but China insists that the matter concerns herself alone, refuses to hurry, and has made no serious approaches to Russia with regard to Manchuria, evidently thinking there will be time enough for that when she has arranged an agreement with Japan, who, on the contrary, urges the engagements with regard to the Customs should be simultaneous.

DEARTH OF WATER

London May Have to Put in Dual System to Augment Supply.

London, Ont., Aug. 18.—The city will soon have to do something definite in the way of increasing the water supply, and a proposition will probably be placed before the people in January next.

Ald. Booth, acting mayor, stated yesterday that he has become convinced that the city will be compelled to put in a dual system.

That is, the city must fall back on river water for fire and street watering purposes.

The Water Commissioners issued a statement yesterday, showing the necessity for economy in the use of water. Street sprinkling will be stopped when the reservoir shows less than seven feet depth of water, and lawn service will be cut off when it is deemed necessary to do so.

You Lack the Vigor, Courage and Staying Power that "Ferrozone" Can Supply.

Night comes and it's hard to sleep. Morning dawns and the anxious, tired feeling is still there. Don't neglect this gradual decline; it can't cure itself. But by forming rich, pure blood, Ferrozone will quickly supply the nutriment and building material your system craves.

Instantly you are aware that some powerful force is building up your depleted energies. At once you feel braced, toned, strengthened. Search the world over and you won't find anything to tone up a weak system like Ferrozone. Physicians claim it is the most strengthening, uplifting medicine ever discovered.

No more spells of tiredness, but bounding, joyful health when you take Ferrozone, of which Mrs. H. S. Gold, of Bowsman, Man., speaks in the following words of praise:

"I state my case because I think it may assist other women to health. A year ago I was almost a wreck. I was pale and emaciated, suffering from nervousness and hysteria. Little things going wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments but they didn't help. He said my low condition was due to weakness that might never be cured. Ferrozone had a peculiar grateful effect and built me up quickly. The ills I suffered from are cured. I am now strong and vigorous and was made so by Ferrozone."

THE KING AND THE KAISER

The meeting of the First Diplomat and the First War Lord of Europe at Friedrichshof has inevitably let loose a vast flood of conjecture. Those who are in a position to know anything of the significance of this visit of uncle to nephew are absolutely silent, as becomes them; but the press of both nations is not so restrained, although it cannot be regarded as optimistic. The influence of the King and the Kaiser upon their subjects cannot easily be over-estimated, and any decisions arrived at during this sojourn in holiday Germany will have the support of two exceedingly powerful sovereigns; but the working journalists, with their fingers ever upon the pulses of the peoples, cannot escape from the knowledge that the even mightier forces of trade expansion and Imperial ambition are drifting these two great Empires into positions of rivalry.

Still that rivalry need never become other than friendly if the men in command keep their heads, and a thorough understanding between the King and the Kaiser will do much to make this easy. The diplomatic triumphs of King Edward in the past encourage the friends of peace to hope for much, though it is easier to swim with than against the current. Self-interest is a mighty force; but the diplomat who smoothed away all the racial friction which had existed for ages between France and Britain, may be able to convince the patriotic champions of the self-interest of their respective peoples in both of these northern countries that the most terrible disaster which can befall them would be war.

There is no doubt that the highest wisdom would forbid war between Germany and Britain. Both peoples will lose more by a war than either of them could lose by the moderate success of the other. If Germany, for instance, were to realize some of her commercial and national dreams, the gain would be partially made at the expense of the British people; but still the loss inflicted upon these same British people by such German success would not be as great as they must suffer in a war, even if they win. And this is quite as true as regards Germany in the case of the maintenance of British superiority.

But the difficulty lies deeper than this. There is no certainty that German success, for example, would be followed by peace. Indeed, the opposite result would be more generally expected. If Germany were successful in getting Holland and German Austria, would that make the Kaiser more inclined to keep the peace, or would that encourage him to use his new and almost irresistable strength to make himself dictator of Europe? Moreover, would not this put him in a position to command the alliance of all other Continental naval powers and so extend his dream to the command of the sea and the building up of a vast Germanic colonial empire on the ruins of the British?

This is the perplexing core of the problem which confronts the King and the Kaiser at Friedrichshof. There appears to be no way in which peace can be bought by concession. It can only be assured by the maintenance of the balance of power; and to this end British statesmanship has been laboring for years. On this line, too, the King can make progress. He can arrive at an understanding with the Kaiser with regard to Holland, to Austria and to Russia, looking to the perpetuation of the balance of power; and, by so doing, he can at least chart more clearly the danger shoals in the shallows of international politics.

GRAIN COMMISSION'S WORK

Now Authorized to Go Ahead With Enquiry Into Marketing Conditions.

Ottawa, August 17.—His Excellency Earl Grey has signed the commission authorizing the Grain Commission, which was appointed some weeks ago to proceed with its enquiry into the growing, marketing and milling of grain. The commission, which consists of three members, will proceed with its work immediately and will hold meetings at a number of leading points in the West. It is said that the farmers, who are far from satisfied with the existing conditions of the grain trade, will, through their various associations, present a great deal of evidence, while the grain buyers and millers will also be heard from. Ten thousand dollars was voted last session to defray the cost of the commission. It is expected that the inquiry will extend over several months.

Court Martial Member of Duma.

St. Petersburg, August 17.—M. Onipko, the peasant member of the late Russian Parliament, who was arrested at Cronstad after the recent mutiny there and brought to the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul here, will be tried by court martial separately. It develops that when he was arrested a plan of the fortress of Cronstadt was found on his person, but the drawing is said to be crude and of no strategic value. He will be defended by M. Kuzmin-Karavajoff, formerly a member of the Academy of Law.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Dominion Orchard Company has been organized for the purpose of developing and using nature's latent resources for earning money. For growing high grade apples for home and export. There is no other agricultural outlook more promising than apple orcharding. Unlike other fruits, our hard winter apple can be sent as far as grain to distant countries. Unlike grain, however, no other country can grow such apples as we can. This natural industry has never been undertaken in Canada on a business basis. The past and present method is for the individual planter to grow in a small quantity, have his fruit picked, packed and shipped by middlemen, and still make a large profit for himself, allowing nature's elements to do the work.

The Apple Business

Products of the Canadian apple orchards are attracting world-wide attention, and the prospects of the industry in the favored localities of the Dominion are limitless. The demand in Great Britain has never been met, and we have numerous inquiries from France, Germany, and also from the Northwest Provinces as they become settled up. Quebec is the home of the best varieties grown; hard, sound, high-colored apples that bring the highest price in the market. Reliable statistics show that the profits annually accruing from a well managed orchard commonly exceed the value of the land occupied by the trees. For the purpose of increasing the supply this Company has been formed. Six hundred acres have been secured in the best district in the Province of Quebec, conveniently situated for shipping either by rail or water.

For investment will approximate to the value of the preferred stock. Extensive improvements will be made, and at the end of four years, taking Government figures as a basis, the commercial value of the plant will exceed the entire capital stock of the Company, while the earning power will equal 17 per cent., increasing annually as the trees develop. This will be the largest single plantation in the world, and the entire output has already been spoken for by European buyers. To demonstrate beat the earning capacity, we give below a statement issued by the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, and a letter accompanying it from the well-known horticulturist, W. T. Macoun.

Markets

"The demand for Canadian apples of good quality and in good condition is an ever-increasing one in Great Britain the market appears to be unlimited, and the prospect of opening an extensive trade with other Europe is exceedingly bright. The Canadian fruit growers should aim to put up fruit which is equal in quality and honestly packed, and there is no reason why we should not supply the demand for 6 times what is now done. At home, also, the consumption of apples is increasing, and when better rates are given by the railways, so that apples may be shipped at less cost than at present, there will be a great demand for this fruit in those parts of Canada where apples cannot be grown successfully."

(Signed) W. T. MACOUN,
Horticulturist.
Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Government Report of Earnings

Considerable interest has been shown in the results obtained from a Wealthy apple orchard at the Central Experimental Farm. There are 129 trees in this orchard, occupying about one-third of an acre, planted in the spring of 1898. Full details in regard to this orchard were published in the annual report of 1904.

In that report was shown that the average net profit per acre from the time of planting was $54.18, and from the time of fruiting $108.18. There was a heavy crop in this orchard in 1904, and the crop in 1905 was medium. The total crop produced was 1,247 gallons.

The receipts and expenditures were estimated from about one-quarter of an acre, and the figures per acre were given on the assumption that the percentage of sales in boxes and baskets were about the same from the full acre. A record is kept of the actual time spent in caring for this orchard, and the other expense incurred. Labor is valued at 15 cents an hour.

Receipts

Receipts	$307.76
Disbursements	206.61
Net profit, 1905	$101.15
Average net profit per acre in 1899 to 1905 inclusive	$105.75

Table of Profits

The following statement of receipts and expenditures is taken from an orchard of 1,800 trees planted in 1898; 75 per cent. of that number only are winter varieties. Comparative annual earnings of 50,000 trees will average for the first ten years:

50,000 bbls. at $3.50 in Europe	$175,000.00
By cultivation	10,240.00
By pruning	1,500.00
By packing	2,500.00
By material	7,000.00
By trans-portation	27,500.00
By commission	1,510.00
By profits	51,000.00
	$105,000.00 $105,000.00

Prices in the European market have averaged $3.50 per barrel for the past four years.

The commercial value of apples—shipping varieties—is $1.50 per tree, and after allowing the cost of cultivation, crop carriage will exceed 10 per cent. of the entire capital, even if sold to dealers, but if exported its profit will average for the first ten years from 15 to 20 per cent., and for the next five years 25 to 30 per cent., according to the season, and will continue to increase annually for thirty years.

Operating on a large scale would increase the profits in proportion, and it is the opinion of those best qualified to judge that this enterprise should pay handsomely, and at the same time the investment does not admit of any chance for depreciation of principal, and is therefore secure.

Opinions

"I beg to say that the Manitoba and the Northwest market has acted as much attention from Ontario fruit growers as to almost overshadow the question of the European markets. Great progress are beginning to consider whether there is not a great deal more to be made out of the Northwest than out of the overseas market. So far as last year's crop is concerned, the only thing exported to any extent was the apple.

"NELSON MONTEITH,
"Minister of Agriculture.
Province of Ontario."

"Canadian fruit growers have the soil, climate, and now the shipping facilities that will enable them to compete successfully. The opening of the Northwest is absorbing so large a portion of both the apple and pear crop that there is not likely to be an excessive surplus for export. The greatest expansion in the industry will be in the matter of apples and pears.

A. McNEILL,
"Chief of Fruit Division
Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa."

"The standing of Canadian fruit on the British market and the general excellence of our fruit is likely to cause more attention to be paid to the fruit growing industry.

J. C. READY,
"Secretary for Agriculture,
Prince Edward Island

"Prices this year have been as high or higher than they have been for the last twenty or thirty years. Of course, we will have years of low prices, but within my knowledge these seasons do not come frequently. I cannot say as to what extent the success of last year's crop will tend to stimulate more planting, but I think that the farmers everywhere are inclined to plant more of the Standard apples, etc.

"W. B. CHIPMAN,
"Secretary for Agriculture, Province of Nova Scotia."

Management

The Company has been successful in securing the services of an experienced and capable horticulturist, who, with an adequate staff will take entire charge of the plantation under the supervision of the directors.

Quotations

(Farmer's Advocate, April 25th, 1906.)

"The Georgian Bay Fruit Growers' Company, Limited, was again to the front in the price on British market, March shipments of Spy, Ben Davis and Mann now averages in all grades of $4.55. In your issue of April 12th re Georgian Bay Fruit Growers' Company, Limited, I see several trade journals state that holders receive from 25 to 35 per cent. as to variety above buyers' prices, should have been 25 to 100 per cent., or in other words, not as from $1.25 to $3.00 per barrel clear of all expenses. Some of our apples sold as high as $8.00."

J. C. MITCHELL, General Manager.

(The Canadian Horticulturist, August, 1906.)

There are possibilities for an immense development of our fruit trade with Great Britain.

Canadian fruit, as far as quality is concerned, when compared with the fruit from other countries, stands high in Great Britain. Properly handled, London alone could consume all the fruit Canada now is exporting.

How to Make Pretty Little Boxes Out of Stiff Paper.

Do you know how to make a paper box? Not the cardboard kind in which things come from the store, but pretty little toy boxes. If you do not know how, here are the directions for making a neat box:

Cut a piece of stiff colored paper eight inches square. Fold the paper diagonally from corner to corner, making creases in every direction. Then fold each corner in turn to the center, creasing the paper well along the folds. Then fold each corner into the new creases until your paper is creased like Fig. 1.

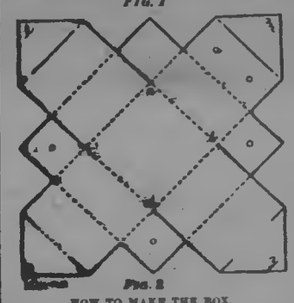

FIG. 2

Now cut out corners until the paper looks like Fig. 2. Cut little slits along the lines marked in heavy ink. The square a, b, c, d, forms the bottom of the box. Fold the loose squares marked o inside of the box. Fold the points x and m and stick them through the slits cut in l and y, and the box will be finished. To fill it with candy will be an easy matter, provided you have the candy.

CHEMICAL CURIOSITIES.

Some Interesting Experiments For Our Boys and Girls to Make.

Wet a large piece of blotting paper with red litmus water and throw on to it a small piece of potassium. The potassium will run about the paper, and wherever it touches it will leave a blue track behind it, which is caused by the formation of potash.

Cut a block of ice about six inches square and bore a hole in it half an inch wide and two inches deep. Enlarge the bottom of the hole to form a sort of cavity and drop into it a piece of potassium about the size of a pea. The potassium will instantly take fire and will burn beautifully in the ice, making a very pretty sight, especially if the room is otherwise dark. The room should also be warm when you make the experiment.

Would you believe that an icicle can fire a cannon? Try this with a toy one: Load the cannon and on the gunpowder on the touchhole put a piece of potassium no larger than a pinhead. Now touch the speck of potassium with a piece of ice, and it will flare up, setting fire to the gunpowder.

Drop a piece of potassium about the size of a pea into a bowl of water. It will take fire and run around the surface of the water until it is burned up, looking like some fiery serpent in the water by reason of its rapid movement.

Square Numbers.

Every boy knows that a square number is a number produced by the multiplication of any number by itself. Thus 7 multiplied by itself gives 49 as a result; 49 consequently is a square number, 7 being termed the square root, from which it springs. In high numbers the extraction of the square root is an affair of time and trouble, and after all the necessary calculations have been made it may perhaps be found that the number is not a square number. This unnecessary trouble may be saved if the following instructions are remembered. Every square number ends with one of the figures 1, 4, 5, 6 or 9, or with two ciphers preceded by one or other of these figures. Again, every square number is equally divisible by 4, or when divided by 4 will have a remainder of 1. Thus, as shown above, the square of 7 is 49, which divided by 4 gives us a quotient 12 and 1 over; 64 again is a square number, and it is exactly divisible by 4.

Mrs. Burns Her Own Housekeeper.

Mrs. John Burns, wife of the Labor member of the English Cabinet, is her own housekeeper, and when she was presented at the recent drawing-room of the King and Queen was probably the only woman present who could cook her husband's dinner. A story is told of Lady Haversham, who wrote to Mrs. Burns, asking her to come to her "at home," the lady wishing to pose as one of the Liberals. Lady Haversham excused herself for not calling first, as she explained that "Battersea was so far from Grosvenor square." Mrs. Burns replied that upon consulting a map she found that "Grosvenor Square was just the same distance from Battersea."

In and Out of Cork.

The Soane museum in England contains a cork model of the Coliseum. This was probably acquired by Sir John Soane chiefly because cork is difficult to cut. Mr. Clouston tells in "The Burlington" a story connected with it. The late keeper, Mr. Birch, was showing a party of American visitors over the museum and mentioned that this was "made in cork." "That is curious," said one of the ladies. "We are just going to visit some friends there." "I mean, madam," he explained, "that this model was made out of cork." "That is still more curious," she replied. "Our friends live just a little way out of Cork."

PIRATE'S BURIED LOOT

ENGLISH EXPEDITION MAKES A FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR IT.

Secret of Its Whereabouts Disclosed by Dying Man to No Purpose—Account of the Expedition—The Pirates' Flight—Treasure Syndicate Lands June 30 on Island But Did Not Find Expected Treasure.

The yacht Alkelda, commanded by her owner, Capt. Gage, has just returned to Gibraltar from a treasure hunt in the island of Alboran, in the Mediterranean, opposite Melilla. The search arose from a statement made to T. C. McMichael, of Brighton, by an old army man, who had a secret confided to him when he was a boy to the effect that treasure worth $5,000,000 was buried by pirates on the island in 1822. Nothing, however, was found.

Capt. Gage and Mr. McMichael were accompanied by Col. Lewis, Capt. English, R. N.; Capt. Chaplain, R. A.; the Hon. Alister Campbell and Messrs. J. E. Browne and E. S. Hopkinson.

Account of the Expedition.

The following account of the expedition is supplied by a reporter who accompanied it:

"On June 10 the schooner Alkelda, R. Y. S., 140 tons, owned by Capt. Gage, sailed from Plymouth for Gibraltar.

"We had a picked crew of six Cornish fishermen and a young mate from the mercantile marine, and we were commanded by Capt. Long, who had been many years in the service of Capt. Gage. A cook, two stewards and a forecastle hand completed the ship's company, and the fortunate guests who had been invited for the cruise were Col. D. T. Lewis, Capt. English and Capt. A. Campbell.

"The object of the expedition was a treasure hunt, and the information we depended on was, briefly, this:

"A few years ago a friend who owned house property in Yorkshire had to press one of his tenants for rent.

"This tenant, a retired army captain who was getting on in years, told the proprietor that in his soldiering days he had a private named Robinson as servant, and that in return for some kindness Robinson had told him that when quite a lad he had gone to sea and served as cabin boy in a merchant ship called the Young Constitution. He soon found out that the ship was a pirate, and was carrying on its nefarious business off the coast of Jamaica.

The Pirates' Flight.

"In 1822, he said, British men-of-war were on the lookout for the Young Constitution, and being laden with jewels and gold to the value of fully a million pounds, the captain decided to leave the West Indies and made a course for the Mediterranean.

"They were chased by two British frigates, but, being favored with fair winds and fortunate fogs, they passed safely through the Straits of Gibraltar.

"Here the pirate captain lost his bearings. He had no charts of the Mediterranean, and no knowledge of the coast. Before long they hove in sight of a small island, which they found to be uninhabited and waterless.

"They packed their treasure in two great copper boilers and landed them at the southeastern corner of the island. It took 68 men to get the treasure on shore, and they buried it close to the landing place eight or nine feet deep, and then sailed away to the nearest port to get water, provisions and charts.

"Later on," said Robinson, "they came in with two unarmed merchant vessels, which they could not resist robbing and scuttling.

"They were caught redhanded, and every one except Robinson was hanged at the yardarm. Robinson was now the only living person who knew of the treasure, and he kept the secret until he confided in his master.

"The captain was forgiven his debt in exchange for the secret of the buried million.

Treasure Syndicate.

"The proprietor was an old man, and not in robust health, so he waited to realize the fortune that lay hidden in the island of Alboran, 140 miles from Gibraltar, until his son was grown up.

"After the usual negotiations with a city firm a small syndicate was formed and an expedition planned. Capt. Gage fitted up his yacht and undertook to convey the syndicate from Gibraltar to Alboran and back and to assist in the search.

"We sailed from Plymouth on June 10, and with fair winds and two days of calm we arrived at Gibraltar on the 19th. The syndicate was not due until the 26th, and so we made expeditions to Algeciras and Cadiz.

"It was thought advisable to engage an interpreter to go with us to Alboran, as there is a lighthouse on the island, and it would be necessary to explain to the keeper what we were landing on his island for. It was thought better to say we were prospecting for oil.

"When the syndicate arrived we set sail without delay, but the wind faded away, and we were becalmed in a very choppy sea. The current set us to the southward, and in a day or two we were in sight of the Riff coast. Luckily we were well armed and the Riff pirates did not attack us.

"With the help of the motor launch we towed the yacht for some hours, and then the wind came, and at 5 a. m. on June 30 we dropped anchor in eight fathoms of water on the southeastern side of the treasure island.

Welcomed by Natives.

"Every one hurried on deck when the anchor chain was heard rushing through the hawse pipes, and as we looked through our glasses we made the landing place just as described in Robinson's account.

"But now the island was no longer uninhabited. There was a lighthouse and a large barrack-like building round its base, and we saw seven men and several boys and women.

"Two boats put off. The men, who were of very superior class, offered us some rock cod for sale, while we offered them Spanish wine, and stuffed the boys with biscuits, bread and butter, and fruit. After breakfast we all landed in the cutter.

"Two of the most diplomatic, accompanied by the interpreter, went up to the lighthouse, and gave a plausible reason for our arrival with picks and shovels and iron bars, while the rest of the party began to prospect for the place where the treasure was hidden.

"We soon found a second landing place which was more accurately at the southeastern part of the island, but not at the corner. Here was a natural jetty of flat rock, with almost a couple of fathoms of water, and a steep path up the face of the cliff. An old wire rope was suspended from the top.

"The general idea was that this was the natural landing that had existed when the island was uninhabited, and that the one which we had used was made when the lighthouse was built.

"However, we tried at every conceivable place to find coral or sand deep enough to bury treasure in, and nowhere could we find a spot. The soil was not more than three feet thick, and then we came on solid rock. For three days we dug and threw sand heaps, and probed with pointed iron rods, but all to no purpose, and on July 2 a gale sprang up, and we had to sail away, but not before every member of the expedition was satisfied that there was no treasure in Alboran."

WHY WE DO SOME THINGS.

Certainly Not Because We Look Pretty When We Do Them.

A man does not take off his hat to a lady because he looks nicer without it. The instances of bald men would be alone sufficient to upset such an explanation.

He does it because you must positively do something when you meet a lady or your whole civilization goes to pieces, and taking off your hat is easier than taking off your necktie or lying face downward on the pavement.

The primary point is that you must do something, not that you must do something beautiful. And as long as cultivated people cannot grasp this fact they will find their efforts quite futile in dealing with what they often consider the dullness of the middle classes or the vulgarity and morbidity of the poor.

In so far as the bourgeois thinks it more important to wear a Sunday hat than a becoming hat he is perfectly right. It is more important; the religion of the tribe is more important than the pretty appearance of Mr. Jones.

In so far as the charwoman thinks it more important that her husband should have a "proper" funeral than a pretty funeral she is perfectly right. It is more important. Decorum is as permanent a human sentiment as art and a much more pressing one. Any healthy savage would understand the charwoman's sentiments exactly and perhaps alarm her with demonstrations of barbaric approval.

He would also understand perfectly the sentiment of a Sunday hat. I believe in savages myself. I think that in a great many matters they represent the enduring common sense and moral minimum of humanity. There is nothing which I so sincerely respect in savages as their widespread and generally ascertained disposition to wear top hats.—London Illustrated News.

Trout Kept In Tank For Guests.

Another step has been taken in that art of supreme simplicity which is fast becoming the distinctive feature of the London school of epicures.

The Carlton Hotel is bringing live trout from Barrasford-on-Tyne. The tanks in which they are carried are packed in ice, and the water is changed several times on the way, so that the fish arrive in London in prime condition. They are at once transferred to a great tank fed by water running over miniature icebergs. This tank is covered with wire netting to keep the vigorous fish from leaping out.

Presently a glass tank will be fixed in an annex to the palm garden beyond the restaurant, and those who are so pleased may go and see the actual fish caught ten minutes before they are served at table.

Of course, this custom is a fairly common one on the Continent, more especially at little inns among the mountains, but until M. Jacques took it in hand it has never been a success in London.

Last year a visitor to Vevey spent one of the most exciting quarters of an hour of his life in trying to land a six pound carp for his lunch from the private fishpond of a little inn in Vevey. It was not until assistance had been given that the fish was triumphantly caught.

Every year at the great London restaurants the demand for plain fare increases. Nothing could be more perfectly simple than "truite aubleu"—trout fresh from the stream, plainly boiled.

A Witty Compliment.

Among the litigants before the English courts some years ago was a Mrs. Weldon, who, indeed, was so constantly at law that Baron Pollock once remarked, "This lady has now such a very large business at the bar that we must give her every indulgence." Mrs. Weldon was not abashed by the judges and said many clever things in court. The reminiscences of the late John Geo. Witt, K. C., include an anecdote of one of her appearances in the Court of Appeal. She was endeavoring to upset a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Bacon and one ground of complaint was that the judge was too old to understand the case. Thereupon Lord Esher said: "The last time you were here you complained that your case had been tried by my brother Bowen, and you said he was only a bit of a boy and could not do you justice. Now you come here and say that my brother Bacon was too old. What age do you want the judge to be?" "Your age," promptly replied Mrs. Weldon, fixing her bright eyes on the handsome countenance of the Master of the Rolls.

Farmer Haunted By Hail.

A Natal farmer who was summoned to Durban for non-payment of the poll-tax offered the extraordinary defense that he had been ruined by the attentions of a hailstorm which haunted him wherever he went, and destroyed his crops.

He pleaded that if he were given time to pay he would go to another district in the hope of escaping his misfortune.

The man's statements were investigated and it was proved that his crops had suffered damage from hailstorm while other growing produce in the neighborhood was untouched.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $325,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. very unlucky; but I suppose it is my fault."

"I am sure it is not; and, as a proof of my confidence, I have brought you a lodger in myself, if you will take me."

"Oh, willingly! gladly, sir!" replied the little widow, her black eyes beaming with delight. "When would you wish to take possession?"

"Immediately, if the rooms are ready. My luggage is at the door."

"Very well, I will have fires lighted, there instantly. To air the rooms is all that is necessary," said Mrs. Russel, hurrying into the back parlor to give the necessary directions, while Cassinove went out to have his luggage brought in, and pay the cabman.

And in ten minutes Mr. Cassinove was installed comfortably in his new quarters, consisting of a sitting room front, and bedroom back, both very neat and clean, though small and plainly furnished.

He lost no time, but immediately unpacked his writing-case, set it upon his table, and wrote an advertisement to be put in the Times, to the effect that a young gentleman, a graduate of Christ Church, desired a situation as private tutor or secretary in a gentleman's or nobleman's family.

The same night he dispatched this to the office of the Times, and within two days he received an answer, requesting him to call at No.——Grosvenor square.

CHAPTER XII.

Laura Elmer arrived in London alone, at nightfall. Leaving the mail-coach, she called a fly, had her luggage put on, and directed the driver to drive to a house in one of the most fashionable localities in the West End. An hour's ride brought her to within a few blocks of her destination. To get nearer seemed impossible, from the long line of carriages that stood along the street in front of the house, and stopped the way. Every circumstance seemed to indicate that a large evening party was being entertained at the house in question.

Laura put down the window, and asked the driver:

"Can you go no farther?"

"No, madam; not as yet," answered the cabman.

"How long will we have to stay here?"

"Himpossible to say, mum. Here be a great crowd, as her la'ship his 'aving of a ball, or summut."

Laura sank back in her seat, and waited perhaps half an hour before the cab drew up to the door, which, standing open, revealed a lighted hall, with a supercilious-looking porter, seated in an armchair, and several footmen in attendance—to one of whom Laura handed her card.

Laura Elmer was dressed in deep mourning, and muffled in the cloak and hood in which she had traveled from Swinburne. But there was in her air and manner a certain gracious dignity that seemed to mark her as a lady of high rank. The servant that received her card bowed low, and showed her up the broad staircase to the door of a cloakroom, where several splendidly-dressed ladies were laying off their wrapping before passing into the drawing room.

Laura saw at once the servant's very natural error, and turning, said:

"I think you mistake me for one of the invited guests this evening."

Even that explanation did not shake the servant's faith in the high position of the noble-looking woman before him. He glanced at her deep mourning, and thought he had found the reason why she was not a guest of the gay party. He answered, respectfully:

"I beg your pardon, madam; if you will be so good as to walk into the library, I will take your card up to her ladyship."

And the man opened a door on the left, and showed the visitor into a spacious and richly furnished library. Laura seated herself at a table, and mechanically turned over the leaves of a folio while waiting the return of the servant.

Presently she heard voices without the door—one was that of the footman who had carried up her card, and who seemed to be apologizing for the mistake he had made. The other was the voice of an elderly female servant, who was roundly lecturing the man in the following words:

"To carry up the governess' card to her ladyship in the drawing-room! I'm ashamed of you, James! but hi never could teach you the difference between a lady and a woman. Now hi not honly know a lady from a woman, but among ladies, hi can halways tell a mistress han 'onerable mistress, countess, marchioness, and duchess, the minute hi see one, and hi graduates my respects haccordingly. Hand similarly among young ladies, I can tell at sight a miss, han 'onerable miss, hand a lady; hand likewise graduates my respects haccordingly. Now, a governess, James, is not by no means a lady, but his only a person hentitled to no manner of respects whatsomedever, except Christian charity, has one may say. Now you shall see how I receive this governess."

"Just so, Mrs. Jones; you'll put her on her proper footing in no time."

"You shall see, James."

But Mrs. Jones did not know that there were spiritual hierarchies as dominant as were earthly ones, and that in Laura Elmer's person lived the honor-compelling spirit of a queen.

She opened the door and bustled in, swinging herself from side to side, with all the insolence of a pampered menial, and was about to speak, when Laura Elmer raised her stately head, and fixed her full, dark eyes upon the woman's face; whereupon the latter immediately, and quite involuntarily, dropped a curtsey, and, addressing Miss Elmer very respectfully, said:

"My lady has sent me to receive you, ma'am. Would you prefer to see your room before you take supper?"

"I thank you; you may show me to my apartment, and send me a cup of tea; that is all I shall require tonight," said Laura.

The housekeeper touched a bell, which was answered by a housemaid, to whom she said:

"Show Miss Elmer to the bedchamber adjoining the schoolroom, and take her up a cup of tea."

The girl brought a light, and requesting Miss Elmer to precede her, showed her the way from the library:

"There, James, you see with what self-respect and dignity hi treat the governess," said the housekeeper, just as soon as the restraining influence of Laura's presence was withdrawn.

"Can't say as I did, Mrs. Jones," said the footman, very drily.

"You seen, at least, hi kept her at a distance," said the housekeeper.

"I see you kept yourself at a respectful distance, just as I should. If any accident was to throw me in the way of her majesty the queen."

"You're a himperent fellow, and hi shall report you to Sir Vincent!" exclaimed the housekeeper, in a fury, as, swinging herself from side to side, she brushed out of the room.

"Well! governess or duchess, I could no more fall in respects to that young lady than I could to Lady Lester herself. Leastways, when I'm in her presence; nor no more could you, Mrs. Jones, for all your swinging about of your hoops behind her back. Why, she's grander looking, in her plain black dress, than all the peeresses in their velvets and diamonds, as I saw hannounced in the drawing-room this hevening," was the acute criticism of the footman, James, as he returned to his post of service in the hall below.

Meanwhile, Laura Elmer was conducted by the housemaid to her apartment, next the schoolroom, in the third story.

"My lady appointed this floor as the apartments of the young ladies and their governess, upon account of its quiet and fresh air, and I am directed to wait on you and them, ma'am. Is there anything I can bring you with your tea?" asked the maid, as she ushered Miss Elmer into the comfortably furnished and well-lighted bedroom, where her luggage had already been brought.

"Nothing else, thank you. My good girl, what is your name?"

"Lizzy, ma'am."

"Nothing, then, Lizzy," said Miss Elmer, laying off her wrappings and bonnet, and throwing herself into an arm-

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS.

National Association Formed to Promote Them in Cities.

A generation ago the environment of the child was different from that now to be found in large cities. Now a third of the population is crowded into the cities, and the narrow streets, lined with towering buildings, have become canyons where sunlight comes in glints and where blasts of air laden with pestilential dust smother and blind the child amid the dangers from heavy trucks, swiftly moving automobiles and the rushing of trolley cars.

"The city fathers fain would save the beauty of the city by more or less infrequent 'patches of green,'" says Beth Thayer Stewart in the prospectus of the Playground Association of America, of which Theodore Roosevelt is honorary president and Jacob Riis honorary vice president, "but even these are covered with warnings of keep off the grass, and the city child, without the possibilities of outdoor physical development, wonders whether the progress of civilization is not conspiring with the arm of the law to prevent the natural development of his instinct for play and love of nature, and even to crush out the possibilities of child life in larger cities."

The object of the Playground association is to bring about the establishment and maintenance of playgrounds in the larger cities where children and young men may expend their physical energy in a way that will be beneficial to themselves. It believes that the maintenance of playgrounds is not a matter of ornamental philanthropy, but a part of the system of education of the state necessary to the development of the whole nature and not of the mind only, and that it is the duty of the state to maintain such space, place and opportunity in playgrounds and in the curriculum of the schools for all its growing citizens.

"Believing," says the prospectus, "that in a democracy the tide and tone of life should be kept full and high and that upon the physical well being of its people largely depends the well being of the nation, that the stress and strain of our industrial age, the artificial life of crowded centers and the isolation of the country tend to nervous disorder and breakdown, and believing that play is instructive and tends to develop the whole man and the physical and moral qualities necessary to high character, thus maintaining the working power at its best, the Playground Association of America affirms the necessity for place, space and opportunity in the open air in order to insure 'life and happiness.'"

Dr. Luther Gulick of New York city is the active president of the association. New York has already spent about $15,000,000 on small parks with playgrounds, and the Seward park recreation center, in the Ghetto, alone cost $1,900,000.—New York Tribune.

A Trick of Sound.

Why did Princess Ena of Battenberg after her marriage to the king of Spain choose to be known as Queen Victoria? A writer says: "Her grandmother made Victoria a name of good omen, but Alexandrina, not Victoria, was the first of the late British queen's baptismal names and was abandoned because Russian names are without sweet associations for English ears. Nor would Eugenie be very agreeable now to Spaniards, with whom their French neighbors are not universally popular. Ena is, however, a name as uncommittingly international as Victoria. It might very well have been the young queen's, too, but for a mere trick of sound. When her marriage was arranged her brothers began to call her in jest 'Quinine, ah!' and, thus gave its teased bearer a prejudice against the conjunction of her new title with her old name."

Nicholas II. is neither tsar, czar nor zar of Russia, but emperor of all the Russias. To call the emperor of Russia a tzar is a misnomer. He is tsar (king) of Moscow, Poland, Astrakhan and Kazan. Until the seventeenth century Russia was the "kingdom (tsars two) of Moscow." Peter the Great assumed the title "emperor of all the Russias" (Great Russia, White Russia and Little or Red Russia).

Tenders for the Construction of a Wire Fence around Elk Park, Northeast of Edmonton, Alta.

TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tenders for Wire Fence" will be received by the Department of the Interior up to noon on Monday, August 27th, 1906, for the construction of a wire fence around Elk Park, situate about twenty-five miles northeast of Edmonton, in Townships 54, Ranges 19 and 20, west of the 4th Meridian.

The length of fence is estimated at sixteen miles, but the Department reserves the right to extend or lessen the mileage should it be found necessary. Final payment to be based on the exact measurement of the fence constructed. Separate tender may be made for the clearing of lines, supplying posts or planting of the same, wiring, &c., or for the entire work.

The work must be completed not later than November 1st of the present year.

EARTH'S TINIEST MAN.

Now In London With Young Frenchman Eight Feet High.

"Prince" Colibri, the smallest man in the world, is now being exhibited at the Crystal Palace, London. He sometimes smiles at interested spectators over the top of one of the boots of Henri Cot, a young Frenchman, who is 8 feet 7 inches high, and a very good friend of the "Prince."

But though he is small, "Prince" Colibri, whose other name is Peter, has a brave heart. He hates tyrants with an unconquerable hatred. That is to say, he does not permit his political opinions to stand in the way of business. He is an Anarchist, but the Sultan of Turkey has given him $375 and a decoration, and he has appeared before the Emperor of Austria and the Khedive of Egypt.

"Prince" Peter is only 23 1-2 inches high, and his weight is 31-2 pounds. He is a Slav, and is 25 years old. His parents were ordinary-sized people, and he speaks French, English, German and Finnish. For twelve years Peter has traveled about the world, and he smokes cigarettes and likes driving and the papers.

"Prince" Colibri has one desire. He insists on being regarded as a full-grown man—as indeed he is, but for his size. When he sits down to his midday beefsteak he must always be accompanied by other "men."

Henri Cot could put Peter in his waistcoat pocket or lift him between his finger and thumb. The French giant was born twenty-one years ago in the department of Aveyron, of ordinary-sized parents, whose other children were of average height.

Henri has a soft heart, and he is looking for a bride. As he will not marry any but a girl of his own size, it is to be feared that the sentimental giant will end his days a bachelor. But, though he is an ideal. Henri has had love affairs. A wealthy woman of Marseilles offered him marriage, and his inches also infatuated a millionairess from Mexico.

The giant weighs 390 pounds, and for his lunch eats eight pounds of beef, six pounds of bread and drinks six pints of beer. He has a dozen eggs with his breakfast.

A THRILLING ADVENTURE.

Hunt For Panther In Sleeping-Room—A Desperate Cham.

A recent despatch to The London Express from Allahabad says. An extraordinary adventure in a bedroom with a panther is told by Lieut.-Col. Rundle, the commander of the 5th Brigade of the Royal Field Artillery at Jubbulpore, in The Pioneer.

One afternoon Mrs. Rundle came out of a portion of the bungalow that was seldom used, and said she had seen the tail of a panther protruding from behind a large coil of matting in one of the rooms. Col. Rundle supposed that the animal was a tame panther, which he knew one of his non-com's. owned, and sent for a brother officer to assist in despatching it.

Opening the door enough to insert his rifle barrel, he fired and wounded the beast. The door swung open as the wounded beast bounded against it. It then sprang at Col. Rundle, missing him by about a foot and bolted.

Col. Rundle, with Lieut. Macan, reconnoited each room in turn. Eventually the panther was found in a spare room hiding behind a coil of matting.

There was a window to this room about fourteen feet from the ground, and Col. Rundle procured a ladder, but before he could get his rifle up the panther had seen him and sprang through the doorway.

Lieut. Macan fired two shots, but neither proved fatal, and the panther bolted out of the house and across the tennis court into the R. A. mess compound.

Here it gave chase to an inquisitive sweeper, but was too badly wounded to do more than make a clutch or two at the man's clothes.

Finally it darted into an outhouse, where it was despatched.

Nose Rings.

The wearing of nose rings is steadily diminishing among the Hindoos.

Bride Cake.

Bride cake is a relic of the Roman confarreates, a mode of marriage practiced by the highest class in Rome. In confarreation the bride was led to the altar by bachelors, but conducted home by married men, and the ceremony took place in the presence of ten witnesses by the Pontifex Maximus, whereupon the contracting parties mutually partook of a cake made of salt, water and flour.

Bananas.

Two tons of bananas can be grown on the space of ground which will produce forty pounds weight of wheat.

Coal Deposits.

Coal deposits of North America are estimated to contain nearly as much as those of Europe, or 681,000,000,000 tons, but even this gigantic figure is dwarfed by Asia's wealth of coal. China is believed to possess inexhaustible supplies.

'IAN MACLAREN'S" TALK.

Rev. Dr. Watson Tells How English Workman Accept Marriage—A Humorous Incident to Illustrate View.

"As it seemed my happy fortune to be much engaged in marrying, especially at the holiday season of the working people, the register of the district felt it his duty to give me a word in season, writes "Ian Maclaren." Recognizing me as a general practitioner with an increasing circle, he warned me of a certain danger into which I might fall together with my patients, and the consequences of which were serious. He informed me that among a certain class of working people bigamy was by no means uncommon, and that sometimes both men and women, but especially the men, put a broad and generous interpretation on the marriage contract, and he even hinted that within a time little exceeding a year the same man would get married twice. It was suggested that a minister had better keep a watchful eye, and in the event of a bridegroom appearing twice before him within a short period inquire into the circumstances. And the register reinforced my conscience by reminding me that the penalty for a minister lending himself to the violation of law was transportation or something equivalent to that ancient punishment. Greatly quickened, partly by my zeal for morality, partly by a reasonable fear of consequences, I determined to watch with the eye of a detective every couple that came into my room bent on marriage, and to deal firmly with any miscreant I could discover. For some time no suspicious character appeared, and then, carried away by honest zeal, I narrowly escaped one of the most dangerous encounters of my life.

They came into the room with emphasis—four people, as usual, the two lovers and the two witnesses, and the manner of the men and their strength suggested workers in iron. After a salutation, guarded on my part, for that register had saturated my mind with suspicion, and aggressive on their part, which was a shield wherewith to protect an unusual situation, they sat down in a row near the door, while I sat down at the table, with the light behind me and falling on their faces. Which is the proper arrangement in a study where you have to size people up and come to conclusions suddenly.

"Those are your papers? Well, let me see that they are all right. You are James McKittrick?"

The bridegroom indicated that he was with some spirit and with the air of one who was entering on a comedy. While already it appeared that he was regarded as a facetious, as well as a determined, person by the group.

For some time I had been haunted with the idea that I had seen the bridegroom before, for his face was one you did not forget readily, and with every minute this idea was deepening into conviction. His broad chest, his strong legs and arms, his bold looks, his forward manner, his air of good humor, his general suggestion of gay recklessness corresponded with some photograph of the past that I was carrying in my memory. Could it be that this was one of those Don Juans in humble life against whom I had been warned.

"James McKittrick," I said slowly, "do you know," and I leant back in my chair and looked steadily at him, "that I have a notion we have met before? More than that, McKittrick, unless I am much mistaken, you were in this room not more than a year ago—in this room, and with a marriage party."

"It's a fact," he blurted out, and then a roguish expression came over his face. His figure filled out again, he thrust forward his head, and was himself once more. "In this room, as ye said," repeating my words with humorous intonation, "but as sure as death, the last time I was here, just eleven months ago, I was the best man."

"Gentlemen, McKittrick," and I covered my retreat with what dignity I could, "I was certain we had met before. Yours is not a face one can forget."

It was evident that the best thing to do was to hurry on with the service, and I directed the four to stand up and take their places, a movement which Mr. McKittrick, who was now in great spirit, did his best to turn into a comedy, desiring to stand with the bride on one hand and the bridesmaid on the other, and declaring his willingness to be married to them both, which he said was the habit of Mohammedans. It was with great difficulty that I could get the company reduced to a fitting state of mind, and even after they were in their places, Mr. McKittrick was offering genial invitations to the bridesmaid to seize the opportunity, which caused both ladies much amusement.

When it came to the vows, Mr. McKittrick acquitted himself with dignity, affirming everything with a voice which might have been heard in the street, and adding the gratuitous promise that he would keep his bride in order. Then having done his own duty, he felt himself at liberty to assist me in mine when I put the question to Euphemia.

"Obey, Phemie, ye hear that, and mind ye keep it. It's a wiselike promise," and he demanded to know whether it had been used in the garden of Eden, and without waiting for an answer, which he was not likely to get, he explained to his friend that if the woman had minded that word "obey" they might have been in the garden of Eden yet.

Which showed that Mr. McKittrick had some knowledge of his bible, and also was a gentleman of considerable common sense, though too much carried away by light moods.

During the signing of the papers the happy bridegroom wandered round the room examining the books and pictures with much interest, and various jocose commentaries, till he was brought to the table to sign his name. This sobered him, and he asked to allowed to take off his coat, explaining that it was only in such easy undress he had any liberty with the pen. He also guided the pen not only with his hand but with his tongue, and wrested greatly with his surname, hesitating between two t's and one, and being in some doubt as to whether it looked better to write Mac or Mc—a fine point on which he consulted the company. Once he had accomplished McKittrick, the load lifted from his spirits and he had an easy mind.

Car of Juggernaut.

The hideous tales of the car of Juggernaut and the hundreds of victims crushed beneath its wheels in the annual processions are lies. The car festivals in India attract each year 100,000 pilgrims, but no one was ever killed beneath the car except by accident.

Horses.

In the mythology of Europe horses have always been considered bearers of luck, and there was a superstition which once was current that the presence of a horse's hoof under the bed would consecrate complaints.

HER HEALTH DESTROYED BY PELVIC CATARRH.

"Pe-ru-na has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me."—Mrs. O. D. Robinson.

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians.

"I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, Doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you so kindly prescribed.

"I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less do any work. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

Pangman's Tree.

A living and leafy monument in the shape of a stately pine tree with traces of the name of Peter Pangman, 1790, still carved on it, stands at the junction of the Saskatchewan and the Clear Water rivers to commemorate the memory of the first white man to reach the Rocky mountains or see them from the east. Pangman was in the employ of the Northwest Fur company. He ascended the Saskatchewan and turning his face to the westward he beheld the white mass the Rocky mountains. He afterward penetrated them, but the tree where he carved his name marks the spot of his first vision. For 125 years it has been known as Pangman's tree, and still stands in spite of the ravages of fire and flood. In the early days it was a landmark and distances were measured from it.

The Chess Players.

It looks something more than a coincidence—this early decay of the chess players. The results of these prodigious intellectual stunts are not unlike those of the overtrained horse or the professional athlete, who sinks into decay before his time, his vitality gone, his organs a wreck. Chess is doubtless the beautiful and inspiring game its devotees would have us to think, but it appears to be a mighty poor profession. Even if it be not a short cut to madness, it certainly leads to no useful end. Some great men have been chess players, but no chess player has ever been a great man. Kansas City Independent.

Boiler Explosions In England.

During the twelve months ended June 30, 1906, there were fourteen persons killed and forty injured from British steam plant accidents, smaller returns than for any year since the boiler explosions act of 1882 was passed, the average for the past twenty-two years being twenty-eight persons killed and sixty injured.

On the other hand, the Locomotive, published at Hartford, Conn., gives 383 persons as killed and 585 injured in the United States. The number of steam boilers in America does not exceed by 50 per cent. those in Great Britain, hence the total number killed in the States should not exceed forty per annum, whereas the actual death roll is nearly ten times this amount.

Heavy fines are imposed in Great Britain on factory owners, engineers, engine builders and others to whom any blame attaches for explosions. From a report by U. S. Consul Marshal Halstead.

Chronology.

The Hindoo chronology extends to 6174 B. C., Babylon 6158 B. C. and China 6157 B. C.

The Earliest Year.

The earliest year consisted of twelve months, having each twenty-nine and thirty days alternately, thus making 354 days. This being found too short, it was lengthened to 360 days and afterward to 365¼.

Dr. Hamilton Proves That Piles Are Caused by Constipation and Strong Catharties

Knowing the frequency with which people suffer from this ailment, Dr. Hamilton made an exhaustive study into the cause of piles.

He found that the lower part of the bowels is like a network of blood-vessels, and if subjected to persistent pressure, a section will bulge out and form what is commonly known as piles.

The only effective mode of curing this trouble is the regular use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which can be taken before retiring. Next day will bring wonderful relief.

"I suffered up to about the limit of human endurance with piles," writes Miss Lueders, from Cornwall, Ont., "I was employed in a factory here, but for a while had to give up work till I got better of this trouble. I read in the Montreal Herald about Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and after using them for two weeks was cured. I can recommend these pills very highly, there is none better. They at once relieve and prevent a constipated condition of the bowels, and from my experience can be depended upon as a perfect safeguard against piles. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, I am sure, would be a benefit to every girl or woman."

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and your system will be regenerated, revitalized, and made proof against disease.

Good for men, excellent for women, and most effective for children. All ages and both sexes find Dr. Hamilton's Pills a marvelous medicine. Although active, they do not grip or cause inconvenience, still they cleanse and purify the system, thereby maintaining a high standard of health. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail, from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Frank McNulty Has Succumbed

Detroit Man, Taken Ill on C. P. R. Train Dies in St. Joseph's.

Our readers will remember that on Wednesday morning a young man belonging to Detroit, by name Frank McNulty, was taken off the C.P.R. train on Wednesday morning and removed to St. Joseph's Hospital. The deceased who was nineteen years old, passed away in the hospital on Thursday night. He had been down to Quebec and Montreal on a trip with his mother.

The body was taken to Detroit last night for interment.

The doctors in attendance differ in the diagnosis of the case, certain physicians maintaining that McNulty died from an attack of cerebro spinal meningitis, while others who attended the patient contend that it was only a severe attack of epileptic convulsions.

Toronto Lady Gets a Fine Bass

Miss Emma Carroll of Toronto, is a fisherwoman, with emphasis on the first syllable. One of the biggest bass caught at Stony Lake this season was pulled in by her at South Beach on Thursday. It weighed four and three-quarter pounds. There was an exciting time landing the fish. Miss Carroll was with another lady on the boat when she hooked this weighty gamefish. The guide, who was with them, assisted them in landing the fish.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflammation. It stops discharges, it heals, it soothes. It comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, ill-fed women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive, helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Harvesters? Attention.

They are getting very busy in the North-West and Manitoba. They need your help. Good wages offering. A special train will leave Peterborough via Canadian Pacific at 10.15 a.m. on Wednesday, August 22nd. Tickets for going trip $12.00, for return trip $18.00 additional. For further information and tickets consult W. Mellroy, City Passenger Agent, 343 George street.

M. Pappas' Stores Greatly Improved.

A great improvement has been made in the appearance of Mr. M. Pappas's two stores, 337-339 George St. These stores have been fully painted from pavement to roof. The cigar store front has been very neatly stained and grained to represent oak, and makes this store look most modern and attractive. The shoe shine and billiard establishment has had the ground floor grained in oak, and the brick work has been painted a rich cream color. The window frames of the entire building, have been made a rich dark green. Mr. E. M. Taylor, of 18 Albert street, had the entire contract, and has completed a job which reflects credit upon Peterborough workmen.

Local Dairymen at Brockville.

Hawthorne, representing the Peterborough Cheese Board, have gone to Brockville to attend an important gathering of dairymen, called for the purpose of discussing some questions of interest to all engaged in the cheese trade. All cheese boards in Eastern Ontario will send delegates.

Peterboro Forester Is High Marshall.

MADE FROM NATIVE ROOTS. SAFE AND RELIABLE.

That the roots of many native plants, growing wild in our American forests, possess remarkable properties for the cure of human maladies is well proven. Even the untutored Indian had learned the curative value of some of these and taught the early settlers their uses. The Indian never liked work so he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible that she might do the work and let him hunt. Therefore, he dug "papoose root" for her, for that was their great remedy for female weaknesses. Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription," skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective than any other medicine in curing all the various weaknesses and painful derangements peculiar to women.

Many afflicted women have been saved from the operating table and the surgeon's knife by the timely use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Tenderness over the lower pelvic region, with backache, spells of dizziness, faintness, bearing down pains or distress should not go unheeded. A course of "Favorite Prescription" will work marvelous benefit in all such cases, and generally effect a permanent cure if persisted in for a reasonable length of time. The "Favorite Prescription" is a harmless agent, being wholly prepared from native medicinal roots, without a drop of alcohol in its make up, whereas all other medicines, put up for sale through druggists for woman's peculiar ailments, contain large quantities of spirituous liquors, which are very harmful, especially to delicate women. "Favorite Prescription" contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on each bottle wrapper. It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. For weak and sickly women, who are "worn-out," or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office, or school-room, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, and for nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will prove a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving power.

For constipation, the true, scientific cure is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Mild, harmless, yet sure.

The World's Greatest Apple Orchard

How Canada's Apple Output Will Be Increased and Improved.

One of the most extensive and conservative propositions now extant in Canada is that being exploited by the Dominion Orchard Co., Ltd., whose head offices are in the Sovereign Bank Building, Montreal.

This company has been organized to grow high grade apples on a vast scale. The company has secured six hundred acres of land in the best apple growing district of the Province of Quebec.

The gentlemen organizing the company recognize the rapidly increasing demand for Canadian apples on the European markets. While Canada competes favorably with the world on her growth and quality of apples, the shippers of this country unfortunately do not pay sufficient to details, such as the manner of shipping, packages, assortment as to grades, etc. The Company referred to above with their exceptional facilities will be able to comply with all requirements of the British and European markets.

The Dominion Orchard Co., has been organized with a capital of $300,000, divided into 7000 eight per cent. shares at $100 each, and 2000 common shares at $100 each. Each purchaser of the 8 per cent. stock, sold at par value, viz. $100, will be entitled to $100 of common stock for each such share as a bonus. The stock, which seems to be one of the most promising on the market, is sold, 10 per cent. on subscription, 20 per cent. on allotment, 30 per cent. Oct. 1st, 1906, and 40 per cent. Feb 1st, 1907. Eight per cent. per annum will be allowed from date of issue until last payment is made on receipts, when regular certificates will be issued. Subscription lists are now open and will be closed on Sept. 1st, 1906.

For full particulars write the company's offices as above, and for stock address The Montreal Trust & Deposit Co.

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

Russian Police Are Jumping Their Job

Resignations Being Received by Wholesale---Troops are to Replace Them--Mutineers Executed.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—Since the acute revival of terrorism the ministry of the interior has been floored with complaints forwarded by chiefs of police in all parts of the empire to the effect that the police are resigning by wholesale, and it is said that if this state of affairs continues it may compel a practical replacement of the police by troops.

The cabinet has given serious attention to the situation in Poland and the question of despatching considerable reinforcements of troops there and sending the punitive expeditions has been discussed, but no decision has been arrived at.

A SACRIFICIAL STRIKE.

Moscow, Aug. 19.—After the meeting of the Constitutional Democrats at the house of Prince Dologorenkoff had been broken up by the police the members of the party adjourned to the country estate of one of the members where they decided to hold a congress in St. Petersburg, September 20.

The inmates of all the prisons here have declared a three days' hunger strike in retaliation for the affair at the central prison, August 16, when troops fired on a number of political prisoners who made a demonstration against the hospital conditions, killing two and wounding ten men.

DEMAND PUNISHMENT.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19. — Both Premier Stolypin and War Minister Rudiger are receiving many letters demanding the punishment of the officers and soldiers concerned in the whipping of Mlle Anna Rasumoff, the dressmaker who made a sarcastic remark as a squadron of Chevalier Guards were passing, and the newspapers continue to be filled with indignant articles on the subject.

M. Stolypin has ordered an investigation of the affair, but so far as is known the war authorities have made no move. The girl is in the hospital and her condition is reported to be serious.

FIND BOMB FACTORY.

Kishineff, Russia, Aug. 19.—A bomb factory was discovered here today at the residence of Professor Tverdochlebuff, of Odessa University. Several arrests were made.

MUTINEERS EXECUTED.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—Seventeen of the sailors of the armored cruiser Pamyat Azova, who mutinied off the Esthonian coast August 2, and one agitator arrested in connection with the mutiny, were executed at Reval early today.

It is a great saving of time and expense to any town holding a celebration, to do it in the way in which you did, as it takes a great deal of work off the hands of the committee.

MORE NAUGHTY NEGLIGE

And Now Some of the Boarders at a Y. W. C. A. Have Been Asked to Absent Themselves.

Cincinnati, Aug. 18.—Unseemly conduct by young women living in the new home of the Young Women's Christian Association has forced the Board of Managers to a rigid enforcement of the rules, and six or eight girls have been asked to leave.

This action followed reports made by the matron, Mrs. M. M. Dowd, and by the housekeeper, Miss Anna L. Ustick, to the Board of Managers.

One girl was reported for persistently walking up and down the public hall in pajamas. Another report was that two of the pretty lodgers had secreted in their boudoirs liquids containing sufficient alcohol to stimulate, if not to intoxicate.

Another report was that two Y. W. C. A. girls went to Fort Thomas, talked to the soldiers, and on route home on the cars kissed and hugged each other.

Several young women insisted on coming to six o'clock dinners in their kimonos, knowing that visitors often came in, and when asked to dress for the meal, indignantly refused.

Several girls who wore kimonos from their rooms to the bathroom were reprimanded.

IMP OF INDIGESTION

How to Get The Better of This Cause of Misery.

A scientific writer upon stomach troubles says: "If you have ever suffered from indigestion,—and who has not?—your imagination has probably pictured a ferocious little imp dancing in the pit of your stomach, causing that organ to neglect all of its duties, with a result that is not only painful but fills you with misery from day to day." This writer certainly had suffered with indigestion, for there is no more disagreeable, nerve-racking and sick-all-over disease than indigestion.

A great many people who have been treated for years for diseases of the heart, liver or kidneys, when they used Miona stomach tablets found that not only did Miona cure the stomach disorder, but it made them well all over and the other troubles were also cured.

If you suffer with nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, sick or nervous headache, pains in the back or sides, get a 50c. box of Mi-o-na and take one of the little tablets before each meal. It will do you a world of good and you will soon be well and free from indigestion, and its symptoms.

PO ICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

On Saturday there were only two cases tried at the local police court. Two boys were charged with stone throwing. Their cases were enlarged until Wednesday morning.

Wm. Boyd, recently of Toronto, but who has lately been boarding on Water street, was charged with using insulting language to Mrs. Carney. Boyd was fined $5 to be paid forthwith or in default 15 days rest up in Castle Nesbitt. In lack of the necessary coin, Boyd spent the heated hours of yesterday in the cleaning and cool cloisters of the county building.

During the day Mrs. Boyd, his wife went forth on a mission of mercy, no less than to try and raise the V required to get her hubby locked-up half's release. Unfortunately, judging by the story told last night by the lady herself, sympathizing friends, whilst busy digging up the $5, demonstrated their regard by copious offerings of liquid nature. The result was as might have been foreseen. Mrs. Boyd was captured by the police Saturday evening, carrying a stupenduous jag. She spent yesterday in a lacymose and heated Sunday in cell No. 6. Her case will be tried at 10 o'clock this morning.

HE AVOIDED WORK

To that Fact Aged New Yorker Attributed His Excessive Longevity.

New York, Aug. 18.—Louis Periatein, of 213 Henry street, who died at an age variously estimated between 101 and 112, was buried yesterday afternoon in the Cypress Hills' cemetery. The services at the house were attended by about 100 kinsfolk, 75 of whom were grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren, the oldest of the latter being 18 years.

Louis Periatein, the eldest of the eleven children of the dead man, says that when he was 20 years old and the family were still in Russia, he sailed to this country to avoid service in the Czar's army, and brought his father, then about 60 years old, with him. That was forty-two years ago, at least, he says.

In Russia Periatein was a tailor, and it was one of his old apprentices who estimated his age at 112. On coming to this country Periatein became a man of leisure, and devoted his time to the three Jewish religious societies to which he belonged. He attributed the age he attained to this avoidance of work and to the fact that he never took medicine. He smoked and drank in moderation up to the day of his death, and never had to wear glasses.

SEARCHING FOR GOLD

Search Resumed for Bullion Sunk in Spanish Ship

TOBERMORY TREASURE

Present Seeker Confident in Success of Modern Methods.

London, August 19.—Now that a new start has been made in the search for the Spanish millions buried under the waters of Tobermory Bay, Scotland, it will be interesting to learn what Captain Burns, of the British Marine Salvage Association, who is once more at head of affairs, thinks of the prospects of this his third venture in pursuit of bullion.

He is much amused by the pretended knowledge of those who declare that the chests of gold were too attractive to be left in Tobermory Bay by the MacLeans or the Spaniards themselves. He has been told that the empty treasure chest of the Florencia—a substantial metal bound coffer—is at the present time to be seen at Old Inveraive, the property of Mrs. Campbell of Dunstaffnage, and he has often been informed that he could could not escape the efforts and the ingenuity of the Swedish engineer, who in 1666 was employed by the ninth Earl of Argyll, and made use of the diving-bell in his operations, or of Sir William Gachevcrall, Governor of the Isle of Man, who again had recourse to the diving-bell, or of William Phipps, the inventor headed by another Argyll in 1687, or of others.

Captain Burns has experimented with all sorts of appliances used by marine explorers, and is able to prove that neither the Swede nor any expert of bygone times could descend in a diving-bell anything approaching eight fathoms, the depth to which the bow of the Florencia sank. The stern sank fully even fathoms. Those engineers could only work with tongs-like appliances from inside the diving-bell, and how powerless they were in front of such difficulties can easily be understood. Granting that those attempts were failures as far as the specie was concerned, he says that is no reason why those now engaged, supplied with all modern appliances, steam suction pipes, Priestman diggers, which pierce great holes in the sand and boulder clay, and barges to carry off the material after being examined, should also fail.

THE STORY OF OTHER ATTEMPTS.

A short epitome of the story, and authenticated, as given by Captain Burns, the head of the concern, may therefore be interesting at this stage. When, in 1661, the expert from Sweden began the search for the Marquis of Argyll, and made a careful examination of the spot it was found that the deck and portion of the sides were blown off from the mizen mast forward, and the hull of the vessel was full of sand and mud. The poop, however, which was not damaged by the explosion, was standing up, and the heavy oak beams and planking of the sides were intact, the bow being in about eight afthoms and the stern in eleven afthoms at low water spring tides. It was also found that cannon and other materials were scattered about the vessel in a radius of from two to twenty yards.

Under the poop were the strong room and the treasure. The salvors immediately began to tear away the planks and beams, and while they were engaged thus the Clan MacLean drove them away from their work, after they had recovered five or six heavy iron cannon. Other attempts were made by other sets of salvors employed by the Earl of Argyll, but the salvors were practically driven away by the MacLeans, who built a fort overlooking Tobermory in an ideal spot for obtaining a view of the approach of friend or foe. Not until 1740 did any of the Argyll family themselves make any attempt to salve any portion of the wreck. At that time there were recovered several articles, one a big bronze muzzle-loading gun, ten feet long, bearing the arms of Francis I., and the fleur-de-lis. The guns were supposed to be the work of Benvenuto Cellini, and they now adorn the precincts of the Ducal seat at Inverary. "It is thought," says Captain Burns, "that the lower part of the vessel, with her heavy keel, kelson, and frames, is full of mud and sand, and that she has gone down 90 or 95 feet and made a bed for herself. The sinking of the vessel has increased the difficulty of the undertaking very considerably, but the present salvors hope to meet and overcome every difficulty."

GETTING CLOSE TO TREASURE.

The finding of a cluster of stone shot and the cannon, which they fitted, of the lock and hasp of a chest, of the ramrod of a cannon and of its breach-block, as well as gold and silver coins of undoubted Spanish coinage, a silver candlestick and gold rings of antique pattern, all serve to show that in the operations of 1903 and 1905 the searchers were not far from material of greater value.

Dubloons to the number of sixty-five, some of which bear the name of Ferdinand and Isabella, others of Don Carlos of Spain, were found in 1903, and now lie in Glasgow museum. Last year among the finds were several "pieces of eight," coins without reference to which no Elizabethan romance was complete. Robert Louis Stevenson also fell under the rythmic charm of the name, and has his jack-tars paying for their sack with "pieces of eight."

Were it only for the relics brought up, the search would now be a profitable speculation. For one of the "pieces of eight" brought up last year as high as £10 was offered. A wine bottle of unique design realized £5. A cannon, taken up in 1905, sold for £15. The stone cannon balls, breech-loading guns, swords, scabbards, ramrods, a stone jar on which is depicted a very curious human face, a tiny liqueur bottle bearing the name "Chateau de Conde," a copper powder-pan, the silver candlestick, and numberless small articles are still for sale to buyers prepared to offer good prices.

That the Florencia contained much treasure the Wise of Scotland Syndicate and their experts fully believe. This galleon was the flagship of fifty Florentine vessels, a tribute from Florence to Spain, and the Admiral, one Gaspard de Suza, was a lover of luxury. He never ate but from silver plates; he never drank but from golden goblets. Besides there were on board no less than eight priests of Rome, with all their holy treasures, silver crucifixes, and sacramental vessels, and these all now lie deep under the debris of the centuries. These are the objective of the search.

Kaiser Was Very Pleased

Berlin, Aug 19.—Great satisfaction prevails at the foreign office here over the results of the meeting at Friedrichshof between King Edward and Emperor William.

The latter has expressed himself as highly satisfied with the outcome of his personal conferences with the King.

The discussions between the monarchs in the presence of their diplomatic representatives covered many political questions of interest to both countries, without aiming at reaching specific arrangements, but with the view of coming to a satisfactory understanding respecting the policies pursued by the two countries.

This was accomplished in the main and the foreign office expects to see the improvement in the relations between them continue.

SALLOW FACES

Often Caused by Coffee Drinking.

How many persons realize that coffee so disturbs digestion that it produces a muddy, yellow complexion?

A ten days' trial of Postum Food Coffee has proven a means, in thousands of cases, of clearing up bad complexions.

A Washington young lady tells her experience:

"All of us—father, mother, sister and brother—had used tea and coffee for many years until finally we all had stomach troubles more or less.

"We were all sallow and troubled with pimples, breath bad, disagreeable taste in the mouth, and all of us simply so many bundles of nerves.

"We didn't realize that coffee was the cause of the trouble until one day we ran out of coffee and went to borrow some from a neighbor. She gave us some Postum and told us to try that.

"Although we started to make it, we all felt sure we would be sick if we missed our strong coffee, but we were forced to try Postum and were surprised to find it delicious.

"We read the statements on the pkg., got more and in a month and a half you wouldn't have known us. We were all able to digest our food without any trouble, each one's skin became clear, tongues cleaned off and nerves in fine condition. We never use anything now but Postum. There is nothing like it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a reason."

Magical Powers of a Pair of Eyes

Ignorant People in Europe to Pay $50 for Pills and a Photograph That Radiates Health---Thousands of People are Emmeshed.

Toronto, Aug 19.—The police Saturday turned another good trick when they went into the offices of the Institute of Radiopathy, in the office building at Bay and Adelaide streets. The institute occupied rooms 214, 215, 216 and 217.

Acting on information Crown Attorney Corley and Detective-Sergeant Duncan, with a number of police, went to the rooms and took charge of and removed about half a ton of stuff, consisting of books, suggestive literature, circulars and pamphlets, all written and printed, it is claimed, for the purpose of befuddling the public.

The institute was conducted as a "cure all;" there is no disease under the sun they could not cure. They were doing little, if any business in Canada, Austria, Germany, Spain and France were the countries they worked in, doing business through the mails.

A ROCHESTER MAN.

The head, so far as known, of this concern, is "Prof." G. A. Mann, whose headquarters seem to be in Rochester, N.Y. That is where he was when the raid was made. With him was associated W. H. Ourie, M. D., according to prescriptions seized by the police.

The police think the whole business is a "fake" of the worst kind.

To arouse the interests of the unwary Prof Mann has compiled seven well-worded letters, which are sent out at intervals of fifty days, until results are obtained. If no results are seen, the letters are stopped at the end of the year, and the patient given up as armor-proof against the appeals of the professor. If a reply is received the literature published by Professor Mann is forwarded to the patient, and if the regular fee is sent the course of treatment is explained. The treatment consists in taking tablets, colored differently, for the various diseases to which humanity has fallen heir, and gazing intently into a photograph, which represents a man's face from the bridge of the nose to the forehead.

TO GAZE INTO HIS EYES.

The strength of the eyes is the conspicuous part of the photograph. Referring to the importance of the photograph Professor Mann says;

"The photograph herein enclosed has for its object to establish an entente between the patient and myself, and from this is derived its full importance. This card must not be shown to anybody, nor must it be touched by anyone not concerned in the treatment, neither can it be employed for the treatment of two patients, for the weaker runs the risk of contracting the disease of the stronger. This card has been prepared in a special manner, and is a link of conjunction between you and me, and its power of radiation disappears six weeks after the opening of the envelope, which contains it. At the expiration of such a time in your own interest, burn the photograph.

"Tell no one that you are following this treatment. The skeptic's doubts are a serious obstacle to the success of the treatment. Once you are cured recommend this treatment to your friends, and send us your testimonial. During the hours of projection firmly believe that you must experience the curative influence, and during the day think often of the experienced improvement, which will be greater in proportion to the diligence and the exactness with which you will conform yourself to the instructions as above.

Under the head of "The Man of the Mysterious Power," the literature in circulation states that patients have called Prof. Mann the worker of miracles, and this because he has given life and happiness to hundreds of people that had no more hopes to live. It states that very few can understand the real reason of his power to heal, attributed to him by many as the divine power.

The "prof." in his circulars, tells of the large amount of money paid to his "specialists" in salaries about $50,000 yearly. So far the police have not been able to locate any of these famous medical men.

Whether "Professor" Mann will return to Toronto to claim his stuff is not known. The government may try to bring him back for using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

OPTIMISTIC OVER CANADA'S FUTURE

Mr. William Whyte Discusses Progress of West and Labor Problem

WOULD ALLOW CHINESE IN

Railway Official Believes Oriental Immigration Within Certain Limits Would be a Benefit.

Victoria, B. C., August 18.—In an interview given upon his arrival here a day or so ago, Second Vice-President Whyte, of the C. P. R., pays an eloquent tribute to the prosperity of Canada, and voices most optimistic views as to the country's future.

"The general prosperity of the country cannot be gainsaid," he declared. "In Manitoba and Saskatchewan alone twenty to twenty-five thousand laborers are required and in other districts there is a proportionate demand; in fact, the problem has become so serious that we are advertising throughout England, Ireland and Scotland offering a passage at the low rate of $ a head to induce men to come, the preference of course being given to practical agriculturists, most of whom, it is presumed, will remain in the country whilst those who desire can return home at the same rate. It is hoped that by this means sufficient immigration will be induced to relieve the immediate pressure as the consequence of the crop not being cut when ripe would be disastrous to the farmers through the shelling out of the grain. This course has the double merit of benefiting the old land they leave as well as the new land they are coming to."

FAVORS CHINESE LABOR.

Mr. Whyte dwelt at length upon all the points of the labor question which, both as regards agricultural and domestic service, is much more acute in the East, and, touching the matter of Chinese labor, he deprecated the attitude of the labor organizations as inconsistent and ill-advised, as it was originally through the attitude of the artisans that Chinese labor had been first imported and at the present juncture it would not interfere with the labor interests. The influx of Japanese had been checked by the course of Japanese enterprise being diverted to Manitoria and Korea; and provided that the removal of the poll tax with a view to the admission of Chinese labor were joined with strict instructions limiting the sphere of activity to agriculture, market gardening and laundry work, he thought that such a step could not be other than beneficial to the country, and he trusted that when this fact was fully grasped by the men their opposition would be voluntarily withdrawn, the step suggested not constituting any menace to their legitimate rights or conflicting with their vested interests.

Plays Joke on Business Rival

New York, Aug. 19.—As the consequence of a practical joke played upon a business rival, Robert Cusick, a young ice-dealer, is in a hospital fatally stabbed. Pasquale Deshon, also an ice-dealer, and Mary Deshon, his wife, are locked up, charged with felonious assault, and are held pending the result of Cusick's injuries.

Cusick yesterday thought it would be good fun to play a trick on Deshon, who has an ice cellar in 159th street. So he hired a boy to visit the rival dealer and give him imaginary orders for ice. Deshon went out with a car full of ice, only to find that his prospective customers were myths. This angered him greatly, and he told his wife about it.

Cusick delighted with the success of his joke, spread the news around the neighborhood, and Deshon came in for a good deal of chaffing from his neighbors. This angered him all the more, and when he and his wife met Cusick in Lexington avenue a few hours later, angry words were exchanged.

Mrs. Deshon was carrying a baby in her arms. Giving the child to a girl who accompanied her, she suddenly drew a knife with a long blade from the folds of her dress, and it is charged, plunged it into Cusick's stomach. He fell to the sidewalk unconscious.

Then Deshon took the knife from his wife, and he, too, it is charged, stabbed Cusick, while he was lying on the sidewalk.

Then the couple and the girl with the baby ran away, but later were arrested.

Revolution in San Domingo

Cape Haytian, Hayti, Aug. 19.—A serious revolution, according to advices received here by courier today, has broken out in the republic of Santo Domingo. Revolutionary bands under the command of Gen. Navarro are said to have landed near Riveriere and to have attacked and captured Dajabon, which was pillaged and abandoned after twenty persons had been killed.

The revolutionists are now said to be near Guayabin, and to be marching on to Monte Cristi.

The arrival of General Desrabmps is anxiously awaited by the revolutionists.

It is understood that he will assume command of the forces and operate against the government in favor of Former President Jimines.

A state of anarchy prevails in the northern part of Santo Domingo. All commerce with the interior has been stopped, and traffic in the northern districts has been prohibited.

WHY SO WEARY?

Always Restless and Weak Isn't Natural—But It's Dangerous.

You have to work hard. This uses up lots of nerve force and tears down the body faster than it can build up.

The result is a half-dead feeling you can't shake off. The water in your blood must be turned into nutriment and building material.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which renews the blood and nerves, and makes—each organ do the work that nature expects of it.

Ferrozone quickly increases your weight, brings appetite and healthy color, instills a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, debility, or sickness of any kind.

The enormous strengthening power of Ferrozone is proved in the case of Mrs. Edward Hill, of Orr Lake, Ont., who says:

"Two years ago I had a nervous breakdown. At night I tossed restlessly in bed, unable to get any rest from sleep. In the morning I suffered from over-powering weakness. My appetite was poor. I grew pale, thin and despondent. A slight hacking cough also added to my burden.

"My doctor said to try Ferrozone and it did me good in a few days I increased in strength, the nervous sensations disappeared, and with my appetite came back my color and good spirits. I have gained over ten pounds in weight, and as my age is 56, I consider Ferrozone is a marvel." (Signed) Mrs. Edward Hill.

REMEMBER THIS Ferrozone is a true tonic—not an alcoholic stimulant. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box for fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 20 1906

THE TRANSVAAL CONSTITUTION

The general opinion seems to be that if the British elements in the Transvaal work together in harmony, they can carry the elections for the new popular House to be created by the bill now before the Imperial Parliament; but that they will have at best only a small majority of three or four. The bill concedes the Imperialistic demand that the constituencies shall be based upon voters and not upon population, thus depriving the Boers of the advantage which would otherwise come to them through their larger proportion of married men and families. Then the nominative Upper Chamber will constitute a safeguard for the Crown until it becomes elective at the end of the first term; and, if danger develops in the meantime, some changes may be made in the constitution. It is suggested that it would be better to make it elective at once under a system of large constituencies and proportional representation which would render the British majority more effective at the polls than any small constituency and single member plan.

The hope is frequently expressed that the new representative government of the Transvaal will bring about a union with Natal. Natal is overwhelmingly British, and the new colony thus created would be safely in British hands. Then, with this loyal colony to the north and the Cape—which will never be effectively un-British—to the south, the Orange River Colony could be permitted to work out its own salvation in peace. So long as there is danger of that colony becoming a centre of Boer discontent which may spread to the rest of South Africa, there will be an unconquerable disinclination among the British people to trust it with self-government; and yet it is only through the soothing influences of free self-government that its people can learn to become contented under the British flag.

It should never be forgotten that Britain has undertaken a task of conciliation in South Africa. If it did not wish to conciliate its late enemies, nothing would be easier than to maintain a strong Downing street government, both at Pretoria and Bloemfontein, backed by an army of occupation. But this would fasten upon the Empire a running sore perpetually bleeding away its strength and always in danger of becoming virulent at some critical moment. The statesmanship of Britain is agreed upon the better policy of converting the Boer populations into friends and allies; and there is no way to do this short of removing from their backs the galling friction of outside rule. The problem before the British Parliament then is not the easy one of governing the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony by force of arms, but of choosing the psychological moment to show a trust in their common sense and their recognition of the inevitable.

The key to the position is, at present, the Transvaal. If that be lost to the Boers, still smarting under the wounds of the war, everybody admits that the issue may be serious. Yet there can be no further delay about giving that Colony some sort of representative government. This, too, everybody admits. The Colony is fast losing its British majority for lack of it. The new constitution has been received with a feeling of relief by the British in the Transvaal—partly because they feared that it might be worse and partly because they feel the need of a constitution of some sort at once. But it is to be hoped that the British Government will not risk too much on the first cast. The British are in a decided majority in the Colony today, and it ought not to be contrary to Liberal principle to make certain that the majority shall rule. If the constituencies do not accomplish this with certainty because of the peculiar distribution of the two populations, then the Upper House should be utilized to give the real majority a commanding voice during the coming days of construction.

"RIVER OF LIFE"

Flow of Its Waters Interfered With the Contract on a Bridge.

Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 18.—Because the "River of Life" in Egg Harbor interferes with the building of a bridge, Contractor Joseph Brown has thrown up his contract.

Dr. Augustus Schmid, who says he has lived 135 years through bathing in the waters of Union Lake—which he asserts is the fountain of youth sought for by old-time Spaniards—dammed up the stream to permit patients in his sanitarium to have it.

After the patients take their daily dip Dr. Schmid allows the waters of life to run off, and Brown declares that his men working on the foundations of the bridge are washed off their working floats.

The men declared their disbelief in the efficiency of the waters that washed them each day, and quit work.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

EUROPEANS NOW CHARY OVER DEALING WITH THE AMERICANS

New York, Aug. 18.—The rush of returning European travel has set in, and every arriving steamer is crowded to its capacity with home-coming Americans.

All bring back a story of the harmful effect in Europe of the recent discussions and disclosures in the United States business world.

The foreign press made much of this material in a campaign against American products in favor of their home industries.

BEEF TRADE RECOVERS

The beef trade which was most injuriously affected has so recovered that the exports are now but fifteen per cent. below normal.

The peculiar situation is revealed that though in the packing houses exposures the quality of the beef was assailed, its orders have practically been restored, whereas in the petroleum business the quality of which has not been questioned in America, there has been a most marked reduction in the export trade, where sixty per cent. of the entire petroleum production of the United States goes.

The Russians, Germans, Roumanians and Galicians, who are the formidable competitors of the American petroleum industry, have used the European press attacks to great advantage. With the largely accumulated stocks due to the many new oil fields found in Russia and Indian territory, and the rapidly developing petroleum industries of other countries which have the advantage of greater proximity to consuming centers, as well as that of cheaper labor, a serious injury to the American products have resulted.

Inquiry here indicates that while the first announcements resulted in an almost total cancellation of orders a more normal condition has returned, and that now most houses are exporting up to their former figures.

Twenty Minutes Time Enough?

To Cure the Worst Headache From Any Cause—New Reduction Method.

Most headaches and pains yield instantly to the new Reduction Method—Dr Shoop's Twenty Minute Headache Cure. The cause for these pains is congestion—a rushing of blood to the nerve centers—which distends the veins to nearly the bursting point. Swollen and enlarged, these veins and capillaries exert an irritating pressure on the myriads of nerve branches and fibres. Then, there's a pain, and finally that unceasing, ceaseless ache. This new Reduction Method disperses the blood, distributes the overflow, and dispels it to the proper channels. It frees the nerves from all pressure and irritation—the pains and aches disappear because their cause has been removed. You may try a thousand and one remedies—you may drug and sedate the nerves into submission—but the remedy which brings prompt relief and permanent cure will be successful because it reduces the congestion—it must embody the Reduction Method. Medicine has been found a way—simple and sure, yet the only way—to thoroughly overcome these attacks of Headache and Neuralgia. The effect of Dr. Shoop's Twenty Minute Headache Cure is prompt—perfectly suited to all forms of Headaches and absolutely positive in every temperament. For sale and recommended by

The Dominion Orchard Company has been organized for the purpose of developing and using industries that resources for carrying on a growing high grade apple for home and export. There is no other agricultural outlook more promising than apple orcharding. Unlike other fruits, our hard winter apples can be sent a fair grain to distant countries. Little grain, however, no other country can grow such apples as we can. This natural industry has never been undertaken in Canada on a business basis. The past and present method is for the individual planter to grow in a small quantity, have his fruit packed and shipped by middlemen, and still make a large profit for himself, allowing nature's elements to do the work.

The Apple Business

Products of the Canadian apple orchards are attracting world-wide attention, and the prospects of the industry in the favored localities of the Dominion are limitless. The demand in Great Britain has never been met, and we have numerous inquiries from France, Germany, and also from the Northwest Provinces as they become settled up. Quebec is the home of the best varieties grown; hard, sound, high-colored apples that bring the highest prices in the market. Reliable statistics show that the profits annually accruing from a well managed orchard commonly exceed the value of the land occupied by the trees. For the purpose of increasing the supply the Company has been formed. Six hundred acres have been secured in the best district in the Province of Quebec, conveniently situated for shipping either by rail or water.

The investment will approximate the value of the preferred stock. Extensive improvements will be made and at the end of four years this Government figures as a business commercial value of the plant will exceed the entire capital stock of the Company, while the earning power will equal 17 per cent., increasing annually as the trees develop. This will be the largest single plantation in the world, and the entire output has already been spoken for by European buyers. To demonstrate both the earning capacity, we give below a statement issued by the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, and a letter accompanying it from the well-known horticulturist, W. T. Macoun.

Markets

"The demand for Canadian apples of good quality and in good condition on the markets of Great Britain the market appears to be unlimited, and the prospects of opening an extensive trade with other European countries are very bright. The Canadian fruit growers ought not to be satisfied with anything short of a large share of this trade. The fruit must be carefully packed, well and honestly packed, and it is of such quality as will induce the demand for it more than in the past. At home, also, the consumption of apples is increasing, and when better rates are given by the railways so that apples may be shipped at less cost than at present, there will be a great demand for this fruit in those parts of Canada where apples cannot be grown successfully."

Horticulturist,
Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Government Report of Earnings

Considerable interest has been shown in the results obtained from a Wealthy apple orchard at the Central Experimental Farm. There are 120 trees in this orchard, occupying about one-third of an acre, planted in the spring of 1895. Full details in regard to the orchard were published in the annual report of 1904.

In that report was shown the more attention to be paid to the fruit average net profit per acre from the growing industry.

time of planting was $413, and from the line of fruiting Sixth Tree gave a heavy crop in this orchard in and the crop in was medium. The total crop produced was 1,247 gallons.

The receipts and expenditures were estimated from about one-quarter of an acre, and the figures for 1905 were given on the assumption that the percentage of sales in boxes and baskets were about the same from the full acre. A record is kept of the actual time spent in caring for the orchard and the other expenses incurred. Labor is valued at 15 cents an hour.

Receipts

Receipts	$307.76
Disbursements	404.63
Net profit, 1905	$103.13
Average net profit per acre in 1904 to 1905 inclusive	$105.65

Table of Profits

The following statement of receipts and expenditures is taken from an orchard of 1,000 trees planted in 1898, 75 per cent. of that number only are winter varieties. Comparative annual earnings of 80,000 trees will average for the first ten years:

80,000 bbls. at $2.50 in Europe	$160,000.00
By cultivation	10,240.00
By picking	4,000.00
By packing	2,750.00
By material	7,500.00
By transportation	27,500.00
By commission	4,000.00
By profits	$51,000.00
	$107,000.00 $160,000.00

Prices in the European market have averaged $2.50 per barrel for the past four years.

The commercial value of apple-stopping varieties is $1.50 net on trees, and after allowing the cost of cultivation, crop earnings will exceed 10 per cent. of the entire capital, even if sold to dealers, but if exported, the profit will average for the first ten years from 15 to 20 per cent., and for the next five years 25 to 40 per cent., according to the season, and will continue to increase annually for thirty years.

Operating on a large scale would increase the profits in proportion, and it is the opinion of those best qualified to judge that this enterprise should pay handsomely, and at the same time the investment does not admit of any clause for depreciation or depreciation, and is therefore secure.

Opinions

"I beg to say that the Manitoba and the Northwest market has attracted to such attention from Ontario fruit growers as to almost overshadow the question of the European markets. Prices are beginning to consider what there is to be a steadfast rule to be made out of the Northwest than out of the overseas market. So far as last year's crop is concerned, the only fruit exported to any extent was the apple.

"NELSON MONTEITH,
"Minister of Agriculture.
"Province of Ontario."

"Canadian fruit growers have the soil, climate, and now the shipping facilities that will enable them to compete successfully. The opening of the Northwest is absorbing so large a portion of both the apple and pear crop that there is not likely to be an excessive surplus for export. The greatest expansion in the industry will be in the matter of apples and pears.

"Prices this year have been as high or higher than they have been for the last twenty or thirty years. Of course, we will have years of low prices, but within my knowledge these seasons do not come frequently. I cannot say as to what extent the success of last season's crop will tend to stimulate more planting, but I think that the farmers everywhere are inclined to plant more of the Standard apples, etc.

The Company has been successful in securing the services of an experienced and capable horticulturist, who, with an adequate staff will take entire charge of the plantation under the supervision of the directors.

In your issue of April 12th re Georgian Bay Fruit Growers' Company, Limited, where it reads 'shareholders receive from 25 to 30 per cent. as to variety above buyers' prices,' should have been 25 to 100 per cent., or in other words, netting from $4.00 to $5.00 per barrel clear of all expenses. Some of our apples sold as high as $6.00."

(The Canadian Horticulturist, August, 1906.)

There are possibilities for an immense development of our fruit trade with Great Britain.

Canadian fruit, as far as quality is concerned, when compared with the fruit from other countries, stands high in Great Britain. Properly handled, London alone could consume all the fruit Canada now is exporting.

SIR ROBERT HART.

His Work For China—More Than Once Has He Stood Between the Country and Ruin.

British interests in China [illegible] represents an investment of $150,000,000 are seriously alarmed at the result of the recent negotiations between the British and Chinese Governments, and the threatened retirement of Sir Robert Hart. The director of the Chinese Maritime Customs has informally announced that he is about to sever his connection with a service which he practically created nearly 50 years ago, and which has been the one sound, efficient department in the Chinese Empire ever since. More than once Sir Robert Hart and the Customs have stood between China and ruin or partition. They form the strongest surety China has ever been able to give to European nations for loans or investments. Now, however, the new Chinese spirit, born of the Russo-Japanese war, is illustrated in an edict that places two Chinamen, admittedly ignorant of Customs, at the head of the service.

The Viceroy's Plot.

That Sir Robert Hart would refuse to serve under these men was confidently expected, and his announcement should create no surprise in England or China, but that the British Government should have so quietly permitted the change has astonished and alarmed the moneyed interests referred to, as well as similar interests in France, Germany, and the United States, especially as the present regime of Customs administration has been guaranteed by treaty. Britain protested as soon as the announcement was made, but was assured that China had no intention of infringing the agreement, and that the appointment of two Chinese was merely meant to simplify administration, and would not supersede the present establishment, consisting of Sir Robert Hart and 1,500 Europeans. With this assurance the British Government has been content, but the action of Sir Robert Hart indicates that he interprets the appointment as a plot to reduce his importance, and transfer the real management of the Customs to Chinese hands. Nevertheless, a treaty provides that the Customs must remain under European direction until 1943, or during the currency of the loan floated in 1896. It would appear that the crafty Viceroy, Yuan-Shih-Kai, has evolved a plot that will technically obey the compact, but violate its spirit.

Money For the Army.

The Viceroy appears to be about the most forceful personality China has produced since Li Hung Chang, and has remarkable influence with the Yamen, though in some quarters it is thought that the influence is merely temporary. According to the Boston Transcript, his hobby is the new Chinese army—and he has succeeded, by all accounts, in manufacturing out of his raw material a remarkable force, well drilled, well equipped, lacking nothing except leaders. But Japanese instructors cost money, and batteries and rifles cost money, and even in China soldiers have to be fed and occasionally paid. Large sums have already been spent on this army, but the imperial revenues are inelastic, and the Viceroy seems to have found himself with an empty exchequer in prospect. The revenue secured by issuing debased copper coinage had been exhausted, and he naturally turned to what is certainly the most secure of all China's assets, her maritime Customs. Unfortunately for his purpose, the control of Sir Robert Hart made it difficult to reach those large incomings, which were earmarked for foreign interest and other services about which a Chinese reformer could not be expected to feel any great concern. It became important, therefore, to have officials in charge of the Customs who were in sympathy with army reform and with the needs of the reforming Viceroy. The new Administrator-General is the director of military reorganization. With such a man at the head of the department there was some hope that its vast Customs revenue would be available for military uses.

A North of Ireland Man.

Sir Robert Hart, known as one of the greatest Englishmen of the day, is a North of Ireland man by birth, and went to China in 1854 as student interpreter in the Consular Service after graduating at Queen's College, Belfast. In 1859 he was appointed Inspector of Customs at Canton. The appointment was one of the first results of the interference of Britain, France, and the United States, after the Taiping Rebellion had disorganized the existing Customs service. Two years later Mr. Hart was summoned to Pekin to confer with the authorities as to a reorganized service, and in 1863, when Mr. Lay resigned as director, Mr. Hart, although only 28 years old, was appointed to succeed him. Then he began his great life task of evolving European order out of Chinese chaos.

Growth of the Customs.

Under his management, the maritime Customs, in its inception a small and inferior affair, grew to be the greatest department in China and a model for the empire. The returns doubled and quadrupled. Eighteen new ports were opened to foreign trade. Dishonesty was abolished, and modern business methods introduced to cut down expenses and increase efficiency. For some time the Chinese Government refused to see the advantages of the system, as the money saved mostly went to pay foreign debts, but if to this day the mandarins have declined to profit by the illustrious example set them by Sir Robert Hart's administration, his personal abilities were soon recognized. For 30 years his advice has always been sought, and his assistance begged every time China has been in difficulties with the outside world.

A Chinaman at Heart.

In England and on the Continent his services have been properly recognized, but it has also been recognized that China has always held first place in his interests, and that his work has been for the Chinese. In 46 years he has only visited Europe twice, and since 1879 he has been no farther away from Pekin than Hong Kong. No Swiss mercenary ever gave foreign king more loyal service than Sir Robert Hart has given China, and now it would appear that ingratitude is to be his final reward.

Caesar's Calendar.

Caesar's reformation of the calendar was really made by Sosigenes, B. C. 46.

Pretty Naval Custom.

A pretty little custom is observed in the British navy whenever an officer gets married. Two wreaths are hoisted in the most conspicuous manner and interlaced with them and hanging from them are colored ribbons. These hang from 8 a. m. till sunset on the wedding day. The cost of the wreaths is generally subscribed by the officer's shipmates.

Uncle Rastus Tells Young Man How Game Is Played.

"What's poker?" echoed Uncle Rastus as he turned on the young man who had innocently asked the question. "Say, boy, you just percolate de consanguinity and don't neither fool around wid no game of poker. If it hadn't been for de game of poker I'd have had a brick house and fo'teen mewls to console my ole age."

"But how does dey play de game?" persisted the young man.

"How does dey? Well, sah, poker am played wid keerds. You deal out five and look mighty wise while you am doin' it. If you don't like what you git you frow 'em away and call for some mo'. Den you diskiber dat you has three aces in your hand, and your heart jumps right into your mouf. You has got $10 in your pocket, and you keerlessly observe dat you will bet it on your hand. De odder party am fool 'nuff to butt in. He sees you and goes ten better. You don't want to be rix out of de game, and you do want to take a fall outer dat man, and so you put up your watch, your dimun pin, your dawg, your mewl and your wheelbarrer. Dat odder chap am only bluffin', but you am dar to stay."

"How kin you tell dat he am only bluffin'?"

"You have what they calls a bunch. He sees you till dar am nuffin' mo' to put up on either side, and den you call his hand and start to rake in de pot."

"And sunthin' happens?"

Water In Coal Mines.

The water in coal mines is usually acid, and when it comes in contact with electric lines it forms salts of copper. These salts rapidly disintegrate the copper wire. They also interfere with the working of the insulators; hence it is necessary wherever electric wires are used in coal mines to keep them away from contact with water.

THEIR QUARRELS.

In 1906.
This couple quarreled in '06,
And this the reason why:
She wished a Viking bicycle,
And only Burns he'd buy.

In 1906.
Again this year they squabbled,
And now their troubles are:
She wants a Flier auto;
He buys a different car!

Again we'll hear them clash.
He'll buy an Arrow airship,
While she will want a Dash!

Another Matter.

At the end of a day's journey a traveler in the far west stopped for the night at a small farm. As he sat on the doorstep with his host a troop of children began playing about them.

"These children all yours?" inquired the traveler.

"Yes."

"How many?"

"Let's see," and the farmer hesitatingly began counting them up on his fingers.

Just then a flock of sheep came into view.

"Yours?" asked the traveler.

"Yes."

"How many?"

"Five hundred and sixty-three," was the instant response.—Cassell's Journal.

Evidence Against It.

"The Society Record printed some very flattering notes about me yesterday," began Miss Vane.

"Yes," replied Miss Chellus, "but wasn't it hateful of the editor to go and spoil it all the way he did?"

"Spoil it! Why, he said I was a beautiful belle of the younger set, and"—

"Yes, and then he put your picture right under it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Parthian Shot.

"I hear," said Mrs. Gaddie, "that your husband's got a job as superintendent of a cemetery and you're going there to live."

"Well?" replied Mrs. Naybor shortly.

"Well, I was thinking it would be an awful ghostly and creepy sort of neighborhood."

"Perhaps, but the neighborhood won't be prying into our business."—Philadelphia Press.

Sounded Familiar.

Jinks—Yes, the old farmer was telling about the fight between his two game roosters.

Binks—But why was old Colonel Bluecork so interested?

Jinks—Why, because the farmer said when the fight was over there was nothing left but two cocktails.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Equally Prideful.

"Hub! What do you know about war? Did you ever hurl yourself into the 'imminent, deadly breach' or 'seek the bubble reputation, even in the cannon's mouth?'"

"Well, no, not exactly—not to any noticeable extent. But I have taken home unexpected company to dinner."—Puck.

In the Air.

Farmer Greene (who has been knocked down by balloon anchor)—Gol dern 'em! I'll hev th' law on 'em! What's th' sheriff?

Farmer Brown—No use kicking, Josh! Them critters is above the law, I reckon!—Houston Post.

Sealing Wax.

Sealing wax in the present form was first noted in London in the middle of the sixteenth century. A sort of earth was used by the ancient Egyptians in sealing papers and documents. The Egyptians placed such earth on the horns of cattle and upon it stamped the seal of the priest. Thus were identified the cattle to be used in the sacrifices.

STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. WRIGHT.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I am delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. chair before the bright fire.

And then the excitement that had sustained her through the long journey subsided, now that it was over. There came a strong reaction, and she burst into a passion of tears; but not one thought was given to the loss of wealth or title; a commonplace woman might indeed have wept bitterly for the loss of these, but Laura Elmer could only weep for the greater bereavement of her heart.

"If he had been taken away from me by death, while I yet believed him to be true and noble, then, indeed, I could have borne it! I should have put on mourning, and lived through all my pilgrimage on earth a widowed maiden for his sake, waiting for that death which should reunite us in eternal love. But now! but now! he is lost to me forever, in time and in eternity."

She dropped her face once more upon her hands, and sobbed as though the very fountains of her life were breaking up.

Thus bitterly she wept, in her hour of weakness for the false-hearted traitor, caring nothing, knowing nothing of the true and noble heart who had secretly consecrated himself to her service, and who would gladly have shed his lifeblood, drop by drop, to have saved her from shedding tears.

Not long did her weakness last. She dashed the sparkling drops from her eyes, murmuring:

"I must not give way to sorrow for the past. I must struggle through my life. I must not murmur at misfortune, but rather thank Heaven for the blessings that are left. I have lost wealth, position and my false love; but I have left youth, health, intellect, and much acquired knowledge, with many accomplishments. These will always enable me to lead a useful life. How much more favored am I still than half my fellow-creatures! I will grieve no more, but rather show my gratitude to Heaven by a cheerful industry in the station in life which Providence has assigned me."

She arose, bathed her eyes and smoothed her hair, and resumed her seat just as Lizzie entered with the tea tray.

And after this slight refreshment, Laura Elmer dismissed her attendant and retired to bed. She could not sleep. The novelty of her position was enough to have disturbed her repose, but this was not all. Accustomed all her life to the luxurious stillness of Swinburne Castle, where her own delicious sleeping-room was blind to light and deaf to sound, she found the noise of the London streets a perfect antidote to sleep. All night long there was the sound of carriages coming and going, as late guests arrived and early ones departed. At length, when the day broke and all the rest of the world woke to life London became quiet.

Laura Elmer dropped asleep, and was visited by a singular dream or vision. First there was infused into her soul a delicious warmth and light, strengthening as soothing. She was again at Swinburne Castle. The beautiful and beloved home of her childhood and youth was bathed in the sunshine of a glorious summer's day. Many loving friends were around her, and by her side was one whose kingly countenance seemed strange, yet strangely familiar, and whom, in her dream, she loved with a passion as profound as it was elevated, as ardent as it was pure.

In his hand he held the coronet of her ancient house. This glittering diadem he placed upon her brow, saying:

"Hail, my beloved! once more Laura, Baroness Etheridge of Swinburne!"

With the fullness of joy that this diadem inspired she awoke, and the beautiful vision fled. The vision fled, but not its beneficent effect. Charmed, strengthened and elevated, she knew not wherefore, except through the influence of her dream, she arose and made her simple morning toilet—a plain, black bombazine dress, and black crape collar. Her rich and abundant black hair, worn in plain bands, was her only headdress. By the time she had completed her toilet, which, simple as it was, occupied her longer than usual, for she was quite unaccustomed to waiting upon herself, the [illegible] repast in the chamber ready, and to her "Come in," entered the little maid.

"Oh, I beg your pardon, ma'am, I thought you would want me to wait on you," said Lizzie, adding, "Breakfast is quite ready."

"Show me the way, then, child," said Miss Elmer.

The maid conducted our heroine to a small sitting room adjoining the schoolroom, where a table was laid for the morning meal.

"The young ladies and the governess take their meals here, ma'am, if you please."

"And where are the young ladies?"

"If you please, ma'am, Mrs Rachel will bring them directly."

And even as the maid spoke, a respectable, middle-aged matron entered, leading two dark-eyed little girls, of about ten and twelve years, by the hand, whom she presented to the governess as Miss Lester and Miss Lucy Lester, adding:

"Now, my dears, this lady is your teacher. You will be very good, and not plague her as much as you did Miss Primrose."

"But I hated Miss Primrose, nurse, and I shall hate this one, too; I know I shall," said the elder child.

"For shame, Miss Lester! Go and speak to your governess as a young lady should," said the nurse.

The children drew back, frowning and sulky; but Laura advanced toward them with outstretched hands, saying:

"I am very glad to see you, my dears, and I am sure you will like to stay with me."

Her voice was so sweet, and her look so gracious and benignant, that the children readily met her offered hands, and smiles broke through their sulky faces, like sunshine through the clouds.

The elder one looked up shyly into her face, and said:

"I am sorry that I said anything to offend you, ma'am; but Miss Primrose was such a plague! But I will please you."

"I hope so; and now shall we go to breakfast?" said Laura, leading the little girl to the table.

The nurse had left the schoolroom, and now returned, leading in a boy of about eleven years old, saying:

"I am a great boy to be in a lady's schoolroom, Miss Elmer; but you will find me not at all unmanageable."

"Of that I am quite sure," replied the governess.

The boy joined the circle at the breakfast table, where the children broke into a conversation, more remarkable for vivacity than for propriety.

Laura looked from one to another of her pupils, thinking within herself:

"Providence never intended me for a governess, for I feel not the slightest disposition toward curbing these children's fine spirits or checking their free conversation."

When breakfast was over, Miss Elmer took her pupils into the schoolroom and entered into a preliminary examination of their progress in their various studies. This occupied her the whole forenoon, and it was near two o'clock when a servant knocked at the door, and being admitted, brought the compliments of Lady Lester, with a request that Miss Elmer would come immediately to her ladyship's dressing room.

With a mournful smile given to the memory of the past, when as Baroness Etheridge she herself received dependents in her own dressing room, Laura Elmer arose and, attended by the footman who showed her the way, descended to the second floor, upon which was situated the private apartments of Lady Lester. Laura was shown into a spacious dressing-room, with hangings of blue satin, and otherwise splendidly furnished, the walls being adorned with the choicest paintings, and the niches filled with the rarest statues, all original or copies of old masters. Many bouquets of the rarest exotics diffused a rich fragrance through the air. In the midst of this room stood a large Psyche mirror, and before it, in the softest of easy chairs, reclined a fair, statuesque woman, arrayed in a graceful white dressing gown of Indian muslin. At her side stood a small rosewood table with a breakfast service of gold plate, upon which stood the remains of a dainty breakfast. At the back of her ladyship's

CANADIAN ON THE NILE.

A Bit of History That Adds Glory to Dominion of Canada.

"I have a friend, Lieut. Toogood of London, Eng.," said the reminiscent major, "who owes his life to a Canadian, whose name I do not recall."

Someone suggested that the major tell the story. And he did.

It was during the Soudan war, in 1884 or 1885, Lieut. Toogood was in charge of a boat load of soldiers, among whom was a Canadian member of the Nile Voyageurs. The Nile current was swift. The boat struck a rock, and everyone was in the water. Only the Canadian could swim. It was 300 yards to shore. The Canadian took command and carried everyone of the men in the boat to land, one at a time.

Some Arabs appeared and began to pepper the rescued ones with arrows and spears. Again the Canadian was in demand. He had the only revolver in the party, and he drove off the Arabs.

"Of course he was mentioned in dispatches," said the major, as he finished the tale, "but I have forgotten his name."

"Would you know it if you heard it?" he was asked.

"Certainly."

The questioner passed a silver disk over to the major, and the latter read, engraved on it, "Lieut. Toogood to W. J. H. Nourse, in memory of a critical moment."

"Billy" Nourse is the Canadian, and he can show the medals, one of which was planned on him by Queen Victoria herself. He was born in the central town of Whitby, not so many years ago, and is now superintendent of the Bradstreet Co., Worcester, Mass. He carries the disk, merely as a memory.

Here is a well-set-up chap, and examine into business the same pains that brought him to the top on the Nile. He has traveled much, and has observed closely. He is a charming conversationalist, and has made a name as an after-dinner speaker. Yet he is most modest and unassuming, and the story of Toogood is not of his telling.

At the Wrong Rock.

The other day some Toronto girls were at Burleigh Falls, Stony Lake, attracted by the news of Gow Rock, which has a couple of stone thrown above the cataract. Most of the Kawartha region frequenters have seen or heard of this peculiar granite formation which oscillates to and fro at the pressure of a hand. The fair maidens from the Queen City made a few inquiries at the falls, and (according to The Peterboro' Examiner), passed, on up towards the prospective point-seeker to see the teetering stone. After making single and double efforts in vain to tip the big monster by hand, off came all footwear, and some [illegible] sprinting was witnessed up and down the surface. Still the rock refused to budge, and that "perfectly awful" man, who has deceived them "so," came in for more than his share from the "unruly members." After gazing at their arduous antics for the period of half an hour, the "deceptive one," with a scarcely visible smile of humor lighting up his bearded face, hove in sight and explained that Stony Rock was on a different portion of the map. The girls saw their mistake, and a few strong pulls brought them to the desired spot, where their mission was easily performed. They had been trying to move a rock of over one hundred tons!

Gas Industry in Britain.

The gas industry in Britain, according to the Society of British Gas Industries, consists of 1,250 gas companies and local authorities and supplies 4,400,000 consumers. The London companies, i. e., city and suburban within the ten miles radius included in the foregoing have 845,000 consumers.

Cold Baths.

Cold baths in the morning are undoubtedly beneficial, but only to those persons who have sufficient vitality and nervous force to insure good reaction. Many persons who are greatly refreshed by their morning cold bath feel tired or languid two or three hours afterward. When this occurs they should leave the cold bath severely alone.

Fish Scales.

Fish scales can easily be removed by pouring hot water on the fish slowly until the scales curl, then scraping quickly. Wash in several waters, having the last cold and well salted so no slime will be left.

VERDICT WARRANTED.

Recent Judgment at Osgoode Hall of Importance to Employers.

A judgment of importance to employers has just been given at Osgoode Hall, on the Sawyer-Massey Co., of Hamilton, from the award of $2,000 to Daniel Allan, an employe who lost an eye while in their employ.

The action was tried at Hamilton by a jury, before Mr. Justice Mabee, and the defendants contended in the first place that there was no evidence of negligence to submit to a jury, and that the judge should have granted a non-suit. In the second place they maintained that there should be a new trial on the ground of excessive damages.

The court found that there was evidence for the jury, as it was clearly established that the work of clipping castings was attended with danger to the operatives, as well as to anyone in close proximity. There was evidence that plaintiff was hurt in this manner, and there was also evidence that the danger could be removed, or at least greatly reduced, by the erection of a screen. The jury were not asked specific questions, but the whole case was submitted to them, and while admitting that the evidence "might" have been warranted, a verdict for the defendants. There was evidence for the the issues to warrant a finding for the plaintiff, Allan.

The judgment quotes a decision of Lord Herschel to the effect that "It is quite clear that the contract between employer and employed imposes on the former the duty of taking reasonable care to provide proper appliances and to maintain them in a proper condition, and so to carry on his operations as not to subject those employed by him to unnecessary risks."

The court considered that it had been established that the Sawyer-Massey Co. did not take the necessary precautions for the safety of their employes.

As regards excessive damages the judgment explains that the rule is that a new trial shall not be granted unless the court is of the opinion that the amount is so large that no twelve men could reasonably have given it, or unless the court, without impeding perversity to the jury, comes to the conclusion, from the amount of the award and other circumstances, that the jury took into consideration matters that ought not to have been admitted, or that they applied a wrong measure of damage.

While in the present case the amount awarded is larger than is sometimes awarded for the loss of an eye the court cannot find from the amount or anything else on record in the case any reason to justify interference with the verdict. The court therefore dismisses the appeal with costs.

The judgment was delivered by Mr. Justice Teetzel and was concurred in by Chief Justice Mulock, [illegible], and Mr. Justice Magee.

Fish Candles.

In Alaska is found a kind of fish that makes a capital candle when it is dried. The tail of the fish is stuck into a crack of a wooden table to hold it upright and its nose is lighted. It gives a good, steady light of three candlepower and considerable heat and will burn for about three hours.

Rome.

Of all European cities Rome is that which has most frequently been in the hands of enemies. It has been entered or sacked more than forty times since 390 B. C.

Useless Territory.

No other empire in the world owns so much absolutely useless territory as the British. Banks Land, Prince Albert Land, Victoria and Baffin Land, with hundreds of other arctic islands and lands, are at present quite useless.

Must Be Sent Home.

Destitute Englishmen abroad can demand to be sent home. They apply to their consul, who gives notice accordingly to captains of ships about to sail.

Knighthood.

Knighthood was intended to serve as a mark of distinction for deeds of renown and merit. "Knight" properly signifies a person who for his virtue and martial prowess is raised from the rank of gentlemen into a higher class of dignity and honor.

Tobacco.

Tobacco was first grown for export in this country in 1616.

Bees as Embalmers.

When a snail blunders in among the bees they cannot kill him on account of the protection of his shell. So they embalm him alive. They cover him shell and all with snowy wax. He is a prisoner which death only releases.

PLAINT OF THE SIWASH

REASON WHY CHIEFS WILL SEEK TO SEE THE KING.

The White Man Has Broken Faith by Encroaching on the Indian Lands and the Tribesmen Want Redress—Chinook Address of Farewell Spoken by City Comptroller Gibson of Vancouver.

"Mayor Buscombe hiyu sic tum tum halo chaco wawa klahowya yaka Siwash tillicum. Yaka wawa nika wawa mike tighee. King Edward potlach konoway icta mika. Tighee yaka wawa klahowya, klahowya. Klapi tenas sun kopa cantin kopa mitlit klahee."

In these words Mr. Gibson, City Comptroller of Vancouver, wished bon voyage to the two Indian chiefs and their interpreter who are now on their way to London, England, their object being to see King Edward and "lay at the foot of the throne" their grievances against the white men, "who have taken away their lands and interfered with the fishing and hunting rights which their fathers enjoyed." A free translation of Mr. Gibson's Chinook address is:

"Mayor Buscombe's heart is grieved because he could not be at the station to say good-bye to his Siwash friends. He hoped King Edward would grant their wishes. He wished them a pleasant journey and a safe return in the big canoe to their own homes."

No Forked Tongue Has Joe.

The Indian chiefs hoped to reach London by the end of July. It was their intention to stop off at Kamloops where a big pow-wow was to be held, and where another chief may join them. If time permits they desire to wait on the Great White Chief Laurier at Ottawa. Chief Joe Capilano is the head of the deputation, and with him is Chief Charley of the famous fighting Cowichans. Chief Joe always speaks with a straight tongue, and he will not mince his language when he sees the King at Buckingham Palace. As King Edward cannot be expected to understand Chinook an interpreter, August, of the Coquitlam tribe, is with him and Chief Louis of Kamloops is expected to be of the party.

"I go to see the King in England," said Chief Joe as he was entraining. "I will speak to him of what his Indian subjects want. I will tell you when I come back what he says. I will shake his hand in loyalty for you. He is the King of the Indians and the whites. Under him all are one big family. When I see the King I will tell him that his subjects are all faithful in British Columbia. I will tell you all what the King says when I get back."

Picturesque at Any Rate.

"God Save the King" then struck up the Indian drum and fife band, which was at the station to play Chief Joe upon his way to the far city across the great ocean and the vast sea. A strange sight was presented at the station. Chief Joe was in kingly costume. A great fur hat of coonskin, nearly a foot high with the tail dangling down his back was as unnoticed by him as though it had been a panama, yet the day was the hottest thus far this summer. A woven reed blanket fell below his knees and almost put out of sight the ready-made white man's trousers.

The Whites Indicted.

"The whites are crowding us out, they are taking away our heritage." That is the burden of the address which the chiefs will present to the King. Missionaries have put the document in formal style so that it starts out thus: "May it please your Majesty. Perhaps we are among the most humble of your Majesty's subjects, yet we give place to none in our loyalty and devotion to your Majesty's person and to the British Crown. Our home is beyond the great Atlantic Ocean, beyond the great inland seas of Canada, beyond the vast wheat-growing prairies of Manitoba, beyond the majestic Rocky Mountains, away on the shores of the Pacific Ocean. We bring greetings to your Majesty from thousands of true and loyal hearts, which beat in unison beneath the red skins of our tribesmen, and it is because of our love to your Majesty, coupled with the desire to live in harmony with the white people who are filling up our country, that we appeal to your Majesty in person."

No Treaty Indians in B. C.

The address proceeds to point out that there are no treaty Indians in British Columbia, such as there are in other provinces of Canada. Here the Indian title has never been extinguished.

"Many years ago," it proceeds, "Sir James Douglas came to our country and told us he had been sent by her Majesty, the late Queen Victoria—whom we learned to love like a mother, and whom we continue to mourn. Sir James told us that large numbers of white people would come to our country and, in order to prevent trouble, he designated large tracts of land for our use and told us that if any white people encroached on those lands he would remove them, which he did, and that we should receive remuneration for other lands settled upon by the white people, but when we asked for anything we were refused. But when Sir James was no longer Governor whites settled upon our lands and titles were issued to them by the British Columbia Government."

Have No Pull.

The Indians naively add that, being without votes, they can get no redress, so they trust his Majesty's ear will be open to their cry. They point out that at one time the whites were glad to employ them, but now Chinese and Japanese take their places in the labor market.

"We know how to work as well as the white man," they say, "we have our families to keep as well as the white man, then why should we not have the same privileges as the white man?"

This is no doubt a reference to the lack of the franchise and perhaps to the fact that it is illegal for Indians to drink intoxicating liquors. The Indians ask the King to "send a good man, or some good men to British Columbia, who will see and hear and take back a report to your Majesty. We leave ourselves in your Majesty's hands and trust we may be able to return to our people with good news."

Quiet Observer.

"We are offering special inducements this season to purchasers of our machines," said the automobile manufacturer.

"So?" rejoined the quiet observer. "Have you built a hospital for them?"—Chicago News.

At Fault.

"You admit you were at fault in that investigation?"

"Greatly at fault," answered the trust magnate. "I see now where I could have taken far better precautions for concealment."—Washington Star.

A FORECAST FOR AUGUST.

St. Mary's Argus Has Clever Hit at Mr. Iri D. Hicks.

A good many of the country papers in Ontario make a feature of the weather forecasts of Mr. Iri D. Hicks, a United States weather prophet, and it is said that the farmers pay a good deal of attention to them. The Motherwell correspondent of The St. Mary's Argus has a happy hit at Mr. Hicks in this "Forecast for August":

"August first will begin this month. It will be composed of 31 days and a suitable number of nights, as made and provided by the Statutes of Ontario. August will begin business immediately on the expiration of July 31st. The 31 days may not be distinguished by anything very remarkable in the general management of the earth or sky; the planets being very quiet, many of them having gone on their holidays. No great convulsions in nature, or in the architecture of the world are expected—but might arrive by any mixed train. Any minor disturbances or convulsions likely to arise will be during the night, and will be traceable to over indulgence in green fruit. Inside information can be had from the victims. On the 4th two very important events will take place: The Perth Old Boys' Reunion will be held in Stratford and the moon will be full on that date. This is a happy coincidence. However, the moon will be on its last quarter on the 11th, and will probably have to get some money from the Old Boys. August will be short on Sundays, there being only 4. We hope this will not happen again, as some of the other months have five. Church collections and bank robberies will be about the same as next August. Murders and suicide will be regulated and governed very much by the temperature and the cost of living. Picnics will be numerous toward the middle and both ends of the month. Summer visitors will be plentiful and hard to discourage, as the spare room is much warmer than in winter. August will not work overtime, as it is the last of the summer season. Summer engagements will not be valid after the 31st. Locks of hair, diamonds and other tokens of affection should be returned not later than Sept. 1st, taken all through the month will be hot. Congregational meetings should be avoided as much as possible. It is generally conceded that one has more warm friends in August than in January."

Canada and South Africa.

Editorially discussing the proposed constitution of South Africa, The London Morning Post draws an analogy between Canada of seventy years ago and South Africa of to-day. It says that Lower Canada contained an overwhelming majority of French just as the Orange River Colony to-day is overwhelmingly Dutch. Upper Canada was British almost to a man and presents but a partial analogy to the Transvaal, where the margin in favor of the British is narrow at most.

As in the Transvaal to-day, so in Canada seventy years ago, the British were divided into two camps. In Canada the bureaucrats, who claimed the monopoly of colonial loyalty, favored the retention of representative Government merely as a device for the maintenance of British connection. These are compared by the joint authors of the articles to the progressive party in the Transvaal. On the other hand, to the reformers of Upper Canada are assigned much the same position as that occupied by the responsible Government party in its determination to win the way to constitutional freedom and were originally by no means averse to co-operation with the French in Lower Canada, just as the Responsible of the Transvaal to-day are reported to be a coalition with the Dutch in order to gain the objects from which their party takes its name.

Pointing to the success [illegible] Earl of Durham's policy, the writers of the race, The Morning Post says that Canada has developed a nationality richer and more vigorous than the admixture of the two races of French May we not hope that South Africa will develop a nationality of its own no less rich and vigorous.

He Felt "Out of Style."

The editor of The Hamilton Spectator paid a visit to Toronto the other day, and here is the result.

"We were rash enough to go down to the holy city in a $12 suit. We were not immediately 'run in,' but we should have been. Though men of such calibre are permitted on the streets, they are not encouraged, and we felt that we had best depart. We hoped that our persistent wearing would have covered the imperfections of the suit, but, alas! Toronto is a town that judges a bird by the feathers that it wears, and we regretted that we had not money enough to buy something more expensive. Our good wife warned us, but we took no heed, and, hence are perpetually disgraced, in spite of the fact that some of those whom we met said that we looked splendid, probably judging by a past knowledge of our appearance."

Heroic Remedies Required.

Dr. William Osler, apropos of heroic remedies, said:

"Uneducated persons have no faith in the subtleties of medicine — in tiny pills, in diet, in exercise. When they are ill, they want large, strong, black bitter doses. They want heroic measures to be applied to them.

"Thus, there was an English physician who sent some leeches to a patient, a miner.

"Calling the next day, the physician enquired, before starting upstairs for the sick room, if the leeches had arrived.

"The miner's wife, with a contemptuous laurh, replied:

"'Yes, sir; but what on earth be the use o' sendin' these little things for a great chap? I just took an' clapped a ferret on 'um.'"

Do You Seek Health?

Consult Dr. Hamilton And You Will Be Shown the Way.

Thousands are in the same boat — all sickly, bilious and feeling far from well.

Trouble is, the system is clogged with impurities which need to be cleared away.

Before downright sickness arrives you should cleanse and purify the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

At once you'll feel their mighty influence building up weak spots, clearing out disease, and putting you again on your feet.

These purely vegetable pills change your tired, worn-out condition to one of health and vigor, because they supply the body with nourishing blood that builds up and enlivens the entire system.

Mr. John Whitley, of Stanwood, P. O., Ont., knows the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and says: "I wouldn't be alive today had it not been for Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Last winter I was sick with grippe, and when spring came I was weak, bilious and rheumatic. I used enough medicine to cure twenty times, but I didn't get any help till I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They purified my blood, took the yellow color out of my face, put new tone in my stomach, and increased my appetite. The bilious attacks and rheumatic pains gradually departed, and Dr. Hamilton's Pills made a new man of me. I proved their merit, and proclaim them a medicine for all men."

If better health and prompt recovery are important, get Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut today. At all dealers, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Makes a Kick But Gets Even

Kicked Over Paying $2 Permit and Then Gets a 35 Pounder.

A rather funny fish story is that connected with a monster maskinonge caught near Wedlocks, on the Otonabee, on Friday, by a Miss Lyons of Rochester.

It seems that some days ago Miss Lyon applied to Fishery Overseer Dave Johnston for the necessary permit required by foreigners to fish in Canadian waters. Mr. Johnston informed her that $2 was the charge for such permit. She then expressed an opinion that this was excessive, and wanted to know whether if this $2 were paid she would be guaranteed to get some fish. After this matter was explained to the contrary, the lady paid her money and went fishing.

As above noted, the record fish of many years, was caught on Friday evening by Miss Lyons, who is summering near Wedlock's. She was out in a boat accompanied by a couple of other persons, among them, Mr. John Brightman, of Peterborough. It was a desperate struggle to land the prize and the boat was almost capsized. The lunge weighs 35 pounds is nearly four feet long.

Local Man Buys an Advertisement

After Mr. Brooks' sale by auction on the Market Square Saturday morning of the few small articles left in the defunct Palace Hotel, some of his friends adjourned to the Pompeii like and empty hotel. Here only a few pictures, hanging on the walls were left to tell of by gone splendor. A local liveryman for a good big sum purchased a few of Mr. Brooks' high-class sporting pictures. At the east end of the bar hung a mirror about 7x5 feet, in an oak frame about eight inches in width. This large mirror is almost completely covered by gilt and colored letters displaying the ads. of a Montreal cigar firm. The liveryman confidentially remarked to a friend, "There's a splendid plate glass mirror. I believe one could take and scrape those letters off the glass and have an expensive mirror." Going up to Mr. Brooks, he said, "Say Mac, will you take for that old cigar ad. sign, Mr Brooks?" "Oh," replied the latter, "Give me $5 and it's yours." The V was handed over, a step ladder obtained, and by the aid of three or four friends the purchaser got his mirror down. He at once took out his pen knife, and tried how hard the lettering stuck to the glass. Alas and alack: the letters were on the inside of the plate glass and part and parcel of the silvering of the mirror and quite impossible of removal. The cigars were on the liveryman.

"Mac" 445 George St. In Business

One of the recent important business changes made in this city, is that whereby the X.L. Tailors have sold out to Mac (Mr. M. B McLean). The former firm have done a good and rapidly increasing business and under the new regime this stand will doubtless increase its business by leaps and bounds.

Mr. McLean is an experienced man in his line and is a bright and energetic young business man, whose principle is to make money by helping his customers to go away satisfied.

Mr. McLean has had a wide experience covering business done by him in New York, Port Arthur, Winnipeg and Sault Ste. Marie. "Mac" will make a specialty of clothes pressing "whilst you sleep or at any old time." He will soon place a dog team on the route which will make an attractive advertisement. Mac's adv. will appear in these columns tomorrow, and will enable our readers to know when to get new clothes or old clothes made new.

Scotchmen Prepares for the Sawbath.

A funny sight was seen on Charlotte street Saturday evening about 5.30 when two Scotchmen, with accents as broad as the Atlantic, were walking west. One of them with a goodly sized keg of beer on his back. Every half block he would shift the burden to the shoulders of his companion. As they passed the Empire Agency on Charlotte street, one of them was heard to say: "Aye Bobby its gey heavy but, oh, mon, we'll enjoy the Sawbath, the morn."

Last Drink in Palace Hotel

As our readers are aware, one of the oldest places where wet goods were sold in Peterborough, viz. the Palace Hotel, which site has been used for over 35 years as a licensed place for the sale of liquor, was closed up, as far as this business is concerned on Aug. 1st.

On Saturday Mr. J. M Brooks, the recent proprietor had an auction sale of the last odds and ends from his place, the furniture, fixtures, liquors having been removed some days ago.

After Saturday's auction sale was over, a few of Mr. Brooks' friends were looking about the dismantled saloon. Whilst ganoing over some old bar-readers' jackets, empty bottles, etc., a full, and fat, bottle of Guiness Dublin stout, was discovered by the eagle eye of one of hosepresent. By the aid of that ubiquitous article, produced from several pockets, a corkscrew, and a solitary glass discovered on a shelf, the porter quickly went into committee of the whole, all present drinking a small portion to the shades of a dead business.

Harvesters? Attention.

They are getting very busy in the North-West and Manitoba. They need your help. Good wages offering. A special train will leave Peterborough via Canadian Pacific at 10.15 a.m. on Wednesday, August 22nd. Tickets for going trip $12.00, for return trip $12.00 additional. For further information and tickets consult W. Mellroy, City Passenger Agent, 343 George street.

Still Another Site Suggested

Inspector Coyle Brown Gives The Times His Views re Normal School.

On Saturday he appended suggestions were made The Times, re suitable site for the coming Normal school. Mr. Brown wrote as follows:

Close up Dublin street east of Harvey street, to the water. Close up Waterford street from a point midway between London and Dublin Sts. north to the water. The Dickson Company own the three parcels of surrounding lands, on two of which are frame buildings easy of removal. These five parcels embrace somewhat more than three acres, one and a half blocks from the General school grounds. No better or more beautiful site for a Normal school can be found in the city.

To Prove Hell by a Chart.

Last night quite a large number gathered of the corner of George and Simcoe streets, to listen to an elderly gentleman, with a pronounced English accent, a "Second Adventist." The old gentleman mounted on a chair and holding in his hand an illustrated chart, held on a pole some twelve feet long, harangued those present as to the terrible future in store for evil doers. He noted, that whilst he was in Philadelphia some celebrated American D.D. in the Howard street theater, denied that there will be a hell, filled with torture for those who have done wrong, and maintained that hell was in the grave. The speaker of last night proposes on Tuesday evening, by means of argument, augmented by charts to prove that hell is the real thing as taught by our forefathers and a place of torture for eternity.

CHARLES DRINKWATER, Secretary.
Montreal, 13th August, 1906.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associate organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the body relies for its strength. And as the body, considered as a whole, is made up of its several members and organs, so the weakness of the body as a consequence of "weak" stomach will be distributed among the organs which compose the body. If the body is weak because it is ill-nourished that physical weakness will be found in all the organs—heart, liver, kidneys, etc. The liver will be torpid and inactive, giving rise to biliousness, loss of appetite, weak nerves, feeble or irregular action of heart, palpitation, dizziness, headache, backache and kindred disturbances and weaknesses.

Mr. Louis Pare of Quebec, writes: "For years after my health began to fail, my head grew dizzy, eyes pained me, and my stomach was sore all the time, while everything I would eat would seem to lie heavy like lead on my stomach. The doctors claimed that it was sympathetic trouble due to dyspepsia, and prescribed for me, and although I took their powders regularly yet I felt no better. My wife advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and stop taking the doctor's medicine. She bought me a bottle and we soon found that I began to improve, so I kept up the treatment. I took on flesh, my stomach became normal, the digestive organs worked perfectly, and I soon began to look like a different person. I can never cease to be grateful for what your medicine has done for me and I certainly give it highest praise."

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

To gain knowledge of your own body—in sickness and health—send for the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A book of 1008 pages. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Copeland Speaks to Woodmen

At the regular meeting of Sherwood Forest Camp, Woodmen of the World, held Friday night, Mr. R. Copeland, of Millbrook, the new district organizer, was present, and assisted in the ceremony of installing half a dozen new members into the Order.

Mr. Copeland is on his first round, having only lately became connected with the Order. He was formerly attached to the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Local Vet Wants to Get Even.

A local Vet. was yesterday heard to make a kick over what he considered an extortionate sum for three glasses of a mixed drink, that is a combination of future exhilaration and pain under one's panafore. He said to his companions, "I wish that man's horse would get sick and I'll bet my bill would make him sicker afterwards."

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

TODD TAKES THE DECEASED'S COIN

Sensational Evidence at Inquest Held on Death of the Late Mr. A. N. Randlett Last Night.

Last night in the City Council chamber, the adjourned inquest was held on the late Arthur N. Randlett, who died, as alleged under treatment by a Mr. Todd, a Christian Scientist, who acknowledged he charged for his Christian services. The deceased, it will be remembered died from the effects of typhoid fever in Todd's private residence.

Dr. Gray, coroner, presided over the meeting and the jury, as given in a former issue tried the case. Mr. R. E. Wood was present in the interests of the Crown.

Dr. Boucher, first witness, said he had made an autopsy on the body of Randlett, 15 hours after death. Deceased said there were evident signs of hemmorhage of the bowels. Most of the vital organs were healthy. The ilium was considerably congested. The spleen was very much congested and of extra weight. Judging by the post-mortem examination he was of the opinion that the deceased died of hemmorhage of the bowels consequent upon typhoid fever. He and Dr. Marshall made the autopsy. It was a severe attack of the disease. His chances of recovery under proper treatment would have been good, this from the symptoms found. There is such a disease as ambulatory or walking typhoid.

Mr. R. J. Todd here broke in, saying he had been instructed he could ask any question he wanted. He then asked whether the witness had ever heard any disturbance about Todd's house. The doctor replied, "No." To Mr. Todd, witness said, I knew you by sight but nothing more. You go on and treat people that are sick in your own particular way until they are dying, and then you go to a doctor to call him in at the last moment."

Mr. Todd asked, "Had I called you an hour, two hours before death, could you have saved him?" "No, it was left too late," replied the witness.

Mr. Todd then went on to ask a number of childish questions, as to the virtues of materia medica, in fact displayed every sign of lack of sense as viewed by those believing in the present system of curing the sick by medicine and proper treatment.

Mr. Wood here called Mr. Todd down for saying he had the will of the case from a book he had with him.

Mr. Wood said, "You have consulted a lawyer and made money out of this case, why do you consider that what you are reading is evidence?"

Mr. Todd then went on in a rambling way to make unfounded statements.

Dr. Marshall's report of the autopsy was then read and practically corroborated that of Dr. Boucher. He said deceased would have lived with proper treatment. He never heard of any disturbance round Todd's house and saw no marks of foul play.

To Mr. Wood, he agreed fully with what Dr. Boucher said.

Mr. Todd was then called by Mr. Wood. As to his occupation before going into Christian Science, he was in the blacksmithing trade, and followed this until 1890, when he went into Christian Science.

"What preparation did you have?" asked Mr. Wood.

Mr. Todd said, "I had 12 days' sessions with prayers and I was thus prepared to treat typhoid fever." I took a case up half an hour after I got through and cured it.

Mr. Wood—Were you hired to treat such a case as that of the deceased?

The witness would not answer yes or no, but simply said, "I have the best form of treatment in the world."

Here the witness with a dramatic movement, by jerking up his coat said, "I will not answer your questions. Lock me up right now, I am ready."

Continuing, part of his treatment is from Mrs. Eddy's book, and part from the Bible.

The same answers to such questions, as asked, are ready for all cases.

Mr. Wood—Is it true as you said the other day that the deceased owed you $15 for treatment and accommodation?"

To this the witness would not give a direct answer at first, but on further questioning, said he had only got $5 from the deceased. Did not get $13 from him at the National Hotel. He got $40 out of the man's pocket after he was dead. There was only some change in the deceased's pocket book after he had been through it. He did not look through the pocket book previous to the deceased's death.

Mr. Wood, "Would you treat another patient the same way tomorrow?"

"Yes," Witness went on to say he could treat five or six patients a week.

Here the coroner told witness he would find out later that taking the money out of the dead man's pockets would likely give him trouble later on. He said deceased told him before death to take the money.

In reply to a question by a juror he has not been at the hospital since Mrs. Hanna has been there. Here Todd got excited, and said "You might as well have arrested me at once. Here the coroner said, "We have been trying to get the truth out of you, but cannot get it.

Mrs. Todd then went on the witness stand.

She knew that Randlett died at her husband's house last Thursday. Deceased got no nursing but what Todd gave him. She did nothing for him. He got no medicine. For nourishment deceased got milk and once a cup of tea. She got none of the pills taken from the deceased. She knew her husband had deceased's watch, she first saw it on his bed. Her husband took the deceased's watch out whilst the corpse was in the room. She told the police she did not know anything about the watch. She had seen it in her husband's hand. Her husband told her he had taken $40. Her husband has a tenant in the north part of their house. Todd gave this tenant notice to leave before the deceased died.

Mr. Engle, clerk at the National Hotel, saw Todd several times at the hotel. He came there nearly every day whilst deceased was there. He cashed a cheque for deceased for $35. Deceased paid him $13.50 for a note, bill, deceased still had a quantity of money, in large bills. He, witness would have given personally $100 for the roll of bills deceased had when he went to Todd's house.

The inquest then adjourned.

The coroner, Dr. Gray, was not at all satisfied with the evidence produced, and states that he will carry the inquiry to the fullest extent, in the interests of humanity. He will communicate with the O. C. Ayer's Co. Lowell, Mass., in connection with this case.

Oil is King for Investors

Buy Oil Stocks the Safest, Surest and Most Lucrative of Stocks.

We would call special attention to an advertisement which appears in this issue, of the Great Western Oil Refinery and Pipe Line Co. which shipped in one day, the third week of July, 15 car loads of refined oil and by-products and also received an order the last week of July from one party for 20 car loads and on another day the last of July, received orders for 42 car loads of refined oil and by-products.

This is a most encouraging business for a lucky industry and one which must appeal to all conservative investors seeking a lucrative channel wherein to place their funds.

Perhaps the best recommendation that can be given of the above company's integrity and standing is that contained in the following letter which speaks for itself;

The Allen State Bank,
Erie, Kans., July 3rd, 1906.

T. D Greenwell, cashier Citizens State Bank, Okeene, Okla.

In answer to your inquiry of the 2nd inst., would say, par value of Great Western Refinery stock is $1.00 per share, selling at 60 cents. That is the company's price and I don't know of any that can be bought for less.

The people here have the greatest confidence in this company and its officers. They have one of the best built, best equipped refineries anywhere in the west. Our State inspector says it is by far the best refinery in the State and turns out the finest products. It has a capacity of 2100 barrels daily and they are doubling their capacity.

We are writing you our honest opinion and entirely unbiased, as we are not interested in any way in the company.

As to our making loans to the company, we would be glad to loan them all the law would allow us to loan and then some, and consider it a safe loan. But I don't think they are in debt a dollar, and from the way they are selling their finished product, I am afraid it will be a long time before we are able to loan them anything.

Yours,
G. H. COFFMAN, Pres.

With such an endorsation those of our readers who want a lucrative and safe investment should secure stock at 25 cents per share, although quoted in the above letter at 50 cents per share, however this snap can only be secured for a limited time from Messrs. Wm. Fife & Co., fiscal agents, suite 511, Mack Building, Denver, Col.

BOWLERS ARE PLEASED

Nothing Can Exceed Canadian Hospitality, Writes One of Them.

London, Aug. 20.—The Dundee Advertiser has a letter from Peter Campbell, member of the British bowling team, from Toronto, saying the team received the most kindly and enthusiastic reception on its arrival at Montreal. "So far as we have gone, nothing could exceed the kindness and cordiality of our reception everywhere. All the Canadian bowling greens suffered much from want of snow to protect them from the frost hence all are unusually blotchy and generally in bad order, but everything that could be done to mend them has been done.

"The Canadian style of bowling is very like our own, only not so all-mannered as ours by running up to the jack after each ball. The pavilions are not nearly so commodious as ours. Mr. Campbell thinks something will be learned on both sides."

JAPAN ENTERS A NEW ERA

Purpose of Empire to Nationalize Commerce of World-Wide Significance

BACKS TRAFFIC OF NATION

Government is to Extend Control to All Lines in Its Campaign of Expansion.

Washington, August 21.—Japan and Manchuria again are demanding the attention of the world. The last time such was the case hostile armies occupied the Manchurian field and the geography of Asia was involved in the struggle. Now—and the irony of fate shows Russia apparently on the eve of civil war that may result in its dissolution, while its recent conqueror, filled with new life, is entering upon an era of commercial activity of almost staggering intensity—the interest in battle and bloodshed has changed to concern over the world's commerce.

Behind the brief report regarding progress in the Japanese scheme of nationalizing its industries there is a story that will more and more stir the economists and the statesmen of Christendom as it is unfolded.

To the world generally, who have an intense commercial interest in the "new Orient," the true inwardness of what has been going on in little old Japan since the peace of Portsmouth, has not been grasped at all. Japan, however, is at this minute putting into effect probably the most astounding industrial policy ever undertaken by any government on the globe. Government ownership, preceded by none of the years of agitation such as has attended the subject elsewhere, seems about to attain the climax of that idea. And the experiment is likely to have a mighty influence on the world at large, which for decades has been confronted with socialistic problems involving the same general principle.

In Japan, a nation that within the memory of men still living, was an isolated, commercially speaking, as the sacred fastnesses of Thibet are today, about to lead the other countries of the world in the great trade competition and revolutionize business by forcing it to a governmental basis? This is the broad economic question that has arisen.

What will be the effect of this unprecedented policy of a recognized world power upon the commerce of the United States? Is the question of more immediate practical interest to Americans, who have been dreaming of the great possibilities connected with the opening of the markets of the far East.

In the language of Consul General Henry H. Miller, of Yokohama, who has given the United States government practically all the information it has obtained regarding the movement across the Pacific, Japan is undertaking one of the greatest experiments in the world's history in the relations between government and industry. Consul General Miller is one of the most far seeing of our representatives abroad and the warning he sounds to American manufacturers and merchants is worthy of particular attention.

"If Japan be successful along the lines she is now working," says Mr. Miller, "the individuals and corporations of America that are striving for the trade of the Orient will discover that they are not competing for this trade against individuals and corporations of Japan, but that they are in commercial conflict with the Japanese nation. I am convinced that this is the condition to which American manufacturers and merchants must look forward and be prepared to meet."

Japan began to inaugurate a new commercial policy as a world power almost before its cannon had cooled. It emerged from its war with Russia with a vast area of new territory, and this acquisition has furnished in large measure the means of going ahead to secure prestige in the realms of peace. Manchuria will be a feeder of raw material for the mills and factories soon to dot the cities and towns of its possessions.

Japan first decided to nationalize its railroads. Not long afterward it became known that Japanese shipping interests were getting options on the great Pacific steamship lines, including those owned in America, and this, in connection with the aid extended through subsidies by the Japanese government on a tremendous scale, led to fears in other quarters of the globe for the commerce, not only of the Orient but of the entire Pacific. Already Japan has established lines between its own ports and the western coast of South America.

Now attention is called by Consul General Miller to the fact that Japan is about to launch out into a new form of government interest—the management and direction of industry.

Rev. S. S. Burns is Now for Lakefield

Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's church, representing Peterborough Presbytery, and Messrs. Robert Graham and A. Fairburn of the Lakefield Presbyterians, attended a special meeting of the Kingston Presbytery held in St. Andrew's church Belleville, last Friday, when the call from Lakefield Presbyterian church to the Rev. S. S. Burns, B. A., of Stirling, was considered.

A large delegation from Stirling and West Huntingdon was present to oppose the translation of their minister.

The call was accepted by Mr. Burns, and his term as pastor of Stirling congregation will terminate August 30 h.

The members of the Kingston Presbytery expressed their regrets at Mr. Burn's removal.

The moderator, Rev. James Binnie, spoke of the brotherly feeling that existed between him and his co-Presbyters, and he felt that his going would be a distinct loss to him personally, as well as to the Presbytery of Kingston.

A committee was appointed to draft a suitable minute to be engrossed in the Presbytery records, relative to the high regard in which Mr. Burns was held.

His installation as pastor of Lakefield will take place on Thursday, Sept. 6 h, at 2.30 p.m., when the Presbytery of Peterborough will convene for that purpose.

Get Your Money Down in Time

Stock of The Little Salmon Gold Mining Co. Advances September 1st.

Those seeking a lucrative and well assured investment would do well to carefully consider the advertisement of the Little Salmon Gold Mining Co., organized under the laws of the State of Arizona, contained in this issue of The Times. The Little Salmon Mine is one of the most promising and well authenticated on the continent. Not only has this property got 500,000 tons of gold bearing ore in sight, but it has the water, timber, and all required accessories right on the spot and available. Their transportation facilities are of the best, thus tending towards future and large dividends. The mine is no chance proposition but is already well developed.

The ore assays from $12 to $16 per ton of free milling ore, and can be turned into solid gold at a cost of about $2.60 per ton. With such a record there is nothing to cause any hesitation over securing stock at once. Their stock with a par value of $1 per share is now offered at forty cents per share. The price of this stock is now 40 cents, as noted, per share, but will on 1st of September be advanced to 50 cents per share. Here alone is an opportunity for investment; still the point is to buy now, shares at 40 cents which will, in all probability be worth $3 to $5 per share within a year.

For full particulars address Henry J. Mitchell, fiscal agent, 32 and 33 St. Paul Building, Cincinnati, O.

HIS INCOME WAS $125 AN HOUR

Disclosures in Investigation into Institute of Radiopathy---The Owner Remanded---Had Similar Business in Rochester.

Toronto, Aug. 21 — "Professor" Guilliame A. Mann, the discoverer and exploiter of Radiopathy, has been making money for the last four months at the rate of $125 an hour, $3,000 a day, $75,000 a month, or nearly a million a year out of ignorant people in Europe and America.

At that rate it wouldn't take the "Professor" long to become a millionaire. As it is, he has a $500,000 mansion in Rochester.

The "Professor" volunteered information that he was 49 years old, born in Paris, and had never studied medicine. It all came to him by inspiration he affirmed.

Mann appeared in the police court before Colonel Denison yesterday morning, and was remanded till next Monday.

"G. A. Mann, you are charged with vagrancy."

A plea of not guilty was entered on that charge.

"You are also charged with using the mails for the purpose of defrauding. What is your plea?"

Ex-Crown Attorney Curry, appearing for the defendan, decided neither to elect nor plead, but announced their readiness to proceed.

"You don't say whether you're guilty till you hear the evidence: is that it?"

"No, we know whether we're guilty or not."

The Crown Attorney wanted a week's postponement, and it was granted.

Mann was released on $1,000 bail on the vagrancy charge, and $500 of his own—cash bail—on the second charge.

"Will my learned friend permit me to have a look at the search warrant?" asked Mr. Curry.

"Be-e-e-lighted," said Mr. Corley with his Roosevelt smile.

Car Fender Saves a Life

Arthur Elliott Knocked Down and Bruised by Street Car.

Yesterday morning as Mr. Arthur Elliott, a shipping clerk at the C.G.E. Works, was on his way to work, he was knocked down by Car No. 17 at the corner of Reid and Park sts., and shaken up.

The young man was crossing the street and did not see or hear the approach of the car, although the motorman rang the bell several times. Mr. Elliott was shown some ten or twelve feet before the car was brought to a standstill. He was rolled over two or three times and then the fender threw him to one side. He was taken to his home on Dopera' alley. It was found that Mr. Elliott, while badly bruised and shaken up, had no bones broken, and he is expected to be around in a few days. He desires to thank the motorman and conductor for their kind attention and does not attribute any blame to them for the mishap.

Another Auto-Bus Accident

It seems that by some undesigned coincidence the Milburn family of Smith township, are fated to meet trouble by the advance of modern methods.

It will be remembered that a short time ago, a member of this esteemed Smith-town family was thrown out of a buggy by her horse taking fright at the auto-bus plying between

Yesterday morning on the Chemong this city and Chemong.

Near Milburn's school house a very serious accident was narrowly averted, when Miss Unice Milburn of Smith township, employed at the Ontario Bank, and two other ladies, were thrown from a buggy, their horse taking fright at an automobile. It appears that Miss Milburn was driving to the city, when she suddenly noticed the automobile coming along behind. Miss Milburn turned her horse off the road into a neighbor's gateway to allow the car to pass. The horse, on catching sight of the auto, bolted through the gate, which was only partially opened. The buggy got caught in the gate and was held fast. The horse broke the harness and got away. Miss Milburn was thrown to the ground rather severely and had her limbs bruised.

British Employers Forced to Combine

In Order to Combat the Agressive Policy of Labor Unions.

London, August 21.—The activity of the Labor party and the extraordinary representation and influence it has secured in the present Parliament are apparently the inciting cause of a movement on the part of British manufacturers to combine to protect their interests. A provisional committee has been chosen, consisting of well known manufacturers of diverse kinds, who are said to represent many million pounds of invested capital. The name suggested for the organization is the Manufacturers' Association of Great Britain. Its principal objects are thus summarized:

"To represent to the government and the country the principles, aims and needs of manufacturers; to bring about closer relations between employers and employees; to deal with matters of common interest affecting manufacturers, such as legislation, taxation, rates, etc.; to deal with matters of international interest, such as tariffs, trusts, etc. It is believed that relations between employers and employees will be greatly improved if an attempt be made to show that certain conditions of trade must affect both in similar proportion, that increased prices mean increased wages, that increased competition must lower prices and wages, and that bad trade must bring reduced employment. It is felt that the time has come when workmen should be instructed in the economies of production, in questions affecting organization, management of factories, the effect of tariffs and unlimited competition. The relative importance which manufacture bears to the prosperity of the country should also be more generally appreciated, and an effort will be made to show that its encouragement will help more than any other agency in solving our greatest national problem, namely, unemployment. A fundamental principle of the association will be that party politics in every form shall be rigidly excluded."

PALE AND ANXIOUS

Your Countenance Indicates the Body's Awful Struggle for Health

Impossible to work or think clearly when there is no reserve of vigor, no nourishment in the blood, no supply of nerve energy.

The life of the half-sick man is pitiful, in fact, almost criminal, when bounding strength is so quickly derived from Ferrozone.

This nutritive tonic is guaranteed to strengthen all men, women and children. Weak organs get new force, vital energy is generated. Muscle and fat are added, healthy color is restored, and the blood fairly tingles with new-found life.

Read the evidence of Jno. Carter, of 624 King St. East, Toronto, who says:

"After a severe attack of Grippe my health was almost shattered. I suffered constantly from nervousness and dyspepsia. At night I would waken with terrible palpitation and heart pains. Work became a great effort. At ten in the morning I was so tired and weak I could hardly work another minute.

"Then came a bad attack of rheumatism, which laid me up in bed. I could scarcely lift the weight of a pound, and to stoop or bend was impossible. My druggist recommended Ferrozone, and he knew what he was talking about, for it rebuilt my strength, gave me abundant appetite, better blood, and new nerve energy. The rheumatism has disappeared. I weigh more, feel refreshed and vigorous, and am able to work ten hours a day. Ferrozone did it all."

You will be steadied, toned and strengthened for all time to come with Ferrozone. Get the genuine in 50c boxes or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

CUT OUT DYSPEPSIA

The very latest alleged triumph of surgery is the cure of chronic dyspepsia with the aid of the knife. Dr. Louis Frank, professor of abdominal surgery in the medical department of Kentucky University, holds that in the vast majority of cases it can be cured with the surgeon's knife. Furthermore, he boldly states that in nearly every instance where man or woman suffers from chronic dyspepsia the knife is the only sure and radical cure. Dr Frank, in a communication to the American Journal of the Medical Sciences, pictures the pitiable condition of the chronic dyspeptic, going on daily from bad to worse, submitting to the necessity of taking nourishment with dread of the consequent tortures that will ensue, forced finally to reduce his ailment to liquids, and not even then finding escape from pain and suffering. In such a case, he says, life is misery. Medicine, he points out, seldom produces cure or even alleviation of the tortures of the disease. And this is but natural, he asserts, as the cause, in almost all cases, is one that medicine cannot reach. This cause is pronounced to be gastric ulcer. It is estimated by Dr. Robson, he says, that from five to ten per cent. of the community suffer from this affliction. And for it there is but one remedy—the surgeon's knife, the operation of gastroenterostomy. All protracted gastric or intestinal disturbances are due, Dr. Frank asserts, to organic causes, and are absolutely never functional. Consequently there is no hope of finding relief in medicine alone. When there is any question as to diagnosis, he urges, the exploratory incision should be freely resorted to as a legitimate and accredited operation. Then, if it is found—and he claims that it will be almost invariably so found—that the trouble is caused by gastric ulcer, the remedy is plain, and the surgeon's knife readily supplies it. The result, it is assured, is a complete and radical cure, with a restoration to the sufferer of that enjoyment of life of which he has been so long deprived. As to the operation itself, Dr. Frank cites the records of recent surgery to prove the ease and safety with which it is performed in almost every instance where recourse to it has been had.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP FAD

A generation ago the Canadian citizen who did not think Canada the best place on earth to live in, the government the best form of government ever devised, and the administration of justice in Canada better than in any other country, was a very lonely citizen. To day the country is not exactly full of cranks who think there is little or nothing right in this country, but the number of people afflicted with this mental strabismus is entirely too numerous.

The latest development of this disease is the number of half-baked economists who think public ownership of almost everything in the way of utilities and industries, would be the immediate dawn of the millennium. These doctrinaires are all the time pointing to what they dream to be facts elsewhere. In certain corners of the globe they tell us, when they become half awake from their dreaming, that this public ownership is working with marvelous satisfaction here, there, and yonder.

Glasgow is one of the municipalities which is the Mecca of these dreamers' thoughts. Now here is a fact and not a dream. Glasgow spent over a million dollars upon a municipal telephone plant for the people of that city, and now they have had to sell the business at a loss of $200,000. The plant was established six years ago. The new buyers have found it necessary to put in $500,000 more capital to make the public ownership plant work.

The fact is there are more failures in this public ownership than success.

Mouldy Butter From Canada

Numerous Complaints About Shipments to the English Market.

London, Aug. 19—Weddell and Company's Colonial Dairy Produce Review comparing a year ago with the year ending 30th June, says that during the past season there were numerous complaints about the condition in which a large quantity of Canadian butter arrived in this country. The boxes, style of packing, quality of parchmen, paper, and general appearance of the Australian butter was much in advance of the Canadian. The mouldy butter so common from Canada is unknown in the shipments from the Southern colonies. The defects are solely due to the absence of case organization, which prevail in Australia and New Zealand. The season now in progress shows a distinct improvement in the quality of packing and freedom from mold.

The quality of Canadian cheese has not only fully maintained its former reputation, but on the whole was improved. The competitive struggles between a few large firms for the monopoly of the Canadian cheese business last year had considerable effect in artificially raising the price.

New amalgamations which have recently taken place among the larger cheese operators will most certainly increase in severity the struggles to obtain control of the Canadian cheese market. It is very probable that the profits to be made during the coming season will not be the greatest object for which this conflict will be carried on. The price of cheese for the past year has been so extraordinarily high that it is quite possible under the above-mentioned competitive condition and increased consumptive demand owing to the Chicago meat scandals, that the coming year will see decidedly higher values reached.

ABLE TO MAKE STATEMENT

Owen Sound, Aug. 19—Miss Jones, the young lady who suffered from a vicious assault one week ago, has recovered her senses, although she is yet in a critical condition.

It is generally understood that she has made some statement concerning the identity of her assailant, but the police have decided to divulge nothing with reference to the case.

On Saturday morning Acting Deputy Attorney-General Dymond sent one of the detective staff to take her deposition.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Dominion Orchard Company has been organized for the purpose of developing and making latent resources for earning money. For growing high grade apples for home and export. There is no other agricultural outlook more promising than apple orcharding. Unlike other fruits, our hard winter apples can be sent as far as grain to distant countries. Unlike grain, however, no other country can grow such apples as we can. This natural industry has never been undertaken in Canada on a business basis. The past and present method is for the individual planter to grow in a small quantity, have his fruit picked, packed and shipped by middlemen, and still make a large profit for himself, allowing nature's elements to do the work.

The Apple Business

Products of the Canadian apple orchards are attracting world-wide attention, and the prospects of the industry in the favored localities of the Dominion are limitless. The demand in Great Britain has never been met, and we have numerous inquiries from France, Germany, and also from the Northwest Provinces as they become settled up. Quebec is the home of the best varieties grown; hard, sound, high-colored apples that bring the highest prices in the market. Reliable statistics show that the profits annually accruing from a well managed orchard commonly exceed the value of the land occupied by the trees. For the purpose of increasing the supply this Company has been formed. Six hundred acres have been secured in the best district in the Province of Quebec, conveniently situated for shipping either by rail or water.

The investment will approximate the value of the preferred stock. Extensive improvements will be made, and at the end of four years—taking Government figures as a basis—the commercial value of the plant will exceed the entire capital stock of the Company, while the earning power will equal 17 per cent., increasing annually as the trees develop. This will be the largest single plantation in the world, and the entire output has already been spoken for by European buyers. To demonstrate how the earning capacity, we give below a statement issued by the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, and a letter accompanying it from the well-known horticulturist, W. T. Macoun.

Markets

"The demand for Canadian apples of good quality and in good condition is an ever-increasing one in Great Britain the market appears to be unlimited, and the prospects of opening an extensive trade with other European countries also is very bright. The Canadian fruit growers should see to it that the fruit when be exported is well and honestly packed, and that it is of such quality as will increase the demand for it more than in the past. "At home, also, the consumption of apples is increasing, and when better rates are given by the railways so that apples may be shipped at less cost than at present, there will be a great demand for this fruit in those parts of Canada where apples cannot be grown successfully."

(Signed) W. T. MACOUN,
Horticulturist.
Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Government Report of Earnings

Considerable interest has been shown in the results obtained from a Wealthy apple orchard at the Central Experimental Farm. There are 120 trees in this orchard, occupying about one-third of an acre, planted in the spring of 1896. Full details in regard to this orchard were published in the annual report of 1904.

In that report was shown that the average net profit per acre from the time of planting was $54.19, and from the time of fruiting $106.19. This was a heavy crop in this orchard in 1901, and the crop in 1905 was medium. The total crop produced was 1,247 gallons.

The receipts and expenditures were estimated from about one-quarter of an acre, and the figures per acre were given on the assumption that the percentage of sales in boxes and baskets were about the same from the full acre. A record is kept of the actual time spent in caring for this orchard and the other expenses incurred. Labor is valued at 15 cents an hour.

Receipts

Receipts	$307.76
Disbursements	204.63
Net profit, 1905	$103.12
Average net profit per acre in 1899 to 1905 inclusive	$105.53

Table of Profits

The following statement of receipts and expenditures is taken from an orchard of 1,000 trees planted in 1898, 75 per cent. of that number only are winter varieties. Comparative annual earnings of 40,000 trees will average for the first ten years.

30,000 bbls. at $3.50 in Europe	$105,000
By cultivation	10,240.00
By picking	4,500.00
By packing	3,750.00
By material	7,500.00
By transportation	27,500.00
By commission	1,610.00
By profits	51,400.00
	$105,000

Prices in the European market have averaged $5.50 per barrel for the past four years.

The commercial value of apple—shipping varieties—is $1.25 net on trees, and after allowing the cost of cultivation, crop earnings will exceed 10 per cent. of the entire capital, even if sold to dealers, but if exported, the profit will average for the first ten years from 15 to 20 per cent., and for the next five years 25 to 40 per cent., according to the season, and will continue to increase annually for thirty years.

Operating on a large scale would increase the profits in proportion, and it is the opinion of those best qualified to judge that this enterprise should pay handsomely, and at the same time the investment does not admit of any chance for speculation or depreciation, and is therefore secure.

Opinions

"I beg to say that the Manitoba and the Northwest market has attracted much attention from Ontario fruit growers as to almost overshadow the question of the European markets. Fruit growers are beginning to consider whether there is not a great deal more to be made out of the Northwest than out of the old market. So far as last year's crop is concerned, the only fruit exported to any extent was the apple.

"NELSON MONTEITH,
"Minister of Agriculture.
"Province of Ontario."

"Canadian fruit growers have the soil, climate, and now the shipping facilities that will enable them to compete successfully. The opening of the Northwest is absorbing so large a portion of both the apple and pear crop that there is not likely to be an excessive surplus for export. The greatest expansion in the industry will be in the matter of apples and pears.

A. McNEILL,
"Chief of Fruit Division.
"Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa."

"The standing of Canadian fruit on the British market and the general excellence of our fruit is likely to cause great more attention to be paid to the fruit growing industry.

J. C. READY,

"Province Edward Island

"Prices this year have been as high or higher than they have been for the last twenty or thirty years. Of course, we will have years of low prices, but within my knowledge these seasons do not come frequently. I cannot say as to what extent the success of last year's crop will tend to stimulate more planting, but I think that the farmers everywhere are inclined to plant more of the Standard apples, etc.

"W. H. CHIPMAN,
"Secretary for Agriculture.
"Province of Nova Scotia."

Management

The Company has been successful in securing the services of an experienced and capable horticulturist, who, with an adequate staff will take entire charge of the plantation under the supervision of the directors.

Quotations

(Farmer's Advocate, April 25th, 1906.)

"The Georgian Bay Fruit Growers' Company, Limited, were again to the front in the price on British market, March shipments of Spy, Ben Davis and Mann now average in all grades of $4.55. In your issue of April 12th the Georgian Bay Fruit Growers' Company, Limited, where it reads 'shareholders receive from 25 to 40 per cent. as to variety above buyers' prices,' should have been 25 to 40 per cent. or in other words, net us from $4.25 to $5.00 per barrel clear of all expenses. Some of our apples sold as high as $8.00."

J. O MITCHELL, General Manager.

(The Canadian Horticulturist, August, 1906.)

There are possibilities for an immense development of our fruit trade with Great Britain.

Canadian fruit, as to its quality is esteemed, when compared with the fruit from other countries, stands high in Great Britain. Properly handled, London alone could consume all the fruit Canada now is exporting.

OPTIMISTIC OVER CANADA'S FUTURE

Mr. William Whyte Discusses Progress of West and Labor Problem

WOULD ALLOW CHINESE IN

Railway Official Believes Oriental Immigration Within Certain Limits Would be a Benefit.

Victoria, B. C., August 15.—In an interview given upon his arrival here a day or so ago Second Vice-President Whyte, of the C. P. R., pays an eloquent tribute to the prosperity of Canada, and voices most optimistic views as to the country's future.

"The greatest prosperity of the country cannot be gainsaid," he declared. "In Manitoba and Saskatchewan alone twenty to twenty-five thousand laborers are required and in other districts there is a proportionate demand. In fact, the problem has become so serious that we are advertising throughout England, Ireland and Scotland offering a passage at the low rate of $6 a head to induce men to come, the preference of course being given to practical agriculturists, most of whom, it is presumed, will remain in the country whilst those who desire can return home at the same rate. It is hoped that by this means sufficient immigration will be induced to relieve the immediate pressure as the consequence of the crop not being cut when ripe would be disastrous to the farmers through the shelling out of the grain. This course has the double merit of benefiting the old land they leave as well as the new land they are coming to."

FAVORS CHINESE LABOR.

Mr. Whyte dwelt at length upon all the points of the labor question which, both as regards agricultural and domestic service, is much more acute in the East, and, touching the matter of Chinese labor, he deprecated the attitude of the labor organizations as inconsistent and ill-advised, as it was originally through the attitude of the artisans that Chinese labor had been first impacted and at the present juncture it would not interfere with the labor interests. The influx of Japanese had been checked by the course of Japanese enterprise being diverted to Manhuria and Korea; and provided that the removal of the poll tax with a view to the admission of Chinese labor were joined with strict restrictions limiting the sphere of activity to agriculture, market gardening and laundry work, he thought this such step could not be other than beneficial to the country, and he trusted that when this fact was fully grasped by the men their opposition would be voluntarily withdrawn, the step suggested not constituting any menace to their legitimate rights or conflicting with their vested interests.

HE AVOIDED WORK

To that Fact Aged New Yorker Attributed His Excessive Longevity.

New York, Aug. 18.—Louis Periston, of 213 Henry street, who died at an age variously estimated between 101 and 112, was buried yesterday afternoon in the Cypress Hills' cemetery. The services at the house were attended by about 100 kinsfolk, 28 of whom were grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren, the oldest of the latter being 18 years.

Louis Periston, the eldest of the seven children of the dead man, says that when he was 20 years old and the family were still in Russia, he sailed to his country to avoid service in the Czar's army, and brought his father, then about 60 years old, with him. That was forty-two years ago, at least, he says.

In Russia Periston was a tailor, and it was one of his old apprentices who estimated his age at 112. On coming to his country Periston became a man of leisure, and devoted his time to the three Jewish religious societies to which he belonged. He attributed the age he attained to the avoidance of work and to the fact that he never took medicine. He smoked and drank in moderation up to the day of his death, and never had to wear glasses.

Kaiser Was Very Pleased

Berlin, Aug 19.—Great satisfaction prevails at the foreign office here over the results of the meeting at Friedrichshof between King Edward and Emperor William.

The latter has expressed himself as highly satisfied with the outcome of his personal conferences with the King.

The discussions between the monarchs in the presence of their diplomatic representatives covered many political questions of interest to both countries, without aiming at reaching specific arrangements, but with the view of coming to a satisfactory understanding respecting the policies pursued by the two countries.

This was accomplished in the main and the foreign office expects to see the improvement in the relations between them continue.

Mr. Copeland Speaks to Woodmen

At the regular meeting of Sherwood Forest Camp Woodmen of the World, held Friday night, Mr. R. Copeland, of Millbrook, the new district organiser, was present, and assisted in the ceremony of installing half a dozen new members into the Order.

Mr. Copeland is on his first round, having only lately became connected with the Order. He was formerly attached to the Canadian Order of Foresters.

WHERE WOLFE IS BURIED.

Description of Quaint Old Church in Which Is Family Vault of Hero of Quebec—Monument Talk.

With the growth in national pride, says The Canada, prominent Canadians have again and again during the last year or two expressed a hope that the memory of the hero of Quebec should be perpetuated in some more fitting and striking form than at present, when only a memorial window, privately subscribed for, marks the place where, after a hard fought life, he was gathered to his fathers. The matter has come into special prominence during the last few weeks owing to an offer made by a wealthy Canadian to bear a substantial portion of the cost of a permanent memorial.

Wolfe's Shrine.

A special representative of The Canada, in describing a visit paid to Wolfe's shrine, says that the Church of St. Alphege, Greenwich, lies within a few minutes' walk of the great naval hospital, which is so often credited to Nell Gwynne's generous forethought, and not far from the old "Ship," to which politicians in former years made regular excursions to eat famous whitebait dinners and, incidentally, to make speeches on the everlasting fiscal question. Structurally beautiful, both as regards interior and exterior, the church, which is two hundred years old, attracts many visitors, and its vaults are filled with the ashes of the illustrious dead who lived and died in the vicinity.

But to Canadian visitors the building is of special interest inasmuch as in the family vault, with those of his father and mother, lie the ashes of Major-Gen. Wolfe, who, by his death on Abraham Heights in 1759, laid the foundations of the imperishable British power in Canada.

Perhaps it is in keeping with the great commander's desires that there is no monument over his silent tomb.

For years Canadian visitors have often remarked upon this apparent lack, and on their departure have suggested that the deficiency should be remedied; but years have passed and nothing has been done. There is, however, a report now current that a prominent resident of Toronto is taking the matter up, and it is hoped that before long the interior beauty of St. Alphege will be further enhanced by a fitting monument to the illustrious warrior.

There has, however, within the last ten years been erected a beautiful stained window in memory of the hero of Quebec. This consists of a figure of St. George, under which is a flag which Wolfe is known to have received under the lineaments of Abraham:—"The paths of glory lead but to the grave." Under this is a small representation of the death scene, with the words:—"I thank God and die contented."

An Old Church.

The present Church of St. Alphege was completed in 1718 to take the place of the old one, the roof of which collapsed in 1710. The body of the church was designed by Nicholas Hawksmoore, and the tower by John James, both architects who had been pupils of the celebrated Sir Christopher Wren. The exterior is cased in Portland stone, and the architecture is entirely Roman.

The interior is rich with dark oak fittings, highly carved and polished. The altar stands in an arched recess, ornamented with angle pilasters. On the walls are painted the emblems of the Crucifixion and the Sacraments, as well as the oak leaf and acorn. These paintings are reputed to have been executed by Sir James Thornhill, and much of the carving is said to be the work of Grinling Gibbons.

Though Wolfe was born at Westerham, in Kent, a few miles from Greenwich, he lived most of his life in the town, where his family occupied a residence in the neighborhood, known as McCarmey House, which is still standing.

An Honor to Canada.

The distinction of being elected a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society has recently been achieved by Mr. C. T. Currelly, B. A., of Toronto University, in recognition of the work accomplished in connection with his book on "Sinai." He has also received an appointment, in connection with the New York Art Museum, as adviser, in regard to Egyptian antiquities, says a contemporary. Some time ago he was awarded a decoration by the Khedive, being made an officer of the Imperial Order of the Mejedieh. This latter was in consequence of the great work he undertook in removing, at the request of the Egyptian Government, great tablets of stone from the face of the cliffs, where the old Turquoise miners ransacked the treasures of the rocks. These tablets dated back to the time of Cheops, about 3,500 B. C., and contained not only archaic inscriptions, valuable from a historical point of view, but also representations of the Pharaohs, who built the pyramids.

Mr. Currelly is also a joint editor of "Abydos," the last publication of the Egyptian Exploration Society. The chapters written by him on the tomb of Senusert III., and of Aahmes I. (who was the founder of the eighteenth dynasty, and the conqueror of the Hyksos), and also that part of the book devoted to the Shrine of Peta-Shesu, "The Great Queen and Royal Mother," are particularly interesting. Mr. Currelly has thus been made the recipient of English, American and Egyption honors, and brings much learning and experience to his new position relative to the Museum of the University of Toronto.

A Canadian Abroad.

Dr. Walter Courtney, chief surgeon of the Northern Pacific Railway since 1888, was born at Moore, Lambton County, Ont., Sept. 18, 1855. In and Out of Cork.

The Soane museum in England contains a cork model of the Coliseum. This was probably acquired by Sir John Soane chiefly because cork is difficult to cut. Mr. Clouston tells in "The Burlington" a story connected with it. The late keeper, Mr. Birch, was showing a party of American visitors over the museum and mentioned that this was "made in cork." "That is curious," said one of the ladies. "We are just going to visit some friends there." "I mean, madam," he explained, "that this model was made out of cork." "That is still more curious," she replied. "Our friends live just a little way out of Cork."

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS.

National Association Formed to Promote Them in Cities.

A generation ago the environment of the child was different from that now to be found in large cities. Now a third of the population is crowded into the cities, and the narrow streets, lined with towering buildings, have become canyons where sunlight comes in glints and where blasts of air laden with pestilential dust smother and blind the child amid the dangers from heavy trucks, swiftly moving automobiles and the rushing of trolley cars.

"The city fathers fain would save the beauty of the city by more or less infrequent patches of green," says Seth Thayer Stewart in the prospectus of the Playground Association of America, of which Theodore Roosevelt is honorary president and Jacob Riis honorary vice president, "but even these are covered with warnings of keep off the grass, and the city child, without the possibilities of outdoor physical development, wonders whether the progress of civilization is not conspiring with the arm of the law to prevent the natural development of his instinct for play and love of nature, and even to crush out the possibilities of child life in larger cities."

The object of the Playground association is to bring about the establishment and maintenance of playgrounds in the larger cities where children and young men may expend their physical energy in a way that will be beneficial to themselves. It believes that the maintenance of playgrounds is not a matter of ornamental philanthropy, but a part of the system of education of the state necessary to the development of the whole nature and not of the mind only, and that it is the duty of the state to maintain such space, place and opportunity in playgrounds and in the curriculum of the schools for all its growing citizens.

"Believing," says the prospectus, "that in a democracy the tide and tone of life should be kept full and high and that upon the physical well being of its people largely depends the well being of the nation, that the stress and strain of our industrial age, the artificial life of crowded centers and the isolation of the country tend to nervous disorder and breakdown, and believing that play is instinctive and tends to develop the whole man and the physical and moral qualities necessary to high character, thus maintaining the working power at its best, the Playground Association of America affirms the necessity for place, space and

Mrs. Burns Her Own Housekeeper.

Mrs. John Burns, wife of the Labor member of the English Cabinet, is her own housekeeper, and when she was presented at the recent drawing-room of the King and Queen was probably the only woman present who could cook her husband's dinner. A story is told of Lady Haversham, who wrote to Mrs. Burns, asking her to came to her "at home," the lady wishing to pose as one of the Liberals. Lady Haversham excused herself for not calling first, as she explained that "Battersea was so far from Grosvenor square." Mrs. Burns replied that upon consulting a map she found that "Grosvenor Square was just the same distance from Battersea."

Dresden's Dog Bath.

At Dresden a new bath for dogs has been opened for the convenience of busy people who have not the time to look after the cleanliness of their own pets. Dogs are left at the bath by men on their way to business, and during the day they are kept in kennels, cared for, given a wash and a good rub down, clipped if necessary and returned to their master when the day's work is done.

If you want your pet canary to sing his best and look his prettiest, feed him occasionally with hard boiled eggs chopped fine and mixed with cracker crumbs. Do not give him more than a thimbleful of the mixture at a time.

Oil For Clocks.

To prepare oil for clocks put a quarter of a pint of limewater and a pint of oil in a bottle, shake it well and let it stand for five days. Then draw off the oil for use.

Boiler Explosions in England.

During the twelve months ended June 30, 1906, there were fourteen persons killed and forty injured from British steam plant accidents, smaller returns than for any year since the boiler explosions act of 1882 was passed, the average for the past twenty-two years being twenty-eight persons killed and sixty injured.

On the other hand, the Locomotive, published at Hartford, Conn., gives 382 persons as killed and 585 injured in the United States. The number of steam boilers in America does not exceed by 50 per cent. those in Great Britain, hence the total number killed in the States should not exceed forty per annum, whereas the actual death roll is nearly ten times this amount.

Heavy fines are imposed in Great Britain on factory owners, engineers, engine builders and others to whom any blame attaches for explosions.—From a report by U. S. Consul Marshal Halstead.

STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. WRIGHT.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I am delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 32 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 8 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $750,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to make is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But, buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH — A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

chair stood her French maid, engaged in combing out the long, luxuriant, light hair of her mistress.

The first thought of Laura Elmer on entering the room was:

"Surely this young, fair, inane-looking woman cannot be the mother of those very vivacious and beautiful little brunettes in the schoolroom. She must be their step-mother and the baronet's second wife."

"Jeannette, tell the young person to come around here, where I can see her without having to turn my head," said her ladyship, addressing her femme de chambre.

Laura smilingly advanced and stood as she was desired, immediately before Lady Lester.

"You are the new governess that Sir Vincent engaged?" she inquired, without taking the trouble to lift her languid, snowy eyelids.

"Yes, madam," replied Laura.

"Your name is Miss Elmer?"

"It is, madam."

"Well, Miss Elmer, Sir Vincent desired me to see you this morning, though I am quite at a loss to know why," drawled her ladyship, languidly.

"Perhaps, madam, the baronet wished me to receive your instructions as to the best method of managing my pupils," suggested Laura.

"Oh, nurse Jones could tell you how to manage much better than I could. She understands their dispositions."

"It is probable, then, that Sir Vincent wished me to receive your ladyship's directions concerning the course of studies to be pursued by the young ladies?"

"Oh, then, he should have sent for you to the library, talked with you himself, for he is interested in all those matters, which only bore me."

All this time Laura Elmer had stood with her stately form drawn up, and her large, dark, starry eyes, looking steadily down upon the fair inanity before her.

"I am sure I cannot conceive why Sir Vincent should wish me to see you," said her ladyship, in a tone of vexation, and then, for the first time, raising her languid eyes to the face of the governess, she asked:

"Can you suggest anything else?"

Then seeing for the first time, that queenly form, and meeting, for the first time, that queenly spirit shining through the great, calm, luminous eyes, she instinctively bowed before it and involuntarily said:

"I beg your pardon, Miss Elmer, for having kept you standing so long. Pray take a seat."

"I thank you, madam, but if your ladyship has really no commands for me, I will ask your permission to return to my charge."

"I really do not know that I have anything to suggest to you, Miss Elmer. Yet now I think of it, I wish you to tell me, do they make you comfortable? I leave all these things to Jones."

"Quite comfortable, I thank you, madam."

"If you find there is anything that you require for your comfort or your happiness, let Jones know; and if she neglects your orders, inform Sir Vincent. He has more energy than I have, and relieves me of all that sort of trouble."

"I thank your ladyship," Laura said. "There is nothing I require for my comfort; and, for my happiness, I fear it would be unjust to compel poor Jones to provide for that," she added, mentally.

Then bidding her ladyship good-morning, she retired from her presence.

In the outer hall, she found herself waylaid by another footman, with Sir Vincent's respects to her, and a request that she would favor him with a few moments' conversation in the library.

Again Laura smiled to herself, thinking:

"If the baronet is no more alive to his paternal duties than her ladyship, this interview will be a mere form."

She was shown into the richly furnished library, filled with the treasures of literature, science and art of two centuries of accumulation, and lighted by one tall, Gothic window of stained glass that diffused a dim, religious light throughout the vast room. In a high, antique chair, beside a writing table, in the centre of the room, sat a tall, stout, very handsome man, about forty-five. Regular and well moulded features, dark gray eyes, heavy, black eyebrows, a large, well formed nose, and a full, handsome mouth, were all framed in by a luxuriant growth of shining black hair and whiskers.

On seeing Miss Elmer, he arose with a stately curtsey, and placed a chair for her, saying, as he handed her to her seat:

"I requested the favor of your company here, Miss Elmer, that I might consult with you upon the subject of your new pupils."

Laura bowed and waited his further speech.

"You have, I presume, just left Lady Lester?"

"Yes, Sir Vincent."

"The delicate constitution, and the numerous social responsibilities of her ladyship, prevent her from giving that attention to her children that she would otherwise."

The baronet paused. He seemed anxious to defend his wife's indifference to her children, yet unable to do so with truth. At length he said:

"You have seen your future pupils?"

"I have seen them."

"I hope, that notwithstanding their very neglected condition, you find them not unpromising subjects."

"Decidedly not. They seem to me to be unusually gifted, though somewhat undisciplined," said Laura, with a smile, adding: "However, I should have informed you, sir, that I have little experience in children, never having filled the situation of governess before."

The baronet looked up in surprise, then drawing toward him an open letter that lay upon the table, and referring to it, he said:

"Ah, yes, Dr. Seymour has written that unforeseen reverses have placed Miss Elmer under the necessity of seeking a situation in life for which she was not brought up, yet for which her moral and intellectual qualifications eminently fit her. I must condole with your misfortunes, and at the same time I congratulate myself and my children, Miss Elmer."

Laura bowed and remained silent.

The baronet then went over the list of studies that he wished his children to pursue, and in conclusion, said:

"I hope you will allow me to look in to your schoolroom sometimes, Miss Elmer, to aid you by such counsels as I can, somewhat longer and more intimate acquaintance with your pupils might suggest at," said the baronet, smiling.

"My inexperience will thank you, sir."

And seeing that the interview was closed, she was about to rise, when the door swung slowly open, and a figure glided in that immediately arrested her attention.

It was that of a young woman of about twenty years of age, who would have been beautiful but for the deathly pallor of her thin face, that looked still more ghastly white in contrast with the raven blackness of her hair, eyebrows, and large, wild eyes, and her dress of deep mourning.

The baronet started, changed countenance, and arose in haste and agitation, and advanced to meet her.

But she glided toward him, extending her thin, white arms, clasping her transparent hands, and fixing her wild, black eyes in an agony of supplication upon his face.

"Helen, why are you here? What is this?" he inquired, in a deep and smothered voice, as he took her hand, and led her, unresisting, from the room.

Feeling it to be impossible to follow them, Laura Elmer retained her seat for a few moments, at the end of which time the baronet re-entered the library, in a state of agitation almost frightful to behold. The veins of his forehead was swollen out like blue cords, his nostrils were dilated and quivering, his lips grimly clenched, his cheeks highly flushed, his dark eyes contracted and glittering, his large frame shaking. He evidently struggled to suppress the exhibition of his emotions as he resumed his seat, and, trembling, dropped his face upon his hands.

Time Saving Kitchen Utensils.

Among the many useful and time saving kitchen utensils that cause the old fashioned housekeeper to open her eyes in amazement are olive stoners, potato and orange peelers, pea shellers, almond grinders, ice shavers and crushers, cheese toasters, corn scrapers, pineapple snips (for taking out the eyes of pineapples, which every housekeeper knows is a difficult process with an ordinary knife), flower scissors, alarm bell egg boilers, salad oil droppers (an arrangement for pouring oil in dressing drop by drop), clothes sprinklers, pie and cake lifters, fruit jar holders (for holding hot glass jars when preserving), sandwich cutters (these are for various fancy shapes), etc. To these are added odorless stewing pots and frying pans, which are said to prevent turnips, cabbage and other vegetables from giving odors while cooking; self wringing mops and [illegible] rests for use when scrubbing floors.

Don't Eat When Exhausted.

Remember never to eat heartily when tired to the point of exhaustion. The fatigue with most persons seems to prevent digestion, and a light meal is better until rest has been taken.

Cork.

Cork was known to the Greeks and Romans and was put to almost as many uses as at present, although there is no mention in Rome of linoleum notwithstanding its Roman sound. Glass bottles with cork stoppers for wine and beer did not come into use until the middle of the fourteenth century.

Trees in Churches.

Two English churches possess trees growing within their walls. One is at Ross, the other at Kempsey, in Worcester. The latter tree is well developed and grows from the tomb of Sir Edmund Wilde, which stands on the left side of the chancel.

Farmer Haunted by Hail.

A Natal farmer who was summoned to Durban for non-payment of the poll-tax offered the extraordinary defense that he had been ruined by the attentions of a hailstorm which haunted him wherever he went, and destroyed his crops.

He pleaded that if he were given time to pay he would go to another district in the hope of escaping his misfortune.

The man's statements were investigated, and it was proved that his crops had suffered damages from hailstorms, while other growing produce in the neighborhood was untouched.

GALENA

Right now is the time to place your money where it will earn you a competency.

A Trick of Sound.

Why did Princess Ena of Battenberg after her marriage to the king of Spain choose to be known as Queen Victoria? A writer says: "Her grandmother made Victoria a name of good omen, but Alexandrina, not Victoria, was the first of the late British queen's baptismal names and was abandoned because Russian names are without sweet associations for English ears. Nor would Eugenie be very agreeable now to Spaniards, with whom their French neighbors are not universally popular. Ena is, however, a name as uncommittingly international as Victoria. It might very well have been the young queen's, too, but for a mere trick of sound. When her marriage was arranged her brothers began to call her in jest 'Quinine, ah!' and thus gave its teased bearer a prejudice against the conjunction of her new title with her old name."

Nose Rings.

The wearing of nose rings is steadily diminishing among the Hindoos.

Bride Cake.

Bride cake is a relic of the Roman confarreatus, a mode of marriage practiced by the highest class in Rome. In confarreation the bride was led to the altar by bachelors, but conducted home by married men, and the ceremony took place in the presence of ten witnesses by the Pontifex Maximus, whereupon the contracting parties mutually partook of a cake made of salt, water and flour.

Coughing and Hearing.

"People in theaters," says a doctor, "do not cough because they want to. They cough because they cannot hear. Two nerves connect the tympanum of the ear and the back of the throat, with the result that if the ears are strained through, say, an actor's faulty enunciation it produces irritation in the throat, which sets up coughing."

First American Theater.

The first American theater was opened in 1750 in the city of New York.

Solomon.

Solomon was called by the Jews of his time the "White King," from the color of the robes he wore. The allusion made in the New Testament to the lily of the field, a white flower, in connection with Solomon, is thus made clearer.

Armenian Girls.

Armenian girls the day of their wedding have the breast and neck painted all over with delicate blue flowers.

The Three Cent Piece.

The purpose of coining a three cent piece was to furnish a proper equivalent for the three cent postage stamp when that stamp was in use for letters. This coin was composed of 75 per cent of silver and 25 per cent of copper.

Copper.

Copper is more elastic than any other metal except steel, more sonorous than any other except aluminium, and more ductile and malleable than any other except the precious metals.

The "Fugio" Coins.

The "Fugio" coins were struck in New York and were so called from the device employed on the reverse of the coin, this among the other things being a dial with the word "Fugio" and inscription "Mind Your Business."

England and Wales.

Of the 58,324 square miles of England and Wales 26,482 are under 250 feet in elevation above the sea, 16,365 are between 250 and 300 feet, 10,476 are between 500 and 1,000 feet, 4,698 are between 1,000 and 2,000, 308 are between 2,000 and 3,000 feet and 4 are more than 3,000 feet.

Iron Nails.

The first iron nails made in this country were hammered into shape at Cumberland, R. I., in 1777.

The Tongue and Taste.

Pungent and acid tastes are perceived by the tip of the tongue, the middle portion tastes sweets and bitters, while the back or lower portion concerns itself with fatty substances, such as butter.

The Turkey.

The turkey is an American bird. Lucullus and the Epicureans did not know about him. He was found in his wild state after Columbus' time. About a hundred years after the discovery of America broiled young turkeys became great delicacies on the Frenchmen's table.

An Unclaimed Prize.

Years ago the French government offered 200,000 francs ($40,000) to any one who would give a remedy for the phylloxera, but the prize has never been awarded, because no remedy has been discovered. It is easy enough to kill the pest with a poisonous spray, but that same spray kills the grape also.

Stone Blotters.

Austrians use a stone blotting pad that practically never wears out. A little scraping with a knife cleans it effectually.

Sign of Rain.

Church—I see it is said that 4 o'clock in the afternoon is the rainiest hour of the twenty-four.

Gotham—That must be the hour the Sunday school picnics used to start out.—Yonkers Statesman.

PIRATE'S BURIED LOOT

ENGLISH EXPEDITION MAKES A FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR IT.

Secret of Its Whereabouts Disclosed by Dying Man to No Purpose—Account of the Expedition—The Pirates' Flight—Treasure Syndicate Lands June 30 on Island But Did Not Find Expected Treasure.

The yacht Alkelda, commanded by her owner, Capt. Gage, has just returned to Gibraltar from a treasure hunt in the island of Alboran, in the Mediterranean, opposite Melilla. The search arose from a statement made to T. C. McMichael, of Brighton, by an old army man, who had a secret confided to him when he was a boy to the effect that treasure worth $5,000,000 was buried by pirates on the island in 1832. Nothing, however, was found.

Capt. Gage and Mr. McMichael were accompanied by Col. Lewis, Capt. English, R. N.; Capt. Chaplain, R. A.; the Hon. Alister Campbell and Messrs. J. E. Browne and E. S. Hopkinson.

Account of the Expedition.

The following account of the expedition is supplied by a reporter who accompanied it:

"On June 10 the schooner Alkelda, R. Y. S., 140 tons, owned by Capt. Gage, sailed from Plymouth for Gibraltar.

"We had a picked crew of six Cornish fishermen and a young mate from the mercantile marine, and we were commanded by Capt. Long, who had been many years in the service of Capt. Gage. A cook, two stewards and a forecastle hand completed the ship's company, and the fortunate guests who had been invited for the cruise were Col. D. T. Lewis, Capt. English and Capt. A. Campbell.

"The object of the expedition was a treasure hunt, and the information we depended on was, briefly, this:

"A few years ago a friend who owned house property in Yorkshire had to press one of his tenants for rent.

"This tenant, a retired army captain who was getting on in years, told the proprietor that in his soldiering days he had a private named Robinson as servant, and that in return for some kindness Robinson had told him that when quite a lad he had gone to sea and served as cabin boy in a merchant ship called the Young Constitution. He soon found out that the ship was a pirate, and was carrying on its nefarious business off the coast of Jamaica.

The Pirates' Flight.

"In 1832, he said, British men-of-war were on the lookout for the Young Constitution, and being laden with jewels and gold to the value of fully a million pounds, the captain decided to leave the West Indies and made a course for the Mediterranean.

"They were chased by two British frigates, but, being favored with fair winds and fortunate fogs, they passed safely through the Straits of Gibraltar.

"Here the pirate captain lost his bearings. He had no charts of the Mediterranean, and no knowledge of the coast. Before long they hove in sight of a small island, which they found to be uninhabited and waterless.

"They packed their treasure in two great copper boilers and landed them at the southeastern corner of the island. It took ten men to get the treasure on shore, and they buried it close to the landing place eight or nine feet deep, and then sailed away to the nearest port to get water, provisions and charts.

"Later on," said Robinson, "they came in with two unarmed merchant vessels, which they could not resist robbing and scuttling.

"They were caught redhanded, and every one except Robinson was hanged at the yardarm. Robinson was now the only living person who knew of the treasure, and he kept the secret until he confided in his master.

"The captain was forgiven his debt in exchange for the secret of the buried million.

Treasure Syndicate.

"The proprietor was an old man, and not in robust health, so he waited to realize the fortune that lay hidden in the Island of Alboran, 140 miles from Gibraltar, until his son was grown up.

"After the usual negotiations with a city firm a small syndicate was formed and an expedition planned. Capt. Gage and an expedition planned. Capt. Gage fitted up his yacht and undertook to convey the syndicate from Gibraltar to Alboran and back and to assist in the search.

"We sailed from Plymouth on June 10, and with fair winds and two days of calm we arrived at Gibraltar on the 19th. The syndicate was not due until the 26th, and so we made expeditions to Algeciras and Cadiz.

"It was thought advisable to engage an interpreter to go with us to Alboran, as there is a lighthouse on the island, and it would be necessary to explain to the keeper what we were landing on his island for. It was thought better to say we were prospecting for oil.

"When the syndicate arrived we set sail without delay, but the wind faded away, and we were becalmed in a very choppy sea. The current set us to the southward, and in a day or two we were in sight of the Riff coast. Luckily we were well armed and the Riff pirates did not attack us.

"With the help of the motor launch we towed the yacht for some hours, and then the wind came, and at 5 a. m. on June 30 we dropped anchor in eight fathoms of water on the southeastern side of the treasure island.

Welcomed by Natives.

"Every one hurried on deck when the anchor chain was heard rushing through the hawse pipes, and as we looked through our glasses we made the landing place just as described in Robinson's account.

"But now the island was no longer uninhabited. There was a lighthouse and a large barrack-like building round its base, and we saw seven men and several boys and women.

"Two boats put off. The men, who were of very superior class, offered us some rock cod for sale, while we offered them Spanish wine, and stuffed the boys with biscuits, bread and butter, and fruit. After breakfast we all landed in the cutter.

"Two of the most diplomatic, accompanied by the interpreter, went up to the lighthouse, and gave a plausible reason for our arrival with picks and shovels and iron bars, while the rest of the party began to prospect for the place where the treasure was hidden.

"We soon found a second landing place which was more accurately at the southeastern part of the island, but not at the corner. Here was a natural jetty of flat rock, with almost a couple of fathoms of water, and a steep path up the face of the cliff. An old wire rope was suspended from the top.

"The general idea was that this was the natural landing that had existed when the island was uninhabited, and that the one which we had used was made when the lighthouse was built.

"However, we dried at every conceivable place to find soil or sand deep enough to bury treasure in, and nowhere could we find a spot. The soil was not more than three feet thick, and then we came on solid rock. For three days we dug a cut through sand heaps, and probed with pointed iron rods, but all to no purpose, and on July 2 a gale sprang up, and we had to sail away, but not before every member of the expedition was satisfied that there was no treasure in Alboran."

WHY WE DO SOME THINGS.

Certainly Not Because We Look Pretty When We Do Them.

A man does not take off his hat to a lady because he looks nicer without it. The instance of bald men would be alone sufficient to upset such an explanation.

He does it because you must positively do something when you meet a lady or your whole civilization goes to pieces, and taking off your hat is easier than taking off your necktie or lying face downward on the pavement.

The primary point is that you must do something, not that you must do something beautiful. And as long as cultivated people cannot grasp this fact they will find their efforts quite futile in dealing with what they often consider the dullness of the middle classes or the vulgarity and morbidity of the poor.

In so far as the bourgeois thinks it more important to wear a Sunday hat than a becoming hat he is perfectly right. It is more important; the religion of the tribe is more important than the pretty appearance of Mr. Jones.

In so far as the charwoman thinks it more important that her husband should have a "proper" funeral than a pretty funeral she is perfectly right. It is more important. Decorum is as permanent a human sentiment as art and a much more pressing one. Any healthy savage would understand the charwoman's sentiments exactly and perhaps alarm her with demonstrations of barbaric approval.

He would also understand perfectly the sentiment of a Sunday hat. I believe in savages myself. I think that in a great many matters they represent the enduring common sense and moral minimum of humanity. There is nothing which I so sincerely respect in savages as their widespread and generally ascertained disposition to wear top hats.—London Illustrated News.

Trout Kept In Tank For Guests.

Another step has been taken in that art of supreme simplicity which is fast becoming the distinctive feature of the London school of epicures.

The Carlton Hotel is bringing live trout from Barrasford-on-Tyne. The tanks in which they are carried are packed in ice, and the water is changed several times on the way, so that the fish arrive in London in prime condition. They are at once transferred to a great tank fed by water running over miniature icebergs. This tank is covered with wire netting to keep the vigorous fish from leaping out.

Presently a glass tank will be fixed in an annex to the palm garden beyond the restaurant, and those who are so pleased may go and see the actual fish caught ten minutes before they are served at table.

Of course, this custom is a fairly common one on the Continent, more especially at little inns among the mountains, but until M. Jacques took it in hand it has never been a success in London.

Last year a visitor to Vevey spent one of the most exciting quarters of an hour of his life in trying to land a six pound carp for his lunch from the private fishpond of a little inn in Vevey. It was not until assistance had been given that the fish was triumphantly caught.

Every year at the great London restaurants the demand for plain fare increases. Nothing could be more perfect in its simplicity than "trahte aubleu"—trout fresh from the stream, plainly boiled.

A Witty Compliment.

Among the litigants before the English courts some years ago was a Mrs. Weldon, who, indeed, was so constantly at law that Baron Pollock once remarked: "This lady has now such a very large business at the bar that we must give her every indulgence." Mrs. Weldon was not abashed by the judges and said many clever things in court. The reminiscences of the late John Gee, Witt, K. C., include an anecdote of one of her appearances in the Court of Appeal. She was endeavoring to upset a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Bacon and one ground of complaint was that the judge was too old to understand the case. Thereupon Lord Esher said: "The last time you were here you complained that your case had been tried by my brother Bowen, and you said he was only a bit of a boy and could not do you justice. Now you come here and say that my brother Bacon was too old. What age do you want the judge to be?" "Your age," promptly replied Mrs. Weldon, fixing her bright eyes on the handsome countenance of the Master of the Rolls.

The Cockney's Compliment.

A good story comes from the vicinity of Galt. A newly-arrived English immigrant, who was amazed at the splendid fields of ripening grain, remarked: "Oh, I say, do they leave things out like that in this country? Lord bless you, sir; if that field was at home, and nobody watching it at night, it would be gathered up, dumped into a van and sold at daybreak on the nearest market. Fact, sir!"

Sin Against Health

Why the Usefulness of All Organs is Destroyed by Costiveness.

Most important to health and comfort is proper action of the bowels.

By nature these organs are intended for the removal of the waste particles of matter which accumulate in the system.

Retain these wastes and you poison the blood, ruin digestion, bring on nervousness and anaemia.

Habitual costiveness is best overcome by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which establish regularity that is exactly consistent with nature.

Not a drastic purgative—not even a pain or sensation of grip, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills are vegetable and free from irritating mineral substances found in so many widely advertised remedies.

In every case Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure and bring sure relief from headache, billiousness and other manifestations of constipation.

Jas. McConnell of Walkerton writes: "Since I was comparatively a young man I have not enjoyed real good health.

"My appetite was good and strength kept up, yet I knew something was wrong.

"Frequently I took bilious attacks and violent headaches. My stomach was disordered, skin was murky, under my eyes were heavy dark rings.

"Last winter I read through the 'Poison's almanac' and decided my trouble was constipation. I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and can hardly tell the help they have been. I am now as fresh, strong and well as a boy."

Just try the wonderful magic of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

Another Kick Over Italian Fruit Store

Yesterday a well known citizen called at The Times office, and in language more forcible than parliamentary, wished me to call attention to the stink (pardon the word), that arises from a Hunter street Italian fruit dealer's establishment. It will be remembered that this store has been brought to the attention of our local police authorities, seemingly without visible or sensible effect.

When a woman suffers from depressing weakness, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two, direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflammation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Mrs. Ella Boyd, who was noted in yesterday's issue of The Times, was arrested Saturday night for being "Under the influence," was allowed to go hence by Acting Magistrate S. R. Armstrong, at yesterday's session of the police court. Our readers will remember that Mrs. Boyd's piglet was gotten aboard whilst she called upon various friends throughout last Saturday, engaged in the matrimonial obligation of securing $5 to release her husband then under arrest. Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennet Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M.D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grover Coe, of New York; Dr. Barthelow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa., and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh, and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician of large experience in the cure of women's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidingly takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 50 stamps. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

Investors Beware

of investing before investigating. THE GREAT WESTERN OIL REFINERY & PIPE LINE CO., of Erie, Kansas, courts investigation, and we are anxious to get in touch with investors who are willing to be convinced.

The Company owns 37 acres of proven oil and gas land, at the junction of two railroads, with side tracks to both. The Company owns without debt 4,000 barrel per day capacity plant, complete and ready for operation, and 12 large steel tanks, modern independent Refinery (12 in number), which furnish fuel for the entire plant and is sufficient for a 6,000 barrel capacity, when the Great Western proposes to have (in fact they are now increasing the capacity to 6,000 barrels per day) which is the reason that none of the capital stock is now offered to the public for subscription.

The Company owns leases on hundreds of acres of oil lands, with a number of wells on same, and the supply of crude oil is unlimited. The present stand taken by the different States, and the laws passed to protect the independent refineries against unfair competition, makes an investment in this Company one which is sure to bring large returns. In proof of this statement, will say that the Company one day recently shipped 21 car load lots of refined oil and by-products and on another day received orders for 42 car load lots.

The Company is now selling this stock at 50 cents per share, but owing to the fact that we hold an option on a block of the same we can fill your order at cash or instalment, until said option is all sold out, which should be within a very short time.

We would suggest that you write us immediately for free particulars, copies of letters from bankers, etc., which will be sent free. New Sites For The Normal School

Will Be Submitted to the Department of Education at an Early Date---Committee Appointed for This Purpose.

The City Council met in special session last night, when there were present Mayor Henry, Rev. Aldermen M. Williams, Mason, Duncan, Graham, McIntyre, Johnson, Elliott and Geo. Ball.

The object of the meeting was to endeavor to unravel the Normal school site tangle, the Department of Education having selected the Collegiate Institute site in the Central Park, and the School Board having refused to surrender this site which is vested in them.

T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., was present, and advised that it would not be advisable to request a second attendance of the deputy minister and superintendent of education, unless the city has new sites to show them for the proposed Normal school, or is prepared to throw the town open for his selection of another site.

Ald. McWilliams pointed out that the property between the Y.M.C.A. and the Murray street Baptist church, which has been advocated as a desirable location for a Normal school, might be acceptable to the department, either one or two acres could be had.

The department and Mr. Bradburn are anxious that two acres should be secured, which would practically give another park to the city, the department would make a beautiful horticultural garden out of the land surrounding the school, and beautifying the city. Still, it is not as much acreage Dr. Seath is looking to as location.

Ald. McWilliams contended that erecting both a Normal school and Collegiate Institute on the Central Park site would not be practicable, for several reasons.

Ald. Elliott advocated a site of two acres on Water street east, north of the Presbyterian church up to McDonel street.

The Cox property at the head of Simcoe street, was also suggested.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott,—That the Mayor and Aldermen Mason, Adams, Graham, and McIntyre be a committee to confer with the Department of Education with respect to a site for the Normal school, with authority to go to Toronto, for that purpose, and that their expenses be paid by the city treasurer.—Carried.

This committee will investigate several sites tomorrow and lose no time in conferring with the authorities at Toronto. Haste is necessary as the department is anxious to have the school erected and ready for occupancy by September, 1907. J. E. Bradburn, our local member will try and arrange for a meeting with the Deputy Minister and Superintendent of Education on Friday.

The committee are confident of being able to select one particular site from several in view, acceptable to the department, and one that can be purchased at a reasonable price.

HOLIDAYS FOR DRIVERS.

Richardson Boys in the Hospital

Yesterday two boys were conveyed by the Dan Spence ambulance to Nicholls hospital, as a result of being trampled under by carhorses.

It seems that the boys, Charley and George Richardson, sons of Mr. J. B. Richardson, 380 Aylmer, Charlie being about ten years of age, and George two years younger, were going along McDonnel street, south of Aylmer, when the accident happened. At this point Hicks' wood yard is inclosed by a high board fence with a gate about twelve feet wide. One of Mr. Hicks' waggons was coming out of the yard as the boys were about to pass the gate. They were close to the fence and the driver of the team, could not see them. They ran right in front of the horses and were knocked down and trampled under their feet. In an instant, one of the lads had his leg broken, while Charlie, the older boy, had his right hand trampled upon and the little finger was almost severed from the hand. The horses were otherwise bruised.

The boys were taken to their home. Two doctors were at once summoned. Later the Dan Spence ambulance was called and they were removed to the Nicholls hospital.

As far as can be learned no blame can be attached to the driver. Both boys will recover, but their injuries are very painful.

BOWLERS IN LONDON

Greeted at the Western Ontario City and Given a Reception.

London, Aug. 22.—The visiting British bowlers arrived from Goderich at ten o'clock yesterday morning. They were greeted by the enthusiastic bowlers and others of the city with ringing cheers and conducted to the Tecumseh House. At 2.30 afternoon on the lawns of the London Rowing Club the Mayor and aldermen will extend the official civic welcome to the British bowlers, and the ladies of the party, after which play will begin with the London Rowing and Thistle Clubs.

Big Bend Lumber Co. Praised

The Kingston News speaking of a company, in which much local capital is invested, says: "H. Richardson has returned from Peterborough, where he has been attending the annual meeting of the Big Bend Lumber Co., of which he is an officer. He reports that the company did a big business during the past twelve months and the mill could not take out their orders fast enough to keep pace with the demand. The Kingston stockholders were greatly pleased with the business prospects of the company."

Union Pigmy After Giant

No Chance of Electing Totemites Congressmen.

Indianapolis, August 21.—Speaking of Gompers' plan to organize a campaign for the election of Congressmen favorable to labor measures, D. M. Parry former president of the National Manufacturers' Association, after asserting that Gompers himself ought to run for the Presidency, said:

"Mr. Gompers should realize and probably will realize when he has a sober second thought, that he has undertaken a task that, mathematically speaking, at least, would be a severe strain on any one. His proposition is to induce 20,000,000 unorganized workers to hand over the government to 2,000,000 organized workers.

"He and those who echo him, say that the 2,000,000 know ethics to the queen's taste; that they know just what to do to give every one a square deal; that they are past masters in reforming the universe and that above all they know just a little better than any one else how to do the bossing or governing of their brother men.

"They also assert that the 20,000,000 have made an awful mess of government; that graft, selfishness and mendicrity are in the saddle and that never, never, will there be a square deal until the 20,000,000 side step in favor of the 2,000,000."

"This is mighty fine talk, but will the 20,000,000 believe it? There's the rub. It may be that Gompers will succeed in convincing the 20,000,000 that they have been weighed in the balance and found wanting in brains, justice and virtue, and that they will thereupon turn over to the 2,000,000 the power, spoils and pelf of government, but, in all sincerity, I doubt it.

"I can only reiterate that I believe the labor leaders will be disappointed. The indications of their disappointment are accumulating fast."

POLICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

The Sons of Rest and Tired Tim Clubs, sent a large delegation to yesterday's session of the local police court.

In the first case, P. Dorey, a French-Canadian, claimed $5 as the wages due him when he was released by Mr. Sheehy's foreman. After hearing the evidence the magistrate gave a verdict in favor of the complainant, to the amount of $7.95.

The next case was that of Richard Sheehy, jr., charged with throwing stones on Sunday. He pleaded not guilty through his counsel, Mr. D. O'Connell.

P. C. Newhall was the only witness for the Crown. He said about three o'clock on Sunday afternoon a number of complaints were received from people who resided in the vicinity of Rubidge and Simcoe streets about boys who were throwing stones at the stable of the late Aaron Cox. P. C. Newhall went there and found several boys throwing rocks at the stable.

The witness was standing at the corner of Rubidge and Simcoe streets. He then ran along the fence so as not to be seen. He got the boy at the corner and asked him his name and address. This the boy refused to give, and using bad language struggled and kicked. The boy's coat collar and shirt was torn. Angus McPherson came along and spoke to him. A resident of that part called to him out of the window and told him to let the boy alone. The boy's father came to the station and proceeded to give him a tongue thrashing; he told him to get out of the station, or he would put him out. The father said six like Newhall could not put him out. Witness then put him out. The case was then enlarged.

William Boyd was charged with being drunk and disorderly on August 20th. Boyd said, "Well, sor, I was but I want to explain my case." Then the magistrate cut short by saying $5 to be paid for drunk, or 15 days in jail. Boyd took the 15 days. Boyd, it seems, made night hideous all Monday night, howling, yelling and cursing, so as to keep the people on Water street awake.

Toy Engine for Crown Prince

Model of New York Central Locomotive Be Sent to Saxony.

Bridgeport, Conn. August 21.—One of the oddest toys that have ever been sent out of this state is now being made in this city. It is a miniature replica of one of the great engines of the New York Central, and is perfect in every detail. It will be shipped to Crown Prince Borus, son of Prince Ferdinand of Saxony.

The toy locomotive is the gift of C. R. Crane of Chicago, a member of the company. Mr. Crane was recently in the Bulgarian capital and was there entertained by Prince Ferdinand. Prince Borus, who is a very small boy, informed Mr. Crane that all he wanted to be entirely happy was a "really locomotive, with really steam in it on a really track." Mr. Crane promised to have one made, and on his return called in an expert New York Central model maker and gave him an order for a miniature engine, which has since been in the works in this city.

The engine is three feet long and has all the devices of a New York Central latest model locomotive, with throttle, whistle, pumps and electric headlight. Under high pressure of steam it has been found satisfactory. It can be run over its own miniature rails, which have been specially manufactured for it.

SAYS LAVA IS PANACEA

Hygienic Enthusiast Thinks He Has Discovered Cure for All Ills

MINERAL FOODS AT HAND

Chemical Substances to Nourish Body, He Declares, Are in Once Molten Rock.

New York, August 21.—J. Riggs has beaten Ponce de Leon at his own game. He says health and youthful feeling are bound to follow the consumption of lava.

Mr. Riggs is a member of the Hygienic Association of Zurich, Switzerland. He lives in Clifton, N. J., and, it is said, has lived some time in the Granite State, i.e., Maine, where he became convinced of the value of lava as a cure-all.

If you would be healthy chew lava. If you can't get lava take a bite of granite or a tasty bit of gneiss. That, in substance, in the advice of Mr. Riggs.

Corns will just fade away; the douloureux becomes a pleasure; and as for lumbago, gout, falling hair, growing pains or warts, they flee at the sight of a dose of "it." Even nostalgia and mal de mer are not proof against its persuasive powers. The only thing you can die of is old age or accident, but it is not made plain that the former will not yield to the blandishments of lava, properly administered.

POOR FOOD CAUSE OF ILLS.

According to the idea which Mr. Riggs claims to have successfully demonstrated, all diseases of plants, animals and men are due to improper nutrition. Life is in reality nothing more than a continual motion between opposing poles, he maintains. Wherever polaric currents have produced a normal mixture of the atmosphere, we breathe easily, for the reason that polaric air is the best and most rational food for the respiratory organs. On the same theory, he claims, polaric nutrition is the best and most efficient blood former.

Diseased, weakened and abnormal life, Mr. Riggs maintains, discloses the presence of parasites, and the properties that are found in the lava will, he contends, neutralize the effect of these parasites and restore healthy organism.

"When lava, thousands of years ago," said Mr. Riggs, "flowed over the surface of the earth, the richness of minerals that it contained became the center of a marvelously luxurious vegetation. Lava, among all the products of this earth, possesses the greatest productive force, and its qualities contain elements that will cure all diseases of plants, vegetables, and animals.

"Lava contains six mineral ingredients forming compounds with acids, as well as six acid-forming minerals. Potash, soda, lime, magnesia, iron and manganese are the alkaline salts forming compounds with acids, while phosphorus, sulphur, silicon, chlorine, fluorine and carbonic acid make up the six acid-forming minerals.

BEST FOOD FOR PLANTS.

"The cultivated plants of the modern farmer are largely dependent upon acid-forming minerals for their food, and, consequently, the blood of the consumers of such vegetables and plants becomes charged with and contains a large surplus of acids.

"A lack of analine blood means a lack of strength and vigor, and whenever the blood has lost these necessary qualities parasites never fail to appear. Acid sap and acid blood are poisonous to plants, animals and men.

"Our hard and rocky mountains represent the sap or blood of plants, animals and men in solid form. The rational mixture of all the component parts of the earth produces the most ideal strength and the best blood. Hard and soft parts of the earth, or rock and soil, must be intermixed if the highest physical and mental capacity is to be attained.

"Lava is the creator of force in plant life. Those whose blood has been built up by lava-fertilized food will never become subject to disease. The entire horde of destructive plant diseases is curable by means of lava, and all crops can be improved from 50 to 100 per cent. by its use, or rather by rationally mixed powdered rock as fertilizer.

"Not only has our grain become infested with millions of parasites which thrive on the acidulated sap, but our potato plants have suffered no less serious damage.

"The root louse, which has devastated thousands of the finest vineyards in California and Europe, appeared as a result of disturbance in the nutrition of the vines, in a similar manner as the germs of disease infest the human organism.

"Worms in apples, pears, figs, cherries and nuts are another post due to insufficient and nonpolaric plant food. Lava fertilization alone will affect an infallible cure."

When Whiskey Was Cheap Here

As Mr. McDonald's gang digging trenches on Aylmer street, to lay the new 8-inch gas mains along that thoroughfare, reached the northern side of Charlotte street, when some three feet, six inches below the surface of Aylmer street, they ran across an old corduroy road. The logs extended for some thirty feet from Charlotte street north. They are cedar logs about 12 inches in diameter, running parallel across Aylmer and are as solid as the day they were laid some 70 years and are as sound and perfect today as when they were laid. As a Times representative was watching a Light & Power Co. employe chop a way through he fogs Mr. B. W. Ewert happening along, noted that this spot, when the street is now about four feet above the old corduroy road way, was a black ash swamp. On the corner where the Queen's Hotel now stands, some 58 or 60 years ago was a two storey frame hotel, run by Carter Lane, deputy sheriff, under Sheriff W. C. Conger. Whisky was then retailed at two pence or four cents a glass and bought by the hotelmen at six gallons for $1. On the spot where the old Light & Power Co offices are situated was a pond that used to be covered by duck, geese and green "frog spawn."

The police say they the shots were fired by William Kollock, 26 years old, in an altercation with Murtha.

Dunmisky was struck by a stray bullet.

Kollock was arrested. He had a revolver with eleven notches cut on the handle.

They had lost control of their horse coming down a hill and the frightened animal rushed against the embankment.

Accuses Magistrate Before Hon. Mr. Foy

Another Sensation in Bridant Murder Case--- Mr. Neville Asks for Stay of Proceedings and New Trial.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—When the Bridant-Miller murder case was called before Magistrate Kingsford at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, R. S. Neville, lawyer for Edmund Bridant, the main prisoner, sprung a sensation which is as startling in its charges as it is unexpected.

The document handed in to court is as follows:

In the Police Court of the City of Toronto, Rex v. Miller and Bridant.

The prisoner, Edmund Bridant, by his counsel, hereby applies to this court to have all the evidence herein struck out, and the whole proceedings on this prosecution set aside, and the case handed over to be begun de novo before another magistrate, on the grounds following;

1. The acting police magistrate has been grossly unfair, prejudiced, and tyrannical in the conduct of said proceedings.

2. The said magistrate has grossly violated the prisoner Bridant's civil rights, by seizing a large number of papers, which were the private property of the prisoner, and lawfully in possession of prisoner's counsel, and essential to the proper conduct of the defence, thus making it impossible for the said prisoner to be properly defended.

3. The said acting magistrate has several times usurped the functions of the Crown attorney and acted as advisory counsel for the prosecution.

4. The said acting police magistrate without right or authority, seized or compelled the prisoner's counsel to deliver up to him certain letters which said counsel had procured from the warden of the General Prison, to be used, as soon as they could be properly proved, in evidence for the defence.

5. The said acting police magistrate took the said letters out of the said court and communicated with the said warden and took an unsworn statement from him respecting the same, although he knew the prisoner Bridant's counsel was intending to call the said warden to give evidence for the defence relating to the said letters.

In the alternative, the said prisoner, by his said counsel, hereby applies for a stay of proceedings until the said acting police magistrate's conduct of these proceedings can be enquired into by the Honorable the Attorney-General, and his direction received regarding further proceedings.

R. S. Neville,
Counsel for Edmund Bridant.
21st August, 1906.

Before handing this in Mr. Neville said, "I have a motion to make to the court, which, for accuracy, I have reduced to writing. I will file this document. It asks two things; (1) That the evidence so far taken shall be struck out, and all further proceedings in the case set aside, or, in the alternative; (2) That all proceedings be stayed until the proceedings can be investigated into by the attorney-general, and his direction taken. The grounds are set forth in this document.

COULD NOT SEE THEM.

Monday R. S. Neville called at Sergeant Duncan's office and asked several questions regarding the papers which had been turned over by him to the court.

"We haven't had time to examine them yet," said the detective.

"Don't you intend to examine the papers that are now in your possession?"

"Yes, but we've had no time. We're head over heels in work. Just look at all this stuff around here."

Mr. Neville also asked Police Court Clerk Arthur Webb if he could see the letters which were turned into court Saturday morning by himself.

"You know I was given permission to see them whenever I wished," said Mr. Neville.

"The magistrate took them away with him Saturday morning, sealed, and just returned them to me this morning. He has given me instructions to keep them sealed and to return them to him Tuesday afternoon."

"Can't I see them now?"

"No, I'm afraid you can't."

This morning another application was made to the clerk for the papers by Mr. Neville, but he was again refused.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon both the prisoners in the Bridant murder case, Mrs. Eliza Miller and Mr. Edmund Bridant, were committed for trial on the charge of murder. The magistrate ignored Mr. Neville's statement about the conduct of the case.

Nellie Couldn't Stay Away

Nellie Boyd, 21 Russell avenue, Toronto, who was discharged for being drunk on Monday morning in the condition that she left this city, early prey to the heads of P.C.'s Newhall and McMurry at a late hour last night in an out houses in the east ward. She seemed to be particularly busy stopping young men, and several of them accompanied her over the O'Connor to the place where she was arrested. Her husband who was arrested Monday night, kept the residents in the vicinity of the police station awake all Monday night with a monotonous stunt, and last night Nellie in a melody of Irish songs, sang without accompaniment held up her end of the program. It is likely that Nellie will join her husband up on the hill for a few weeks' rest.

Will They Turn King's Evidence?

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Will one of the gang gathered in by the police on Church street last Wednesday turn King's evidence? It is said that one of the six wishes to reveal the whole story of the gang's nefarious operations in preparation for his own immunity. One of the prisoners arrested has asked to see Sergeant Duncan, and if an interview is secured with that detective it is very probable that some startling revelations will be made.

When the six prisoners—four men and two women—appear in court on Thursday morning several charges of theft and pocket-picking will be laid against individual members of the gang.

The head of the gang is still at large in the States, but the police are hot on his trail, and as soon as evidence to convict him can be secured he will be arrested.

Will Deport Men Who are Useless

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Four immigrants, three in asylums and one in jail as a vagrant, will be deported to England. Mr. Thomas Southworth, Director of Colonization and Immigration, states that the quartet have become incapacitated since being admitted to the Dominion, but as this has occurred within a year the steamship companies which brought them out will have to take them back free of cost.

Friends of three of the victims of deportation have been located in England, but the fourth a Galician in the asylum, is friendless, so far as the authorities have been able to ascertain. However, they are still making inquiries in hope of finding some of his friends in Europe.

Mr. Southworth has been informed of a Russian Jew who has gone out of his mind since coming to Toronto. It is said he is crazed through love. Some other man married the girl he had intended to marry. He has been in this country but a short time.

PRACTICAL PHILANTHROPY

Woman Patrols the Streets of Berlin to Give Aid to Distressed Animals.

New York, Aug. 21.—The Berlin correspondent of the Sun says: "The newest feature on Berlin streets is a woman who has a bicycle patrols the busiest thoroughfares, giving immediate relief to horses and other animals needing assistance.

She applies salves to sores, binds injured limbs and renders first aid when horses are overcome by heart or hurt by a fall.

One day during the current week she treated thirteen horses and two dogs.

The drivers were at first suspicious and antagonistic, and the woman bears a mark on her forehead from a stone thrown by a drunken cabman.

HOW CONSTMPTION STARTS

Tired When You Waken—Languid All Day—Nerves Worn Out—Snap All Gone.

Your limbs feel "draggy" and excessively weak. A night's sleep seldom brings satisfying rest. Continuous headaches, exhaustion and nervous sensations destroy your health. Soon every spark of vitality is used up. Then you catch tuberculosis.

Start today. Build up, get new nerve force, and overcome this process of decay. Use Ferrozone, which physicians consider the most vitalizing, uplifting tonic ever made.

Ferrozone cures because it can furnish the body with sufficient nutriment and building material.

Think of the instant effect—at once the appetite increases, delightful color in the cheeks proves that rich, red blood is being circulated. Tired muscles are invigorated, flesh and weight are added. Nerve force develops, and bounding, joyous health is firmly established.

This is certain—Ferrozone restores failing strength from any cause. The experience of Mr. Thos Dowd, of Schreiber, Ont., proves this.

"Household worries and cares had about exhausted my strength. I was weak and miserable. My cheeks lacked the color of health, and occasionally I had spells of rheumatism. Then my appetite fell off, and nothing could tempt me to eat. Worn-out feelings, chills and despondency filled my very being. I became anaemic and dwindled down to a shadow. Consumption was very near. Ferrozone put strength in my body with a rush. It built me up, strong, virile and happy, and I have been well ever since."

Ferrozone cures sickness by curing the real cause—lack of blood and nerve tone. It keeps people at their best—fit, ready and anxious for work. In 50c. boxes only, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston Ont.

FIREPROOF HOUSES IN A HURRY

Edison's mind is forever busy when it is awake, and it doesn't seem to be asleep much. One of his latest notions is to build whole houses of solid concrete, moulded at a single casting, which will provide cosy homes for workingmen at a cost of from $500 to $600. Describing the plan in detail, the inventor says: The first step will be to employ an architect to design, say, a dozen dwelling houses of different patterns. I purpose to have metallic moulds made to correspond. The mould for each house will be made in detachable parts. There will be separate plates and small moulds that can be screwed together easily to form one mould for an entire house. That a fine surface may be obtained, the inside surface of the parts will be nickel-plated. After the mould for the whole house is set up it will be a simple matter to pump the concrete into every nook and cranny. After four days the parts of the mould will be unscrewed and taken off, and the solid concrete house will remain.

Mr. Edison says he has already conceived every detail of the project, and intends to make his first practical experiments next year in the new village which he is organizing for one of his manufacturing plants in New Jersey. Four days at the outside is the period which he estimates will be necessary to cast and turn out whole houses with from eight to ten rooms each, complete in almost every detail and ready to be furnished and carpeted. The actual time for "pumping in the concrete" will be only a few hours, but three or four days will be required to dry out and solidify the structures. He purposes to have ornamental designs for the dormer windows, chimneys, etc. The houses will be fireproof.

There doesn't seem to be anything the matter with his notion, and it does seem to be full of promise.

SUNDAY QUESTION IN ENGLAND

The Sunday question is up in England, too. The joint committee of the British Lords and Commons on Sunday trading have prepared a report which strongly asserts the importance of maintaining Sunday as a day of rest, not only on religious and moral grounds but for the general well-being of the community. They recommend that every shop assistant be assured of one day's rest in seven, and that penalties be exacted from every employer refusing to grant it. With regard to the small shopkeeper they find that the case is somewhat different. There was much evidence to show that the total prohibition of Sunday trading on the part of the costermongers, street hawkers, and small shopkeepers not employing assistants of any kind would inflict inconvenience and hardship on considerable masses of the poorer classes. They consider, therefore, that in any new legislation on this subject some exemptions would be necessary.

While approving the general principle of the Sunday trading act, they hold that the penalties imposed by it are inadequate for securing the end in view. At the same time they maintain that the exigencies of modern life make it necessary to permit in particular districts the sale of certain articles for a part or the whole of Sunday, and recommend that the special regulations necessary should be framed by local authorities, under proper control. For offenders they recommend a system of fines reaching £20 for the third and all subsequent offences. Special exemptions are recommended in the case of medical waters, sweets, tobacco, and new provisions.

CARRIED BY GERMANY

"Made in Germany" is already pretty generally known, and is now "carried by Germany" soon will be. German commerce is growing rapidly in the Mediterranean. The German merchandise handled at Marseilles six years ago was less than 107,000 tons, but last year it was 216,708, or more than double the amount in 1900. British merchandise fell off in the same period though not proportionately, and there was an advance in French shipments and in the tonnage of French ships calling at or leaving that port.

The invasion of the Mediterranean by Germany is of recent date. Indeed, she has made Marseilles a port of call for her steamers only within a year or so, but she now announces a regular service between that city and the Persian Gulf, and steamers that formerly made no halt between New York and Genoa and Naples have now a French landing en route.

Of course Germany can't do all the business of the world, but she is making a strong effort in that direction—so strong an effort that some other business nations will have to move to keep up with her.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

KILLED BY A BULL

Lonely Farmer Near Cumberland Found Dead in Field.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Geo. Bushie, aged 58, a bachelor farmer of Beckett's Creek, near Cumberland, was found yesterday morning in a field, done to death by a ferocious bull. The animal had been debarred a short time ago because of its vicious disposition. It had butted Bushie with such force that a splinter of the breastbone was driven through the unfortunate man's heart, so that death must have been instantaneous. Deceased leaves two brothers, one in Algoma, Michigan, and the other near Regina.

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with at all is nerve weakness. Just as your hand trembles when its nerves are weak, when your heart nerves are weak your heart flutters and palpitates. Other signs are shortness of breath after slight exercise; fainting spells; pain or tenderness about the heart caused by irregular heart action; shooting sensation as if the heart was in the throat; uneasy sensation in the chest, showing that the heart isn't working right; pain when you lie on one side—usually the left side, but frequently the right, painful and difficult breathing; smothered feeling. There is absolutely only one way to treat a weak heart. That is to bring back natural and permanent strength to its nerves. Can you imagine how any thing else can be done? Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring back the strength to the heart nerves always. There is nothing in this remedy to stimulate; nothing that leads to reaction. The strength that it gives is natural and permanent. It is just the same strength as Nature gives to those who are well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative creates strength which expands over the whole inside nerve system—it overcomes the cause of the trouble as well as the result. For sale and recommended by Pale? Thin?

How is it with the children these days? Have they plenty of grit, courage, strength? Or are they thin, pale, delicate? This reminds you of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It does great things for children. It gives them a good appetite, improves their digestion, builds up their general health. Ask your doctor if he endorses this. We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines! J. C. STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. WRIGHT.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I am delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

Laura Elmer felt painfully the awkwardness of her position. It was impossible to speak to him, and nearly equally indelicate to remain and witness the strong emotions that he so evidently tried to conceal.

At length, seeing him deeply absorbed in his own feelings, she softly arose, with the intention of gliding from the room, when the baronet, somehow perceiving her purpose, abruptly started forward, saying, "I beg your pardon, Miss Elmer," opened the door, and courteously held it open until she passed out.

Laura Elmer retraced her steps to Laura Elmer retraced her steps to As she entered she was warmly greeted by the smiles of her young charges, who assured her that they had conscientiously occupied the time of her absence in devotion to their studies.

"Not disinterested attention, I assure you, Miss Elmer, as we remember the old condition of no lessons in the schoolroom, no drive out in the park," said Miss Lester.

Laura looked up inquiringly, and learned from the explanation that ensued that the governess was always expected to take her pupils for a daily afternoon drive in the park, and that they were now quite ready to recite their lessons and prepare for their airing.

Laura Elmer felt no sort of objection to this arrangement, and as soon, therefore, as the lessons were faithfully dispatched, the young ladies' carriage was ordered, and they drove out.

The park was, as usual at this hour of the day, filled with a brilliant crowd in open carriages of every description, intermingled with gay and noble equestrian figures. Laura Elmer enjoyed her drive through the park even more than her pupils did, since to her the scene was as new as it was interesting.

Presently:

"There is Ruthven," exclaimed Miss Lester, as a young gentleman, mounted on a spirited horse, rode up to the side of the carriage, and, lifting his hat, said:

"Well, young ladies, I hope you are enjoying your drive?"

"Excellently well. Miss Elmer, this is our elder brother, Ruthven," said Miss Lester.

The young gentleman, smiling at this very informal presentation, bowed, and hoped Miss Elmer was well, and not too much incommoded by his unmanageable sisters.

Miss Elmer reassured Mr. Lester upon that point, and, in doing so, for the first time looked at him.

He was a fine-looking young man, very much like his father, having the same tall and well-proportioned frame, though much less stout than that of the baronet; and the same dark eyes, and heavy eyebrows, and regular features surrounded by jet-black hair and whiskers, though his face was less full, and his countenance less mature, than that of the elder man. He rode beside the carriage, conversing gayly with his sisters for some time, and then suddenly inquired:

"Is her ladyship out to-day?"

"I am sure I don't know. I have not seen mamma for a week," replied Miss Lester.

"And poor Helen?" inquired the young man, lowering his voice.

"Hush! for mercy's sake! You frighten me," replied his sister, in the same low tone, and with changing cheek, and trembling voice.

The young man sighed deeply, turned and rode sadly away.

A strange, terrified silence fell upon the little party, which lasted until they returned home. After an early tea and supper, Laura Elmer retired to bed. And thus ended the first day of her new phase of life.

CHAPTER XIII.

Ferdinand Cassinove took his way to Grosvenor Square, where he arrived at about midday. After sending in his card, he was invited to walk up into the library, and was immediately shown into the presence of Sir Vincent Lester, who arose courteously to receive him. Placing a chair for his visitor, he said:

"I answered your advertisement in the Times, Mr. Cassinove, inviting you to call upon me here, because I judge that a quicker and more satisfactory arrangement might be concluded in a personal interview than through an epistolary correspondence."

Ferdinand bowed in assent, and took the offered seat.

"Should we come to terms, Mr. Cassinove, your principal charge will be the education of my son Percy, a youth of some twelve years of age. You will also be required to give lessons in Greek and Latin to my two younger daughters. Can you undertake so much?" inquired the baronet.

"Certainly, Sir Vincent. The whole task is by no means a heavy one," said Ferdinand.

"I trust you will find it as light as you anticipate," answered the baronet, with a smile.

Cassinove bowed.

"The salary is fifty pounds per annum. I hope it meets your views."

"Abundantly, Sir Vincent," replied Ferdinand, to whom the salary offered seemed to be a very liberal one.

"I have now, therefore, only to introduce you to your pupils, if you will be kind enough to accompany me to the schoolroom. James, go before and announce us," said the baronet, rising, and leading the way.

Upon entering the schoolroom, Miss Lester and Master Percy were found to be its only occupants.

"Where is your governess, my dears?" inquired their father.

"In the music-room, giving Lucy her music lessons," replied Miss Lester, and at the same time a sweet voice was heard rehearsing some simple melody.

The baronet presented their tutor to the young people.

Cassinove had scarcely greeted his pupils when, raising his eyes, he stood face to face with the goddess of his worship—Laura Elmer.

The blood rushed to his brow, his strong frame trembled; he bowed low, to conceal the agitation he could not control.

"Miss Elmer, Mr. Cassinove, my son's new tutor," said the baronet.

"I have met Mr. Cassinove before," replied Laura, with a smile, as she offered her hand.

Ferdinand barely touched that white hand, bowed lowly over it as though it had been the hand of a queen. To him, indeed, she was ever a queen. In losing all her worldly glory, she had lost no single ray of that halo with which her noble womanhood was surrounded. Thus he bowed lowly over her hand as though it had been the hand of a queen.

"Ah, you have met before!" observed the baronet, glancing from the smiling face of Laura to the agitated countenance of Cassinove, in a tone and with a look of slight vexation as strange as it was certain.

Then, recovering his usual air of calm and stately courtesy, he said:

"But we will not further trespass upon Miss Elmer," and bowing, led the way from the schoolroom back to the library.

It was arranged that the new tutor should come the next day and enter upon his duties, and Ferdinand Cassinove returned to his humble lodgings to prepare for his change of residence.

As he entered the small shop, he found Mrs. Russel wringing her hands in distress, and the two little children crying around her. The shelves were dismantled, and the drawers open and rifled.

"Why, what is the matter?" hastily inquired Cassinove, in surprise.

"Oh, Mr. Cassinove! Oh, sir!" was all that the sobbing woman could reply.

"What has occurred?" again inquired the young man.

"Oh, Mr. Cassinove! Oh, sir! and the rent due to-day!" cried the widow.

"Oh! it's an execution!" said the young man, in a tone of compassion.

"An execution? Lord, no, indeed, sir; if it were only that, I might have met the costs!"

"Then you have been robbed!" exclaimed Cassinove, in dismay.

"Yes, sir. While I was out, and the children left alone, a man came and said he was sent by the orphan asylum to buy all the stock. The children did not suspect him, and he helped himself to everything and drove away in a cart."

"Do you know the man?" inquired Cassinove.

"Yes."

"Who is he?"

"I dare not tell you. Oh! Mr. Cassinove, there are troubles in this world of which one must never speak, upon which no eye but that of God must ever look. Mine is such a one as that. You came in and found my house made

Beware of Mercury

You May Be Using This Harmful Drug and Not Know it.

A favorite method of administering this deleterious drug is in cathartic pills. Beware of "quick-result" articles, they may do more harm than good.

Drastic cathartics will weaken the strongest. With old people they are a positive menace to life.

Merely to restore normal bowel action and gently stimulate the liver is all that the wise physician recommends.

To keep the system pure and clean, nothing is so effacious as the vegetable pills of Dr. Hamilton, which are composed of such herbs as mandrake, butternut and dandelion; they contain not an atom of any substance that could injure even an infant.

By their certain action on the Liver Dr. Hamilton's Pills cause bile to be secreted which forms the stimulus that moves the bowels: this is nature's own method and the best one.

Mr. R. Hamly, of French River, Ont., writes as follows: "I was inclined to bilious attacks and frequently was too ill to work. Most remedies purged and weakened my bowels, but Dr. Hamilton's Pills gently stimulated my liver, and by strengthening the stomach made a perfect cure. My health has been just splendid since I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Local Young Lady Becomes a Matron

Marriage of Miss Nellie Edwards to Mr. T. J. Mcgregor of Manitoba.

Yesterday morning one of this county's fair young belles became a matron. The marriage was celebrated at the George street Methodist church parsonage, when Rev. Dr. Crothers united in marriage, Mr. Thos. J McGregor, grain merchant of Gray County, Manitoba, to Miss Nellie Edwards, daughter of Mr. John Edwards, of Lang, Otonabee township. The bride, who was attired in the conventional veil and orange blossoms, was attended by her sister, Miss Jennie Edwards, of Laing, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Edward McGregor, of Peterborough. Two Drunks Taken for Gypsies.

The Times ascertained yesterday that sensational rumors regarding an alleged kidnapping of an infant, by Gypsies, on Rubidge street, Monday, resolved themselves into a drunken bout between an Englishman and his wife. The appearance of these importations from Albion might easily lead to their being taken for Gypsies or any other old thing. The whole story boiled down to fact is that both husband and wife used only to calling for "A glawss of awf and awf, miss," had tackled Canadian tangle-leg whiskey and had gotten the grand razzle dazzle thereby or therefrom.

Kind Words for This City

The Tillsonburg Liberal says: The representatives to the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows have all returned home well pleased with their outing. Peterborough is a thriving city and the local lodges were unremitting in their efforts to make the gathering a successful and pleasant one. Col. Miller, chairman of the reception committee, was a host in himself and gained many warm friends among the visitors.

Toronto Junction Will Not Come

Yesterday morning the powers that be of the Shamrock Club of this city, received a telephone message from President J. C. Who Lost Collegiate Institute Plans?

Yesterday evening about seven p.m., as two well known local contractors and a Times representative were wending their way northward along George street, at the corner of Hunter street, held back by the grating over the George street sewer entrance was a bluish looking mass of papers. The three pedestrians made a investigation and discovered that the mass was composed of ful. blue print plans of the new collegiate institute.

By a strange coincidence Dr. Morrison, a member of the Board of Education, was crossing George street at the very moment these plans were discovered.

The Local Gas Works Busy.

The local gas works has unloaded four tank cars of crude oil within the past week, these cars aggregate some 25,000 gallons of oil. Under old conditions this quantity of oil could not have been accommodated by the gas works for lack of accommodation in the underground tanks on Simcoe street. However, owing to the new tank, supplied by the Wm Hamilton Mfg. Co., to the east end of the gas works, no trouble was experienced in taking in this amount of oil. The new tank made of sheet iron will accommodate 30,000 gallons of oil, and is filled direct from the oil tank cars by a pipe.

New Contractors Kept Busy.

A new firm of contractors have opened up business in the city and have already got busy. Messrs. Herb. Snowden and Frank White, for the past few days have been busily engaged in the Snowden House yard, tearing down the building formerly used as a barn house and pigeon loft. This building, the enterprising firm has torn down and replaced by a modern brick stable. The firm has done good work, and have erected a fine brick stable with three stalls. It is not beyond a possibility that the new firm will enter a tender for the new Normal school.

News Along Otonabee Wharves.

The steamer Rainbow came up the river yesterday morning with a scow-load of wood for the Matthews Company.

The steamer Monarch made her regular trip down the river yesterday morning, and carried about forty passengers.

The Water Lily carried about 200 picnickers to Jubilee yesterday morning. They comprised the Salvation Army Sunday school picnic to that popular resort.

FACTS IN NATURE

Not Only Do We Get Inspiration From Nature, But Health as Well.

For people who are run-down and nervous, who suffer from indigestion or dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, or torpid liver, coated tongue with bitter taste in the morning and poor appetite, it becomes necessary to turn to some tonic or strengthener which will assist Nature and help them to get on their feet and put the body into its proper condition. It is becoming more and more apparent that Nature's most valuable health-giving agents are to be found in forest plants and roots.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. R. V. Pierce, now consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., discovered that by scientifically extracting and combining certain medicinal principles from native roots, taken from our American forests, he could produce a medicine which was marvelously efficient in curing cases of blood disorder and liver and stomach trouble as well as many other chronic, or lingering ailments. This concentrated extract of Nature's vitality he named "Golden Medical Discovery." It purifies the blood by putting the stomach and liver into healthy condition, thereby helping the digestion and assimilation of food which feeds the blood. Thereby it cures weak stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, or biliousness, and kindred derangements.

If you have coated tongue, with bitter or bad taste in the morning, frequent headaches, feel weak, easily tired, stitches or pain in side, back gives out easily and aches, belching of gas, constipation, or irregular bowels, feel flashes of heat alternating with chilly sensations or kindred symptoms, they point to derangement of your stomach, liver and kidneys, which the "Golden Medical Discovery" will correct more speedily and permanently than any other known agent. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed in plain English on wrapper.

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One a laxative; two or three are cathartic.

Miss Ellen Donoghue Passes Away

Yesterday morning Miss Ellen Donoghue, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, after being at this admirably managed institution for many months.

Deceased was a sister of Mrs. Jas. F. Crowley, 788 Water street, and of Mrs. Wm. O'Boyle and Mrs. Wm. O'Neil, Lindsay. She was a daughter of Dennis Donoghue, of Lindsay. The remains were taken to Lindsay yesterday evening.

Improvements to Str. Water Lily.

Capt. Whare, the efficient and popular controller of the steamer Water Lily, has had a new propellor placed on this sturdy craft. This, together with the new rudder applied to the boat recently, will make the Water Lily a much faster boat, although her past record is an enviable one.

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts." Write for Manual.

Plate Presented to Battleship

Interesting Scenes on the Deck of H. M. S. Dominion at Quebec---Captain Kingsmill's Thanks.

Quebec, Aug. 24.—H.M.S. Dominion put on her best appearance this morning for the scene of gaiety yesterday. At one o'clock Capt. Kingsmill entertained his Excellency the Governor-General, The Dominion Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Lieut.-Governor, Sir Louis Jette, the French Admiral and Captains of the two French cruisers, and other guests to luncheon on board the battleship. At three o'clock the presentation of the shield and silver service from the people of Canada and the cup from the people of Halifax was made aboard the ship in the presence of a large gathering of prominent people from all parts of the Dominion. The battleship was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the officers and crew dressed in their full dress uniforms made the scene a most charming one. Capt. Kingsmill, Commander Boyle, and officers of the ship were all gathered on the quarter-deck to receive the invited guests, and after this formality was gone through the crew came aft to take part in the pleasant function. The committee from Ontario, composed of Mr. J. K. Osborne, chairman, Col John I. Davidson, W. B. McMurrich, K.C., and W. D. Gendman from Toronto together with their ladies, held a prominent position beside the members of the Kingsmill family from Ontario. Mrs. Fisk of Montreal, and Mrs. Galt of New York.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S REMARKS.

His Excellency the Governor-General introduced the members of the committee, and in a short speech told of the pleasure it gave him to be present at the presentation, which was not a gift from the people of Ontario, but from the people of the whole of Canada. His Excellency next introduced the chairman, Mr. J. K. Osborne, who said that when it became known that the Admiralty had as a compliment to Canada named one of the newest and most powerful battleships the Dominion, he conceived the idea that it would be a graceful and fitting and a desirable act to make some kind of a presentation to the ship that would be acceptable to the officers and men alike, and would emphasize the kindly feeling existing among the people of Canada towards the navy in general and H.M.S. Dominion in particular. He then told of the subscription movement and its popularity, and enumerated the articles, a silver shield, loving cup, cigar and cigaret boxes with lighters. Col. John I Davidson read the dedication address, and, after the applause had subsided, Capt. Kingsmill, in behalf of his officers and crew, accepted the valuable presentation in a very happy and appropriate speech.

WANTS PEACE, NOT WAR.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said as a Canadian and a British subject he took pride in the Dominion and be British navy but he was no a man of war, he was a man of peace, and Canada wanted peace to see the country developed. Instead of battleships, he desired to see the building of railways, canals, and locks to exploit the commercial advantages that were to make Canada an important par of the Empire. He spoke of the entente cordiale between France and England during the Crimean war, the good understanding of the two nations at the present, and said that if trouble ever did arise he hoped to see France and England a unit, and Canadians were sure that in such an event Captain Kingsmill would give a good account of himself, as all other Canadians would do who would be called to defend the Empire.

Emotional Insanity Will be the Plea

New York, Aug 23.—A decision was reached yesterday by the attorneys for Harry K. Thaw that Thaw's defence to the charge of killing Stanford White will be a plea of emotional insanity.

This will include the declaration that Thaw's insanity existed only until after White was killed, and that Thaw is now sane again, and has been since the killing.

The decision to make this plea was reached after the reports of two alienists who visited Thaw in the Tombs yesterday had been communicated to Clifford W. Hartridge, of Thaw's counsel.

It was also decided yesterday that Mrs. Harry K. Thaw will be the chief witness of the defence in its efforts to prove that Thaw was insane when he killed White.

Barbers' Sunday Trip is Off

It now seems that the Knights of the Razor and Shears, will not hold their usual annual outing this, as in past years. Owing to the exigencies of their calling and the overplus of work now being done by them, forbids any day but Sunday being taken up for a holiday. In former years Sunday has been taken as the Barbers' day off, when one of the local steamers was chartered for them and their friends. However, this summer, they will not be able to get away Sunday as instructions have been given the lockmaster and those in charge of the swing bridges not to open the gates for anyone on the Sabbath.

Two Little Girls Saved From Death

London, Aug. 23.—Two little girls named McCullough, residing on Victoria street, were taken from the water near Dexter's Dam in the north end of the city yesterday by Thomas Reid and Ernest Clark, employes of the mill.

They had attempted to commit suicide by deliberately throwing themselves in three feet of water and lying still.

The oldest child was all but dead when taken from the water and was brought to by means of artificial respiration. She stated that she was sorry that she had not died when she became conscious. She said that the trouble was at her home. Her sister had not been seriously affected by the water.

55 Head Hunting, Dog Eating Wild People

On Exhibition at Toronto's Exposition —Interesting Facts About These Remarkable Primitive People From the Philippines.

Visitors to the Toronto Exhibition should not fail to see the Igorrote Village, brought to the United States to be exhibited at the Anthropological Section of the Portland Exposition of 1905, and pronounced by all to have been the star feature of that event. The management of the Canadian National Exposition have secured the installation on Toronto's fair grounds of this remarkable village, where will be given a complete exposition of the life of these primitive people during the continuance of the exhibition. The display is made on educational lines and is such as appeals at all times to the intelligent class of every community.

This exhibit is made with the sanction of the (U.S.A.) War Department and the Government of the Philippine Islands. There is nothing in the presentation of the show, or in the natives themselves, to which the most sensitive and refined could object, but such as always to enlist their interest.

There are 55 Igorrotes—men and boys, women and girls—and a stranger or more interesting colony of wild people were never seen.

Among the more than one hundred tribes of the Philippine Islands the Igorrote is one of the most conspicuous, and easily the most interesting because of his strange method of life and still stranger customs. So little known is he, that today he would be as great a curiosity in the City of Manila as in Chicago. He is of Malay origin, of a superb bronze color, long straight hair, and remarkable physique, although as a rule not tall.

The Igorrote is a pagan, a barbarian in culture, an agriculturist from necessity, terracing the mountain sides with stone, forming "camenteras" where he grows rice in the dry season, while others grow theirs in the wet season. This is accomplished by diverting streams so they will irrigate the camenteras. For untold generations he has been a fierce hunter of human heads. There is constant warfare between neighboring tribes, and head-hunting is not only a means of self-defense, but in a measure a pastime, for after a member has taken and brought home a human head, a month is given to happy celebration. There are rites and ceremonies peculiar to the event, and there are constant dances and feasts, which bring to the otherwise hard-worked people relaxation and social intercourse.

All Igorrotes eat dog. It is a tribal dish. No female, however, is permitted to partake of dog-flesh, because it is considered to have a quality which nerves up the fighter for the head-hunting expeditions, and the Igorrotes do not care to have their women fight.

The native industries of these people are woven, and the women may be seen weaving their bright-colored cloths, while men are engaged in fabricating spears, bolos and head-axes at the primitive forge, making rings, baskets and picket-hats. Performances are given from eleven in the morning to eleven at night, consisting of different dances, native songs, spear throwing practice, sham battles, etc.

In the party are three Chiefs, the first ever to leave the islands, each with a record as a head-hunter. Domingo, the Head Chief, according to official Spanish records, has taken seventeen human heads. Chief Anunasal of Tukukan, Chief Moling of Bontoc, and many of the other bucks have gory records as takers of human heads.

At the St. Louis World's Fair their Village was visited by President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks and their families. It was endorsed by Cabinet officers, Senators, World's Fair officials, members of the Board of Lady Managers, press and pulpit as the most unique educational feature.

Chemong Regatta a Great Success

Thousands Go Out to Take in the Great Event.

Yesterday afternoon it was impossible for love or money to secure a livery horse or team. The crowds that went to Chemong Regatta, were unprecedented, and the regatta itself was well managed and thoroughly enjoyed by the thousands in attendance. The auto-bus had its capacities taxed to the utmost, still the auto did heroic service in carrying the crowds. The park banks were crowded by spectators and hundreds of canoes, skiffs and launches floated, like things of life over the bosom of Peterborough's most beautiful and easily accessible sheet of water, Chemong Lake.

Hastings Star -on the Game

The Hastings Star says, By defeating Bearerton on Saturday the Peterborough juniors are champions of two districts in the C.L.A. They likely meet Bracebridge, who are also winners of two districts. These lads are all under 21 years of age. On Peterborough's lineup are Jack and Jimmie McNichol, and on Bracebridge's Irvin Doonan, all of whom, no doubt, remember with some pleasure when, a few years ago they used to steal away their older brothers' sticks during the day and play together on the side streets of Hastings.

SUMMER CATARRH

Hot Weather Seems to Have Bad Effect Upon Some People.

It is generally recognized by physicians that many people suffer more with catarrh during the summer than in the winter. The hot, dry weather and the change from the hot days to cool nights seems to have a bad effect upon the disease.

Even after the usual methods of treating catarrh have been unsuccessful, Hyomei will cure the disease, and all catarrh sufferers should take the treatment.

In many instances Hyomei has cured catarrh when the patient has suffered since childhood. Quite a number of people in Peterborough who for years have been unable to get a good night's sleep on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, have obtained quick relief from a few treatments of Hyomei and the continued use has made a complete and lasting cure.

There is no stomach dosing when one uses Hyomei. Simply breathe its medicated air through the pocket inhaler that comes in every outfit and all germs will be killed and the mucous membrane will be healed.

The complete outfit costs $1.00, extra bottles, 50c.

THE CAREER OF A BIG TURFPLUNGER

Ups and Downs of Michael Dwyer, Once a Millionaire

LOST $190,000 IN ONE WEEK

In 1893 Dwyer Was Worth $1,000,000—Five Years Later He Was Broke.

Michael F. Dwyer, the most successful turf plunger the American racing world has ever known, is dead.

From 1878 to 1891 he was the foremost figure on the American turf. He and his brother, "Phil" Dwyer, in partnership until 1890, owned horses which won all the great prizes of that time and which became the sires and grandsires of the most famous racers of the last fifteen years.

Broken in health and fortune, "Mike" Dwyer never lost the reputation for integrity and coolness which were his when he was betting $50,000 to win $5,000 on Hanover, $60,000 to win $6,000 on Joe Cotton, and when he could not raise enough money to save his last horse, Ben Ronald, from sale after a selling race at the end of his active turf career.

Always even tempered, kindly, Mr. Dwyer, just before dissolving partnership with his brother, took an intense hatred of bookmakers. In one week he had lost $150,000, and he believed that trickery was the cause of some of his defeats. He declared he would drive them from the race courses. This had much to do with the ending of the partnership, for his more conservative and elder brother believed this animosity would work to the destruction of them both. "Mike" Dwyer was the first turfman controlling a large racing plant to fight the poolrooms, and his battle against Peter Delacey to prevent the sending of racing results from the Brooklyn Jockey Club's track in 1891 is still memorable.

Through their roadsters, Constitution and Independence, which they started in trotting races, the two brothers became interested in the turf, and bought for $5,500 a third interest in Rhadamanthus, which won many races. The following years they purchased other running horses.

Their great success began in 1878, when they bought Dramble. Dramble won fifteen races out of twenty starts, was second twice, and third once. Two years later they owned the invincible Luke Blackburn, which won twenty-two races out of twenty-four starts, and lost one through falling.

Hindoo, the "speed wonder," was another great racer, and in the following years Miss Woodford, George Kinney and the mighty Hanover, Tremont, the unbeaten, Sir Dixon, Kingston, Banquet, Richmond, Raceland and a host of others added to their wealth in purses and stakes to the total amount of $1,111,554 in sixteen years.

In the early 80's and 90's a report that "Mike" Dwyer was betting on a horse sent bookmakers to work on their slates, wiping away any price against the horse which he was playing. Odds-on pleased Michael Dwyer better than a long price. He bet on Tremont when he had to give odds of fifteen to one to the bookmakers, and the great black two-year-old won every one of his thirteen starts.

Once when Dwyer wanted to back his famous sprinter to beat Terrifier, the bookmakers would not give anything like a reasonable price, and Circular Joe Vendig was instructed as commissioner of Dwyer to bet on Terrifier for the place. The finish line was moved for this race; the veteran of two hundred races, Kingston, stopped at the usual place, and Terrifier beat him.

In 1893, Michael Dwyer was worth $1,000,000. Five years later he was "broke."

Dwyer's last and disastrous campaign was in England. He had owned a youngster, Michael III., which was expected to equal Tremont's success, but the horse died early in the racing season. His great sprinter, Cleophus, went amiss, and Sly Fox also went out of form.

With seventeen horses, including the faithful Banquet, Dobbins, Don Alonzo and Harry Reed, Mr. Dwyer went to England. He lost $150,000 and most of his horses. Harry Reed was left at the post when his owner had a fortune on him to win. The best of his string were lost in selling races, and Mr. Dwyer, practically bankrup, returned.

In his betting career Michael Dwyer often laid heavy wagers on horses not in his stable, only to see them beaten by his own starters in the race. Once when he had $5,000 on Britannic that horse had a hemorrhage as he turned into the stretch and a Dwyer horse easily beat him home.

Christian Science Victim Eulogized

American Papers Refer to the Late Mr. A. N. Randlett.

Referring to the death of the late Mr. A. N. Randlett, concerning whose death last week, whilst in the house of a "Christian Scientist," a writ was called in medical aid a few minutes before this young man died, a Lowell, Mass. paper says:

Arthur N. Randlett, aged 37 years, died at Peterborough, Ont., Thursday. He was Canadian agent for the J. C. Ayer Company, and was well known in this city, where he had many staunch friends during the four years that he was employed at Pearson's drug store, at the corner of Center and Appleton Streets. He died at the home of a Christian Science healer, at whose house he had been staying for more than three weeks.

While in Lowell Mr. Randlett was stricken with typhoid fever, and had a hard siege. The effects of the fever did not leave him, and, while his friends here knew that he was in failing health, they had been led by the cheerfulness of his letters to believe he was improving, and were shocked because of the suddenness of the news that he was dead.

Few young men enjoyed a wider and stauncher circle of friends than did Arthur Randlett, he was unselfish and untiring in his efforts to assist others and to add to their comfort, and the line of friendship that went out to him extended from the ranks of the newsboys to the most influential of our citizens. There was no reason why Arthur Randlett should have died in a strange land and among strangers.

Dr. Stowell, of the J. C. Ayer Company, said;

"Mr. Randlett was one of the best travelling agents we have ever had. He had been working for us about six months, and we had transferred him from Michigan to Canada. I knew he had not been enjoying the best of health, but had no intimation of a serious illness until August 4th, when on that date I received a letter from him. It was typewritten and stated that he was staying with a 'minister.' What purported to be Mr. Randlett's signature, appeared at the close of the letter, and when I glanced at it I saw at once that the had been a very sick man. It had all the signs of the handwriting of one suffering from some serious nervous trouble. But, because he stated that he was recovering and would be able to go to work within a few days I did not worry about his condition. Well, several days passed and still I no thing further from our Canadian agent came. This was a little odd, as we usually heard from him every few days. Wednesday morning I decided to send him some money, and did so.

"This morning I received a telegram stating that he had died. Nothing whatever was included in the telegram relating to the manner of his death."

Mr. Randlett's friends in this city did not know that he was at all interested in Christian Science. While in Lowell, he lived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Meister, 201 Appleton street.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. E. I. Moser, of Marlboro, and Miss Emma Randlett, of Normboro, and one brother. The body will be removed to his old home in Northboro, where the funeral will take place.

Former Peterboro' Parson Honored

Reception to Rev. J. P. Wilson at Belleville.

It will interest the many friends, in this city, of Rev. J. P. Wilson, formerly pastor of the George street Methodist church to learn that he has met with a warm and cordial welcome in Belleville.

The Intelligencer says, in part;

"No more enjoyable function has been held in Bridge street church than that of last night. The congregation was invited to welcome back its pastor. A presentation of gold was made and his Honor Judge Deroche was welcomed to the city, and as a member of Bridge street church.

"A welcome committee was at the door at Bridge street. There was a hail-shout of hand-smaking, and his worship the mayor (minus his gold chain)—commenced the proceedings by asking the audience to join in singing the Doxology, for the return of their beloved pastor. Then the Revs. R. N. Adams and W. H. Peake led in thanksgiving to the Almighty for the care of Mr. Wilson and for bringing him back to his people.

Mr. Henry Ungle, in a brief address, on behalf of the congregation, bade Mr. Wilson "a thousand welcomes." He was followed by Lieut.-Col. Ponton, and Mr. Charles McReid, Mr. Wilson's companions in travel, crossing and recrossing the Atlantic, both of whom had many complimentary sentences about Mr. Wilson, and the influence of his life on the many persons of various classes whom they met.

"Mr. Wilson, in reply, gave some interesting items of travel, and his impression of places and persons. He puts London, Edinburgh and Belfast as the places whose life, history and people most charmed him.

"We should have said that when Mr. Wilson rose to reply the audience spontaneously rose to their feet and welcomed him most enthusiastically.

"Mr. S. Burrows told Mr. Hunter how much the Bridge street people thought of him, as a man and a preacher, and their belief that he was one of the coming chief preachers of Methodism or of the United Church, and asked Mr. Hunter to accept a purse of gold as 'proof of what he said.'"

Agarian Troubles in Poor Russia

Samara, Russia, Aug. 23.—The agrarian situation in this province is most grave.

Disorders are prevalent in numerous districts, and troops have been requisitioned to restore order in three localities where firing is going on.

Many men have been killed.

The peasants of the Kozloff State who recently seized and occupied the land have returned the property to its owners.

A strike of factory hands has begun in Samara, and a number of agitators have been arrested.

Valparaiso Still Under Martial Law

The Government Has Appropriated $4,000,000 for the Relief of the Destitute---Work of Recovering Bodies Expedited.

Valparaiso, Chili, Aug. 24.—Some of the business houses here re-opened today for the first time since the earthquake.

Telephone and telegraph communication with Santiago has been re-established, but the lines are almost exclusively used by the Government officials.

The city is still under martial law, traffic ceases at six o'clock in the evening, and everybody is compelled to take some part in the work, under the direction of the ministers of the interior and industry, assisted by the local Government officials, in restoring normal conditions here.

As a first instalment the government has appropriated $4,000,000 for the relief of the destitute.

The custom house was re-opened today, and traffic by water and by rail has been resumed.

The post service is also in operation.

One of the greatest difficulties encountered by the authorities is the burial of the bodies recovered from the ruins, as all the cemeteries were destroyed.

At the temporary morgues heaps of coffins have accumulated.

The work of recovering the bodies is being pushed to the utmost in order to avoid an epidemic, to fear of which many families are leaving the city.

The whole length of Brazil avenue and also over Victoria Square, large sheds have been constructed to shelter the homeless from the severe rains which have been falling.

Survivors of the earthquake say that during the shocks it was impossible to stand erect without support.

A movement is on foot to organize a company to facilitate the raising of the money necessary to reconstruct the city.

All the provinces of the north and south which have not suffered from the earthquakes are sending supplies of food and money to the stricken cities and towns.

The department of public works at Santiago has appropriated $100,000 for the construction of sheds to shelter the refugees from Valparaiso and elsewhere, who continue to arrive at the Chilian capital in large numbers.

The railroad line between Limache and Quilpue, in addition to suffering severely from the shocks of August 16, has several enormous crevices, newly formed, in its vicinity.

Valparaiso is still without street lights at night, but order is maintained, thanks to the severity of the authorities, who continue shooting all persons who are caught committing robberies.

Among the buildings which fell at the time of the earthquake are the Palace of Justice and the Maritime Prefecture.

On Wednesday the Havelock bunch did up the Norwood team, in a game played at the former burg. The Havelock team won out by a score of 8—5, and thus placed themselves right in the running for the Trent Valley championship.

The last year's champions on Wednesday imported Henry Surphlis and Sheets, of Port Hope, to do their battery work, while they moved Dan McCorry, their regular pitcher, over to third, where he made good.

The Norwood nine were minus Jimmie Pilling the star pitcher, but A. Quinlan, who took his place, was in great form, and had the Havelock nine guessing most of the time. Parnell and Trenton also played well for the losers.

RUGBY.

Mr. Wm. Sloe, manager of the Victoria Rugby team, of Toronto, was in the city yesterday. This experienced exponent of the game said he thought that this season would be a banner year for the O.R.F.U. He was of the opinion that all last year's senior teams would fall in line again, and that it is also expected that Dundas and Peterborough last year's intermediate champions will play senior this fall, as they have been playing intermediate so long.

Mr. Sloe denies the report that he will again manage the Vics, but says that he will take a place on their executive.

Geo. Finlayson of the Montreal Lacrosse team, has been committed for trial on a charge of manslaying Chas. Querrie of the Tecumsehs, at the Island on July 28. The Crown had six witnesses subpoenaed. Querrie in evidence, said he did not know who struck him. Percy Quinn, referee though, that Querrie had been struck on the abdomen after the ball had left his stick.

Ald. John Hay thought that Finlayson should not have struck Querrie as the latter had thrown the ball and was then standing still. Could not swear that the blow was delivered deliberately. Detective Guthrie however thought the blow was given deliberately.

Last night the local junior team had a good practice at Riverside Park, in preparation for Saturday's game in Lindsay with the sturdy Toronto Junction twelve. The boys are confident that they will put the "Q" mark on Fred Waghorne's aggregation.

Much depends on the outcome of this match, for if the locals win they will go up a peg in the race for the pennant. If they win this game it practically gives them the championship, for the Junction is counted on as having one of the best junior teams in the province. The Shamrocks leave by a special train from the G.T.R. depot at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and it is expected that a large crowd of their local admirers will take advantage of the cheap trip to root for our local juniors.

New Plans for Far East Mails

Montreal, Aug. 23.—An important arrangement for the rapid delivery of British, China and Japan mails has just been made by the Imperial postal authorities with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, whereby the mails will be handled by this one company for a distance of over 12,000 miles.

A special fast mail train, consisting of the necessary mail and baggage car accommodation, and from two to four sleeping cars and a dining car, for through passengers, will be run across Canada from Quebec to Vancouver in 93 hours.

This train will make only a few stops at the chief station en route. Similar arrangements will be made for mails and through passengers.

The westbound service will be as follows:—Leave Liverpool, R.M.S.S. Empress of Ireland, August 24; leave Quebec on arrival of steamship, August 31, arrive Vancouver, September 4; leave Vancouver R. M. SS. Empress of China September 4; arrive Hong Kong, September 21.

This in less than one month the mails will be delivered from Great Britain to China, and vice versa.

Shipped Too Big a Cargo.

Mike Lavery of Driscoll Terrace, East Side, shipped too large a cargo which swelled his brain. Somehow or other the jolly Mike got the notion into his head that he owned the whole of the lower part of Simcoe street, and was disputing possession of same when P.C. Newhall was called on the scene, the result being that Mike owned No. 1 room, Hotel de Cops for the remainder of the night.

THE PETERBOROUGH MORNING TIMES

TIREDNESS MEANS DANGER!

Indicates Faulty Blood and Worn-Out Nerves Build Up, or Total Collapse will Surely Follow.

When you're tired all day, bothered by trifles, exhausted with nervousness, be sure there is something wrong.

You need bracing up, need more nourishment in the blood, need a powerful medicine to vitalize the nerves and distribute force and staying power to all over-worked organs.

The most marvelous success is Ferrozone, a nourishing tonic so scientific as to be the admiration of every physician. Ferrozone performs wonders for people in poor health; it acts directly on the blood, enriching it with strength and new life that is at once dispatched to all parts of the body. Ferrozone feeds the nerves and vital energies, supplies force, determination and joyous, buoyant spirits.

A case where there was lassitude and lack of strength is told by Mr. David Brown, of post-office box No. 10, Ilderton, Ont.: "About a year ago my health commenced to fail. My hands and feet seemed always cold. I felt worn-out and exhausted, weak as a little child. My face twitched. My limbs and arms commenced to lose their sense of feeling and finally my left side was perfectly numb. All my color left. My appetite ran down. Ferrozone was the first to give me any help. I improved with it very quickly. It toned up the blood and assisted circulation, so that the numbness gradually disappeared. My condition was perfectly cured by Ferrozone, and I have been well ever since. (Signed) David Brown."

SPECIAL NOTICE—To get satisfactory results be sure you get Ferrozone only. Fifty cents per box of six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 24 1906

MENACE OF EUROPE

It is being discovered that potatoes are not the only things that will grow in Ireland. The experiments in tobacco growing in Ireland, which have now been carried on for several years by Colonel Nugent T. Everard, of Navan, Randlestown, County Meath, appear to have been brought to a successful termination and to have emerged from the experimental stage into an actual industry. In 1904 Colonel Everard grew twenty acres of tobacco, which yielded 9,000 pounds of cured leaf. It was favorably reported upon by experts and sold freely at 1-3d per pound above the same grade of American tobacco. In 1905 11 1-2 acres were grown by Colonel Everard, which yielded 15,500 pounds. During the same year nine acres grown in County Wexford yielded 8,000 pounds, and two and a half acres in County Louth yielded 3,300 pounds. Almost all the produce grown by Colonel Everard and in County Louth was sold at 1d. per pound above the price of the previous year's crop, and has been pronounced by experts as showing a considerable advance in quality. In 1904 and 1905 only the cheaper varieties, for the manufacture of "plug" tobacco, were grown.

This year Colonel Everard is experimenting upon twenty-five varieties, and it is said that the experiment is likely to prove a success. Although many applications have been received from willing growers, the British Treasury, through the Irish Department of Agriculture, has only allowed tobacco to be grown this year as follows: Colonel Everard, 20 acres; other cultivators in County Meath, 10 acres; in County Wexford, 12 acres; in County Kilkenny, 8 acres; in County Louth 15 acres; and in King's County, 14 acres. The total number of acres is seventy-nine. The Department of Agriculture has employed an American expert, who is giving the benefit of his advice and assistance to the cultivators.

JAPANESE IMMIGRANTS

Under the treaty of commerce and navigation between Great Britain and Japan which have just gone into force, the subjects of each of the two contracting parties shall have full liberty to enter, travel or reside in any part of the dominions and possessions of the other contracting party, and shall enjoy full and perfect protection for their persons and property. There are a great many clauses, but the practical effect is that Japanese shall enjoy in Canada or elsewhere in the British Empire, all the rights to which the subjects of any civilized nation are entitled to enjoy. This means that we shall, in all probability, have an influx of Japanese laborers into this country—especially into British Columbia. There has previously been no restriction on their coming, so far as the Canadian Government is concerned, but the Japanese Government itself has placed restrictions on emigration. This, we understand, has been cancelled or seriously modified. There can be no bar to any number of Japanese coming in as labor[illegible] merchants, or as proposed freeholders. The British Columbia Legislature may intervene, and endeavor to exert its authority as on previous occasion to prevent Japanese immigration with, of course, the inevitable result of disallowance. It is possible that in this way the labor problem in the West may be solved. Although nine out of ten employers of labor would probably prefer the Chinese.

TOBACCO IN IRELAND

That the real danger to European peace and security is neither the yellow peril nor the aspiration of Pan-Germanism, but rather the union of the Mohammedans in a religious uprising against Christian Powers, is the contention of The Continental Correspondence (Berlin). The writer is defending the Kaiser, who he checkmated the steps taken by France in her alleged scheme of Moroccan occupation. The occupation of Morocco by a single power, or even the attempt by such a power to exert "protection" over the north-west Sultanate of Africa, would be likely, we are told, to rouse that spirit of Mussulman ferocity which is merely slumbering in the communities of Islam from Burma to the Pillars of Hercules.

That a Mohammedan uprising of an extensive kind is not outside the range of possibility is asserted by a correspondent of the London Times, who declares that the Sultan did not rule who for the time ruled in Egypt, so long as he could consolidate his authority as Calif of the Islam world, owned as the successor of the Prophet by all who acknowledged the banner of the Crescent. Thus it was that he backed down in the dispute about Tabah. The time was not yet ripe, he thought, for another holy war. When the war came, Islam with its many millions would have no greater difficulty in conquering the world than it had found in subduing North Africa and Spain. Pan-Islamism is at the present moment an imminent menace to Europe, according to the most cautious and best informed of English statesmen.

Trinidad Will Examine Canned Products Closely in Future

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—The Department of Trade and Commerce has been notified by Mr. Edgar Fripp, Canadian agent for Trinidad and Tobago, that an ordinance providing for a thorough investigation of canned meats has been passed by the legislature.

The ordinance which was framed as a result of the Chicago exposures gives the Government the power to seize and destroy all goods found to be unsound and injurious to the health.

There will be no compensation for the owners of destroyed goods.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. WRIGHT.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I am delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight." G. E. WRIGHT, Lansing.

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, &c., &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous sums of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums of machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 1½ cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

was her relations with Sir Vincent? his family? What was the nature of her unhappiness—guilt or misfortune? And what was the reason for her strict seclusion? These were mysteries which Laura Elmer felt should have been elucidated before she should have been requested to become the companion of Helen Ravenscroft.

"You are silent, Miss Elmer. I am well aware that the service I venture to ask of you is a very important one. If you feel any reluctance to undertake it, pray do not hesitate to say so," said the baronet, gently.

"I only wished to reflect for a few moments whether I could, with propriety, accept the charge you would honor me with. I will at least drive out with the lady this afternoon, when I shall then be better able to judge."

"I thank you more than you can imagine, Miss Elmer," said the baronet; and in the fervor of his gratitude he would have raised the hand of Laura to his lips, but she coldly withdrew it, saying that she would go and prepare for her drive.

Sir Vincent held the door open for her to pass out. She paused one moment upon the threshold, and said:

"I have been in the habit of driving out daily with the young ladies; shall they join us in our drive this afternoon?"

"By no means," said the baronet, hastily, and with great emphasis; "by no means. They must forgo the airing to-day, and after this, should you kindly continue to take charge of Helen in her hours of recreation, why, others arrangements must be made for them."

Laura Elmer, less satisfied than ever, bowed slightly, and withdrew.

She returned to her schoolroom, dismissed her pupils for the day, and then went to her own room to put on her bonnet and shawl for the drive. She had scarcely drawn on her gloves, when Lizzy, the little ladies' maid, came to her door with Sir Vincent's compliments, and the carriage was waiting.

Laura Elmer went down to the front hall in which she found Sir Vincent with a lady, clothed in black and closely veiled, leaning upon his arm.

When Laura came quite near, he went through a slight presentation, merely saying, in a very low tone:

"Mrs. Ravenscroft, Miss Elmer."

Laura courtesied, and was about to offer her hand, when the lady, without raising her veil, gravely bowed, and immediately averted her head.

Sir Vincent then led her out, and placed her in a carriage. He then returned to Laura, handed her into a seat beside Mrs. Ravenscroft, and told the coachman to drive to the park. As the baronet disappeared within, and as Laura was settling herself in the carriage, she observed a gentleman on horseback emerge from around the corner, and then, as though unwilling to be discovered, retreat behind the angle of the house.

She had twice before noticed this individual loitering near the entrance of Lester House. And now his appearance the third time, and seemingly with the same purpose of espionage, filled her mind with vague surmises, which were, however, unmixed with misgivings, for certainly there was nothing whatever sinister in the appearance of this man.

He seemed to be about twenty-eight or thirty years of age, with a tall and elegant figure, a fine head, covered with shining, light yellow hair, that fell in clustering curls around a forehead white, smooth, and round as that of childhood; his features were delicate and regular, his eyebrows softly traced, his eyes blue, clear, and gentle in their glance, his nose straight, lips and chin molded into the very ideal of sweetness and benevolence. Frankness, affection, and gay good-humor were blended in the habitual expression of this captivating countenance.

So Laura Elmer felt no misgiving at seeing this gentleman, for the third time, loitering near Lester House. His motives and purposes might be eccentric, but could not, with such a face as that, be evil.

The carriage drove on, and in due time turned into the park. It was, as usual, thronged with visitors in carriages, on horseback, and on foot.

The lady by Laura's side had not once raised her veil or spoken a word; and Laura herself was too much absorbed in thought to break her companion's reverie until they had reached the park, when, thinking it well to engage the unhappy lady in conversation, she said.

"There is quite a numerous assemblage of visitors here to-day. Will you not throw aside your veil, and look out?"

"No, no; but you may let down the windows, please, the air is stifling," replied the lady, in a low voice.

Laura opened the windows, and the carriage wound slowly around one of the most beautiful and secluded avenues of the park. They had left the gay throng of fashionable visitors behind, and had reached a quarter frequented by nursemaids and young children.

"See," said Laura, "we have reached a very quiet part now; will you not raise your veil, and breathe some of this delicious air?"

The lady put aside her veil, revealing again that face of ghastly pallor, with its bloodless lips, wild black eyes, and shadowy black tresses.

"See! observe these various groups of little children as they pass; how much marked individuality there is even in these little people; their very looks and manners tell their characters and histories. These, now, are the children of some wealthy citizen, with their pampered nurse—observe the children, all flounces and sashes, hats and feathers—and see the consequential air of their over-dressed attendant," said Laura, wishing to wile her companion from her sorrowful thoughts.

The pale woman looked languidly forth, but neither the pomposity of the nurse nor the vanity of the babies could bring one smile to those sad lips.

"Yet, look again," said Laura. "There is quite a different group; there is some poor young widow who has left her occupation to bring her little boy and girl out for an hour's airing."

Mrs. Ravenscroft looked out, and seemed more interested in this little group. Her eyes became riveted to the two children, and, like the flame of an expiring candle, the light and color flickering in and out from her usually deathlike face. At last her fixed regard attracted the attention of the boy, who exclaimed, as he pulled his mother's sleeve:

"Oh, mother! see that beautiful, pale lady! how she looks at us!"

The young widow turned to look, when her attention was immediately recalled by the little girl, who, starting forward and pointing eagerly, exclaimed:

"Mother, mother! Here! Here is the man that took away all your stock."

The excitement and vehemence of the child drew all eyes to follow the direction of her outstretched finger.

The widow started, and turned deadly pale.

Laura Elmer followed the index of the child, and to her surprise, saw the same man who had watched them from the corner of Lester House. He was still on horseback, and had evidently followed their carriage to the park. He had now reined up his horse in a line with the side windows of the carriage, but at a few yards distance, where he remained calmly upon the watch.

Before Laura could form a conjecture upon the circumstance, she was startled by a shriek from her companion.

She turned quickly round, but Helen Ravenscroft had already darted to the open window, from which she leaned, with her wild eyes fixed, and her thin white arms and clasped hands extended toward the horseman, and her piercing voice, calling in an agony of supplication:

"Rayburne! Rayburne! Rayburne! Rayburne!"

The thrilling anguish of those tones could never be described, and never be forgotten.

The horseman smiled and held out his arms.

A wild cry of joy burst from the lips of Helen, as she tried to break open the carriage door. But Laura threw her arms around the form of the excited woman, and forced her back into her seat, where her resistance suddenly ceased, and she sank in a swoon.

A Rare Chance

TO MAKE BIG MONEY

The undersigned has, after much effort, secured a block of stock of the

Chloride Gold Mining Co.

PUEBLO, COLORADO.

I believe, one of the best mining propositions ever placed on the Canadian market. The capital stock of the Company is $1,000,000, divided into one million shares par value of one dollar each. All stock fully paid and non-assessable, with no personal liability whatever. The Company is splendidly officered, the President and Manager being an experienced practical miner.

The property is situated on Shrum Mountain, 11-2 miles east of the Town of Chloride, Arizona, and the Jumbo Group, 25 miles distant. 120 acres in all.

I unhesitatingly recommend this stock to my clients, and will be pleased to furnish further information on application. In a few days a full description of the property will appear in these columns. Watch for it.

Investors Beware

of investing before investigating. THE GREAT WESTERN OIL REFINERY & PIPE LINE CO., of Erie, Kansas, courts investigation, and we are anxious to get in touch with investors who are willing to be convinced.

The Company owns 51 acres of proven oil and gas land at the junction of two railroads, with side tracks to both. The Company owns without debt a 1,000 barrel per day capacity plant, running night and day, which is the largest, most complete, modern independent Refinery west of the Mississippi River. The Company owns its own gas wells (3 in number), which furnish fuel for the entire plant and is sufficient for a 5,000 barrel capacity, which the Great Western proposes to have (in fact they are now increasing the capacity to 2,000 barrels per day) which is the reason that some of the capital stock is now offered to the public for subscription.

The Company owns leases on hdreds of acres of oil lands, with a number of wells on same, and the supply of crude oil is unlimited. The present stand taken by the different States, and the laws passed to protect the Independent refiners against unfair competition, makes an investment in this Company one which is sure to bring large returns. In proof of this statement, will say that the Company one day recently shipped 21 car load lots of refined oil and by-products and on another day received orders for 42 car load lots.

The Company is now selling this stock at 60 cents per share, but owing to the fact that we hold an option on a block of the same, we can fill your order at cash or installment, until said option is all sold out, which should be within a very short time.

We would suggest that you write us immediately for free particulars, copies of letters from bankers, etc., which will be sent free. We will also send you a copy of our book "Oil & Gold" if you wish it. This book gives history and statistics of the prominent Oil fields and Gold districts of the United States. Address —Last night for the first time in several days, it was possible to draw a breath of fresh air without having it go through the exhaust pipe of a refrigerator.

—Mr. R. Deyell, has purchased the Wilkie cedar property at Ontario and Walton streets, Port Hope. This is one of the most important real estate deals Port Hope has seen for years.

—The new canal store house at the lock before the lift lock, has been completed and was painted this week. It will be used for keeping all supplies and utensils belonging to the department.

—Neither Peterborough nor Hamilton want the Government's Normal school on the terms offered. The free site bonus idea is no popular. Better try Lindsay for a real good site.—Lindsay Post.

—Mr. Merritt of the Bank of Montreal, Lindsay, was rumored last night, but had to be out a few inches in his suspenders. He won the coveted and closely contested dinghy race at Chemong Lake yesterday.

Brantford's New Opera House

Brantford, taking pattern by this city, is to have a new home of the drama. The Courier of that city says: Mr. Small, of Toronto, has again been in the city looking into the matter of a site for a new opera house. The location he most seems to favor is the property adjoining the Kerby House. Mr. Small is trying to get Brantfordites to put up the necessary capital. He spent some time looking over the property and discussing the prospects of a good house. From this city Mr. Small went to Detroit, and on his return he will call here again.

More Harvest Help Wanted—Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Although all the provinces in Eastern Canada have contributed a large number of laborers to assist in harvesting the tremendous wheat crop of Canada's Western Provinces, there is a great demand for more laborers.

With the improved machinery, and the men already west, the crop will be cut, but the demand is for laborers to assist in the threshing and the movement of the grain to the elevators.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 laborers have gone west; 5,000 to 10,000 more are required.

There will be a low rate laborers' excursion from South-Western Ontario on September 5th, and from the north-western section, September 7th, and from the northern and eastern sections on September 8th.

Through second class tickets are sold at $12.00 to Winnipeg, and on arrival there the laborer is met by Government representative of the farmers, and when he has contracted to work he is furnished by the railway with a free ticket to the nearest station to the farmer he is to work with. On arrival at that station he deposits his certificate with the agent, and when he is ready to return after he has been working 30 days, the farmer he has been engaged with makes a certification to that effect on his certificate, and the agent issues ticket from that station back to the starting point at rate of $18.00.

It is expected a very large number will take advantage of these excursions to spend a few weeks in the West, and acquaint themselves with the conditions in that country. This is an opportunity to have an outing and make something besides expenses.

Anyone wanting further information write to C. P. R. Passenger Department, Toronto.

Floating Island in the Way.

Yesterday one of the floating Chemong Lake Islands gave the committee in charge of the regatta a considerable trouble. An "island" or mass of floating vegetation, having shifted its position at the head of the lake was drifted down the lake so as to interfere with the regatta course. After considerable trouble this mass of roots, weeds, snakes, and other aquatic growth was towed out of the way.

Yesterday the judges' floating stand at the Chemong regatta, gave those sitting in judgment, considerable trouble. Owing to some unforseen accident the floating stand blandly sailed away, with the officials aboard towards the head of the Lake. After some trouble matters were adjusted and the judges able to go ahead with the regatta.

Bowlers Did Not Go Down.

The three local bowling rinks, who as noted in yesterday's issue of the Times, were to have gone to Port Hope yesterday, did not go down as on Wednesday night word was received from that town that they would not be able to play the Peterborough rinks, as several of their players were out of town. The trip had to be called off.

Will the Dickson Co. Site be Chosen?

Judging by current rumor of yesterday evening, it now seems that the Normal school will be erected either on Murray street, opposite the armory site, or else on the Dickson Company property on London and Harvey street, and which latter site would command a view of the river to the east. This last site seems to meet with much favorable comment.

Today will probably decide which site will be chosen when the civic deputation will have an interview with the educational authorities in Toronto.

A Vegetable Freak of Nature.

Yesterday as Mr. M. L. Henry, the local insurance agent, was in the township of South Monaghan, he was shown a curiosity in vegetation by Mr. Robt. Jackson. This freak of nature was a cluster of corn cobs, consisting of seven perfect cobs on the one parent stalk. This corn grown on Mr. Jackson's farm, on the 11th concession, 7th lot, had a large and perfectly formed cob, to which were attached six symmetrical smaller but perfect if lesser cobs, surrounding the original one in the one husk. Farmers who have seen the curiosity growth are wondering whether this bunch of cobs is in any way influenced by the Biblical sacred number "7."

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. . . . It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs; especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic intestinal dyspepsia, especially the flatulent variety, and in certain forms of chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal glands."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Mandrake root, or the extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. These several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Robert A. Hare, M. D., of Medical Department, University of Pa.; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Medical Department, University of New York; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., and Prof. John King, M. D., Authors of the American Dispensatory, and scores of others among the leading medical men of our land.

Who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement?

Constipation cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One or two a dose.

Merchants' Letter is Criticized

"Justice" Objects to City Officials Being Judged by Anonymous Letters.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—Yesterday evening I interviewed a number of local citizens of high standing in the community, regarding a letter which appeared in last night's copy of a local contemporary of yours, regarding "An Unsanitary Spot," in the city. This article while, perhaps, prompted under most worthy motives, cast undeserved and I might add, unjust aspersions upon the Peterborough Board of Health.

I do not agree with "Merchant" in his contention that the board of Health is a "defunct body." On the Board of Health are gentlemen well known to all your readers, who devote a large amount of their time to the city for nothing in return but abuse by anonymous scribblers to the papers.

If evils do exist, I think it would be more manly and more in the interests of the public for such contributors to the press, to note when such exists as he charges, and at the same time to point out a definite policy or way in which such may be removed.

I do not think that there is a single man in the local Board of Health, or who would, if given a fair chance, do all in his power to end such trouble as vaguely alluded to, without recompense for his trouble, spare neither time nor labor to have things put into sanitary and proper condition.

It is very easy for any kicker to attack public officials under a nom de plume, without offering any practical means of curing the evils he hints of in an obscure and general way.

Yours truly,

JUSTICE.

Is authorized to act as

Administrator, Executor, Trustee, Etc., Etc.

An eminent writer has said: "It is difficult, indeed, to see how any private individual would willingly accept the position of executor, unless it be the family solicitor, who makes his living out of such work. A man once an executor finds himself always a prisoner, because he is obliged to give much more time and attention to his trust work than to his own business, and the anxiety is unceasing. The danger of mistakes occurring owing to inexperience is considerable, the responsibilities are enormous, and the personal liability never ends. He may perform his duties conscientiously, but he will never be given any thanks for his trouble. On the other hand, he may find himself at loggerheads with the members of his family, and perhaps be involved in law suits and other worries. There is no more fruitful source of discord between relations and friends than is brought about over the administration of wills and trusts."

Earth Continues to Shake at Valparaiso

It is Now Feared That if the Rain Continues an Epidemic Cannot be Avoided---Strong Efforts Being Made to Avoid it.

Valparaiso, Aug. 25.—There were two slight earth shocks here last night.

Rain began falling again this morning, increasing the sufferings of the thousands who are living in tents.

Many of them sought refuge from the rain in houses whose walls are in a dangerous state of ruin.

It is believed that if the rain continues much longer a serious epidemic is sure to break out here.

EPIDEMIC SURE TO OCCUR.

Santiago, Chili, Aug. 24.—Delayed in transmission.—The news received here from Valparaiso continues to confirm the worst impressions formed of the situation there.

As a result of the strong measures taken to preserve orders at least one hundred and fifty robbers have already been shot.

Bodies are still being taken out of the ruins and thus far about 700 have been buried.

It is said that an epidemic is almost certain to occur at Valparaiso as a result of the unsanitary conditions existing there.

The houses here are being more and more damaged by the continuing earth shocks.

TEN THOUSAND WORKMEN

Valparaiso, Aug. 24.—About ten thousand workmen are employed in clearing away the ruins here and in searching for the bodies of those who lost their lives during the recent earthquake and fires. In the ruins of a house yesterday, workmen found a child alive, in a barrel, which had protected it from harm.

The sale of articles of food by merchants here is strictly supervised by the city and Government officials in order to prevent any change in the direction of increases in prices.

Merchants directed in the sale of selling food above the fixed prices are compelled to close their stores.

The commercial houses and the banks will pay their employes tomorrow their full month's wages, in order to assist them in their present hardships.

The government will also pay its employes the same day.

NEED NO MONEY.

In addition to money received here from various parts of Chili for the relief of the sufferers, $35,000 has been received from San Francisco, California. The Government of Chili, in reply to cable messages received from Chilians abroad offering to collect funds for the relief of the sufferers has thanked them but has not not given them any authorization to collect money in the name of the Government, as Chili has sufficient resource, to care for the homeless.

Suggestions have been made that the site of Valparaiso be changed, but President Select Montt yesterday declared that in his opinion the city should be reconstructed where its ruins now stand.

A committee composed of engineers has been appointed to examine all the buildings now standing, and to report upon their condition, so that those which are in a dangerous condition may be pulled down.

Trent Valley Canal Returns

The annual report giving the canal statistics of Canada for the season of 1905 has just been issued by the Department of Railways and Canals.

A general statement shows the quantity of each article transported on the Trent Canal and the amount of tolls hereto fore collected, how free during the season of navigation in 1905. The figures, some of which are as follows, will prove of interest.

Total tolls on vessels, $577.48.

Total tolls on pleasure, $908.70.

Total toll, $1,309.13.

Other receipts, $1.00.

Total revenue, exclusive of hydraulic rents, $1,310.13.

The total tons of up freight during 1905, were 27,618; down freight, 17,613; total tons, 45,231.

The main bulk of produce carried via the canal consisted of "floats," sawn lumber, railroad ties and saw logs.

Miss F. L. Leigh is Now a Matron

A privately celebrated marriage service was celebrated on Wednesday morning last, by Rev. D. N. McCamus, acting pastor of Charlotte street Methodist church, when the latter joined in the holy bonds of matrimony, at the residence of Mrs. Geo. Johnston, Townsend street, Miss F. L. Leigh a sister of the hostess and Mr. W. H. Lindsay of Hamilton.

The customary wedding breakfast was served, after which, including complimentary and congratulatory remarks, the happy couple left on a honeymoon among the Thousand Islands, before taking up their abode in Hamilton. The bride was attired in a princess gown of cream silk voile trimmed with silk lace insertion over white taffeta.

Her going away gown was navy blue satin cloth trimmed with silk braid and hat to match.

Among the many tangible tokens of regard presented to the fair bride was a sunburst of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom.

Staff Changes in Canadian Pacific

M. F. M. Spaidal Resigns as Superintendent of No. 2 Division to Join Canadian Northern.

After twenty-one years of service in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. F. M. Spaidal, superintendent of District No. 2, has resigned his position to join the staff of the Canadian Northern, under Mr. C. W. Spencer, with whom he served in the Canadian Pacific Railway for many years. The district over which Mr Spaidal was placed includes the Montreal terminals of the road and the line between Montreal and Smith's Falls. Mr. Spaidal, who came originally from Brockville, entered the service of the road as an operator and gradually worked his way up to the position of trust and responsibility which he has resigned.

As a result of the resignation of Mr. Spaidal, many changes are announced to take place shortly in the staff of officials of the road in the eastern divisions. These changes will go into effect today.

Mr. J. Vaughan, formerly assistant superintendent of District No. 2, becomes superintendent of that district, with headquarters at Montreal.

Mr. R. W. McCormick, formerly trainmaster of District No. 4, will be moved from Ottawa to Smith's Falls, as assistant superintendent of District No. 2, having special jurisdiction over the Smith's Falls section.

Mr. D. Robertson, at present trainmaster of District No. 2, will succeed Mr. McCormick at Ottawa, as trainmaster of the more important District No. 4.

Mr. J. Boyle, trainmaster of District No. 1, which includes lines on the eastern division south of the St. Lawrence River, will exchange places with Mr. W. Rose, trainmaster of District No. 3, which includes all lines north of the Ottawa River between Ottawa and Quebec, and also the Labelle branch.

When a woman suffers from distressing weaknesses, and then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is, Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two, direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflammation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Star of the East Mine

Encouraging Reports from a Pittsburg Paper.

The following item from the Pittsburg Gazette Times will be read with interest by many in Peterborough:

"Extensive tests on ores from the 200-foot level of the Star of the East mines, made by the United States Metal Recovery Company of Pittsburg, which began on June 18 last, were terminated yesterday. These prove that the ores carry good values, all of which can be recovered. The trouble heretofore has been that none of the methods used could treat these ores to recover the values that contain. The United States Metal Recovery Company has seen to be officers of the company. The detailed report of the results. The report was on gold only and shows that 99 per cent. was recovered. The complete report and analysis of the different metals in the ore that can be recovered will be ready in time for the stockholders meeting to be held at Peterborough, Ontario, on September 7th, next.

Bailiff's Officer is Fired Out

Yesterday a sad case in which misfortune and love of drink were commingled in about equal parts and in which the result sent showed the sad lot of women under certain circumstances.

It seems that a young married man, who has for some weeks been under the fatal dominion of drink, had the misfortune or resultant effect of his indiscretion, of getting two months behind in his rent.

The landlord yesterday, about 2.30 sent a bailiff's officer to the young man's residence to place for the amount of the rent. Unknown, presumably to the landlord, the tenant's wife yesterday had a visit from the Stork, and presented her lord and master with a tangible proof of marital fidelity and affection.

When the husband came home he found a bailiff in possession, and with quickness and despatch, actuated by existing conditions, after argument failed to get rid of the officer, to forcibly eject him. The bailiff's officer after making a parabola through the air, went back to the landlord for further instructions.

The Times understands that when full particulars, including the recent burden brought up the Stork, were explained to the landlord, the latter called off his officer.

SUBMARINES IN THE FRENCH NAVY

Played Havoc With Battle Ships in Recent Manoeuvers

REPEL ANY NAVAL ATTACK

Underwater Method of Defence Pronounced to Be an Unqualified Success.

"Before long France will be in a position to repel victoriously any and every naval aggression, however terrible it may be."

Such were the words uttered by M. Thomson, the French Minister of Marine, in a speech at the conclusion of the recent French naval manoeuvres.

Bold words, but probably with a solid basis of fact underlying them, for the French manoeuvres have apparently proved to the hilt that for a power acting on the defensive—and M. Thomson was "speaking of an aggressive as against a defensive naval power—the submarine in home waters is an enormous defensive force against battleship attack. The battle fleet under Admiral Fournier's command had no fewer than twenty of their large units torpedoed by the submarines alone during their attacks on Bizerta, Toulon and Marseilles.

The attempt on Marseilles, which was the picturesque finale to the Mediterranean manoeuvres, began at 7 a.m. in a thick fog, but an hour later it had cleared, when Admiral Fournier divided his squadron, the weather division, led by the flag, going to the northward, their object being to effect a landing and cut the railway communications with Marseilles, the lee division, with the second Admiral's flag flying in the Leon Gambetta, attacking to the south. From the account quoted it would appear that eight submarines, "which had been hiding at Les Calanques under the shelter of the forts and batteries," and each of which carried seventeen torpedoes, succeeded in eluding the fifteen destroyers that were told off for their destruction, and inflicting havoc in their mighty armament. Admiral Fournier, at a lunch given in his honor by the Marseilles municipality, eulogized the little craft to the extent that he declared they had not only "spoilt all his plans," but "constituted a regular revolution in the naval armament of France." He is said to have admitted that his own flagship had been torpedoed eight eight times by submarines, and the Leon Gambetta was also placed hors de combat.

Like our Japanese allies, the offensive force made certain of the flagships, to begin with, and then apparently proceeded to wipe out the remainder at their leisure, for another account says: "It is stated that they succeeded in placing every one," i.e., the seventeen torpedoes with which each submarine was provided, and adds that "few of the ironclads came off scot free." It must, in truth, have been a perfect holocaust, but even allowing for journalistic exaggeration, there can be but little doubt that the whole attack was completely paralyzed, and the success of the defence speaks volumes for the knowledge and mastery of these delicate craft to which the French navy has attained.

Farewell Tea This Afternoon.

It is hoped that every member of St. John's branch of the Women's Auxiliary will be present this afternoon at the farewell tea to be given at four o'clock to the secretary of this important organization. The lady in whose honor this function has been arranged by her fellow-workers has been a long and valued worker in the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's church, and her retirement necessitated by her leaving Peterborough next week there is in Toronto, is much regretted by those with whom she has been actively associated so many years.

Lindsay Wearing Yellow Glasses

Scugogville Envious of Peterboro's Visiting Crowds.

The Lindsay Post, one of our brighter and most up-to-date exchanges, displays the clown roof of a demonetically ridden jealousy.

Referring to the present and past popularity of this city, among American and Canadian tourists, the Post has the following to say:

As compared with Peterborough, Lindsay attracts very few large gatherings or conventions or excursions, even, and the question naturally arises, "Who is to blame, the citizens or the town?" We claim the citizens are to blame. The town itself has plenty of inducements to offer in the way of attracting such assemblages. Following are the fundamentals.

Lindsay is prettily situated.

Lindsay has lovely water trips with most convenient connections with pleasure resorts.

Lindsay has a good opera house and town hall to meet in.

Lindsay has abundant up-to-date accommodation for visitors.

Lindsay has the best of railway connections—Grand Trunk and C.P.R.

Lindsay has a special brand of hospitality for visitors.

Lindsay is a budding city, with bright prospects.

Lindsay has the finest main street in Ontario, and the widest.

Lindsay has a number of prosperous manufacturing establishments.

Lindsay has the greatest mileage of granolithic walks of any town of its size in Canada.

Let our citizens and Board of Trade get busy and boom Lindsay, as one of the best towns in Canada, with, mighaly few in the same class.

In reply we might note that Peterborough's citizens are awake at least ten hours a day, Peterborough has accommodations and attractions that attract, and whilst wishing our "Lindsay suburb" every advantage, we cannot but advise the Scugogvillians not to sigh for the unattainable and try to enter into competition with a live town in any effort to direct the trend of passenger patronage.

Disgraceful Scene at Dago House

One evening this week, a wild time was in evidence at an Italian boarding house on Aylmer street. It seems that a Mrs Boyd, a local woman known in police circles as "Lou," and several other women of the city, had a big time (sic) at the boarding place. Liquor ran galore and the whole crowd got bleary or beery. About 10 p.m. the trouble began, two of the women got in a mix-up, and a display of fisticuffs was engaged in. One of the women who only possessed three front teeth, had two of them placed "hors de combat." After the row was over and the belligerants separated, a local wrestler, in full view of all present, danced the can-can with the winner of the set-to. It is time such scenes were tabooed in Peterborough.

POLICE NEWS

Daily Happenings in Court Room and Station.

A COUNTY CANE.

Yesterday an aftermath of the Chemong regatta was in evidence in County Police Magistrate Edmison's court. Fred Twomey, an Ennismore youth, was brought before County Magistrate Edmison, and fined $5 and costs, amounting in all to $12.25.

It seems that young Twomey got into an altercation with Claude Fleetwood, a Peterborough boy. Without provocation, it is said, that Twomey struck Fleetwood in the face with his fist, inflicting a nasty injury. Blood flowed freely from the boy's face, and the onlookers were thoroughly aroused. Twomey recognizing that his action was condemned, tried to make a break for his native township. However, Constable Cullen captured the young man, with the result, yesterday morning, as above noted.

Yesterday there was not much doing at the police court. The Leisure Loving Club members hardly being recompensed for leaving the shaded walks they had been supporting.

Michael Lavery, and Wm. Jobs pleaded guilty to the soft impeachment of having absorbed a heavier load of tangle-leg than nature adapted their constitutions to bear. Both Mike and Bill had to dig up a $2 fine, and $3.75 costs in each case. These jags may be exhilarating while they last, but they are expensive in the "show-down."

DARING ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Manitoba Prisoner Leaped From Train With Constable After Him.

Roland, Man., Aug. 24.—While on his way to Winnipeg last night, to stand his trial for assault with intent to kill, Arthur Cecil Bonnati, of Roland, Man., made a spectacular attempt to escape from custody as the train was leaving St. Norbert. His daring move was, however, frustrated by Constable Webster, under whose care he was making the trip. The prisoner leaped from the train, with the constable after him, with drawn revolver. Threats to shoot stopped the fugitive.

Who Owns the Spectacles?

Last night Fred Baker, whose name is not unknown in local police circles, was arrested on Hunter street by P. C. Newhall. The charge against Baker was selling gold spectacles, the police being skeptical as to how Baker got the goods. The prisoner will have a chance to explain matters at this morning's police court.

Another man by name Louis Denny, was also arrested by P.C. Newhall, for obstructing that officer, while arresting Baker. It seems that he tried to trip the constable, and shouted to Baker, to give the officer a fall. P.C. Newhall objected to be treated in this manner, and gathered them both in.

The sooner the rowdy element of this city get wise to the fact that the new men on the force are well able to look after themselves, the better it will be for all concerned.

South African War Stores Scandal

How Officers of the British Service Combined to Defraud and Rob the Government.

The report of the Royal Commission on war stores in South Africa, which has just been issued in blue-book form, presents many serious features.

The evidence taken in South Africa brought to light various dishonest contrivances by which contractors and non-commissioned officers, either separately or in conjunction, succeeded in robbing the army of large sums of money, the exact amount of which it is now impossible to ascertain.

At the end of the war there were at the various depots large quantities of supplies on hand in excess of those appearing on the books, a state of affairs which had arisen from short drawings, non-drawnings, diversions in transit and other irregularities necessarily incident to a state of war.

When Meyer obtained the contract for supply of forage and other articles to the troops he availed himself, the report says, "of the existence of these unrecorded surpluses, and purchased large portions considerably below their value (half-price or two-thirds being the current rate of payment) from the non-commissioned officer in charge, who put the money in his own pocket. The transaction was dignified in Meyer's books by the name of 'local purchases.'"

The report proceeds:

"F. T. Richards, who took over Meyer's contract in March, 1900, carried on the system, but on a smaller scale, the larger surpluses dating from the war period, no doubt having been by this time already absorbed. Stepney did so also to some extent. Messrs Wilson and Worthington denied that they had anything to do with his particular form of fraud. The largest local purchase which has come out in evidence is the purchase by Meyer of 600,000 lbs. of oats from a man calling himself Blackshire, but who was in fact Corporal (then Staff Sergeant-Major) Hilton. Hilton went in a civilian suit of clothes to Meyer and represented himself as a partner in the firm of Blackshire, and offered the oats for sale. Meyer bought the oats from him nominally at the full price of £3,300, but paid him only £1,650 only. Meyer was at first under the impression that it was not Hilton who made the sale, but he subsequently corrected his evidence. The invoice before us was in Hilton's handwriting and on examination he admitted having acted as Meyer described. His story is, however, that he only robbed Meyer, who was properly entitled to the oats under his contract to purchase. We do not believe him. The evidence shows that it was quite possible for a military official to have so large a surplus under him and to dispose of it without discovery, and we have no doubt that that is what took place." Apart from the purchase of existing surpluses, a second method largely practiced was the creation of surpluses on taking over by means of false average weights—a system that had many variations. The Commissioners say that "it is impossible to estimate the large sums lost to the army by the above described frauds. . . . The instances of such frauds are very numerous, and we have appended to this report a schedule of references to the questions in the evidence where they will be found detailed. Their practice was no doubt largely facilitated by the fact that a great number of the contractors' agents had served in the army, and had acquired a knowledge of army methods and habits, which they were enabled to devote to the service of their new employer."

Used Oddfellowship to Secure Liquor

How a Fraternal Hotelkeeper in Frontenac Fell to Temptation of Detectives.

Kingston, Aug. 24.—Messrs. Rest Stokes and Alexander Cameron, detectives of the License Department of the Ontario Government, have been working in this section, and yesterday two Frontenac hotel men were fined $50 and costs each for selling without licenses. Kingston township being under local option.

John McIntyre, K.C., pointed out at the trial that in one case Oddfellowship was used to secure liquor from an indulgent and fraternal hotel keeper. The detectives—or spies, as the lawyer called them—said they were paid all their expenses by the department. They would not say how much.

LACROSSE.

John O. Miller, the president of the C.L.A., has notified the locals that he has appointed "Jeff" O'Brien of Orillia, to referee the Toronto Junction vs. Peterborough game in Lindsay this afternoon. This is an evidence that the game will be clean as "Jeff" is one of the best referees officials in the province.

The one best bet today is the Shamrocks.

Montreal goes to Ottawa today. Shamrocks play the Tecumsehs, and Cornwall goes to Montreal to meet National. These games mean a lot to the National Lacrosse Union leaders. That will be a great battle in Ottawa, while the French are liable to give the Cornwall Colts a mighty hard argument. If the Toronto Indians play up to their last Saturday's form, they should have no trouble in downing the Irish.

THE TURF.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 25.—The world's running record for three furlongs was broken at the races yesterday, Atoka negotiating the distance in 38 3-5.

Jockey George Swain was stabbed but no seriously, in a fracas at Fort Erie Wednesday night. While a crowd of 150 race track people were preparing to board the special train for Windsor some trouble arose between George Smith, Patrick Gallagher George Halpin and Swain. Smith used a large clasp knife with a great freedom, and numerous cuts were inflicted on Gallagher and Halpin. Swain was only slightly wounded, but the condition of the other two men is considered rather serious. Smith was arrested and will be tried by a jury.

British Columbia Chinese Show Their Teeth

Purchase a Newspaper With Which to Fight the Tax on Chinese Entering Canada.

Victoria, B. C., August 24.—A curious report with respect to the reconstruction of The Colonist is being widely circulated in business and political circles. It is that the controlling interest in the British Columbia pioneer newspaper now held by J. S. H. Matson, is in reality the property of two wealthy Chinese residents, Loo Gee Wing and Lee Mong Kow.

It is seldom that an important newspaper transfer is hedged about with such secrecy as that maintained as to The Colonist's new owners. The numerous Victorians who believe the report that Chinese have purchased the paper, say that the object of the purchase is to start an aggressive campaign for the reduction or abolition of the $500 capita tax so as to enable the wealthy Chinese contractors to bring in an army of coolie labor for use in the prairie harvest fields and in railway construction work.

Fugitive Bank President Arrested

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The Chicago Herald says: A private despatch received in Chicago from El Paso at midnight reported positively the arrest of Paul O. Steinsiad, fugitive president of the wrecked Milwaukee Avenue State Bank at Aguila, Calientes, Mexico.

A telegram was at once sent to Springfield to ascertain whether Governor Deneen had been notified of the arrest and what action had been taken looking to the extradition of the fugitive.

It was learned that a telegram had been received by the Governor, which is now in the hands of his secretary.

Chicago police claim to have received no information of the arrest.

Dublin Catholic Advises Acceptance

Dublin, Aug. 24.—The Irish Catholic today outlines what it believes in the Government program for Irish legislation at the next session of Parliament. This program will include the formation of a central electoral council, charged with most of the duties of the local Government Board and other Dublin Castle boards, the establishment of an exchequer into which all moneys now allocated to Irish account shall henceforth be paid, and the creation of a tribunal to deal with private bills. Editorially the Journal says: "All this will fall far short of an Irish Parliament, but why reject such an offer simply because the Boers have obtained full legislative rights."

Off For Rome.

The convention is attended by delegates from every country where the Catholic church is established, and usually lasts about eight days. The present session has been called ahead of time so that measures to be taken in regard to the religious difficulty in France may be discussed.

The Canadian delegates to attend the meeting are: Mgr. Langevin, archbishop of St Boniface; Mgr. Legal, bishop of St. Albert; Mgr. Grouard, bishop of Mackenzie; Mgr. Breynat, bishop of Yukon; Mgr. Pascal, bishop of Prince Albert; Rev. Father Tourangeau, provincial of the province of Canada; Rev. Father Magnan, provincial of Manitoba; Fathers Charlebois, Cahill, Pelletier, P. H. C.P.R. READY FOR BIG CROP

All Canadian Railways Prepared for Coming Strain in Their Transportation Facilities.

All the railways running into the western part of Canada have this year made exceptionally complete arrangements for the handling of what promises to be a monster wheat crop. As already announced the Canadian Pacific is rushing through an order for a large number of new freight cars and are hurrying to the wheat belt all the available cars in this part of the country. And now, Mr. Frederick Price, superintendent of the Grand Trunk car service, states that that road also will be well prepared for the strain that is expected to be put on its transportation facilities by the wheat crop.

The Canadian Car Company is turning out cars for us at the rate of twenty a day," he told a press representative this morning, "and this will continue until the demand for cars becomes less imperative. Besides all the cars that have been built for the Grand Trunk Pacific will be used by the Grand Trunk for the handling of the wheat crop. In this way we are confident that there will be no congestion on our line and that we can give transportation to all the grain entrusted to our care."

"How about your elevator accommodations?"

"I think they will be entirely adequate. Additions have been made to the elevator at Depot Harbor, and all of the elevators at the different points on the western end of the road are in good shape for the reception of the crop. I am sure that there will be no trouble here in spite of the fact that the crop is an unusually large one and also unusually early."

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Emma Daigle, of Moncton, N. B., Sends an Open Letter to All Sufferers.

Most women are tired when they wake up. Housework drags along with great difficulty. Nervousness is always present, headaches seldom depart, tears are ever ready to flow.

But there is a cure, a true specific for woman's ills that restored a prominent lady in Moncton, Mrs. Daigle, who tells the following experience:

"About a year ago I had a serious sickness, sort of a general breakdown. My digestion failed entirely and I was able to eat but very little. I took the most stomach pains and suffered terribly from headaches. My doctor said it was 'nerve exhaustion' and I might never be well. My troubles increased, for as I grew weaker I became subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. Sleep finally forsook me and I almost lost heart. Different medicines didn't help. Doctors couldn't do me any good. I was desprate when I heard of Ferrozone. The first box convinced me it was just what I needed. It toned up my stomach, gave me a splendid appetite and then my recovery seemed easier. Ferrozone increased my weight several pounds, has restored my nerves, gave me a good color and strength such as I never had before. For the weak and sickly I can truthfully recommend Ferrozone." (Signed) Emma Daigle.

REMEMBER: No mere stimulant or alcoholic concoction can take the place of the nerve and blood nourishment contained in Ferrozone. This true tonic always does what is claimed for it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn, U. S, A., and Kingston, Ont.

NEW TROUBLE FOR SAN FRANCISCO

A somewhat extraordinary condition of affairs now retards the business of San Francisco and seriously embarrasses the people who are struggling to get on their feet, and restore something like commercial equilibrium.—Carloads of goods were hurried to the damaged city after the earthquake in response to hurry-up orders. To ensure the proper parties getting them. Instructions were given that sight drafts should be attached to the bills of lading. The merchants never dreamed that they would have any difficulty in meeting the drafts. They relied upon having immediate settlements with the insurance companies, which would put them in funds to resume business. Settlements have not been made and the merchants are unable to provide for the drafts.

Thus, in addition to the heart-breaking discouragement of having their places of business and everything that they possessed converted into rubbish heaps in twenty-four hours, they find themselves powerless to resume business when they thought they were ready to do so after a fashion. They see goods that they want to sell and their customers urgently want to buy, in locked up freight cars, which they have, not the golden key to open.

Latest advices from San Francisco announce that the Southern Pacific Railway Company would increase its demurrage on lumber from $1 to $2, with a daily increase of $1 until a rate of $6 a day is reached. The new demurrage went into effect last Thursday. There is such a jam of freight cars, covering all the side tracks, that the railway company have notified the consignees that unless the cars are unloaded at once the company's employees will unload them, store the goods and charge expense to the consignees.

No better evidence of the serious nature of the crisis which now confronts the unfortunate people of San Francisco could be found than in the circular letter to the consignees, just issued by the general freight agent and general manager of the Southern Pacific. They say: "We recognise fully the extraordinary conditions which have prevailed since the 18th of April, 1906, and have tried in every way to accommodate our patrons, by concessions of various kinds and departures from our ordinary rules, which we believe have been appreciated, but regret to say that the situation has improved but slightly." They announce that hereafter, too, they will be obliged to unload at convenient points, along the line en route to San Francisco, all goods consigned to parties who have not taken delivery of such as have already arrived.

In conclusion they say that they regret very much that this course has been forced upon them, but the situation has become so serious that they are compelled to take this action. No one seems to know what the outcome is to be.

LABOR'S POLITICAL POWER IN ENGLAND

That there is still some use for a House of Lords in the British Parliament was evidenced by the bill passed by the House of Commons setting the Labor unions above the law. A labor union had been ordered to pay damages for the losses sustained by a firm which had been picketed, and the highest tribunal in the country had decided that a labor union occupied exactly the same position before the law as any other organization. The government introduced a bill which required the plaintiff in such cases to show that the acts complained of were committed under orders from the union. The Labor members were not satisfied with this, and introduced a bill whereby it would be impossible for anyone to collect damages from a labor union, no matter how serious he may have been injured. At the same time the labor unions can collect damages if their crops are not harvested in time.

This unjustifiable measure went through the House of Commons without opposition, Liberals and Conservatives falling over each other in their haste to support it, and in the House of Lords does not doubt it will become law. With both parties in the Lower House wooing the labor vote, the only hope is in the House of Peers, which is or is supposed to be uninfluenced by political motives of any kind. The obnoxious deference shown to the Labor party is due to the desire of the Liberals to keep them in line and that of the Conservatives to win them over to the theory of protection. Never before did the Labor party hold such a commanding position in Great Britain.

MERCHANTS WOULD HAVE CUBA ANNEXED TO THE UNITED STATES

They Believe That in this Way Alone Can Promised Revolution be Crushed.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 21. — The Picayune's special cable from Havana says, In spite of Government denials the revolutionary movement in Cuba has assumed formidible proportions. The whole island is a ferment over the uprising, and it is impossible to predict at this time what the final result will be.

The Government claims that it will be able to suppress the revolt within two or three weeks, but conservative people do not believe that the revolution can be crushed so easily.

The revolutionists have been preparing for the struggle ever since the Presidential election, and the Palma Administration has underestimated their strength.

It is known that several cargoes of arms and ammunition have been landed in Cuba from the Florida coast during the past two months, and the insurgents are abundantly supplied with war material.

It is believed by many Havana business men that it will be necessary for the United States to intervene and annex the island before the revolution will be crushed.

Annexation is openly favored by the commercial interests in all of the large cities and towns in Cuba. The revolutionary leaders even prefer annexation to the United States to a continuation of the present conditions.

The American residents on the Isle of Pines have taken sides with the revolutionists against the Palma Government, and they are giving the insurgents all the aid possible.

The Isle of Pines will be an important base of operations for the revolutionists.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Dyspepsia Is Often Caused By Catarrh of the Stomach—Peruna Relieves Catarrh of the Stomach and Is Therefore a Remedy For Dyspepsia.

Hon. M. C. Butler, Ex-U. S. Senator from South Carolina for two terms, in a letter from Washington, D. C., writes to the Peruna Medicine Co., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine, besides a good tonic."

CATARRH of the stomach is the correct name for most cases of dyspepsia. In order to cure catarrh of the stomach the catarrh must be eradicated. Only an internal catarrh remedy, such as Peruna, is available.

Peruna exactly meets the indications.

FRENCH PRIEST CHARGED WITH A SERIOUS CRIME

Scandal in a French Town Causes a Sensation Throughout the Republic

Paris Aug 21—Abbe Cassan and his assistant were arrested yesterday at Pougeres charged with having caused the death of Mlle. Augustine Lange, who died at the priest's house last Sunday night. The priest, with the assistance of the girl's mother, carried the body to her father's house on Sunday. The authorities refused to grant a burial permit, and an inquest was ordered. This revealed the fact that the girl had died under an operation. The girl was afflicted with religious mania, which created some trouble with her father. As a result of his wish she was sent to a convent in Marseilles last October. She returned before Christmas, and spent all Christmas night in the church without the knowledge of her father, who then saw her back to the convent. The girl then returned to Pougeres on the 15th of the Assumption, Aug. 14. The superior of the convent handed the girl to her sister coming, and he met her and took her to his house, at which she died.

Merits of the Bi-Metallic Property

A large property (cannot be mined) and no debts.

A TUNNEL SITE 3,000 feet Square and all blind veins cut in the extension.

EIGHTEEN GOVERNMENT CLAIMS, one of which has produced SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS worth of very rich SILVER ore (600 oz. per ton), and most of it very high grade.

TEN CLAIMS have produced samples of ore—some very rich and some shipments of SILVER, GOLD and LEAD.

SEVEN CLAIMS have large quartz veins that will probably produce ore when further developed, and many of them are covered by large quantities of TIMBER, which will be needed in the mines.

There is an ranch in the valley for dumping grounds, miners' cabins and other buildings necessary for the development of the property, also plenty of water for power and concentrating mills.

ALL of these CLAIMS can be developed through the tunnel, and ore can be shipped to market all the year without interruption.

Labor is cheap and reliable.

A good wagon road to the railroad depot—two miles—and an extension of the railroad cross graded across the property to within 500 feet of the entrance of the tunnel, and it will cost but $1.00 to $2.00 per ton to market the ores.

It will not cost over $2,000 for the necessary electric drill plant to push the work at the mine rapid rate, as power can now be had from the electric wires that run to the Sherwood mines above and across our property within 500 feet of the tunnel.

This tunnel when extended several thousand feet into the mountain will cut some of the richest mines in the State at great depth, besides those belonging to the company.

Which mines of SILVER, GOLD, LEAD, COPPER and ZINC are once developed they are not afflicted by dull times or seasons, and the market is never overstocked.

Over $500,000 have been taken from Clear Creek and the four adjacent counties, being one-half the production of the whole State, of which Clear Creek county has furnished about $75,000,000.

The stock of the COMPANY is now being sold at a VERY LOW price in order to develop the property, but as soon as PAY ORE is struck it will bring several times as much as the present price, and can be readily sold at a large profit.

No better investment now offered. For particulars address

STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. WRIGHT.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I am delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."

Diamonds and Diamond Mining

It would be difficult to name a commercial commodity representing a more tangible basis of intrinsic value than a diamond. Diamonds are enhancing in value yearly—the demand for them is ever increasing—and the diamond market shows a remarkably healthy condition.

Very little is known in this country by the general public about diamond mining, and the vast returns from it. All are more or less familiar with the mining of gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, tin, &c., and know the immense fortunes that are realized yearly from them, and the enormous source of wealth which they represent to the country annually. Yet as a matter of fact the most profitable mining enterprises of the world are those devoted to the mining of diamonds, and in London, the great financial centre of the world, this is well understood, and diamond mining securities are an important factor in financial operations there.

The two most profitable commercial institutions in the world today are the De Beers and Premier diamond mining companies of South Africa, which pay fabulous returns on even the present price of the stock, which has enhanced in value many times during the last few years.

THE COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY

controlled largely by Boston capital, own in British Guiana, South America, a property containing 42 mines which, during the six months we have been operating it, has paid over 50 per cent. profit, and that after expending large sums for machinery and mining appurtenances. From careful tests made during these six months we have demonstrated that we have a larger diamond field than either the De Beers or Premier Diamond Mining Companies, and that each laborer we employ produces larger results than the African laborers. We also know positively that our property will produce three times as much per cubic yard of dirt as the South African mines. We also have the priceless advantage of a healthy climate and an unlimited supply of water—two essential factors in success.

This company is conducting a legitimate business enterprise upon business principles and we court the fullest investigation of our enterprise. The property being on British territory and conducted under the strict laws governing all mining operations carried on in British domains, detailed information relative to it may be obtained from the commissioner of lands and mines, who receives from a government inspector on the grounds the actual condition and production of the property. Thus our production is a matter of official record and may be obtained at all times from this authentic source.

To provide the necessary capital to increase our production 10 fold, we are offering a block of $100,000 of our stock at par, $10 per share. When it is considered that we paid $220,000 in cash for our property, which we own outright, it must be admitted that $100,000 is not an excessive amount of stock to issue, and is all that we will offer for sale.

The undersigned will be pleased to have parties interested in legitimate investments call at our office, where we can supply much valuable information relative to diamond mining. If not convenient to call, write for prospectus.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR INVESTORS

The place to mine is where good mines are found. Investigate before investing. THE EL PASO-PARRAL MINING COMPANY, owning three-quarters of a mile of one of the historic veins of Mexico, as well as one of the rich veins of the famous bonanza mine of Pedro Alvarado, offers a limited number of its Treasury Shares at 15 cents each—par value one dollar. A careful investigation will show you beyond all question that this is the best opportunity for large and quick returns ever brought to your notice. The district of Parral is not one-half the size of the smallest county in Colorado, yet each year it produces more than one-third of the amount produced by that entire State, making it the richest mining camp in the world for its size. It has more paying mines for the number located than any district in America. New and rich discoveries are being made each year. Here Alvarado and scores of others found their bonanzas. From this district many are receiving life incomes. Here bankers and conservative business men invest. Why not you? Buy these shares, and buy them while they are cheap! But buy only after you have investigated the men interested. WE ARE MINING FOR COMMERCIAL RESULTS, NOT SPECULATION. There is not a dollar of "promotion" in the enterprise—every member of the Board of Directors invested his own money. No expensive machinery for reduction of ores required. The property is near the railroad, and the ores will be sold for spot cash to the smelters. No salaried officers except the Superintendent. This proposition is open to the strictest investigation. Highest references furnished; correspondence solicited.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH

A NOVEL

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

Laura was greatly shocked. She stopped the carriage, and began to bathe the hands and face of the fainting woman with some Hungary water that she happened to have at hand. While thus anxiously engaged in trying to restore consciousness to her charge, she heard her own name softly called, and looking up she saw Ferdinand Cassinove and young Percy Lester standing beside the carriage window.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Elmer, but my young friend Percy here recognized your carriage, and insisted on coming up. We were taking a walk through the park. Your companion seems to be ill. Can I be of any service?" said the tutor.

"Oh, Mr. Cassinove, I am so glad that you are here! Yet I do not know how you can assist me, either," said Laura, suddenly recollecting Sir Vincent's orders that Mrs. Ravenscroft was to be seen by no one; yet greatly perplexed to know how she should get home with her strange charge, should the latter, upon her recovery, again become unmanageable.

"The lady has fainted! Let me assist you," eagerly pleaded Cassinove, attempting to open the carriage door.

"No, no; she is recovering now, and you must leave us if you please, Mr. Cassinove; but first tell me how much of this strange scene have you witnessed?"

"The whole of it. Percy and myself were walking in the park, as I said. He recognized your carriage, and we were coming toward it, when I happened to see my landlady with her two children; I saw the little girl start forward with an exclamation that drew every one's attention, mine among the rest, toward a certain horseman, a light-haired gentleman, in whom those children had painful cause to be interested, and I saw the frantic gestures and heard the wild cries of your friend before she fainted. And now, as you will not permit me to assist you in any way, I shall go in search of that mysterious, light-haired Adonis, with whom also I have an account to settle on behalf of the widow and her orphans. So I shall see before night, whether, despite his very prepossessing appearance, and fascinating manner, I cannot bring him to the intimate acquaintance of the magistrate," said young Cassinove, bowing and retiring. And lifting his hat, he bowed deeply, and walked rapidly away.

Laura Elmer then gave her exclusive attention to her patient, who had now recovered sufficiently to enable her to sit up and breathe freely.

Helen Ravenscroft looked around with a bewildered gaze, and as memory seemed to return to her, sigh after sigh burst from her bosom.

Laura gave orders to the coachman to drive home.

"I hope you feel better," she said, in a gentle voice, turning to her strange companion.

"Better, better! yes, I should be better in my grave! Oh, for that dreamless sleep! Ah, why does death seize the loved and the happy from all the blessings of life, and leave the desolate and wrecked to all its curses?" cried Helen, in the same piercing tones of anguish with which she had spoken to the stranger.

"Can I serve you in no way, Mrs. Ravenscroft?" pleaded Laura.

"In no way but one; conceal from Sir Vincent the circumstance of my meeting——"

She was unable to pronounce the name; her voice that had been faltering, now utterly sank, and she broke into a passion of tears and sobs.

Laura drew the poor head down upon her own bosom, and with tender words and caresses sought to soothe this inexplicable sorrow.

"Dear Mrs. Ravenscroft," she said, looking calmly into the wild and troubled eyes of her companion, and modulating her voice to its utmost tenderness, "whatever the unknown cause of your sorrow may be, believe me I sympathize with you from my soul. I will serve you to the extent of my power; and I will never repeat the incident of this afternoon, unless I should be convinced that your own safety and welfare required it."

Helen Ravenscroft caught and kissed the hand that was extended to her in pledge of the speaker's sincerity, and then she drew her black veil across her face, and relapsed into silence, which lasted until they reached Lester House.

Sir Vincent Lester met them in the hall, thanked Miss Elmer for her kind care, and took the hand of Mrs. Ravenscroft, and hoping that she had enjoyed the drive, he led her away.

That same evening, after tea, Laura Elmer was alone in the sitting room used in common by the governess and her pupils, when there came a knock at the door, and to her gentle "Come in," entered Ferdinand Cassinove.

"I pray you will forgive this intrusion, and grant me a few moments conversation, Miss Elmer," he said.

"Certainly, Mr. Cassinove," replied Laura, inviting him to be seated.

He took the offered chair, and said:

"I wish to speak to you, Miss Elmer, in regard to the appearance of that strange man, who caused so much consternation to your friend, as well as to my unfortunate landlady and her children. Forgive the question; but do you know anything of him?"

"Nothing whatever, Mr. Cassinove, except that I have three times seen him lingering about the vicinity of Lester House, and that to-day he certainly followed our carriage from this house to the park."

"Did he attempt to speak to any one in your carriage?"

"No, not once. He kept out of our sight even until the moment that every one's attention was called to him by the exclamation of the little girl."

"Little Emily Russel?"

"Yes."

"It is most singular. You do not even know his name?"

"No."

"Nor suspect who he may be?

"No."

"It is perfectly unaccountable. The unhappy lady in your carriage, who swooned at the sight of this strange man, called him Rayburne, I think."

"Yes," replied Laura, hearing again in imagination those piercing cries of anguish—"Rayburne! Rayburne! Rayburne!"

"And—pray forgive my inquisitiveness, I have an excellent reason for it which I will soon explain—the lady gave you no explanation of her own painful interest in this man?"

"None whatever. I know no more than yourself."

"Possibly not so much, Miss Elmer. And now I will give you my reason for taking so deep an interest in the discovery of this man. A Rare Chance

TO MAKE BIG MONEY

The undersigned has, after much effort, secured a block of stock of the

Chloride Gold Mining Co.

PUEBLO, COLORADO.

I believe, one of the best mining propositions ever placed on the Canadian market. The capital stock of the Company is $1,000,000, divided into one million shares par value of one dollar each. All stock fully paid and non-assessable, with no personal liability whatever. The Company is splendidly officered, the President and Manager being an experienced practical miner.

The property is situated on Shrum Shrum Mountain, 31-2 miles east of the Town of Chloride, Arizona, and the Jumbo Group, 25 miles distant, 1½ acres in all.

I unhesitatingly recommend this stock to my clients, and will be pleased to furnish further information on application. In a few days a full description of the property will appear in these columns. Watch for it.
